—A New Branch of Law

BY

LOUIS NIZER

FOREWORD

IN PRESENTING the following article on THE RIGHT OF PRIVACY, we believe an important contribution is being made not only in the field of motion picture law, but indeed, to the general philosophy of law.

WE ARE pleased to present the first comprehensive analysis of this new branch of law containing in its discussion almost all of the recent cases on the subject, many of which have not been reported and are otherwise unobtainable.

About the Author

LOUIS NIZER, a member of the law firm of Phillips & Nizer, is a prominent member of the New York Bar. He is an authority on the law of screen, stage and radio. He is the author of the book NEW COURTS OF INDUSTRY and of other legal works such as LITERARY PIRACY, AN ANALYSIS OF THE NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS ACT, PROPRIETARY INTERESTS IN RADIO PROGRAMS, LAW OF RECEIVERSHIPS, RADIO PROGRAMS AND NEW RADIO CONCEPTS, THE LAW OF SUBSTITUTION IN MOTION PICTURES, and other articles.

THE RIGHT of PRIVACY

—A New Branch of Law

THE motion picture lens covers so vast a panorama of events, portrays so many persons in scenes for which they have not posed, that a new legal problem has arisen. It is part of a new branch of law called "The Right of Privacy."

This right, in essence, is anti-social. It is the right of an individual to live a life of seclusion and anonymity, free from the prying curiosity which accompanies both fame and notoriety. It pre-supposes a desire to withdraw from the public gaze, to be free from the insatiable interest of the great mass of men in one who has risen above—or fallen below—the mean. It is a recognition of the dignity of solitude, of the majesty of man's free will and the power to mould his own destiny, of the sacred and inviolate nature of one's innermost self.

Opposed to this ideal is the principle that the white light of publicity safeguards the public, that free disclosure of truth is the best protection against tyranny. Liberty is not the right of one but of many. The advance of civilization depends upon the dissemination of knowledge, and society has an absolute right to be informed on matters bearing upon its protection and edification. Frequently, the public has an interest in an individual which transcends his right to be let alone. Since the whole is greater than any of its component parts, private rights must often yield to public interest.

Each of these ideals bears within it the germ of a natural reaction. If the pendulum swings too far in one direction, society is reduced to anarchy, with each individual retaining all of the rights which he would have exercised in a State of Nature; at the other end of the trajectory lies fascism, where the individual is a slave to the State.

In any single case these two opposing forces press in upon the judge. On the one hand, he is urged to uphold the right of free speech, the right of society to know the truth, the right to make full use of the wonders of modern civilization which annihilate time and space and spread intelligence instantaneously to the farthest ends of the earth. On the other hand he is urged to protect the sensibilities of the individual from the brash and vulgar attentions of the mob, to fence off a small corner of human existence against the predatory advances of selfish commercial interests.

Thus, every lawsuit based upon an alleged infringement of the right of privacy poses a dilemma in which the Court is called upon to draw the line between the rights of the individual and the rights of society.

I. The Right of Privacy Is an Outgrowth of Modern Life; It Was Unknown Fifty Years Ago

It is only during the last half century that the law has recognized the "right to be let alone." No mention of this right will be found in the works of the great political philosophers and tract-writers of the 17th and 18th Centuries—Hobbes, Locke, Rousseau, Montesquieu, Spencer, Paine. In discoursing on "natural rights," "the state of nature," "social contract," and "the inalienable rights of man," they were concerned only with the power of the State to abridge the liberties of the people; they did not recognize any problem of safeguarding an individual's privacy against encroachment by his neighbor.

The right of privacy grew up in the age of great industrial expansion, when individual enterprises were being consolidated into large combinations, when Big Business created a new object of hero worship. It developed at a time when the press was going through the growing pains of "yellow journalism," and high-pressure advertising first came to be a part of daily life. In the words of Roscoe Pound, Dean Emeritus of Harvard Law School:—

> "It is a modern demand growing out of the conditions of life in the crowded communities of today." (28 Harvard Law Review 343, 363.)

The first study of the right of privacy was an article written in 1890 by the late Samuel D. Warren and Louis D. Brandeis, the recently-retired Supreme Court Justice (4 Harvard Law Review 193). There, the need for such a legal right was expressed in vivid terms:—

> "Of the desirability—indeed of the necessity—of some such protection there can, it is believed, be no doubt. The press is overstepping in every direction the obvious bounds of propriety and of decency. Gossip is no longer the resource of the idle and the vicious, but has become a trade, which is pursued with industry as well as effrontery. To satisfy a prurient taste, the details of sexual relations are spread broadcast in the columns of the daily papers. To occupy the indolent, column upon column is filled with idle gossip, which can only be procured by intrusion upon the domestic circle.
> "The intensity and complexity of life, attendant upon advancing civilization, have rendered necessary some retreat from the world, and man, under the refining influence of culture, has become more sensitive to publicity so that solitude and privacy have become more essential to the individual; but modern enterprise and invention have, through invasion of his privacy, subjected him to mental pain and distress far greater than could be inflicted by mere bodily injury." (p. 196.)

To cure this evil, there has arisen the doctrine that an individual's moral and ethical right to prevent his name, appearance, personality and secret thoughts from becoming public property may be enforceable in courts of law.

II. Although the Right of Privacy Is of Comparatively Recent Origin, Its Roots Go Back into the Ancient Principles of the Common Law

Political, social and economic changes require the creation of new legal rights. The common law has kept pace with man's cultural growth; there has been a steady trend away from the bare protection against physical interference with life and property in earliest times toward a fuller recognition of more intangible, incorporeal, spiritual values. The right to life includes the right to enjoy life.

"Personal" rights originally provided redress only against physical violence—battery. Later it was established that a real injury to human sensibilities could be inflicted when one is merely placed in imminent danger of battery by an attempt at bodily harm. In 1348 or 1349, therefore, the first recovery for civil assault was granted. (Year Book, Lib. Ass., Folio 99, Pl. 60.) At about the same time people began to value their reputation and their honor as well as their skins, and in 1356 the first known judgment for slander was recorded in the law books. (Year Book, Lib. Ass., Folio 177, Pl. 19.)

Later, in the law of nuisances, judges granted redress for the discomfort caused by noise, odors, dust and smoke. Still later, more spiritual values found protection; in 1745, for example, the cause of action for alienation of affections was recognized. (Winsmore v. Greenback, Willis, 577.) Other personal rights, long recognized in the law, are those of free speech, press, assembly and religion, the Constitutional privilege of a person accused of crime not to be compelled to testify against himself, the right to recover damages for false arrest or malicious prosecution, and the inadmissibility in evidence of confidential communications with an attorney, doctor or priest.

Similarly, the concept of "property" has been expanded to include not only physical, tangible things, but also the incorporeal rights issuing out of those things, and eventually the products and processes of the mind. Infringement upon the rights of ownership in literary and artistic creations was made actionable in 1558. (Drone on Copyright 54, 61.) Goodwill, as a property interest, was accepted in 1743. (Gibblett v. Read, 9 Mod. 459.) Trade secrets and trademarks did not receive judicial protection until 1803. (Hogg v. Kirby, 8 Ves. 215.) Still later, recovery for unfair competition was allowed, and trading on another's business reputation by the use of a name or device so similar as to deceive the public was enjoined.

Progress in this direction indicated that in the natural course of events the common law would expand its scope to include the right of privacy. It is but a short step, for example, from an injunction against the publication of a man's private letters to an injunction against the publication of his picture. One's thoughts, emotions and sensations are as much a part of him as his arms and legs. Not all the pain, pleasure and profit of life come from physical things; man's spiritual nature requires legal recognition.

The experience of over 500 years reveals that the law has been constantly advancing along a single line—always making possible a fuller and richer life, adding to the dignity of human existence, giving new meaning to the "right of inviolate personality."

III. In the Half Century Since the Right of Privacy Was First Recognized, It Has Found Its Way into the Law of Different States Through Different Channels

The scholarly reasoning with which the right of privacy was launched has not been universally accepted.

Ten states (California, Colorado, Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri, New Jersey and North Carolina), together with Alaska and the District of Columbia, have recognized the right as part of their judge-made law. Two states (New York and Utah) have adopted it by legislation, while a Federal statute guarantees the right in a very limited sense. Six states (Massachusetts, Michigan, Ohio, Rhode Island, Washington and Wisconsin) have expressly refused to broaden their concept of the common law to this extent. The remaining states are still non-commital.

A. The Courts Which Have Refused to Recognize the Right of Privacy in the Absence of Statute Have Been Motivated by Unwillingness to Create New Precedent and by the Fear That an Uncontrollable Flood of Litigation Would Ensue.

The oldest American cases involving the unauthorized use of a person's name or photograph reveal a groping toward the right of privacy doctrine. These cases, however, were soon overruled.

The earliest decision in this field is the unreported case of Manola v. Stevens. (See New York Times, June 15, 18, 21, 1890.)

There, under strikingly modern circumstances, the defendant, apparently operating a forerunner of the candid camera, surreptitiously snapped a picture of the plaintiff while she was performing upon the stage in tights. The New York Supreme Court granted an interlocutory injunction restraining the publication of the picture. Upon the trial, the defendant did not appear, and the injunction, without opinion, was made permanent.

A year later, the Court enjoined the use of a physician's name in connection with a purported endorsement of a patent medicine on the ground that it was "an infringement of his right to the sole use of his own name." Mackenzie v. Soden Mineral Springs Co., Inc., 18 N. Y. S. 240 (1891). The opinion, however, contained no discussion of the question.

In Marks v. Jaffa, 6 Misc. 290, 26 N. Y. S. 908 (1893), judgment was granted in favor of an actor whose photograph had been used without his permission in a newspaper popularity contest.

In Schuyler v. Curtis, 147 N. Y. 434 (1895), an early leading case, relief was denied on the sole ground that the plantiff had no standing in court to restrain the use of the name and likeness of his deceased aunt and step-mother; the court expressly reserved the question of the existence of a right of privacy during her lifetime.

The pendulum soon began to move in the opposite direction, however. In Murray v. Gast Lithographic & Engraving Co., Inc., 8 Misc. 36, 28 N.Y.S. 271 (1894), the Court refused to enjoin the publication of a photograph of the plaintiff's infant daughter, stating that the law was powerless to enforce a right or prevent a wrong in the abstract, and that no physical injury to person or property, as distinguished from a mere sentimental injury, had been shown.

Corliss v. E. W. Walker Co., 64 Fed. 280 (1894) was similar to Schuyler v. Curtis in that it denied relief on grounds which implied the existence of a right of privacy in other situations. The widow and children of George H. Corliss, a noted inventor, sought an injunction to prevent the publication of his biography and the reproduction of his photograph. The United States District Court in Michigan, denying the injunction, drew a distinction between public and private characters. The Court recognized that the ordinary person has a right to restrain the publication of a manuscript, painting, lecture or letter. It was held, however, that Mr. Corliss, having asked for and achieved public recognition, and having distributed 10,000 pictures of himself at the Centennial Exposition in 1876, was deemed to have surrendered his right of privacy.

Soon afterward, the Supreme Court of Michigan handed down the first clear-cut denial of the right of privacy. Atkinson v. John E. Doherty & Co., 121 Mich. 372, 80 N.W. 285 (1899). Shortly after the death of Colonel John Atkinson, a prominent attorney and public figure, the defendant placed on the market the "Colonel John Atkinson Cigar." The widow and children of Colonel Atkinson brought suit for an injunction. After noting the similarity to Schuyler v. Curtis and following the rule laid down in that case, that no right of privacy exists in favor of the relatives of a deceased person, the Court went further and denied the existence of the right at any time. Employing rather unconvincing logic, the Court stated:

> "A disreputable person or criminal may select the name of the most exemplary for his child, or for his horse or dog or monkey. * * Why not a John Atkinson wagon, as well as a John Atkinson Jones or horse or dog?"

The Court expressly disapproved of the distinction drawn in Corliss v. E. W. Walker Co. between public and private characters. It stated that it was loath to believe that a man who makes himself useful to society thereby surrenders any right of privacy. The Court concluded, after expressing its sympathy for Colonel Atkinson's relatives:

> "We can only say that it is one of the ills that under the law cannot be redressed."

The first extended discussion of the right of privacy was the famous case of Roberson v. Rochester Folding Box Co., Inc., 171 N. Y. 538 (1902). In a decision which created a storm of controversy, the New York Court of Appeals, by a 4-3 vote, reversed the lower courts and refused to enjoin the use of the defendant's picture on advertising posters which were exhibited in stores, warehouses and saloons.

The Court pointed out that no clear precedent for the right of privacy existed in legal decisions and that it was not mentioned by Blackstone, Kent, and the other great common law commentators. The English decisions cited in the article by Warren and Brandeis were all distinguished as having been based upon other grounds; the dictum in Schuyler v. Curtis to the effect that a right of privacy might exist during the lifetime of an individual was overruled; and Atkinson v. John E. Doherty & Co. was cited with approval. Corliss v. E. W. Walker Co. was condemned with particular severity:

> "Is the right of privacy the possession of mediocrity alone, which a person forfeits by giving rein to his ability, spurs to his industry or grandeur to his character? A lady may pass her life in domestic privacy when, by some act of heroism or self-sacrifice, her name and fame fill the public ear. Is she to forfeit by her good deed the right of privacy she previously possessed?"

The Court also referred to the common law rule that no recovery may be had for mere sentimental or psychological injuries, although mental suffering may be shown by way of aggravation of damages where the invasion of a recognized personal or property right has been proven.

The reason for the Court's ruling may be found in its fear that the recognition of the right of privacy would result in a deluge of litigation in which it would be impossible to prevent the doctrine from being extended step by step until it embraced all sorts of absurdities. Thus, a photograph is not very different from a word-picture, or a comment upon one's looks, conduct, domestic relations or habits. Moreover, the Court pointed out, insults would be in violation of such a right for they wound the feelings of many persons more deeply than the publication of their photographs. In a case of novel impression, the court stated, it is important to consider the effect which any step outside the beaten paths of legal precedent is likely to have on the future development of the law.

The court recognized that the right of privacy is founded on the claim that a man has the right to pass through the world without having his name or picture published, his business enterprises discussed, his inventions disclosed to the public, or his eccentricities commented upon, whether the comment be favorable or unfavorable—that an individual may prevent his features from becoming known to those outside his circle of friends and acquaintances.

Denying the legal existence of such a right, the Court held:

> "The so-called 'right of privacy' has not as yet found an abiding place in our jurisprudence, and, as we view it, the doctrine cannot now be incorporated without doing violence to settled principles of law by which the profession and the public have long been guided."

In an able dissent, three judges pointed out that there was an equal lack of precedent against the privacy doctrine and contended that it was within the field of accepted legal principles. These principles should be extended, they stated, to cover new situations created by "the march of the arts and sciences."

The decision was sharply attacked in the press and there was immediate agitation for a remedial statute. An editorial in the New York Times was so critical that a member of the Court forsook judicial convention and wrote an article defending the decision. (2 Columbia Law Review 438, 445, 1902.) He stated that although the right of privacy was an attractive idea to moralists and social reformers, it was unworkable practically, and that if a statute creating the right were enacted the law makers would be compelled to repeal it at the next session of the legislature.

However, in the following year, 1903, such a statute was adopted by the New York Legislature, and is still in force as Sections 50 and 51 of the Civil Rights Law. The provisions of this statute will be discussed at page 775 infra.

The Roberson case has found some support in other states. In Henry v. Cherry & Webb, 30 R. I. 17, 73 Atl. 97 (1909), the plaintiff discovered his photograph in a newspaper advertisement, accompanied by the legend that the waterproof automobile dusters worn by the persons in the picture could be purchased at the defendant's store. The plaintiff was not identified by name. It was held that the right of privacy, on which the suit was based, did not exist in natural or in Constitutional law. The Court stated that it had neither the desire nor the power to create precedent by giving effect to so-called transcendent rights reserved by the individual when he entered into society, or natural instincts by which each individual is able to identify right and wrong.

In some states the Courts, while expressing sympathy with the privacy doctrine, have refused to enforce it on the ground that new legal doctrines should be enacted by the legislature, not by judges. In Hillman v. Star Publishing Co., Inc., 64 Wash. 691, 117 Pac. 594 (1911) for example, the plaintiff's father was arrested and indicted as a dishonest real estate operator. The defendant newspaper printed photographs of the accused man and his family, including the plaintiff. The Court dismissed the plaintiff's action for damages on the rather confused reason that in the absence of statute it was powerless to draw the line between public and private characters. The Court suggested that the case presented a subject for legislation to protect the innocent from having their names and likenesses linked to those whose relations with the public have made them public property.

Similarly, in Prest v. Stein, 220 Wis. 354, 265 N.W. 85 (1936), the defendant commenced the manufacture of "Franklin D. Roosevelt Cigars," using the President's portrait as well as his name. The Court held that at common law the use of the name and photograph of another for advertising purposes was not unlawful, and that no Federal or Wisconsin statute altered that rule. The fact that the defendant's choice of a brand name was in poor taste did not make it illegal.

In some states the Courts have refused to enforce the right of privacy in the cases which have come before them, but have not denied the existence of the right for all time. The implication was left open that recognition of the right will be granted when a clearer case arises.

Thus, in Thayer v. Worcester Post Co., Inc., 284 Mass. 160, 187 N.E. 292 (1933), a photograph had been taken of the plaintiff, her husband, his chauffeur and two other men, all standing in front of her husband's airplane. The defendant newspaper blocked out parts of the photograph, leaving only the plaintiff and the chauffeur, who were standing beside one another. The caption read: "Principals in Local Divorce Scandal."

The Court allowed a recovery for damages on the ground of libel, but refused to hold that the plaintiff's right of privacy had been violated. The Court stressed the fact that the plaintiff had voluntarily posed for the picture in a public place and that she had no property interest in the negative because there had been no contractual relationship with the photographer.

The Court did not hold squarely that no right of privacy exists, and expressly stated that its decision did not relate to violations of privacy in the nature of nuisance or the use of a person's name or picture for advertising purposes. Such cases, the Court stated, will be decided when they arise. To this extent, therefore, the existence of a right of privacy in Massachusetts is still undetermined.

A recent lower Court decision in Ohio also refused to enforce the right of privacy on the particular facts before it, but did not deny the existence of the right absolutely. In Martin v. F. I. Y. Theatre Co., Inc., 10 Ohio Op. 338 (1938), the plaintiff alleged that she was an actress of high repute and objected to the exhibition of her photograph in front of the defendant's burlesque theatre among pictures of nude performers. The Court held that the plaintiff would have an action against the photographer for breach of contract and might recover from the theatre owner on the theory of libel if damages could be proved, but refused to permit recovery for an invasion of the plaintiff's right of privacy.

Citing Corliss v. E. W. Walker Co., the Court stated that the plaintiff had abandoned her right of privacy by following the acting profession and exposing herself to public view for hire. By seeking publicity, she was estopped to claim the privileges of a private character. There can be no privacy in that which is already public. The Court listed a number of instances in which the right of privacy could not be enforced, implying that in other cases such a right would be recognized.

A survey of the cases in which the right of privacy has not been enforced indicates that the right has been rejected positively only in Michigan and Rhode Island. The denial of the right in New York, Washington and Wisconsin was based upon the legalistic ground that it was the subject of recognition by the legislature rather than by the Courts; New York has followed this suggestion by enacting a statute. In Massachusetts and Ohio the door has not yet been closed to a recognition of the right when the proper facts are presented.

B. The Courts Which Have Recognized the Right of Privacy as Part of Their Common Law Have Been Impelled by an Innate Feeling of Natural Justice, Without Striving to Find Support in Strained Common Law Analogies.

Most of the Courts which have adopted the privacy doctrine have based their decisions on ethical rather than legalistic grounds. They have not followed the finely spun legal analogies upon which the right was launched.

The early English cases which were cited as furnishing a foundation for the right of privacy did not discuss this right in so many words. They all strove to find the infringement of some property right, since Courts of Equity, at that time, did not grant injunctions for invasions of purely personal rights.

In the famous case of Prince Albert v. Strange, 1 Macn. & G. 25, 41 Eng. Rep. 1171 (1849); 2 DeG. & S. 652, 64 Eng. Rep. 293 (1849), Queen Victoria and her consort made several etchings for their own amusement and ordered some copies to be struck off for presentation to their friends. The workman employed for this purpose, however, printed several additional copies, which found their way into the hands of the defendant, who proposed to exhibit them and publish a descriptive catalogue. An injunction was granted against both the exhibition and the catalogue because the Prince had a property right in the etchings, and also because the workman had obtained them by a breach of trust.

In Gee v. Pritchard, 2 Swanst. 402 (1818) likewise, an injunction was granted on the same grounds to restrain the publication of a private letter.

Similarly, in Abernathy v. Hutchinson, 3 L.J. Ch. 209 (1824), the Court enjoined a student from publishing his notes of a lecture delivered by one of his professors. The Court rested its decision on breach of confidence, inasmuch as the lectures were given for the students' intellectual rather than financial profit.

Routh v. Webster, 10 Beav. 561 (1847), and Walter v. Ashton, L.R. 2 Ch. Div. 282 (1902), indicate the lengths to which the English courts were driven in their effort to discover an invasion of a property right in situations where the right of privacy was involved. In the former case the plaintiff's name had been incorrectly publicized as the director of a certain corporation. The Court held that a property right had been violated because of the possibility that the plaintiff might be sued in the capacity of a director. In the latter case the defendant advertised falsely that a certain make of bicycles was used by the London Times. The Court held that the risks of lawsuits alleging misrepresentation constituted the infringement of a property right.

In Pollard v. Photographic Co., L.R. 40 Ch. Div. 345 (1888), the decision was based upon implied contract. A photographer made unauthorized copies of the plaintiff's portrait and sold them for Christmas cards. The Court stated that the right to an injunction did not depend upon the existence of a property right and granted relief on the basis of an implied contract that the negative was not to be used for any purpose other than the making of such prints as were ordered by the sitter. The Court used the analogy of the doctrine which prevents an employee from disclosing information which he obtains in the course of a confidential employment. The unsoundness of the Court's reasoning appears from the concession of counsel for the plaintiff that a photograph taken without permission could be exhibited freely, for there would then be no consideration to support a claim of contract.

In Dockrell v. Dougall, 78 L.T.R. 840 (1898), the doctrine of defamation of character was employed to support an injunction against the publication of an advertisement stating that the plaintiff, a physician, used and recommended the defendant's patent medicine. The Court held that no injunction could be granted unless the publication were such as to injure the plaintiff's reputation or some other property interest.

While the result reached in these cases is clearly just, the reasoning improperly furnishes a basis for restricting the rights of future litigants. An anonymous American commentator in 1896, for example, disapproved of the rule that equity would grant injunctive relief for the invasion of privacy only where property rights were also violated:

> "A declaration of this sort, taken literally and in its full meaning, would make the system of equity suitable only to a semi-savage society which has much respect for property and little for human life." (37 L.R.A. 783.)

The first American case in which the right of privacy was recognized broke squarely with these precedents, and frankly announced that its decision was motivated solely by a feeling of innate justice. Pavesich v. New England Life Insurance Co., Inc., 122 Ga. 190, 50 S.E. 68 (1905). In that case the plaintiff's photograph was used without his permission in an advertisement which characterized him as a typical example of the benefits to be obtained from life insurance; in an adjoining column was printed, by way of contrast, a picture of a bedraggled and woe-begone individual, "The Man Who Does Not Own Life Insurance." The Court granted the plaintiff's application for an injunction.

After reviewing the English precedents and soundly condemning the decision in Roberson v. Rochester Folding Box Co., Inc. as repugnant to the ordinary sense of justice of mankind, the Court held that when man emerged from the State of Nature he surrendered many rights and privileges in return for the benefits which he would receive as a member of society. Some rights, however, were reserved, and the public is no more justified in invading this domain than the individual would be in violating the regulations of the government.

As a guide in determining what rights the individual does not surrender, the Court relied upon instinct, stating that "any person whose intellect is in a normal condition" recognizes intuitively that as to each individual there are matters public and matters private. He resents any encroachment by the public on his private rights as vehemently as he resents the withdrawal of his public rights.

The right to speak and the right not to be spoken about are co-existant. They are complementary rights, each operating to keep the other within lawful bounds. Neither should be given such free rein that it destroys the other.

The Court even sanctified the right of privacy with Constitutional guarantees, stating that personal liberty embraced the right to withdraw from the public gaze as much as the right to assemble and speak in public, and that personal security is jeopardized not only by a deprivation of life, but also by a deprivation of those things which are necessary to the enjoyment of life. The right of privacy, therefore, is included, by implication, in the Constitutional provision that no person shall be deprived of liberty without due process of law.

The California court has also relied upon a broad interpretation of Constitutional provisions in upholding the right of privacy. In Melvin v. Reid, 112 Cal. App. 285, 297 Pac. 91 (1931) (re-hearing denied Mar. 25, 1931; hearing in Sup. Ct. denied Apr. 27, 1931) the plaintiff had been a prostitute and had been tried and acquitted of murder. Since her acquittal, she had re-married and was living a virtuous life among friends who did not know of her past. The defendants produced and distributed a motion picture based upon the plaintiff's life history as revealed on her trial. The defendants also used the plaintiff's maiden name in the film and advertised that the plot was a true story.

The court held that the use of incidents from the plaintiff's life was not actionable because they were matters of public record. Damages were awarded, however, for the use of the plaintiff's name in the advertisements and in the picture itself. The court reviewed a number of decisions and noted that many of them invoked other doctrines, such as breach of implied contract, breach of trust or of a confidential relationship, or defamation of character. The decision was based, however, on Section 1, Article 1 of the California Constitution:

> "All men are by nature free and independent, and have certain inalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing and protecting property; and pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness."

The court stated that the use of the plaintiff's name in connection with the motion picture was not only unnecessary, indelicate and uncharitable, but was a direct violation of the inalienable right guaranteed to her by the California Constitution to pursue and obtain happiness.

In other states the right of privacy has been adopted on rather narrow grounds. In Munden v. Harris, 153 Mo. App. 652, 134 S.W. 1076 (1911), the defendant published an advertisement containing a picture of the plaintiff over the caption:

> "Papa is Going to Buy Mama an Elgin Watch for a Present, and Someone (I Mustn't Tell Who) is Going to Buy My Big Sister a Diamond Ring. So Don't You Think You Ought to Buy Me Something? The Payments are So Easy You'll Never Miss the Money."

The court awarded damages to the plaintiff, solely on the ground that a property right had been violated. A man's countenance, the court stated, may be a valuable piece of property. If his picture is to be commercialized it should be for his benefit, and the potentialities for profit should not be usurped by someone else. Unauthorized publication is an appropriation of the plaintiff's property and should be restrained.

Similar reasoning was used by the New Jersey Court in Edison v. Edison Polyform Manufacturing Co., Inc., 73 N. J. Eq. 136, 67 Atl. 393 (1907). Thomas A. Edison compounded a medicinal preparation for the relief of neuralgia called "Polyform." The right to manufacture this preparation was assigned to the defendant, who sold it under labels containing the name and photograph of Mr. Edison and a certificate purporting to guarantee that it was made according to his formula. An injunction was granted on the ground that any pecuniary value which inheres in a name or likeness belongs to the owner and may not be used without his permission. The mere exhibition of one's face on the streets does not constitute a publication which would give strangers the right to reproduce it. The court recognized the right of privacy only where there was a concomitant injury to property.

A New Jersey case decided earlier in the same year would seem to indicate a slightly broader rule in that state. In Vanderbilt v. Mitchell, 72 N. J. Eq. 910, 67 Atl. 97 (1907), the plaintiff's name was improperly listed in a birth certificate as the father of a child not his own. The court cancelled the certificate and restrained the mother and child from claiming paternity, on the ground that the plaintiff's right of privacy had been invaded. The court found that a property right was involved because the plaintiff had been exposed to possible suit by the child for necessaries. Despite this extreme effort to discover the violation of a property right, the court stated in a dictum, citing Pavesich v. New England Life Insurance Co., Inc., that it would have granted the injunction without hesitation even if personal rights alone had been at stake.

It is submitted that the cases which enforce the right of privacy because it is a property right rest their decision on a palpable fallacy of logic. The existence of a property interest in one's name and appearance is the result, not the cause, of the rule. "Property," by definition, is a bundle of legal rights, including the right to be secure in one's possession against all the world. If there is any property in a person's name and appearance, it is only because the courts declare that others may not appropriate it at their pleasure; to state that such use will be enjoined because a property right exists is to argue on the basis of an a priori conclusion.

When a judge rules that a person's picture may not be used in a certain manner because the subject of the picture has a property interest in it, what he means, in substance, is that he feels the publication complained of ought to be prevented because the plaintiff ought to be protected against misappropriation. In the last analysis, therefore, the courts which rely on the "property" theory act upon the same impulses of abstract justice as the courts which openly profess to enforce an innate conception of natural right.

Some courts, in restraining the unauthorized use of a name or picture, seem to have in mind the protection of the public from its own gullibility rather than the protection of the individual's privacy. In Foster-Milburn Co. v. Chinn, 134 Ky. 424, 120 S.W. 364 (1909), aff'd. 137 Ky. 835 (1910), for example, the manufacturer of Doan's Kidney Pills published in a directory having a circulation of eight million copies the false statement that the plaintiff, a dignified and influential Kentucky Senator, used and endorsed the pills. The effect of this publication is described in a contemporary account:

> "Harrodsburg is in a large place and Col. Chinn is perhaps known by every man, woman and child within its bounds. So the next time the Colonel drove to town from his blue grass farm, after the distribution of the circular, he was assailed on all sides by the jibes and jokes of many of his acquaintances. Some wanted to know how much he got; others asked how his poor back was feeling; and some credulous ones began to buy the pills in the hope that they might have powerful backs like Col. Jack's." (Smith, The Right of Privacy, 4 Ky. Law Review 22, 23, 1915.)

Relief was granted, not only because of the embarrassment caused the Senator, but also because of the fraud perpetrated on the public.

In other jurisdictions the right of privacy has been recognized without any extended discussion or noteworthy reasoning:—

Alaska—Smith v. Surratt, 7 Alaska Rep. 416 (1926).

Canada—Boyd v. Dagenais, Rep. Jud. Quebec (11 C.S. 66, 1897).

Colorado—McCreery v. Miller's Grocerteria (Colo. Sup. Ct. Mar. 25, 1936).

District of Columbia—Peed v. Washington Times Co. (1927) 55 Wash. L. Rep.—Sup. Ct., D. C. (not officially reported).

Illinois—Blazek v. Rose (1922) Circuit Court, Cook County (not officially reported, but appearing in Pound and Chafee, "Cases on Equitable Relief against Defamation and Injuries to Personality." (1930) page 138).

Kansas—Kunz v. Allen, 102 Kans. 883; 172 Pac. 532 (1918).

Louisiana—Itzkovitch v. Whitaker, 115 La. 479; 39 So. 499 (1905).

North Carolina—Flake v. Greensboro News Co., et al., 212 N.C. 780; 195 S.E. 55 (1938).

A survey of the cases in which the right of privacy has been recognized by the Courts on common law grounds reveals an increasingly sensible approach. The early English cases avoided any mention of the right and strove to reach a just result by involuted rationalizations and ingenious twisting of ill-fitting principles. The Georgia court, in the first open recognition of the right of privacy, felt obliged to write an extremely lengthy opinion justifying its departure from precedent.

In later years, however, the courts have accepted the right of privacy as a matter of course, and have enforced it, even in states where the question is presented for the first time, without elaborate discussion. It is this mater-of-fact attitude, more than anything else, which indicates that the right is firmly established in our common law.

C. The Legislative Efforts to Codify the Right of Privacy Have Restricted Rather Than Extended the Right.

The New York statute, which was enacted as the direct result of the Court of Appeals decision in Roberson v. Rochester Folding Box Co., Inc., does not reflect any serious consideration of the right of privacy as a whole. The statute did little more than re-state the facts of the Roberson case and overrule its holding.

Section 50 of the New York Civil Rights Law declares that the use of the name or picture of any living person without his written consent (or, if a minor, without the written consent of his parent or guardian) for advertising or trade purposes, is a misdemeanor.

Section 51 grants the right to procure an injunction and to recover damages. If the defendant has knowingly made use of a name or picture in a manner forbidden by the statute, the jury may award punitive damages.

Three exceptions are provided for: professional photographers may exhibit specimens of their work in and about their establishments unless written objection is made; when a manufacturer or dealer has used his name or picture in connection with his merchandise, anyone may do likewise; the same is true when an author, composer or artist has used his name or picture in connection with his literary, musical or artistic productions. The last two exceptions were added to the statute in 1921.

It will be seen that the statute, by its rigid limitations, has failed to prohibit several important invasions of what might be considered a right of privacy in the abstract. (1) The name and picture of any person may be used without his permission for every purpose other than advertising or trade. (2) The name and picture of a deceased person may be used in any manner whatsoever. (3) The name of any corporation, partnership or institution, and the name and picture of any inanimate object, may be used in any manner whatsoever.

On the other hand, no distinction is made between public and private characters; each has the same right not to be exploited for advertising and trade purposes.

The net result of the statute, therefore, is to prohibit illicit profit-making by trading upon the identity of another. The rule is the same as that adopted in Missouri and New Jersey, where redress is granted only for unauthorized appropriation of the property interest in one's name and appearance. In all other respects, invasions of privacy are not recognized as actionable.

The Constitutionality of the New York statute was attacked in Rhodes v. Sperry & Hutchinson Co., 193 N. Y. 223 (1908), aff'd. 220 U. S. 502 (1911), on three grounds: (1) It deprived persons of liberty without due process of law. (2) It deprived persons of property without due process of law. (3) It impaired the obligations of contract. The New York Court of Appeals rejected each of these contentions, stating that the Legislature has the power, where it is motivated by ethical considerations, to declare that a particular act shall be punishable as a crime or actionable as a tort. The United States Supreme Court affirmed this ruling, in an opinion written by Mr. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Designed to fit the case of Roberson v. Rochester Folding Box Co., where the name and picture of a living person were used without his permission for advertising purposes, the statute has operated, to a large extent, to defeat rather than enforce the right of privacy. The legislators were incensed by an unjust decision; in decreeing that "it can't happen here again," they apparently overlooked the implication, which has been spelled out from their silence, that invasion of privacy in other forms may be accomplished with impunity.

Nor has judicial interpretation served to relax the stringent limitations of the statute; the rule has never emerged from the shadow of the facts which sired it. Because the statute is penal as well as remedial, it has been construed strictly against the persons accused of violating its provisions. Binns v. The Vitagraph Corporation of America, 210 N. Y. 51 (1913); Humiston v. Universal Film Manufacturing Co., 189 App. Div. 467, 178 N.Y.S. 752 (1st Dept. 1919); Merle v. Sociological Research Film Corporation, 166 App. Div. 376, 152 N.Y.S. 829 (1st Dept. 1915); Colyer v. Richard K. Fox Publishing Co., 162 App. Div. 297, 146 N.Y.S. 999 (2nd Dept. 1914); Jeffries v. New York Evening Journal Publishing Co., 67 Misc. 570, 124 N.Y.S. 780 (1910). The Courts have taken the view that the statute is a definitive statement of the law relating to the right of privacy. As a result, the right has been denied in cases not on all fours with Roberson v. Rochester Folding Box Co.

In 1909 the right of privacy was adopted in Utah by statute (Utah Rev. Stat. 1933, Title 103, Chapter 4, Sections 7, 8, 9). Section 8 states:

> "Any person who uses for advertising purposes or for purposes of trade, or upon any postal card, the name, portrait or picture of any person, if such person is living, without first having obtained the written consent of such person, or if a minor, of his parent or guardian, or if such person is dead, without the written consent of his heirs or personal representatives, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Section 9 provides for injunctive relief and recovery of damages; for wilful violations of the statute punitive damages may be awarded. Section 7 declares that it shall be a misdemeanor to use the name or picture of any public institution or the official title of any public officer for the purpose of advertising articles of merchandise.

The Utah law goes beyond the New York statute in two important particulars: (1) It protects the privacy of deceased as well as living persons. (2) It extends the right of privacy to public institutions as well as natural persons.

A very limited measure of privacy is guaranteed by Federal statute:

> "No portrait of a living individual may be registered as a trade-mark except by the consent of such individual, evidenced by an instrument in writing, nor may the portrait of any deceased President of the United States be registered during the life of his widow, if any, except by the consent of the widow evidenced in such manner." (15 U.S.C.A. Section 85.)

One statute on the right of privacy was found to be unworkable and has been repealed. In 1899 the California Penal Code contained a provision that it shall be unlawful to publish in any newspaper the portrait of any living resident of California, other than a person holding public office in the state, without his written consent (Deering, 1923, Section 258). Caricatures and cartoons were held to be within the definition of "portraits." Obviously this statute was far too broad and had the effect of practically eliminating pictures from California newspapers. It was repealed in 1915.

Most legal commentators have advocated the recognition of the right of privacy through common law channels. They have been particularly bitter in attacking the limited scope of the New York statute.

> See, e.g.: 8 Mich. Law Review 229 (1909); 17 Ky. Law Journal 85 (1929); 70 U. S. Law Review 435 (1936); 12 Boston University Review 353 (1937).
> But cf.: 29 Law Notes, 64 (1925); 43 Harvard Law Review 297 (1929).

Many of these writers have expressed the view that any statutory enactment is foredoomed to failure because of the practical impossibility of anticipating the diversity of methods by which privacy may be invaded. In 26 Illinois Law Review 63 (1931), it was stated:

> "If an attempt were made to provide remedies by statute against specific types of publication as affecting privacy the difficulties would be comparable to those resulting if the same were attempted in the field of libel." (P. 65.)

In general, it may be said that the approach recommended by the original sponsors of the right of privacy has been justified by experience. Wherever the doctrine has been legislated into existence, its development has been proscribed by the rigidity of the statute. In those states which have worked the right of privacy into the fabric of their common law, however, it has grown and altered to fit the changing conditions of modern times.

IV. The Right of Privacy Is Applied or Denied in Certain Recurring Situations Which Can Be Formalized from Experience

The pressure of public interest applied against individual rights has created varying decisions. The presence or absence of a single fact may alter the result. However, as more and more cases are placed on one side or the other, the line of demarcation becomes more distinct. In the comparatively short time in which the right of privacy has enjoyed legal sanction, the gradual accretion of individual instances has built up several fairly well-defined rules which may serve as guides to future conduct.

(1) Matters of Public Interest

"Names makes news" is a primary tenet of the journalistic craft which is drummed into the head of every cub reporter. It would manifestly be impossible to publish a newspaper if it were necessary, before going to press, to obtain written permission to print each of the hundreds of names which appear in every issue. The maintenance of a free press is, of course, very much in the public interest. All courts agree, therefore, that the right of privacy does not extend to the publication of names and pictures in connection with matters of legitimate news interest.

A typical case is Jones v. Herald Post Co., 230 Ky. 227, 18 S.W. (2nd) 972 (1929). While the plaintiff was walking along the street with her husband, he was assaulted by two men and stabbed to death. The defendant newspaper carried a detailed account of the attack, describing how the plaintiff had fallen upon her husband's assailants, and attributing to her the following language:

> "If I could have killed them I would have done so. I will revenge him some day."

The plaintiff's picture accompanied the story.

The Court dismissed the plaintiff's action, stating that although everyone has a right to live his life in seclusion, there are times when one becomes an actor, willingly or unwillingly, in an occurrence of general interest. When this happens, he emerges from his seclusion and the publication of his name and picture is not a violation of the right of privacy. On the facts before it, the Court held that it was for the public good to spread information about the tragedy in which the plaintiff had been an innocent participant.

Public interest in news stories extends even to the families of the protagonists. In Hillman v. Star Publishing Co., 64 Wash. 691, 117 Pac. 594 (1911), a newspaper was permitted to publish a photograph of the daughter of a man who had been arrested and indicted by the Federal Grand Jury for real estate frauds, even though the plaintiff was not directly involved in the case.

Similarly, in Martin v. New Metropolitan Fiction, Inc., 139 Misc. 290, 248 N.Y.S. 359 (1931), reversed without opinion, 237 App. Div. 863, 260 N.YS. 972 (3rd Dept., 1932), the defendant published in "True Detective Mysteries" an article entitled "Tropic Vengeance" which described the murder of the plaintiff's daughter and the subsequent trial. Accompanying the article was a photograph of the plaintiff seated in court. The caption stated in part:

> "As Lozade Passed Close By, On His Way To The Witness Stand, The Broken-Hearted Mother Cried Out 'I Could Kill That Man With My Own Hands!'"

The lower court permitted recovery for violation of the plaintiff's right of privacy, stating that there was no relevant justification for the inclusion of the plaintiff's picture, even though the story was a legitimate historical chronicle of an actual happening. The plaintiff's existence was without significance in connection with the events recorded, for she was not involved in the crime and did not take part in its detection or in the trial. The appellate court reversed this holding, however, on the ground that public interest in the affair extended even to the family of the victim.

An early leading case brought newsreels within the doctrine applicable to newspapers and held that motion pictures of current events did not trespass upon the right of privacy of the persons involved. Humiston v. Universal Film Manufacturing Co., 189 App. Div. 467, 178 N.Y.S. 752 (1st Dept. 1919). The plaintiff, a woman attorney, had solved the mystery of the disappearance of one Ruth Cruger. Through the efforts of the plaintiff, the body was found buried under the floor in the back room of an Italian immigrant's shop. The defendant's newsreel portrayed the plaintiff while she was actually engaged in the investigation. The pictures were accompanied by the following titles:

> "Woman Lawyer Solves Ruth Cruger Mystery. After World-Wide Search Mrs.

Grace Humiston's Persistent Efforts Lead to Discovery of High School Girl's Murder. New York: The Woman Who Succeeded Where Police Failed—Mrs. Grace Humiston. In Cocchi's Cellar—Passed by Millions—The Crime Was Hidden for Months. Thousands Attracted to Scene of Crime."

The court refused to grant an injunction or to award damages, stating that it was unable to see any practical difference between newsreels and newspapers. Both satisfy the public demand for information on matters of current importance. Both are timely and informative and have a capacity for truth and accuracy. Although both are private enterprises operated for profit, they perform a valuable public service.

The court stated that if the right of privacy were to apply to newsreels, it would be impossible to photograph a public parade, a football game or a college commencement without first securing the written consent of each person within the range of the camera —spectators as well as principals. Thus, even more clearly than would be the case with newspapers, strict application of the privacy doctrine would drive the newsreel out of existence.

The court distinguished between newsreels and photoplays, stating that immunity from the right of privacy was granted to fact as distinguished from fiction, irrespective of the medium by which it was depicted. The type of occurrence portrayed is likewise immaterial. A news story which satisfies morbid curiosity is equally privileged with a spiritually uplifting item.

In order to qualify as a newsreel the subject need not be of great public significance. Thus, in a recent case, Sweenek v. Pathe News, Inc., 16 Fed. Supp. 746 (1936), the proprietor of a gymnasium offered a free reducing course to all women weighing over two hundred pounds. A large number took advantage of his offer. Pathe News thought the scene of sufficient interest to incorporate it in a newsreel. In an action by one of the women alleging violation of her right of privacy, the complaint was dismissed. The court held that news was characterized by an indefinable quality of interest which attracts public attention, stating:

"While it may be difficult in some instances to find the point at which public interest ends, it seems reasonably clear that pictures of a group of corpulent women attempting to reduce with the aid of some rather novel and unique apparatus do not cross the borderline, at least so long as a large proportion of the female sex continues its present concern about any increase in poundage. The amusing comments which accompanied the pictures did not detract from their news value."

Similarly, in Wettig v. Four Square Pictures, Inc., N.Y.L.J., Feb. 23, 1921, p. 1776, a motion picture company produced a serial entitled "Eagle's Eye" consisting of twenty episodes, each devoted to the heroism and daring of an outstanding law enforcement agent. The court dismissed a complaint by a member of the United State Secret Service and New York Police Department whose adventures had been immortalized in the film, holding that it was historical and informative.

Even scenes which are themselves comparatively old may be considered newsreels if their subject-matter is fresh. When Babe Ruth was in his prime and the entire country was following his efforts to better the world's home-run record, an enterprising producer prepared two motion picture shorts entitled "Babe Ruth: How He Makes His Home-Runs" and "Over The Fence." Scenes illustrating his technique were taken from photographs of practice sessions and early games. On the authority of Humiston v. Universal Film Manufacturing Co., an application for an injunction and damages was denied. Ruth v. Educational Films, Inc., 194 App. Div. 893, 185 N.Y.S. 952 (1st Dept., 1920). The public interest in the plaintiff's current accomplishments, the court held, brought his past activities within the field of permissible news coverage.

On the other hand, a motion picture short entitled "Throwing the Bull" was held to violate the right of privacy of Sidney Franklin, an American bull fighter, whose picture appeared for about 30 seconds of the 12 minutes consumed by the film. Franklin v. Columbia Pictures Corp., 246 App. Div. 35, 284 N.Y.S. 96 (1st Dept., 1935), aff'd. without opinion, 271 N. Y. 554 (1936). The plaintiff's picture was accompanied by the following remarks spoken by the commentator:

> "Now, folks, meet Sidney Franklin, one of the greatest bull throwers, er, er, I mean bull fighters born under the sunny skies of Brooklyn."

A fictional story in a magazine may likewise be an infringement upon the right of privacy of persons identified therein by name or picture. In Krieger v. Popular Publications, Inc., 167 Misc. 5, 3 N.Y.S. (2d) 480 (1938), the plaintiff, Solly Krieger, was a professional prize-fighter. The defendant published in "Sports Novels Magazine" a story entitled "Deuces for the Duke" in which the name "Solly Krieger," identifying a "character of prominence," appeared upwards of 100 times in a story covering but 20 pages. The court held that the plaintiff's right of privacy had been violated, inasmuch as the story was purely a product of the writer's imagination and did not describe a current event or impart information of general news interest.

The same criterion was applied in a very recent case involving a presentation in one of the new picture magazines. Jaffe v. Look, Inc., N.Y.L.J., Aug. 19, 1938 (Sup. Ct. Kings Cty., Furman, J.). Some time during 1931 the plaintiff attended a lecture course conducted by Dale Carnegie. A group photograph portraying a "heckling scene" was taken. The plaintiff appeared as the central figure. In December, 1937, the photograph was incorporated in a "picture article" concerned with the life of Dale Carnegie published in Look magazine. In an action based upon alleged violation of the plaintiff's right or privacy, the court denied a motion for summary judgment on the ground that an issue of fact was presented as to whether the item was of such general interest as to be outside the purview of the privacy doctrine. These questions, the court stated, were as follows:

> "In December, 1937, when this particular issue of the magazine was published, was the subject of Dale Carnegie and his book 'How to Win Friends and Influence People' of general public interest? Did the article concern itself with a newsworthy event?"

Book, as well as magazines, newspapers and newsreels may contain matter of such immediate public concern that the right of privacy is inapplicable. In People on Complaint of Stern v. Robert M. McBride & Co., Inc., 159 Misc. 5, 288 N.Y.S. 501 (1936), the defendant published a book entitled "I Break Strikes." The plaintiff's portait, together with several others, was reproduced on the frontispiece, over the caption "They Preserve Order; Members of the Bergoff Army." In the body of the book the plaintiff was referred to by name as a small-time East Side gunman who had been convicted, under various aliases, of petty larceny, lewd and lascivious cohabitation, and homicide.

In the first case invoking the criminal penalties of the New York statute, the complaint was dismissed on the ground that the book was non-fictional and purported to give a true history of the genesis, development and methods of profesisonal strike-breaking.

In a subsequent civil action the plaintiff recovered a verdict for libel in the sum of $1,000. New York Law Journal, Dec. 6, 1937 (Sup. Ct. N. Y. Cty., Koch, J.).

News agencies are given wide latitude, not only in printing, but in obtaining information. In Smith v. Suratt, 7 Alaska Rep. 416 (1926), the Detroit Arctic Expedition was preparing an airplane flight across the North Pole. The venture was partially financed by Pathe News, Inc., in return for the privilege of making motion pictures. A rival photographer obtained certain shots which he planned to exhibit in competition with the Pathe newsreels, and the director of the expedition sought an injunction. The court denied the application on the ground that the plaintiff and his equipment were legitimate objects of public curiosity, and news of the expedition could be gathered and distributed without the plaintiff's consent.

What is an obvious truism with respect to a sensational headline story on page 1, however, may become a close question where the less world-shaking items on the inside pages are concerned. How keen must be the public's desire for information in order to permit the publication of a person's name or picture in a "human interest" story, rotogravure section, serialized biography, or sports commentator's column?

In general, the courts have been quite liberal in interpreting almost any article which appears in a newspaper as "news" and therefore outside the scope of the right of privacy.

Several years ago the New York Sunday Mirror published an article in its magazine section entitled "I Saw The Famous Rope Trick (But It Didn't Really Happen)." The article was inspired by an offer of the Mystic Circle, a British society, to pay a large sum of money to anyone who would cause one end of a coiled rope to rise unaided and remain suspended in mid-air. The author of the article attempted to show that Hindu mystics created an illusion by the exercise of hypnotic powers, casting a spell over bystanders—much as a snake fascinates a bird—so that they became firmly convinced that the rope was rising into the air, when in fact it remained coiled upon the ground. The ability to create the effect, the author contended, rested in the occult philosophy of the Far East. One of the illustrations printed with the article was a portrait of Sarat Lahiri, a well-known Hindu musician, playing an accompaniment for an Indian female dancer. Beneath the photograph was the caption:

> "Mystic. Something Of The Occult Philosophy Which Dominates The Far East May Be Seen Even In The Gestures And Postures Of Indian Dancers, Such As Those Portrayed Above."

An action for an injunction and damages resulted in a judgment for the defendant. Lahiri v. Daily Mirror, Inc., 162 Misc. 776, 295 N.Y.S. 382 (1937). Justice Shientag stated that a free press is intimately bound up with fundamental Democratic institutions and that public policy requires the circulation of news and information to be unhampered. The Court pointed out that newspapers customarily publish articles which, strictly speaking, are neither news nor fiction. Although they do not chronicle events of immediate interest, they are based on fact and are semi-educational in character. Such articles include travel stories and descriptions of distant places, tales of historic personages and events, the re-telling of past news stories, and surveys of social conditions.

In this type of article, the Court held, public interest outweighs the right of privacy. Actual names may be used without securing the consent of the persons involved. Photographs may likewise be used if they bear a legitimate relation to the article. The nature of the article, and not its location in the newspaper, is determinative; it is immaterial whether it appears in the news columns, feature pages, or the magazine section.

The Court held that the article in question was educational and informative and that the plaintiff's photograph was included for a bona fide illustrative purpose.

The principle laid down by Judge Shientag was recently applied by him in a very similar case which fell on the other side of the line. Schley v. New York Journal, Inc., N.Y.L.J., June 27, 1938 (Sup. Ct. N.Y. Cty., Shientag, J.). The New York "Evening Journal" published in its magazine section an article bearing the following headline:

> "'I'm a Slave of His First Wife'—Laments This Distracted Woman in a True Life Drama that Bares One Side of New York's 'Alimony Racket,' in which the Vengeful No. 1 Can, and Often Does, Jail the Man She Loved, Until He is Down and Completely Out."

The plaintiff's picture was published with the article, accompanied by the following caption:

> "Mrs. Henry Schley had her Blueblood Husband Jailed in a Dispute over an Alimony Check. He was Quickly Freed."

Judgment on the pleadings was granted in favor of the plaintiff on the reasoning of Lahiri v. Daily Mirror, Inc. The subject-matter of the story did not relate to the plaintiff. Consequently the photograph had too tenuous a connection with the article to come within the immunity granted to it.

In a recent case the "Inquiring Photographer" column of the New York Daily News was held to be outside the privacy doctrine. In Middleton v. News Syndicate Co., 162 Misc. 516, 295 N.Y.S. 120 (1937), the complaint of an unemployed model whose name and photograph appeared in the column was dismissed as stating no cause of action for violation of her right of privacy.

In a famous early case the Police Gazette was given similar judicial approval. Colyer v. Richard K. Fox Publishing Co., 162 App. Div. 297, 146 N.Y.S. 999 (2nd Dept., 1914). The plaintiff, a young woman, was a professional entertainer specializing in diving off a high platform into a shallow tank. The defendant secured her photograph in a costume appropriate to her act and published the same in its magazine, the National Police Gazette. On the same page appeared pictures of four women vaudeville performers. At the bottom of the page were the words:

> "Five Of A Kind On This Page. Most Of Them Adorn The Burlesque Stage; All Of Them Are Favorites Of The Bald-Headed Boys."

In a suit for infringement of the right of privacy, judgment was granted for the defendant. The court held that the Police Gazette was essentially an informational periodical, although its pages were devoted largely to pictures of pugilists, wrestlers, athletes, actors and prize dogs, while its reading matter scarcely appealed to a refined taste and its advertisements were mostly of quack nostrums and trivial things. The court expressed no opinion on whether the words used to describe the plaintiff were libelous, since this issue had not been raised in the pleadings.

The very slight distinctions which are sometimes sufficient to alter the outcome of a lawsuit may be appreciated by comparing the case just discussed with a very recent decision, Semler v. Ultem Publications, Inc., N.Y.L.J., Nov. 10, 1938 (City Ct., Queens, Conroy, J.). The plaintiff was a professional model and had posed for several photographs in negligee. The defendant obtained one of these photographs and published it in a magazine called Silk Stocking Stories. The court held that the plaintiff's right of privacy had been violated, inasmuch as the periodical did not contain information of interest to the public, but made an appeal to sex by printing risque stories interspersed with pictures of partly dressed women. The defendant argued that the plaintiff had consented to the use of her photograph in such a manner, but the court held that this was legally impossible since the plaintiff was an infant.

In Binns v. The Vitagraph Company of America, 210 N.Y. 51 (1913), the plaintiff was a wireless operator on board the steamship Republic. By means of a radio "C.Q.D." message sent out by the plaintiff, all passengers and members of the crew were rescued. This was the first time that wireless telegraphy had been used to save lives at sea, and the event was widely acclaimed.

About a month later the defendant distributed to motion picture theatres a short subject entitled "C.Q.D., Or Saved By Wireless; A True Story Of The Wreck Of The Republic." The film, apparently constructed on much the same lines as the "March of Time," consisted of a reenactment of the plaintiff's deeds of heroism. A professional actor was employed to impersonate the plaintiff, whose name was mentioned in the subtitles and in the posters advertising the film. The picture began with a sub-title reading: "John R. Binns, The Wireless Operator, In His Cabin Aboard The S.S. Republic," and ended with a sub-title reading: "Jack Binns And His Good American Smile."

The court permitted a recovery for infringement upon the plaintiff's right of privacy.

A decision which could hardly be supported today is Blumenthal v. Picture Classics, Inc., 235 App. Div. 570, 257 N.Y.S. 800 (1st Dept., 1932), aff'd. without opinion, 261 N.Y. 504 (1933). The defendant produced a series of motion picture short subjects entitled "Sightseeing in New York with Nick and Tony." The films consisted primarily of actual scenes and events. For purposes of continuity, professional actors were used to portray two guides identifying and describing points of interest to two school teachers making a tour of the city. One scene showed a front-face closeup of the plaintiff as she was engaged in her usual occupation of selling bread and rolls on Orchard Street. The running time of the film was about seventeen minutes; the plaintiff's picture appeared for about six seconds. Her scene occupied nine feet out of a total of 1,550 feet.

In a 3-2 decision, which was affirmed without opinion by the Court of Appeals, the Appellate Division upheld a judgment for the plaintiff. The dissent, relying on Humiston v. Universal Film Manufacturing Co., maintained that the film was primarily factual and informative, and that the fictional dialogue between the guides and school teachers was purely incidental.

The court's interpretation of the nature of the film is open to question, for the method by which food is sold on New York's East Side by itinerant peddlers could readily have been found to be a matter of public interest.

Moreover, motion picture producers would probably agree that the Blumenthal case, if followed to the letter, would eliminate the practice of photographing real crowds or street scenes, for it would be impossible, practically, to obtain the written consent of each individual seen on the screen. It will be recalled that the court in Humiston v. Universal Film Manufacturing Co. stated that unless newsreels were outside the scope of the right of privacy, it would be impossible to photograph a parade or a baseball or football game.

The practice of the courts has been to restrict the application of the Blumenthal case. Thus, in a recent unreported decision, Cook v. Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp., N.Y.L.J., Dec. 14, 1936 (Sup. Ct. N.Y. Cty; Valente, J.), an eighteen-year-old boy was part of a crowd hurrying along the street. The scene was photographed and occupied five feet of film in a feature-length motion picture entitled "15 Maiden Lane." A temporary injunction was denied. The court stated:

> "Although the acts of the defendant may constitute a literal violation of the Civil Rights Law, it is seriously questionable whether they violate the spirit and purpose of that statute."

The court distinguished the Blumenthal case on the ground that it involved a front-view closeup rather than a mob scene.

A debatable question is presented by the use of medical photographs. Here, it is frequently very difficult to choose between public interest and individual privacy. Where the pictures are used in a salacious context and do not have primarily an educational appeal, there would be little dissent from the view that the subject's right of privacy has been violated. Thus, in Feeney v. Young, 191 App. Div. 501, 181 N.Y.S. 481 (1st Dept., 1920), the plaintiff, in giving birth to a child, was compelled to undergo a "Caesarian section" operation. She consented orally that a motion picture be made for exhibition to medical societies. The obstetrician and the photographer, however, exhibited the scene publicly in motion picture theatres as part of a film entitled "Birth." Witnesses testified that the plaintiff was easily recognizable. The court permitted recovery.

A different situation and a more arguable result is presented in an opinion of the Attorney General of New York State on a question propounded by the Department of Health (Op. Atty. Gen., 1934, p. 375). The question was whether it would be legal to include in an educational exhibit to be presented by the Department of Health at the Syracuse State Fair full-face pictures of cancer patients, showing the lesions before and after treatment.

The Attorney General advised that such use would probably be condemned by the courts, despite its "distinct social value for the general instruction and information of the public." He stated:

> "The unfortunate person afflicted with a malignant disease such as cancer may very well have a perfectly natural and readily understandable aversion to having a photograph or picture showing his condition displayed before the public."

In arriving at this decision the Attorney General relied entirely upon the case of Almind v. Sea Beach Railway Co., 157 App. Div. 230, 141 N.Y.S. 842 (2nd Dept. 1913). Photographs of the plaintiff and her six-year-old child were taken while they were boarding a street car. The pictures were reproduced on posters for the purpose of showing the proper way to enter and leave a car without injury. The court conceded that such use has a personal value for the traveler, an economic value for the state, and an indirect pecuniary value for the carrier. Nevertheless, judgment was granted for the plaintiff, the court stating:

"The right of privacy under the statute cannot be invaded for purposes purely informative or redemptive, whether the altruist be entirely a charitable envoy or a railway company. No cause is so exalted that it may allure by exposing the portrait of a person to the public gaze. The statute does not mean that the grocer may not without written consent use another's picture to advertise his goods, but that a reformer may not without such consent expose it to call attention to ways and means of reformation."

It is submitted that the quoted language was entirely uncalled for by the facts, and that the Attorney General erred in his belief that the Almind case was controlling on the question presented to him.

The distinction between the two fact situations is a real one. In the Almind case the plaintiff was used merely as a model to illustrate a method of boarding a street car. As an individual she had no particular informational or educational value, and any other person would have served the same purpose. No hardship is imposed on the railway company, and no detriment is suffered by the public, therefore, by a ruling that one's picture may not be used in this manner without his consent.

In the case upon which the Attorney General was consulted, however, the public had a special interest in the particular individuals involved. They were not to be used as impersonal demonstrators of something wholly outside themselves. On the contrary, their very bodies were the object lessons sought to be made available for the benefit of society. No one else could have been substituted with equal effectiveness. In having been treated successfully for a serious disease affecting large numbers of people, they incurred a responsibility and an obligation to the public. They became "actors in an occurrence of general interest" just as much as people who are unwittingly involved in crimes, train wrecks, or other tragedies which become headline news.

In weighing Mrs. Almind's right of privacy against the interest of the public in a demonstration of the proper way to board a street car, a verdict protecting her personal sensibilities is quite understandable. In weighing the cancer patients' right of privacy against the interest of the public in a treatment for this dread disease, however, the scales may very well have tipped in the opposite direction.

Although the courts have not consciously been guided by such a test, every right of privacy case involves the necessity of a choice between individual equities and the interest of society. Erudite legalistic arguments on statutory interpretation or common law analogy are ostrich-like refusals to see the problem for what it really is—a conflict of opposing ideals requiring, in every instance, a balance of values.

(2) Use for Advertising or Trade Purposes

Any publication of a person's name or picture which is not primarily educational or informative in character is likely to be for advertising or trade purposes. Such use is expressly forbidden by statute. New York Civil Rights Law, Sections 50, 51; Utah Rev. Stat. 1933, Title 103, Ch. 4, Sections 7, 8, 9. The rule is the same in states enforcing the right of privacy at common law. Pavesich v. New England Life Insurance Co., Inc., 122 Ga. 190, 50 S.E. 68 (1905); Munden v. Harris, 153 Mo. App. 652, 134 S.W. 1076 (1911); Kurz v. Allen, 102 Kan. 883, 172 Pac. 532 (1918); Edison v. Edison Polyform Manufacturing Co., Inc., 73 N.J. Eq. 136, 67 Atl. 393 (1907); Foster-Milburn Co. v. Chinn, 134 Ky. 424, 120 S.W. 364 (1909), aff'd. 137 Ky. 835 (1910); Thompson v. Tillford, 152 App. Div. 928, 137 N.Y.S. 523 (2nd Dept., 1912).

The commonest use of a person's name and picture for advertising and trade purposes is the "endorsement" of merchandise. This situation creates the least legal difficulty; if unauthorized it is actionable in every jurisdiction recognizing the right of privacy. In a recent case, for example, the name and photograph of Fred Astaire, a well-known dancer, actor and singer, were used in advertisements for "Swank" jewelry printed in Esquire magazine. Injunctive relief was granted against the manufacturer and the publisher. Astaire v. Esquire, Inc.,

N.Y.L.J., Feb. 10, 1936 (Sup. Ct. N.Y. Cty., Rosenman, J.).

Other less typical appropriations of names and pictures to aid in the sale of merchandise have also been condemned as violations of the right of privacy. In Wolins v. La Mode Chez Tappe, Inc., N.Y.L.J., Dec. 1, 1936 (Sup. Ct. N.Y. Cty., Lauer, J.), the plaintiff, a retired photographer's model turned photographer, submitted a sample of her work to the defendant, a hat manufacturer. She had selected a picture of herself wearing one of the defendant's creations. The defendant thought very highly of the plaintiff's work and submitted it for publication in a magazine called Style. The caption described the hat, but did not refer to the plaintiff. Judgment was granted for the plaintiff. The case is significant because the court held that the publication was for advertising and trade purposes even though the plaintiff's photograph appeared in the editorial columns of the magazine rather than in a paid advertisement.

Similarly, in Riddle v. MacFadden, 116 App. Div. 353, 101 N.Y.S. 606 (1st Dept. 1906), the plaintiff alleged that her photograph had been reproduced in a book entitled New Hair Culture, written by Bernarr Macfadden and advertised in his magazines Physical Culture and Beauty and Health. The Court held that the complaint stated a good cause of action.

The rather shadowy distinction between "news" and "trade" is illustrated by the case of Neyland v. Home Pattern Co., 65 F. (2d) 363 (C.C.A. 2d 1933), cert. den. 290 U.S. 661 (1933). The plaintiff, a well-known marine artist, painted a picture of a whaling brig under sail in a snow-storm, which he called "The Huntress of the North." The publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal printed a group of nautical patterns for embroidered pillows, among which was one captioned:

> "The C. W. Morgan, on the Pillow to the Left, Comes Straight from the Painting by Harry Neyland."

The Court held that a mere reproduction of the painting, even though coupled with the name of the artist, might be permissible, but that the sale of patterns was clearly "trade" and hence a violation of the right of privacy.

A case almost identical in its reasoning is McNulty v. Press Publishing Co., 136 Misc. 883, 241 N. Y. S. 29 (1930), where a photograph of the plaintiff was incorporated in a humorous cartoon entitled "The Boy Who Made Good." The Court held that the publication of the picture in a single newspaper would not be actionable, but that extensive sale of the cartoon by a feature syndicate to a number of newspapers for profit was a use "for the purpose of trade."

The cases discussed in the previous section have established the rule that an individual's right of privacy is not infringed if his exploits are written up in a magazine or book and his name and picture are used in connection therewith, provided it is of bona fide interest to the public and serves an educational and informative purpose. It frequently happens, however, that the names and pictures of celebrities with "sales appeal" are used to exploit a literary work with whose subject matter they have no essential connection. Such use is held to be for advertising and trade purposes and not within the immunity granted to the book itself and its legitimate contents.

Thus in Eliot v. Jones, 66 Misc. 95, 120 N. Y. S. 989 (1910), aff'd. 140 App. Div. 911, 125 N. Y. S. 1119 (1st Dept., 1911), the President Emeritus of Harvard University had consented to the use of his name on a series of books known as The Harvard Classics and Dr. Eliot's Five-Foot Shelf of Books. A rival publisher, without Dr. Eliot's permission printed an edition called Dr. Eliot's Famous Five-Foot Shelf of the World's Greatest Books, Dr. Eliot's Five-Foot Shelf and Dr. Eliot's Set. The Court found that Dr. Eliot's right of privacy had been violated and granted an injunction. This result, of course, might also have been reached on the theory of unfair competition.

In a rather puzzling case, D'Altomonte v. New York Herald Co., 154 App. Div. 453, 139 N. Y. S. 200 (1st Dept., 1913), modified 208 N. Y. 596 (1913), an opposite result was reached on somewhat similar facts. The defendant newspaper published a story written in the first person, supposedly by Baron Antonio D'Altomonte, a noted traveler and newspaper correspondent. The story was preceded by a biographical sketch of Baron D'Altomonte and was headed:

> "Stopping a Congo Cannibal Feast. The Adventures in the African Forest wherein a Young and Courageous American is Rescued Just as he is About to be Killed and Eaten by Savages."

The Baron alleged that the story was wholly untrue and he was never connected with the persons and incidents therein described. The Appellate Division sustained a recovery for libel and for violation of the plaintiff's right of privacy. The Court of Appeals however, without opinion, held that no cause of action was stated on the privacy theory.

People whose names and pictures have appeared in newspapers and magazines frequently try to support an action based upon the privacy doctrine by arguing that the publication was for trade purposes because it brought profits to the publisher. Even if these allegations are true, however, recovery is nevertheless denied where the article is of general interest.

Thus in Jeffries v. New York Evening Journal Publishing Co., 67 Misc. 570, 124 N. Y. S. 780 (1910), the defendant newspaper published a series of articles on the life history of the plaintiff, a former world's heavyweight boxing champion. The plaintiff was particularly annoyed because he had just completed his autobiography and the defendant's newspaper biography was "stealing his thunder." The plaintiff argued that the defendant derived both a direct and an indirect financial benefit from the use of his name and picture, since the stories increased the circulation of the newspaper and, consequently, its value as an advertising medium. The court denied the application for an injunction and damages, stating that these results were incidental to the primary purpose of the series—the dissemination of information.

The court also highlighted the logical absurdity into which this type of argument inevitably leads: A common-place story using the name and picture of an obscure and unknown person would not increase the circulation of the paper, and therefore would not serve an advertising or trade purpose. On the other hand, a stirring "scoop" involving statesmen, tycoons, stars, champions, and other headline personalities would create a demand for thousands of extra copies of the newspaper, and, ipso facto, would be a publication for advertising and trade purposes, according to this reasoning. Thus the right of privacy would be applicable to an article of no significance whatever, while a newsworthy story would be outside the immunity specifically created for news.

It is submitted that the "advertising or trade" test is really the "public interest" rule in reverse. When a person's name or picture is used solely for advertising or trade purposes, recovery is allowed wherever the privacy doctrine is recognized. Conversely, when the writing or photograph is a matter of general interest, it is privileged. Actually, therefore, there are not two rules, but one.

In our economic system practically every publication is motivated by the profit incentive, and in that sense serves a commercial purpose. Generally speaking, no publisher prints anything unless he thinks it will sell. Even purely altruistic ventures necessarily have an element of self-advertisement. All privacy cases therefore involve, to some degree, "advertising or trade."

The only material question is whether this ever-present commercial factor is overbalanced by the educational or informative content of the subject-matter. If the public interest in disclosure is more compelling than the individual's right of secrecy, recovery should be denied; if society has comparatively little to gain by publication, the injury to the individual should be recompensed. Learned disquisitions as to the meaning of the words "advertising or trade" merely obfuscate the issue; they do not aid in reaching a rational decision, which must be arrived at by judicious evaluation of the weight to be given to these two opposing forces in each individual case.

(3) What Names and Pictures Are Protected?

When is a name not a name? When is a picture not a picture? These questions frequently confront the courts in determining whether or not a right of privacy has been violated, for not every name or picture, even if used for an improper purpose, will give rise to a cause of action.

It is generally agreed that only a natural person has a right of privacy. Except in Utah (where "public institutions" are protected by statute), the name of any partnership or corporation may be used freely, subject, of course, to rules of law in other fields, such as unfair competition.

The cases which establish this principle, however, are not very convincing in the argumentative processes by which they reach their result. Moreover, as a purely abstract question, no reason appears why there should be any greater freedom in using a firm name than in using the names of the individuals comprising the firm.

Rosenwasser v. Ogoglia, 172 App. Div. 107, 158 N. Y. S. 56 (2nd Dept., 1916) held that the privacy doctrine does not extend to a co-partnership. The court stated that the right, almost by definition, could apply only to a natural person, since its purpose was to enhance human peace and happiness. The court relied upon the legalistic doctrine that a partnership is not a "person"—a legal entity separate and apart from its members —and cited the New York Civil Rights Law, which provides that any "person" may recover if his name or picture is used illegally by any "person, firm or corporation." Finally, without explaining its reasons for such a prediction, the court stated that a right of privacy for partnerships "might bring about much vexatious and even absurd litigation."

Vassar College v. Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co., 197 Fed. 982 (D. C. Mo. 1912) held that the privacy rule does not extend to a corporation. The defendant manufactured candy which it called "Vassar Chocolates." The packages and advertisements carried a picture of a young lady in academic gown and mortarboard hat, an imitation of the college pennant, a college yell, and an imitation of the college seal, with the words "Vassar Chocolates" and "Always Fresh" substituted for "Vassar College" and "Purity and Wisdom." The court held that the college was without a remedy, stating that the foundation of the privacy doctrine is an injury to personal sensibilities, which are entirely lacking in a corporation.

Even though the defendant's conduct may have caused "regret, pain and annoyance" to the students and alumnae, their feelings could not be taken into account, for no one has a right of privacy in any name but his own—not even the name of a beloved alma mater. The court garnished its opinion with the rather astonishing argument that Vassar College could have no right of privacy for another reason: it was a "public character," "depending upon and inviting wide-spread publicity for the fullest return from the exercise of its functions as an institution of learning." Since its existence depended upon publicity, it could not claim a right of privacy.

These cases have been accepted as precedent without question, yet they represent unnecessarily hide-bound thinking. It is probable that a healthier and more equitable rule would have been established if they had been decided differently.

There appears, on superficial reading, to be a split of authority on whether recovery can be had for the unauthorized use of anything less than one's full name. In Pfaudler v. Pfaudler Company, 114 Misc. 477, 186 N. Y. S. 725 (1920), the plaintiff's surname was used by a corporation which he had helped to establish, but with which he was no longer associated. There was no allegation of fraud or unfair competition. The court held that the plaintiff's right of privacy had not been violated, for the word "name," as used in the New York Civil Rights Law, must mean a person's full name and not merely his surname. If this were not the rule, common surnames like Smith, Jones or Brown could not be used without the risk of multitudinous lawsuits. Although in ancient times sons commonly adopted or were given surnames different from that of their father—based upon some personal peculiarity, or their occupation or place of abode—nowadays both given name and surname, and sometimes a middle name, are necessary for complete identification.

Similarly in Swacker v. Wright, 154 Misc. 822, 277 N. Y. S. 296 (1935) the defendant published a book entitled The Benson Murder Case in which a character called "Frank Swacker," the secretary to the District Attorney, appeared. The full name was used once, in the cast of characters; in the text only the surname "Swacker" was mentioned. In other books the character was referred to solely as "Swacker." The plaintiff, Frank M. Swacker, was an attorney who had formerly been Special Assistant to the Attorney General of the United States. He had never acted as secretary to the District Attorney and there was no parallel between his career and that of the character in the book. The court dismissed the complaint, stating:—

> "The mere use of the plaintiff's surname and Christian name with his middle initial omitted, without any other identifying feature, cannot be held a sufficient basis for relief under the statute."

In a more recent case, however, the use of a given name alone was held to be actionable. Uproar Company v. National Broadcasting Company, 8 Fed. Sup. 358 (D. C. Mass., 1934), affirmed as modified, 81 Fed. (2d) 373 (C.C.A. 1st, 1936). Ed Wynn, a comedian, had been engaged to perform in weekly radio broadcasts, for which he supplied his own material. His foil, or "straight man," was Graham McNamee, a well-known announcer, whom he referred to constantly as "Graham." In one playlet, entitled "The Wynn-Mill," the name "Graham" was used no less than 45 times. Wynn conceived the idea of capitalizing upon the success of the program by selling copies of the script in pamphlet form. The published dialogue, of course, also contained the name "Graham." The court enjoined the sale of the booklets, stating that the word "Graham" would, in the public mind, mean Graham McNamee, especially if used in connection with radio programs in which he appeared.

There is also some confusion in the cases with reference to the degree of protection afforded stage names, noms de plume, or other fictitious cognomens. In Davis v. R.K. O. Radio Pictures, Inc., 16 Fed. Sup. 195 (D.C. N.Y. 1936), the plaintiff was by profession an "actress, psychic, palmist, author and lecturer, appearing under the name 'Cassandra' or 'Casandra'." The defendant produced a motion picture entitled Bunker Bean in which there was a character called "Countess Casandra," portrayed as "an illiterate, unkempt, slovenly, neglectful and low-grade person, and as a cheat, faker, swindler and surrounded by all the bunkum of witchery." The court held that the plaintiff's right of privacy had not been violated, stating flatly:—

> "Sections 50 and 51 of the Civil Rights Law do not apply to any assumed or 'stage name'."

The court need not have gone this far in order to deny recovery, for it found that the name "Countess Casandra" was materially different from "Cassandra" and also that "Cassandra" is derived from Grecian mythology and has frequently been associated in literature with prophesy. Consequently, the defendant had as much right to adopt this name for a psychic as the plaintiff.

This case was disapproved in a later decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals, Gardella v. Log Cabin Products Co., 89 F. (2d) 891 (C.C.A. 2nd, 1937). The plaintiff, a professional actress, had achieved wide renown by portraying a character called "Aunt Jemima." She sought to recover damages for the use of this name by two other actresses on a radio program advertising Quaker Oats and Log Cabin Syrup. Although recovery was denied on other grounds, the court stated, after noting the defendants' reliance upon the Davis case:

> "Having in mind the evident purpose of the statute, its application to a public or stage name, as well as a private name, seems inevitable."

Despite the fact that this statement was mere dictum, the Davis case, in effect, would seem to be overruled.

An interesting reversal of the usual situation involving assumed names is Ellis v. Hurst, 70 Misc. 122, 128 N.Y.S. 144 (1910). The plaintiff had written two books called In the Apache Country and The White Mustang. He had failed to secure a copyright on these works, and there was no contention that the defendant acted illegally in reprinting them. The plaintiff had originally written the books under a pen name, "Lieutenant R. H. Jayne," while the defendant printed on the jacket the plaintiff's real name, "Edward S. Ellis." The court held that this use of the plaintiff's name was not a violation of his right of privacy, for if the defendants were entitled to use the plaintiff's nom de plume they had an equal right to use his real name, since the two were synonymous. The court stated that the defendant was in the same position as a retailer who desires to advertise his merchandise under the name of its manufacturer.

In infringements upon the right of privacy by "picture," strict photographic accuracy is not required. In Loftus v. Greenwich Lithographing Co., Inc., 192 App. Div. 251, 182 N.Y.S. 428 (1st Dept., 1920), recovery was allowed even though the plaintiff's photograph was used merely as a model for a painting which departed from the photograph in various particulars. The plaintiff, a Ziegfeld show girl, posed for a photograph in a special costume called a "rose costume." The photograph received wide circulation, and the plaintiff became identified in the public mind with the costume and with the pose. The defendant reproduced a water color copy of the plaintiff's photograph on posters advertising a motion picture entitled Shame (A Story of the World's Unjust Condemnation). The word "Shame" was printed in very large letters. The posters represented a man pointing with scorn at the figure adapted from the photograph. The hat and costume were identical, and the dimensions of the drawing corresponded with the plaintiff's measurements. Although minor changes were made—the right arm, which held a rose, was concealed from view, the tilt of the head was altered, and the hair was lowered—the plaintiff was clearly recognizable. Judgment was granted for the plaintiff. The court stated that the purpose of the statute would be defeated by permitting representations closely resembling, although not accurately depicting, the plaintiff.

In Binns v. Vitagraph Corporation of America, 210 N. Y. 51 (1913), the case involving the radio operator who effected the first rescue at sea by means of a wireless distress signal, there was no photograph of the plaintiff at all; he was shown pictorially merely by means of an actor made up to resemble him. The court held that this was sufficient to constitute a violation of the plaintiff's right of privacy, since a "picture" within the meaning of the statute is not necessarily a photograph, but may be any representation—even a photograph of a person imitating the plaintiff.

The apparent confusion in the cases defining the concepts "name" and "picture" may easily be reconciled. Instead of attempting to lay down hard and fast rules that given names or surnames or retouched photographs or portrayals by actors are or are not protected, the courts, it is submitted, would do well to apply in each case the simple test of whether or not the verbal or pictorial likeness sufficiently identifies the plaintiff to be recognizable.

The validity of this criterion is illustrated by the arguments of counsel in a recent unreported case, Mamlock v. Amkino Corp., N. Y. L. J., Dec. 20, 1938 (N. Y. Cty., McCook, J.). The defendant exhibited at its motion picture theatre a film entitled Professor Mamlock. Suit was brought by a Dr. Mamlok, claiming that he was the person depicted in the picture and that the name "Professor Mamlock" referred to him. A German refugee who had been well-known as a professor at the University of Berlin for over twenty-five years, he pointed out various parallels between his own experiences and the events shown in the photoplay. The defendant, however, argued that there was no identification: the plaintiff wore a beard, while the character in the motion picture was clean-shaven, the two were entirely different in physical appearance, and many of the scenes in the motion picture had no counterpart in the life history of the plaintiff. Moreover, the scenario was adapted from a play which had been written several years before the plaintiff's departure from Germany. The court, without opinion, denied the motion for a temporary injunction.

The right of privacy is further qualified by the rule of de minimis non curat lex—the law will not redress miniscule injuries. Thus for merely technical violations of the right of privacy, where the name and picture of the plaintiff could have made no real impression on the public, substantial recovery will not be allowed.

In Cook v. Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp., N.Y.L.J., Dec. 14, 1936 (N. Y. Cty., Valente, J.) for example, where the plaintiff appeared in a crowd scene occupying five feet of film in a feature-length motion picture, an application for a temporary injunction was denied.

Similarly, in Merle v. Sociological Research Film Corp., 166 App. Div. 376, 152 N.Y.S. 829 (1st Dept., 1915), the defendant produced a motion picture entitled The Inside of the White Slave Traffic, which purported to show, wherever possible, the actual places where white slavers operated. In one scene the exterior of a factory building appeared, with the plaintiff's name clearly visible on a sign. The court held that the plaintiff's right of privacy had not been violated, for his name was merely an incidental part of the photograph of the building. By placing his sign in such a prominent position, one may not prevent the taking of a photograph by persons who would otherwise have a right to do so.

In Damron v. Doubleday Doran & Co., Inc., 133 Misc. 302, 231 N.Y.S. 444 (1928), aff'd. 226 App. Div. 796, 234 N.Y.S. 773 (1st Dept., 1929), likewise, a name by which the plaintiff had been known in his youth, "Little Wayne Damron," was used once in a novel entitled Show Boat, which ran to 398 pages. The court denied recovery, stating that it was obliged, in each case, to weigh the extent, degree and character of the use made of the plaintiff's name and picture. While literary expediency may not be advanced as an excuse for violating the statute, the Civil Rights Law was not intended to outlaw "local color" in books and prohibit the purely casual mention of a real name.

The same rule applies to photographic representations. In Jung v. Yeblon, N.Y.L.J., Dec. 17, 1932 (N. Y. Cty., Walsh, J.), the defendant, a wholesale jewelry merchant, published a catalogue containing a picture of his showrooms. The plaintiff, a salesman whose employment was terminated prior to the publication, was shown standing behind the counter. The entire photograph was 3½ inches long and 3 inches wide. The plaintiff's picture was about ¼ of an inch square. The court awarded judgment for 6 cents, holding that although there was a technical violation of the plaintiff's right of privacy, he had suffered no real injury. The defendant was not attempting to capitalize upon the plaintiff's connection with the firm. The inclusion of his picture did not increase the value of the catalogue; it was merely incidental to the defendant's primary purpose of showing the appearance of its salesrooms.

On the question of what names and pictures are protected by the privacy doctrine, the courts have not been guided by clearly defined, coherent reasoning. The feeling of innate natural justice which lies at the foundation of the privacy doctrine would seem to require that the names of partnerships and corporations be safeguarded as well as the names of individuals. Certainly the denial of an injunction in the Vassar College case is indefensible morally and ethically. However, there can be no dissent from the limitation of the privacy rule to substantial, as distinguished from merely incidental infringements.

In determining how complete and how accurate the portrayal must be to constitute a violation of one's right of privacy, there seems to be a growing awareness that the problem cannot be solved definitely by any fixed codification of rules and principles. The courts are gradually coming to realize that each case must be decided through a factual study of whether or not the particular name or picture used by the defendant is a recognizable identification of the plaintiff.

(4) Privacy After Death

Two different questions are presented under this head: First, if a person's right of privacy is invaded during his lifetime but he dies before recovering a judgment, may his executors or administrators pursue the remedy in his stead? Second, is there any privacy in the memory of the deceased; if a person's name or picture is used for an improper purpose after his death, do his surviving relatives have a cause of action?

At common law the rule is that "property" rights survive, but "personal" rights die with the person. Although some courts refuse to recognize the right of privacy unless they are able to discover a concomitant injury to property, every jurisdiction would almost certainly hold that the right of privacy falls within the "personal" rather than the "property" category. Thus in states recognizing the right of privacy at common law, a cause of action for its infringement arising during one's lifetime would not survive his death.

In 1935, however, a statute was passed in New York which provided for the survival of personal as well as property rights:—

> "No cause of action for injury to person or property shall be lost because of the death of the person in whose favor the cause of action existed." (Section 119, Decedent Estate Law.)

Although this statute has not yet been construed with reference to the right of privacy, it is difficult to see how the New York courts, in the light of its clear provisions, could adhere to their former rule that such a cause of action does not survive the death of the injured party. See Wyatt v. Hall's Portrait Studio, Inc., 71 Misc. 199, 128 N.Y.S. 247 (1911).

The common law doctrine that personal rights die with the person is unfortunate and unsound. The ancient distinction between personal and property rights is an anachronism. It has long been recognized by legal scholars that all rights are essentially personal, and that the entire concept of property is merely a group of personal prerogatives—rules governing what a person may or may not do with reference to certain physical things. The distinction between personal and property rights is superficially apparent but basically unreal.

Furthermore, even if the distinction were logically valid, no reason appears why personal rights should die with the person. A cause of action is an asset, universally recognized as such during one's lifetime. It should not be lost upon death.

On the question of whether or not the name and picture of a deceased person should be protected, recent decisions have flatly repudiated the rule laid down in the early cases.

The first case in which this issue was raised held that no cause of action existed. Schuyler v. Curtis, 147 N. Y. 434 (1895). The "Woman's Memorial Fund Association" sought to erect a statue to the memory of Mrs. Mary M. Hamilton Schuyler as the "Typical Philanthropist." This memorial was to be exhibited at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893, as a companion piece to a bust of Mrs. Susan B. Anthony, which was to be designated as the "Typical Reformer." A nephew and stepson of Mrs. Schuyler, objecting to the exhibition of her statue in such company, brought suit for an injunction. The New York Court of Appeals denied the application, holding:

> "It is the right of the living and not of the dead which is recognized."

The same result was reached in Atkinson v. John E. Doherty & Co., 121 Mich. 372, 80 N.W. 285 (1899), where the court refused to enjoin the manufacture of "Colonel John Atkinson Cigars" in an action brought after his death by his surviving relatives.

It should be noted that no age-old common law doctrine—such as a maxim that personal actions die with the person—compelled this result. In declaring that the privacy of living persons might be protected by law, the courts, on the same reasoning, could just as easily have held that similar use of a deceased person's name and picture is actionable.

The New York statute, enacted in 1903, stated clearly that a cause of action was created only for invasion of the privacy of a "living person." This is still the rule in New York; the name and picture of a deceased person may be used for any purpose whatsoever without the possibility of legal redress on the basis of the privacy doctrine.

The Federal Trademark Law relaxes the rule in a rather curious way. It provides that no portrait of a living person may be registered as a trademark without his written consent, and adds that no portrait of a deceased President of the United States may be registered during the lifetime of his widow without her written consent (15 U.S.C.A., Section 85).

The Utah statute, enacted in 1909, rejected the common law rule entirely and provided that the written permission of the heirs or representatives of a deceased person was as necessary as the written permission of a living person. This statute is presently in force (Utah Rev. Stat. 1933, Title 103, Chapter 4, Sections 7, 8, 9).

The more recent judicial opinion in common law states has been in accord with this view. Thus in Douglas v. Stokes, 149 Ky. 506, 149 S.W. 849 (1912), a woman gave birth to Siamese twins. The children died soon afterward, and the father employed a photographer to take pictures of their bodies. The photographer made additional prints for his own use and procured a copyright in his own name. The father and mother brought suit and recovered a judgment.

The court held that it was unable to distinguish the case from those in which similar use of a living person's photograph had been held actionable. The most tender affections of the human heart, the court stated, cluster about the body of one's dead child. The corpse was in the parents' custody, and when the defendant exceeded his authority in making the photographs, he violated their right. If he had wrongfully taken possession of the nude body and had exposed it to public view for profit, there would be no doubt that a wrong would have been done to the parents. If similar use is made of the photograph, a like wrong is done.

So, also, in Bazemore v. Savannah Hospital, 155 S.E. 194 (Ga. 1930), a child was born with its heart on the outside of its body. It was taken to a hospital in an effort to remedy the deformity by surgery, but the operation was unsuccessful and the child died. Without the permission of the parents, the hospital gave the story to the press and permitted photographs to be taken of the body. The parents brought suit, contending that they had a right to keep secret the facts relating to their deformed child, and also a right to have its body and sexual organs properly covered at all times. In a 3-2 decision, the court permitted recovery.

These decisions are just. We have seen how, in the case of a living person, the law has progressed from protection of his body to protection of his reputation and sensibilities. It is no greater transition from protection of a dead body to protection of a dead person's reputation and memory.

A contemporary commentator, disapproving of the reasoning in Schuyler v. Curtis, stated:

> "It is surely a mistaken view of the ordinary facts of human feeling to say that a naturally retiring person can tolerate the anticipation of a publicity after his death from which he would shrink painfully during his life. Surely a person to whom privacy is of any value whatever must contemplate a future publicity with almost as much chagrin as a present one. Could the learned judge, for example, bear for an instant the thought of a public representation or description of his courtship after his death?"

However the Douglas and Bazemore cases, and the Utah statute, do not stand for the proposition that dead people have a right of privacy, or any such esoteric doctrine. The statement by the court in Schuyler v. Curtis, to the effect that it recognized only the right of the living and not of the dead, reveals a complete misconception of the problem.

The fact is that the privacy of the living, in a very real sense, is involved. It cannot be doubted that photographs of the bodies of deformed children call attention to the parents and invade their right to be let alone. A sensitive person, desiring seclusion and freedom from the curious comment of the crowd, would be as easily wounded by an article commenting unnecessarily on his deceased relatives as he would by a similar article concerning himself. Judicial recognition of the fact that one's own privacy may be invaded by unauthorized use of the name or picture of a departed relative is a step forward in the historical tradition of the common law, which looks toward ever increasing recognition of man's finer sensibilities.

(5) Consent

Consent is, of course, a complete defense to an action for violation of the right of privacy. The law, however, in an effort to safeguard individuals with low sales resistance, has placed certain restrictions on the manner and quantum of assent necessary to defeat the plaintiff's right. Thus it is important to determine whether the permission has been oral or written, qualified or absolute, by language or by conduct, and whether the plaintiff has misled the defendant into acting in reliance upon his apparent cooperation.

In common law states, consent may be implied by conduct as well as expressed by words. In a recent unreported case (see newspapers, Nov. 8, 1938), a spectator snapped a picture of Sally Rand with a candid camera while she was performing her "Bubble Dance." Miss Rand, incensed, attacked the photographer and inflicted painful physical injuries. He retaliated by suing for assault and battery. Miss Rand interposed a defense of justification, claiming that she was merely defending herself against an unwarranted invasion of her right of privacy. The court held for the plaintiff, however, on the ground that the defendant's course of conduct in appearing before the public wearing little or no costume constituted a waiver of her right of privacy. The court stated:

> "If Sally Rand were to take a bath and charge admission, there would be no violation of her right of privacy if someone came in and took a picture."

The courts frequently use the language of implied consent to deny recovery to "public characters." Thus, in Munden v. Harris, 153 Mo. App. 652, 134 S.W. 1076 (1911), the court stated that consent may be expressed or implied, and when one engages in public affairs he impliedly consents to become the object of publicity. In Corliss v. E. W. Walker Co., 68 Fed. 280 (D.C. Mass., 1890) likewise, the court stated that there is a distinction between public and private characters. A statesman, author, artist or inventor, who makes a bid for public recognition, thereby surrenders his right of privacy.

This reasoning, however, is fallacious. The true distinction is not between public and private characters, but between matters of public or private interest. The determining factor is the content and character of the publication, not the standing of the individual. Even the most famous have a right to be protected against unauthorized use of their names and photographs in a manner not connected with their public life. Foster-Milburn Co. v. Chinn, 134 Ky. 424, 120 S.W. 364 (1909), aff'd. 137 Ky. 835 (1910) (Senator); Eliot v. Jones, 66 Misc. 95, 120 N.Y.S. 989 (1910), aff'd. 140 App. Div. 911, 125 N.Y.S. 1119 (1st Dept., 1910) (University President); Edison v. Edison Polyform Manufacturing Co., 73 N.J. Eq. 136, 67 Atl. 393 (1907) (Inventor); Sinclair v. Postal Telegraph Cable Co., N.Y.L.J., July 28, 1935 (N. Y. Cty., Lauer, J.) (Actor).

Both the New York and Utah statutes provide that the consent must be in writing. Some courts have interpreted this provision literally. Thus, in Almind v. Sea Beach Railway Co., 157 App. Div. 230, 141 N.Y.S. 842 (2nd Dept., 1913), although the plaintiff knew that her picture was being taken for the purpose of illustrating the right and wrong way to board a street car, and made no objection, the court granted recovery, stating that oral consent could not be made to take the place of the written consent specifically required by statute.

Similarly, in Wyatt v. James McCreery Co., 126 App. Div. 650, 111 N.Y.S. 86 (1st Dept., 1908), the plaintiff, an actress, purchased photographs at a special "professional rate" in consideration of oral permission to use the photographs for advertising purposes. The court held that permission in this form was insufficient and judgment was granted for the plaintiff.

Most courts, however, look with disfavor upon the plaintiff who consents orally to the use of his name and picture and then brings suit on the ground that the written consent required by statute was not given. In such cases, every effort is ordinarily made to find a basis for the denial of recovery.

Thus, in Wendell v. Conduit Machine Co., 74 Misc. 201, 133 N.Y.S. 758 (1911), the court refused to grant an injunction on the doctrine of "unclean hands"—he who seeks equity must do equity. The plaintiff consented orally that his photograph be incorporated in advertisements of his employer's business. When the relationship was about to terminate, however, he sought to enjoin further use of his pictures. The court denied the plaintiff's application, stating:

> "[The statute] never meant that an employee could fraudulently, or by his culpable negligence amounting to constructive fraud, mislead his employer into expenditures to build up his trade and thereafter claim the intervention of a court of equity where such intervention would visit a material injury upon the employer."

Similarly, in Hammond v. Crowell Publishing Co., N.Y.L.J., Oct. 26, 1937 (N. Y. Cty., McLaughlin, J.), the court held that a defense of estoppel was not insufficient in law.

In Harris v. H. W. Gossard Co., 194 App. Div. 688, 185 N.Y.S. 861 (1st Dept., 1921), the court held that a verdict for 6 cents was not insufficient, since the jury evidently accepted the defendant's testimony that the plaintiff had consented orally to the use of her name and portrait.

The court in Sidney v. A. S. Beck Shoe Corp., 153 Misc. 166, 274 N.Y.S. 559 (1934), went even further. The defendant used the name and photograph of Sylvia Sidney, a well-known actress, in a shoe advertisement. The defendant alleged, as a partial defense, that a general custom existed in the theatrical profession to encourage the use of names and pictures in advertisements for purposes of exploitation. On a motion to strike out the defense, the court held that it might be pleaded in mitigation of damages.

In White v. White, 160 App. Div. 709, 145 N.Y.S. 743 (1st Dept., 1914), the court denied recovery even though it was unable to find a reason for not applying the statute. The plaintiff had formed a corporation whose name was the same as his own. After selling his stock in the corporation, he attempted to restrain the use of his name by the new owners. The court refused to grant the application, stating merely that the plaintiff, by his conduct, had evidently "intended" to give the corporation the benefit of his name and prestige.

The moral, if not legal, weight of oral consent is illustrated by Sweenek v. Pathe News, Inc., 16 Fed. Sup. 746 (E.D. N.Y., 1936), the case involving newsreels of a reducing class in a gymnasium, where the court stated:

> "Although the conclusion that this was a proper subject of news makes unnecessary any discussion of consent, it might not be inapropos to consider it as revealing the spirit in which this action is brought. It is conceded by counsel for the defendant that the written consent required by the statute was not given. Oral consent however was apparently given. While the court is not prepared to say that the express words and requirement of the statute may always be regarded as waived by oral consent, yet such consent having been given, the whole action leaves the impression of having been an afterthought on the part of the plaintiff."

A decision which is contrary in spirit to the attitude generally adopted by the courts is Garden v. Parfumerie Rigaud, Inc., 151 Misc. 692, 271 N.Y.S. 187 (1933). The plaintiff had given express written consent to the use of her name in designating the defendant's product as "Parfum Mary Garden." Mr. Justice Schmuck summarized the facts as follows:

> "Entranced, perchance, by the seductiveness of the aroma of the perfume, she indulged herself in poetic flight by writing Dr. Mason: 'How could I object to anything so charming? And thanks a million times for the bottles already received'."

Twenty years later she changed her mind and sought to restrain the use of her name on the defendant's brand of perfume. Judgment was granted for the plaintiff. The court held:

> "No perfume or other toilet accessory may be produced as Mary Garden perfume or perfumed with parfum Mary Garden."

The court stated that the gratuitous license given by the plaintiff was revocable at any time, even though the defendant had spent considerable money over a period of many years in popularizing the product. If the defendant suffered serious impairment of his business as a result of the revocation, that is a risk which he assumed in accepting a consent unlimited as to time.

It is difficult to reconcile this decision with Wendell v. Conduit Machine Co. In that case, presumably, the defendant would not be injured too seriously by discontinuing the use of the plaintiff's picture in his catalogue. In the Mary Garden case, however, heavy financial loss might result if the defendant were compelled to change the name of his product. The plaintiff should not be permitted to lure the defendant into a trap by permitting him to make substantial investments of time and money and then suddenly withdraw his oral consent. The equitable doctrine of estoppel should be applied to prevent the injustice.

The statutory provision that consent must be in writing, although well motivated, has created unnecessary difficulties. All too frequently, the legislatures' effort to protect gullible plaintiffs has caused injustice to gullible defendants, while in some cases the courts, by tortured reasoning, have twisted other rules of law out of their natural meaning in order to reach a just result.

The test should be solely one of proof. The purpose of the statutory requirement of written consent is to guard against too-hasty acquiescence. Yet some kinds of oral consent, bolstered by conduct, are as convincing as any writing. If the defendant establishes to the satisfaction of the trier of fact that the plaintiff has given his consent, it should be immaterial what form that consent takes.

V. Conclusion

The right of privacy, in the brief span of its existence, has mirrored a contemporary struggle between the rights of the individual and the rights of society.

Historically, the doctrine grew up in response to a need created by the complexities of modern life. Every new offensive weapon is met by a corresponding improvement in defensive armament; so the right of privacy is the protective bulwark built up against the threatened annihilation of man's personal life by unprecedented advances in communication and transportation. The privacy doctrine is the law's answer to the abuses made possible by unrestrained and irresponsible operation of newspapers, with their far-flung agencies for gathering information, high-speed printing presses, and huge circulations; motion pictures, which bring vivid impressions of the vast panorama of life to many whose mental world would otherwise be bounded by the confines of their own narrow existence; nation-wide networks of radio stations, sending the Word instantaneously into millions of homes; and the supporting forces of telephone, telegraph, teletype, cable, facsimile printing, microfilm, television and other mechanical devices by which it may soon be possible to know everything about everybody everywhere.

The privacy doctrine has been handicapped in its development by the fact that it came into being after the common law had been fairly well crystalized. Many judges who were trained merely to apply the law as they found it ignored the tradition underlying our Anglo-Saxon system of jurisprudence—and failed to apply the principles behind existing rules to new situations as they arose. Consequently the doctrine was hampered by the inability of some courts to accept the idea that it is not an interloper but a full-fledged, socially acceptable member of the legal family.

Once the right of privacy is recognized in its true light its future development will be simple. It gives expression to an ideal which conceives of the individual as a unit not to be obliterated by society. Everyone has a right to live his own life in quiet and solitude. Modesty and reticence need not be sacrificed entirely to public clamor. No one owes an obligation to permit others to profit by his mistakes or his success. One's home is his castle, and one's private life is a precious possession which cannot be wrested from him.

Carried to its ultimate extreme, this reasoning would lead to the destruction of social obligation. It is prevented from doing so by an opposing ideal which is as firmly established in the law—the realization that man is a social animal and in order to exist peaceably he must give up a portion of himself in return for the mutual advantages which flow from communal existence. To guarantee liberty we are called upon to surrender certain freedom of action. Consideration for others requires reciprocal concessions. There are times when the public interest demand disclosure of one's activities and achievements. So society, as an entity, also has rights—which are frequently paramount to the rights of the individual.

The right of privacy is the child of these two opposite ideals. Like every new rule of law, it sprang from the spark struck off by clashing principles. With gradual adjustment of the weight given to these forces, a balance of values will be achieved and the right of privacy will reach its full stature as a mature expression of one phase of man's relationship to his fellow-men.

TELEVISION PROGRESS

By
E. E. ENGSTROM*
RCA Research Engineer

WHILE considerable progress was made in the television field during 1938 in all phases of television research and development, it is hoped that even greater strides will be made during the current year. Work will be continued along the same comprehensive lines in 1939 as in the past year. It is desirable to not only improve the efficiency of the present television system but also increase the knowledge of the propagation characteristics of ultra-short waves.

Advanced work in television research and development has been, and will continue to be, directed toward a more complete understanding of the higher radio frequencies. The procedure is to study the propagation of ultra-short waves so that, as more knowledge of their characteristics becomes available, their usefulness may be determined. At the same time, research in the field of electronics is conducted for the purpose of finding principles which can be applied in devices that will put to work the newly discovered frequencies.

One of the more important objectives in 1939 will be the further development of a system of radio relay utilizing centimeter waves, which might eventually be used in the establishment of networks of television stations. The RCA has made progress in this field of development, and believes that further advances will be made this year.

In the following review of television activities during 1938 will be found the complete workings of engineers and concerns who may this year see the many years' work culminated in success.

Television in 1938

The past year was marked by refinement of all parts of the system in a steady advance toward commercial television. Late in the year it was announced that a limited program service would be inaugurated in New York City with the opening of the 1939 World's Fair in that city, and that receivers would be offered for sale to the public at that time. Apparatus is available for sale to broadcasters for studio and transmitter service. Splendid progress was made through industry cooperation in establishing operating standards for a television system. Emphasis was placed on comprehensive field tests.

Studio Pickup Equipment

Steady progress has been made in the electrical and mechanical design of pickup equipment for studio use. The frequency bandwidth passed by the entire system has been widened and the circuit operation made more stable. The camera pre-amplifier and Iconoscope coupling circuits have been improved so that the signal to noise ratio has been increased. Operating technique has constantly improved so that more consistent performance is obtained. Much attention was given to the problems of program production.

Mobile Pickup Equipment

Mobile pickup equipment mounted in trucks has been put in experimental operation and has given satisfactory performance for preliminary tests. The equipment includes an ultra high frequency transmitter for relaying the picture signal to the television transmitter for broadcasting. Location pickups have been successfully accomplished over moderate distances and in one instance up to 27 miles.

Transmitters

Considerable improvement has been made in television transmitters. The modulating frequency characteristic has been widened. Circuits for inserting the direct current component in the transmitted signal have developed which, in addition to that function improve the overall stability of the transmitter. Experimental advances have been made in higher powers at the higher frequency television channels. A transmitter of nominal power output has been developed suitable for broadcast service.

* Reprinted from the 1939 RADIO ANNUAL.

In order to fully utilize a television frequency channel, it is desirable to attenuate most of one picture side band at the transmitter. A method for doing this was evolved and tested in laboratory and field with satisfactory results. This was suitable for carrier frequency operation at high power and included constant resistance circuits and phase correcting networks. Experimental work was also done on obtaining the same characteristic at a low level in combination with low level modulation.

Improvements were made in the mechanical designs and electrical characteristics of transmitting antennas. Antennas suitable for installation on the small space available on top of tall buildings have been designed. The directivity pattern has been improved for horizontally polarized antennas so that they have a circular pattern in the horizontal plane and directivity toward the horizon in the vertical plane, resulting in a substantial power gain. The selectivity of these structures has been improved so that they have uniform impedance over more than one 6 megacycle television channel.

Signal Propagation

Study was given to propagation characteristics of ultra short waves in the region of 40 megacycles to several hundred megacycles. Comparison of polarization of the radiated wave have been made indicating that a better signal to ignition interference ratio and less multipath interference is obtained with horizontal than vertical polarization.

Receivers

Advances were made in television receiver design resulting in improved performance and simplification of operation. Circuits permitting pre-set station selection have been developed, and the number of operating controls has been reduced. The frequency band width passed by the receivers has been increased to correspond with the increased effective frequency band made available by suppressing one side band at the transmitter. This results in more picture detail. Amplifier tubes of higher transconductance have been made available so that more gain and improved signal to noise ratios can be had, even with the increased band width. Screen material for Kinescopes has been developed so that pictures are bright and black and white.

Large Screen Pictures

Progress has been made in circuits and cathode ray tubes for producing large pictures by projection. Experimental apparatus of this type has been demonstrated to large groups with success.

Conclusion

Thus television entered in 1939, with hopes high. The entire world is anxiously awaiting the new phenomenon that is television. Will they be satisfied during 1939? We can only guess, but the fact remains that the work in research and development of television will continue until the correct answer is found.

TELEVISION TECHNIQUE

By

C. W. FARRIER*

National Broadcasting Co.

AS TELEVISION inherited the microphone from radio, the camera from motion pictures and the actor from the stage, so television production requires a knowledge of production in radio, motion pictures and the theater. Yet, before it can claim general acceptance, it must be recognized as a unique and individual medium of entertainment. To do this, it must have a production technique of it's own.

Although, in years to come, television may be to the radio what talking pictures are to the silents, for the present television will continue to lean heavily upon radio, not only for immediate financial support, but also for guidance in presenting entertainment without direct cost to its audience.

* Reprinted from the 1939 RADIO ANNUAL.

Tele Director

The extent to which television production is being developed from the three older mediums is personified in the television director. Encompassing the knowledge of the stage, movie and radio director, he must not only interpret the play to the audience through stage management; he must also be the central control and intelligence over all studio activities that contribute to a finished production on what is at present a 7½ by 10 inch screen.

When a script is being considered for television production, it is the director who, with the aid of the engineer in charge of studio operations, sketches a plan for the mechanics of production activity. The director confers with the scene designer; the director instructs the sight and sound men in preparing titles, miniature models and off-stage noises; the director chooses the cast, and finally it is he who correlates all parts into the finished production.

Three Phases

Following the traditional routine of the theater, the television director takes the first step of actual production by calling the cast together for discussion. Then he "walks" the play, timing each scene according to motivation and plot.

In the second phase of production, he rehearses cast and camera crew together. Until a few years ago, the bulk and immobility of the television camera prevented the use of more than one on a set. Today three cameras are almost a necessity and, when more elaborate productions are undertaken, five cameras will not be uncommon. At NBC we use Camera No. 1 for long and dolly shots, Camera No. 2 for close-ups and Camera No. 3 interchangeably.

Like the motion picture director, the television director must be skilled in manipulating the camera. Pointless emphasis, a predominance of long shots over short ones, static images and poor composition are the result of slovenly camera direction. With skillful direction the transition from camera to camera, from long shot to close-up, is smooth, and the dramatic value of the scene is conveyed to the audience without the aid of sound.

In the third phase of production, the television director emulates the radio director by taking his place with the engineers in the control room.

There he can see his cast and crew at work, watch the players' images reflected on the monitoring screen and, by telephoning an assistant in the studio, correlate the production into its final form. This, of course, includes editing, which must be done during shooting; it can not be deliberated later in a cutting room.

Staging

The theory of television production by which every director is guided may be divided into three principles: conservation of time and space, continuity of motion and mobility of drama.

In the television play, as in the screen play, there are no intermissions during which to shift scenery; scene-shifting and editing must be accomplished by switching from one camera to another. Therefore the television director, to observe the first principle, must plan his sets so that all but the simplest can be built in advance and televised within the confines of a small studio.

In order to attain continuity of motion, the director of a television play inserts motion picture sequences, still pictures, scale models and titles in alternation with the live action in the studio. Thus, in its continuity, television most closely resembles sound broadcasting. The continuity of the stage drama can be broken, of course, by one or more intermissions; the continuity of motion pictures is only apparent, since shooting may have required weeks or months. But in television, drama once begun must progress steadily to climax and conclusion.

The television director also must realize that the third principle—mobility of drama—implies far more than the mobility to which we are accustomed in the theater or on the screen. Mobility is achieved on the stage by action. In motion pictures mobility may also be achieved through a diversification of camera shots. Television requires an amplification of both.

Television Films

Recently certain Hollywood companies have conferred with NBC in the preparation of a series of motion pictures for television broadcasting. The question naturally arises: How does motion picture technique as we know it differ from television technique?

Although television technique in its use of the camera is basically that developed by the motion picture, television must employ the dynamic principle of mobility more consistently and more intensively than it is now employed in screen plays.

In our experiments at Radio City with practically every type of commercial motion picture—features, shorts, newsreels; educational, industrial, documentary films—we found that none was entirely satisfactory for television production.

Designed as they were for large audiences, they relied for their appeal on the large audience's more prolonged reaction to emotion. But the small home audience emotional peaks are comparatively low. Hence, the tempo of films ideally suited for exhibition in a theater is far too slow for television.

Tele Mobility

Realizing the necessity for television mobility, NBC maintains that, for the sake of good television production, a director seldom can afford to allow one scene to last longer than thirty seconds without cutting to another angle. Often there are as many as five camera changes within a minute. As an appeal to the eye is three to ten times more effective than an appeal to the ear, so the eye tires that much more quickly than the ear. To illustrate: assume that Harpo Marx is playing for a television broadcast. The picture is varied by long and medium shots, close-ups of his facial expressions, a close-up of his fingers flying over the harp strings. These shots could be broadcast in little more than a minute; repetition would soon become monotonous. From this we can conclude that even a variety show, no matter how exhilaratingly paced for radio, would prove too slow for television.

One of the primary results of our experience in television programming has been to reduce the fifteen-minute unit of radio to ten minutes. Ten minutes has been found adequate to express one idea in television, and to this extent—but only to this extent—have we borrowed timing from the motion picture. This does not mean that all television programs will be restricted to ten minutes; their length will depend on the complexity of the ideas to be dramatized.

Because of its close relationship, motion picture technique logically can be more easily adapted to television production than can radio technique. However, I do not believe that programs recorded on film, even if produced for broadcasting, will ever replace the live-talent drama. Rather the television show on film may be compared to the radio show on wax. The technique is there, but the spontaneity and timeliness are lacking. Then, too, until the enormous cost of film production is reduced to meet television budgets, there is little possibility that films will be used in television programs except for atmosphere or cover scenes in connection with the live show.

Non-Competitive

In a word, then, television will compete artistically neither with the motion picture nor with the legitimate stage. Because of physical limitations, neither will it, for a decade to come, be able to command the nation-wide audience of sound broadcasting. It has borrowed heavily of production methods from the entertainment world, it is true, but before it can meet with public acceptance and approval its own standard of entertainment first must be developed. That is what we in television are trying to do, and at the present time we can not say how close we are to our goal. But until we have reached it, we must be the first to admit our indebtedness to the stage, the screen and the radio.

TELEVISION HISTORY

Compiled by the National Broadcasting Company

TELEVISION, like radio, began in the nineteenth century. Not only were its scientific foundations laid, but numerous attempts actually were made to transmit pictures by electrical means.

Television demanded, first of all, some means of translating light values into corresponding electrical values. Selenium was isolated by Berzelius, a Swedish chemist, in 1817, but the photo-electric property of this element was not discovered until fifty-six years later, and then quite by accident. A telegraph operator at the Valentia Cable Station in southwestern Ireland observed that some selenium resistances he was using became better conductors of electricity when exposed to bright sunlight. His observations were given scientific confirmation a short time later.

To scientists this discovery revealed the possibility of converting light waves into electrical impulses. A picture—that is, a pattern of lights and shadows—might be converted into an electrical pattern. The electrical impulses might thereupon be transmitted over considerable distances and then reconverted to light values which would be assembled into a reproduction of the original image. Ayrton and Perry made one of the earliest proposals (1880) for transmitting pictures by electricity. G. R. Carey advanced another scheme the same year. Shelford Bidwell actually demonstrated the sending of outlines by wire in 1881 before the Physical Society in England.

The possibility of translating light values into their electrical counterparts, however, did not constitute a complete foundation for television. Maurice Leblanc, a Frenchman, in 1880 laid down the art's fundamental necessities. To send a moving picture, he held, it would be necessary to break it into elements and transmit these one at a time in a definite order. These would be joined together at the receiver in the same order.

Four years later, in 1884, Paul Nipkow patented the famous scanning disc which bears his name. The German physicist's invention was simply a circular sheet of metal near the edge of which was a series of small holes in the form of a spiral. The arrangement was such that if the disc revolved, the outermost hole would afford a view of a strip across the top of the subject. The second hole would give a view of the strip immediately under the first, and so on until the entire subject had been scanned in a series of lines.

Leblanc advanced the idea of using two mirrors for scanning, one to vibrate at a comparatively low speed for vertical scanning, the other to vibrate at a high-frequency for the horizontal scanning of each line. Weiller proposed the use of a mirror drum in still another method of scanning. These were the fundamentals of a few of the many schemes for "seeing by telegraphy" publicized in the 1880's. In each case the light from the televised subject was to be registered by a selenium cell.

About the turn of the century Karl Braun introduced the oscilloscope, a vacuum tube showing visually the variations of an alternating current. It was demonstrated that a magnetic field from a coil placed around the tube improved the sharpness of the fluorescent spot. Obviously, the cathode ray which produced the spot of light at the end of the tube could also be deflected by the same means, since the ray itself was an electric current. This led to the next important advance in television.

In 1907 Boris Rosing, a Russian, patented a system in which the Braun tube was to be the instrument for reconstructing the image at the receiver. The tube's cathode-ray beam, composed of electrons, was to be modulated by the impulses sent from the transmitter. The modulated beam was to be made to scan the fluorescent surface placed at the end of the tube and thereby create a reproduction of the original image. Speaking before the Roentgen Society in 1911, A. A. Campbell Swinton outlined a method, publicized in a very rough form three years earlier, for television without the aid of a single moving mechanical part. Cathode ray tubes of suitable design were to be used at both transmitter and receiver.

Today all the most important television systems employ cathode ray tubes, in one form or another, at both receiver and transmitter and every moving mechanical part has been eliminated. In these respects, Campbell Swinton's scheme may be said to have been essentially the same as today's all-electronic television systems. With him, however, the method was purely theoretical. At the time neither he nor any of his contemporaries could realize their ambitions. The Braun tube was very imperfect. Besides, no means were available for strengthening the very weak impulses generated in the instrument used for registering and scanning the televised subject. A few more years and the World War put a temporary halt to experiment in television.

When scientists again took up the task of perfecting televison in the early 1920's, radio contributed comparatively efficient amplifiers based on the three-electrode vacuum tube invented by Lee de Forest. Improvements had been made in the photo-electric cell and the scientific world was in the process of discovering photo-electric materials far more sensitive than selenium. This period—in which C. F. Jenkins, an American; John Logie Baird, an Englishman, and Denes von Mihaly, a Hungarian, played leading parts—was characterized by attempts to solve the problems of television by mechanical scanning. Jenkins gave a demonstration of his method in Washington in 1925. Baird showed his apparatus publicly in London the same year. On January 27, 1926, Baird transmitted better images in the presence of forty members of the Royal Institution in London. His television images were in 30 lines at the rate of 12½ complete pictures a second. There was, therefore, a decided flicker in the crude image. A year later the engineers of the Bell Telephone Laboratories gave a demonstration in which both sound and sight were transmitted synchronously by wire from Washington to New York. They also transmitted images by radio over a much shorter distance. Early in 1928 Baird successfully transmitted a low-definition picture across the Atlantic.

The time was one of intense activity in television experiment and confident predictions were made that the problems of the new art would soon be solved so that all might shortly see the events they were hearing about over radio. Picture definition gradually increased from 30 lines to 240 lines. Although steady advances were made in image clarity, observers still felt that none contained sufficient detail. Greater detail, of course, meant higher speeds in scanning. Reduction of the annoying flicker meant increasing the number of complete pictures per second.

In the laboratories, however, work was progressing on a new scanning method. In 1933 Dr. Vladimir K. Zworykin, of the Radio Corporation of America, announced his Iconoscope, a vacuum tube for translating a light image into electrical charges which were to be scanned by a suitably deflected cathode ray beam. About the same time Philo T. Farnsworth brought forward another scanning tube which he called the "image dissector." One or the other of these tubes, both American in origin, is the basis of every all-electronic television system in use at the present time.

At the time of writing, television has reached a relatively high state of technical development and improvements are being made at a very rapid rate. Tentative standards proposed for American television stipulate an image of 441 lines at the rate of 30 complete pictures a second. Images are gaining in brilliance and, although they are still comparatively small as viewed in the home model receiver, experimenters in the field have hopes of increasing their dimensions. Dr. Zworykin and his associate, Dr. R. R. Law, last year demonstrated a tube which projected a television image approximately eight feet by ten in size.

Television broadcasting is still, in 1938, in its infancy. In the United States eighteen stations are licensed to broadcast on an experimental basis. The most important of these stations is operated in New York by the National Broadcasting Company, which maintains a small but complete staff to work on all phases of the new art. In Great Britain television has been established as a daily service to several thousand viewers in the London area by the British Broadcasting Corporation. Germany has announced a government service to begin before the end of 1938. The P. T. T. in France has newly completed a powerful transmitter in the Eiffel Tower.

TELEVISION

FROM THE STANDPOINT OF THE MOTION PICTURE PRODUCING INDUSTRY

A report of the Research Committee of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences

THE Research Council's first report on the status of television was released on May 15, 1936. The second report followed on June 15, 1937. With the present review we bring the subject up to date, at a time when the period of preliminary experimentation in the United States appears to be on the verge of transition to commercial application.

DEVELOPMENTS ABROAD

England

England took the lead in putting television on a public service basis with the inauguration of regular transmission from Alexandra Palace in London on November 2, 1936. Two years have now passed and the results may be assessed. Notable progress has been made on the technical side and in the quantity and quality of entertainment, but these advances have not been reflected commercially. The situation was summed up not long ago in a British headline, "England Leads the World in Television—But Public Won't Buy." It should be added, however, that subsequently the annual radio show at Radiolympia (August 24-September 3, 1938), at which television was the main attraction, appears to have boosted television receiver sales considerably, and according to a current report one visual set (some of which include sound) is now being sold in the London area for every two sound-only receivers. If this is true, and if such a trend continues, then British television is justified in hoping for better days ahead.

Considerable mystery surrounds the question of how many television receivers are actually in use. Estimates in British publications vary all the way from 2,000 to 9,000, depending apparently more on what the writer is trying to prove than on any reliable count. The most probable total appears to lie between 3,000 and 4,000, which, in a population of 10 million within the service area of Alexandra Palace, is a melancholy showing. And yet no one conversant with the situation as a whole can or does regard it as an evidence of failure. The reason is, that while sales have lagged, public interest has been sustained, and where there is interest there is a potential market. That interest is unmistakable, and it has impressed even critical visitors from abroad. Among other manifestations it has expressed itself in a persistent demand for the extension of television service to the Midlands and the North, even while London has failed to justify the expense of what is already offered.

The experience of the British Broadcasting Corporation in this respect gives point to the caution with which American interests have ventured into the terra incognita of television. In the United States the cost of nationwide urban coverage is staggering; even in England it is serious. Once the service has been undertaken it is almost impossible to discontinue it, and if it is to be continued, sooner or later it must be expanded. Even if eventually it gets over the top and produces profits and employment, it may for a time dislocate existing industries. Thus in England, together with the agitation for television transmission in the provinces, there are outcries in the trade that television ballyhoo is ruining the sale of sound receivers without creating a compensating market for television receivers. A parallel complaint points to the unfairness of taxing eight million licensees of sound receivers for the maintenance of service to a few thousand owners of television apparatus.

Nevertheless, with all these difficulties, the outlook for British television has its bright spots. The technical progress we shall discuss later. Studio programs have improved, although it is generally agreed that they are still far below the average entertainment level of motion pictures and aural broadcasting. The real achievements — and these account in large part for the unflagging interest in the new art—are visual broadcasts of sporting and ceremonial events. The importance of the Coronation procession televising was referred to in our 1937 report. It has been followed by other events of scarcely less interest to the British public. On June 1 of this year the Derby was televised, and prize fights, boat races, soccer games, tennis matches, etc., as well as the more solemn spectacles featuring the royal family, have been received via radio with general approbation. Whatever the technical limitations may have been, the unique sense of psychological immediacy, the vantage points at which the television cameras may be set up for thousands of eyes instead of the few that can be physically accommodated in such favored locations, and the skillful showmanship with which the events have been scanned, have captured the popular imagination and drowned out the voices of pessimism.

Progress in both transmission and reception, while without revolutionary innovations, has been steady and many-sided. In the field of theater television, during February of this year Baird demonstrated a mechanical two-color system affording an image 12 by 9′, but with only 8.33 pictures per second and 120-line definition. High-definition television in monochrome was shown by Baird in a Gaumont-British West End theater, notably on June 1 on the occasion of the Derby broadcast. The picture was relayed by short wave from Epsom Downs to Alexandra Palace, thence broadcast and picked up at the theatre on a screen 8′ by 6′. The intensity of illumination was low (about 0.75 foot-candle), necessitating the turning off of house lights; otherwise the results were good. A competing company, Scophony, televised the Derby at another theater. This organization employs an opticomechanical system of considerable scientific as well as practical interest, utilizing a light-control cell which works on the principle of diffraction through compressional waves generated in a liquid. The method affords higher screen brightness, but appears to be subject to synchronizing difficulties at the present stage of development.

The consensus of opinion among large audiences at these and other demonstrations was that theater television, while nowhere near the quality standard of 35 mm film projection, had reached a stage where it could add the entertainment value of topical broadcasts to film programs, especially in short-subject houses. British Gaumont Equipments announced last June 3 that television apparatus would shortly be available for theaters at a cost of about £1,000 ($4,800 at the present rate of exchange), but no installations have been reported. Apparently the principal obstacle is the refusal of the BBC to permit reproduction of its broadcasts for paying audiences because of copyright complications, while at the same time the Television Act of 1937 makes transmission by radio a government monopoly, and unless amended will not permit a private corporation to broadcast its own pictures to a chain of theaters.

In the field of home receivers there has been development in opposite directions, viz., larger pictures at higher cost and less expensive receivers at the sacrifice of picture size. The latter are the equivalent of midget sound radios, with two important differences. The midget sound radio, while it has acoustic defects, can be heard all over a room, like a large set. A table television receiver, with a screen from 5″ by 4″ to 7½″ by 6″, is suitable only for close viewing by a few persons. A midget sound radio is really cheap. A television midget is still priced at £30 to £40 ($144.00 to $192.00 at the present rate of exchange).

Large pictures are available—but at a price. A few examples: a Baird model incorporating a cathode-ray projector, picture size 24″ by 18″, at £157½ ($756.00 at the present rate of exchange); an Ecko-Scophony mechanical receiver with a picture 24″ square at £231 ($1108.80 at the present rate of exchange); a Philips Radio projection type receiver, picture size 18″ by 14½″, at £126 ($604.80 at the present rate of exchange). It is true that pictures of this size may be viewed by thirty or more people, but they are also most convenient for smaller gatherings. Under the circumstances, however, the intermediate size of picture afforded by a 12″ cathode-ray tube —10″ by 7½″—is still the rule; these instruments cost in the neighborhood of $300. For those who build their own receivers a cathode-ray tube giving a 12″ x 10″ picture is available at about $75. Some sixteen British manufacturers are offering television receivers, but it is evident that even at the peep-show level their product will not assuage the poor man's lot. Nor even those in middle circumstances, with taxes at the rate of five shillings to the pound.

On the transmitting end, an eight-studio layout is projected for Alexandra Palace, thus obviating the almost insuperable difficulty of turning out shows from a single studio which must be used for both rehearsal and production. (A second studio is being currently added.) Four Marconi-E.M.I. cameras with greatly increased sensitivity are now used in the studio. The program hours are two a day, three hours on Saturday, and one and one-half on Sunday. The transmission standard remains 405 lines, 50 frames per second, and the Postmaster General announced on January 1 that there will be no change at least until the end of 1940, thus dispelling apprehensions of receiver obsolescence for three years from the date of the announcement.

For outside pick-up a second mobile radio unit has been provided. In addition, an equalized cable network is being installed in those sections of London, such as the theatrical district, where televisible events occur most frequently. This will provide an alternative to the radio link and require only a scanning truck at the point of pick-up. A coaxial cable laid between London and Birmingham, and shortly to be extended to Manchester, although designed primarily for telephone purposes, may eventually be used for chain television.

It has been found that under favorable conditions the Alexandra Palace pictures may be viewed at distances of the order of ten times the calculated service range of the station. The normal or optical range is only 25 miles, but authenticated reception has been reported from Ormesby, near Middlesbrough in York, 220 miles from London and almost spanning England from south to north. The pictures have been viewed repeatedly at distances of the order of 100 miles. Such feats require special receiving aerials on hills, and the reliability and quality of reception is necessarily doubtful. However, they indicate the possibility that as additional data accumulates on the propagation of the quasi-optical waves used in television, it may be found that the stations have a somewhat greater service range than has been expected. Thus Alexandra Palace is now regarded as having a useful range nearer 50 miles than 25. Should this prove generally true it would be a matter of no small importance, since doubling the radius quadruples the area covered, and by increasing the population within range of television transmitters would materially reduce economic difficulties of distribution.

Germany

At this writing experimental transmissions have begun from a transmitter on the Amerika-Haus in Berlin. The power is between 15 and 20 kw, or approximately the same as London, which is rated at 17 kw. The definition is the same as in the United States, 441 lines, and the frame frequency 50 per second. Two other transmitters are planned, one on the Brocken in central Germany, and one in the Taunus mountains in the west, all to be connected with coaxial cables. Studios are designed for six-camera operation.

A picture 12′ by 10′ has been shown in a theater by Fernseh A.G., which has a cross-licensing agreement with Farnsworth in the United States. There are also reports of a 700-line image. Cathode-ray tubes up to 26″ diameter have been built. The cost of receivers is said to range between $175 and $1,000, with $320 as an average.

The Germans have had a television-telephone service in operation between Berlin, Leipzig, and Nuremberg for some time, and this summer the coaxial cable was extended to Munich. Mechanical scanning at 180 lines, 25 frames per second is used, and the reproduction is reported to be considerably distorted and not free from flicker. The principal attraction is novelty. The cost of a three-minute conversation is only RM 4.80 ($1.92), plus a small charge for notifying the person called; both parties must of course be present at the televising points in their respective cities.

France

The Eiffel Tower transmitter is rated at 25 kw, which is more powerful than Berlin or London. Its signals have been viewed at Brighton, 180 miles distant. The station transmits daily for 2½ hours. There are reports of a 12′ by 9′ theater demonstration, with quality approaching 16 mm projection. We have not come across any information on home receivers or the extent of distribution of programs.

DEVELOPMENTS IN THE UNITED STATES

The RCA-NBC experimental transmissions from the Empire State Tower in New York City were initiated in July, 1936, and, with interruptions to permit changes in the equipment, have continued since that date. The system operates with 441 lines and 60 frames per second; the general arrangements, studio-transmitter linkage, etc. remain as described in our 1937 report. A great deal of operating and program data has been gathered and it has just been announced that on the basis of this experience television in the home is regarded as "technically feasible." Accordingly, RCA promises a limited program service and the marketing of receivers before the opening of the New York World's Fair on April 30, 1939. Television transmitters will also be available, and those RCA licensees who desire to manufacture visual receivers will receive the usual technical cooperation.

The NBC television studio in Radio City is a room 50′ by 30′ by 18′, no larger than a single medium-sized Hollywood set. A surprising variety of scenery is accommodated in this small space. Since television, at the present stage, is dramatically a close-up art, the sets are small and can be disposed about the room in such a way that while the cameras are shooting one set, another is being moved into place, with a minimum of disturbance, for the next shot. As an example of this economy, in one play a certain door was used, with a nameplate, as the exterior entrance of a residence; subsequently the nameplate was removed and the same door became part of an interior scene—an office in Scotland Yard; finally the whole wall was taken out and the same area became a cellar. Most of the sets consist merely of a back wall with appropriate props in front of it.

The receivers are equipped with screens 10″ by 7½″. Although too small for convenient viewing, the pictures are bright and sharp, and carry sufficient detail to depict emotions, when rather broadly played, in close-up or semi-close-up. Medium and long shots merely show the figures and are used mainly for entrances, exits, establishing settings, etc. (However, when the action is sufficiently dynamic—fights, acrobatics, etc., the long shots do have entertainment value.) In the main, the story must be carried with two-shots; a three-shot is on the borderline of effectiveness. Film takes of exteriors are sometimes intercut to good advantage.

The principal weaknesses of the run of NBC studio productions have been mediocre dialogue, stereotyped situations, and similar remediable faults of material. These have been excused on the ground that as the performances have not been public, the content has been regarded as purely incidental, the essential effort being to determine the visual possibilities of the medium and to solve technical problems. When the material has been up to the mark the results have been definitely entertaining, even with the small screen. One of our members who witnessed some of the demonstrations found it difficult to concentrate on the engineering features—his attention was constantly diverted to the action. This is as good a test of entertainment quality as any.

In June of this year a number of New York department stores demonstrated television reception, using the Empire State transmissions. The pictures were mostly in the 5″ by 4″ range and the receivers were priced at $195 to $225. Public interest was aroused, but only a few sales were reported. The flurry ended when the transmitter shut down for adjustments. The real test of public response will come next year, when regular service is initiated and receivers become available in a number of types and sizes.

Engineering developments in the United States have been mainly in the directions outlined in our 1937 report, and parallel those reported abroad. Progress is slow and laborious, but steady. In general, the advances listed above for the foreign field are either the results of American invention, or they can be duplicated here whenever it becomes expedient.

Demonstrations other than those described above have been offered, but as we have not witnessed any of them we shall not attempt to deal with their results. During 1939 a moderate extension of local television coverage is in prospect in various parts of the country. The Columbia Broadcasting System's Chrysler Tower transmitter (in New York City) is expected to be installed early in the year and to begin regular operation in the Spring. A considerable number of applications for experimental television licenses are on file with the Federal Communications Commission, and one of them, which indirectly involves a motion picture company, has just been granted to the Allen B. DuMont Laboratories of Passaic, New Jersey, for a station in that neighborhood. Paramount has purchased an interest in DuMont and advanced an amount, reported to be $50,000, toward the expenses of research for one year.

In Los Angeles, which, as we pointed out in our 1937 report, may reasonably be expected to carry over into the field of television its importance as a broadcasting and motion picture production center, a station of the Don Lee Broadcasting System has been televising for some years. The present standard is 300 lines at 24 frames per second, visual frequency, and the schedule calls for about eight hours a week, both film and live subjects being scanned. The visual broadcasts of the 1 kw transmitter are received by experimenters not only in Los Angeles, but in sourrounding towns as much as 30 miles away.

The Farnsworth Television System was demonstrated in Hollywood last summer. The picture was in black and white and about 9″ by 12″ in size, the image composed of 441 lines and 60 frames per second. The picture was bright and had considerable entertainment value on close-ups. The longer shots were not as effective.

CONCLUSIONS

We pointed out at the beginning of this report that the long experimental phase of television development is about to culminate. This does not mean, of course, that experimentation is at an end. On the contrary, the experiment now takes on a larger scope, with the emphasis shifting from technical research (although technical development will simultaneously be intensified) to economic and social aspects. The public, from the role of spectators, will become participants in the project, and on the extent and manner of that participation the effects on the motion picture industry will depend.

That such effects will be evident in the next two years is altogether to be expected. That the repercussions will result in revolutionary changes in motion picture production and exhibition within that period is unlikely. As we have pointed out before, the complexity of the television field and the magnitude of its artistic and financial problems are an automatic brake in this respect, and it might be added that this is true of competitive and cooperative potentialities alike. As regards the latter, when television comes into its own it may well open up a vast market for films especially designed for television distribution. Should competitve factors predominate, it is quite obvious that the strongest interests in the television field cannot afford to ignore their own very substantial stake in the business of aural broadcasting. Although radio is nowhere near the end of its growth, financially it has become a mature industry, mindful of its investment in the present while looking into the future, and this tendency constitutes a protection, if one is needed, for the other entertainment industries as well.

And yet, modern technology has its own dynamic imperatives. It will not and should not stand still. New industries are needed, and if their coming is troublesome, it will be far more troublesome if they do not come. Television is one of them and it is a year nearer. We therefore repeat what we said in our last report; that the situation is one which calls for continual observation and analysis by the motion picture industry, and to an increasing degree as events take their course. Accordingly the Committee is of the opinion that the Academy Research Council should immediately proceed to a more thorough consideration than has been undertaken in the past of the prospective relationships between television and motion picture production and exhibition.

In the opinion of the Committee this investigation should cover the artistic, technical, legal, and economic phases of the subject. Therefore, in order that future activities may encompass all phases of the subject, the Committee recommends that it be enlarged to include representation from those other branches of the industry in a position to contribute a wider background to its considerations.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

How to get more people into your theatre

- If a book entitled "How To Get More People Into Your Theatre" were written it would have to embody the latest important developments not only in the picture industry, but in all of show business.

- You know better than we that important developments in all branches of the show business can be and often are important to you as an exhibitor.

- And The Billboard is the only trade paper which covers all the show business. It is virtually a book which tells you how to get more people into your theatre. It is a book with an interesting, factful and helpful supplement published each and every week in the year. It is the trade paper read by the wise exhibitor.

Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America

Activities in 1938

Principal office: 28 West 44th St., New York City. Other offices at 5504 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood, Calif.; 709 Albee Building, Washington, D. C.; 21 Rue de Berri, Paris, France.

THE Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., was organized in March, 1922, under the presidency of Will H. Hays.

From the first, Mr. Hays emphasized that the support of the public is essential to the production of better motion pictures. Improvement of films has been a continuing process in which both the producers and the public have shared.

In all that the Association has done in its sixteen years of existence, self-regulation has been the constant purpose. Always the aim has been to maintain the integrity of the screen. This is in line with the American tradition of self-discipline, as exemplified in freedom of the press.

After eight years of progressive improvement in film standards, the self-regulative principle was bulwarked by the Production Code, adopted in March, 1930, and the Advertising Code, adopted in June of the same year, both of which continue in force.

Through his Open Door policy, Mr. Hays has interested thousands of community leaders in the industry's efforts at self-improvement. He has given assistance to public groups trying to encourage audience demand for the best entertainment.

Better films councils and committees are operating independently in thousands of communities all over the country. These groups act as leaders in their localities in efforts in behalf of better pictures.

The activities of the Association cover a wide area and include the self-regulation of advertising, community service, conservation, foreign markets, public information, theater service and title registration.

Production Code Administration

Self-regulation of motion picture production evolved gradually from early beginnings in 1922 when the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America was founded.

Several progressive steps to establish higher standards of production culminated in the adoption on March 31, 1930, of the Production Code, which is still in force.

This Code, a voluntary agreement entered into by the member companies, acknowledges the producers' responsibility to the public and asks in return "a sympathetic understanding of their purposes and problems and a spirit of cooperation that will allow them the freedom and opportunity necessary to bring the motion picture to a still higher level of wholesome entertainment for all the people."

The Code machinery of self-regulation operates at four points:

1. The original story or play is submitted to the Production Code Administration for suggestion and criticism before the first screen adaptation is written.
2. When the script is completed, it is submitted for a check with Code requirements.
3. In the early stages of production, members of the Production Code Administration staff are often called in to discuss sequences that present problems.
4. After this careful reviewing all along the way, the finished picture is reviewed and, if it meets Code requirements, a certificate of approval is issued.

The Code machinery is available to all producers, foreign or domestic, whether or not they are members of the Association.

In the course of the year 1938, 1427 pictures were approved by the Production Code Administration as follows:

Features approved by West Coast office	515
Features approved by East Coast office	79

How well the Production Code Administration has performed its function in maintaining both Code standards and the integrity and vigor of the screen as a medium of entertainment is evidenced by the steady stream of high quality pictures that continues to flow from the studios.

Advertising Advisory Council

The effort sponsored by the member companies of the Association to promote clean advertising is guided by the provisions of the Advertising Code (adopted June 6, 1930), and administered by the Advertising Advisory Council. This cooperative effort places in conformity with the forms of good taste all press books, newspaper advertising, trailers, outdoor displays, novelties and other forms of publicity and exploitation issued by member companies.

The Council, organized in 1933, numbers among its members the company advertising directors, each of whom is directly responsible for his own advertising.

To secure uniform interpretation of the Code, all advertising material is submitted in advance to the Council at the Hays office in New York or its branch in Hollywood.

The 1938 record shows a minimum of unsuitable material submitted. Out of 103,357 stills submitted in the past year, only 387 were discarded or retouched to meet Code standards. Of 9,388 exploitation ideas, only 3 were found unsuitable. Only 12 posters out of 1,937 submitted had to be changed and there were but 3 deletions in 747 trailers. Of 9,830 advertisements, only 210 were rejected or revised. Five publicity stories were revised out of a total of 15,044 submitted.

Title Registration Bureau

For many years the Association has maintained a system for registration of motion picture titles. The purpose is to avoid the use of objectionable titles and to prevent the use of identical and harmfully similar titles, thus eliminating confusion on the part of producers and public.

A voluntary system of arbitration is provided within the industry for the settlement of disputes as to conflict or as to priority of titles and the method of registration has become an important part of the industry's system of self-regulation.

At the present time, there are more than 30 producing or distributing companies which regularly register titles with the Association. New registrations range from a dozen to as many as 40 per day, with an average of approximately 18 daily.

The Association has established a comprehensive card index of titles of released pictures. This index now contains approximately 40,000 titles and is believed to be the most comprehensive index of released pictures in existence.

Theater Service Department

The broad field of trade relations, trade practices, improved methods of theater operation and the structure of industrial organization in the exhibition and distribution of motion pictures is continuously studied by the Theater Service Department. Effort is constantly made to bring about better and broader understanding of industry problems that arise between widely separated units of operation in the motion picture business.

In various ways the exhibitor is encouraged to develop a better appreciation and understanding of the problems of distribution and production and of the economic principles involved in the operation of the business of distribution, which is noted for the speed and precision with which it functions. Every effort is made to assist trade associations of theater owners in developing in constructive ways their own usefulness and service to the local theater owners in their own state and zone, to improve the standards of theater management and operation, and to build good will for the local motion picture theater.

Information and statistics on the business development of the industry are assembled, checked and supplied to units in the industry for various uses. Surveys and studies are made of exhibitor problems for the information of those concerned with such developments.

Foreign Department

Through the medium of the Foreign Department, the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America assist members in securing fair treatment in the distribution of American films abroad. In the past fifteen years, the Association has taken a leading part in successful negotiations to solve difficulties due to restrictive legislation.

The department keeps member companies closely informed on legislative and economic developments in foreign markets.

Conservation Department

As a result of the campaign by the Conservation Department to eliminate fire hazards, there has been no major fire loss in film exchanges of the country in five years. Because of this record, motion picture exchanges are ranked first among all industries of the country from the standpoint of public safety by T. Alfred Fleming, director of conservation of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

In 1937 only two inconsequential fires were reported. One, in the exchange of a non-member company, resulted in the destruction of a single print. In the other only a lamp cord was burned.

Adoption of the 2,000-foot reel, for which the department was in a large measure responsible, has proved satisfactory. Many foreign countries are surveying their respective situations with the idea of adopting the longer reel.

Community Service Department

Through the Community Service Department, directed by Carl E. Milliken, Secretary of the Association, Mr. Hays cooperates with Better Films Councils, clubs, universities, schools, churches and other public groups.

More than one million items of printed and mimeographed informational material have been sent on request to individuals and local groups interested in the best in picture entertainment.

Picture reviews issued by public groups are circulated throughout the United States and in several foreign countries.

The material thus furnished is multiplied enormously through the activities of socially minded public groups, civic and educational leaders. In the course of the year, some 10,000 public addresses were made by local motion picture chairmen. Radio stations carried approximately 4,000 programs recommending current pictures. More than 500 newspapers with a combined circulation of twenty million carried lists of recommended pictures based on the lists issued by the central previewing committees. Chain telephone committees organized by local councils carried the news of important motion pictures throughout the community.

The result has been two-fold: stronger public support for the better pictures and higher quality of production.

Coordinates Previewing Groups

One of the important functions of the Community Service Department is to act as a coordinating agency for the various previewing groups, made up of civic leaders and organization representatives interested in motion pictures as community entertainment and as a social and moral force. These function both in Hollywood and in New York. They see and evaluate practically the entire film output and publish their reviews both in individual pamphlets for the use of their own organizations and in a joint list which is published by the Association under the title of "Selected Motion Pictures" at their request.

West Coast Preview Committee

The organization previewing in California is the West Coast Preview Committee, made up of the following representatives of national, state and local organizations:

National Society Daughters of the American Revolution. (Mildred Lewis Russel (Mrs. Richard R.), General Vice Chairman, 7114 Hillside Avenue, Hollywood, California)

National Society of New England Women. (Mrs. David H. Ray, National Councilor, 1235 First Avenue, Arcadia, California)

General Federation of Women's Clubs. (West Coast Committee. Mrs. William A. Burk, Chairman, 359 N. Bronson Ave., Los Angeles. California)

California Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc. (Mrs. Leo B. Hedges, Chairman, 6235 Mt. Angelus Ave., Los Angeles, California)

National Council of Jewish Women. (Los Angeles Section. Mrs. Florine Wolfstein, Chairman, 617 S. Lucerne Blvd., Los Angeles, California)

The Women's University Club (Los Angeles) (Chairman: Mrs. Palmer Cook, c/o The Women's University Club, 943 S. Hoover St., Los Angeles, California)

Southern California Council of Federated Church Women. (Mrs. M. F. Thomson, Chairman, 1124 19th St., Santa Monica, California)

The California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. (Mrs. Odessa Davis, Chairman, 1552 South Canfield Avenue, Los Angeles, California)

American Legion Auxiliary, Department of California. (Mrs. Thomas J. Bonetto, Chairman, 2819 Manhattan Avenue, Verdugo City, California)

East Coast Preview Committee

The East Coast Preview Committee has a membership of individuals affiliated with many national, state and local organizations, all of whom are active previewers. While not directly under the aegis of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, it functions in cooperation with that organization and Mrs. William Dick Sporborg of Port Chester, New York, former chairman of Legislation for the General Federation, is its chairman. The group holds bi-monthly Council meetings at which the members discuss the current film output, the technique of previewing and general film trends.

The Boy Scouts of America previews pictures in New York for publication in its magazine, "Boys' Life." Communications regarding this service should be addressed to the Boy Scouts of America, 2 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Mrs. LeRoy Montgomery of Connecticut, chairman of the Better Films Committee of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, heads a group made up of members from New York, New Jersey and Connecticut which regularly previews films and circulates its evaluations to the membership of the organization through its national publication and other media.

The increasing artistry of musical films has led to the creation of the Preview Board for Musical Films by Mrs. Ruth Haller Ottaway, former music chairman and now president of the National Council of Women of the United States. The reviews are sent to the 19 member organizations of the National Council of Women which represent a combined membership of 3,000,000 and are also published in "Selected Motion Pictures."

Films with a social work theme are regularly previewed by representatives of the Social Work Publicity Council, with headquarters in New York City, and the Council's evaluations of these films are circulated to more than 900 social work agencies in cities and towns throughout the United States.

Various Preview Lists

In addition to the preview lists already mentioned, the following are also circulated: the Daughters of the American Revolution edit a weekly guide; motion picture evaluations are prepared by the General Federation of Women's Clubs (West Coast Committee); the reports of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers appear monthly in the California Parent-Teacher Magazine and weekly in the Los Angeles School Journal; the Los Angeles Section, National Council of Jewish Women, edits a monthly report; the Women's University Club publishes a special monthly list; the Southern California Council of Federated Church Women edits a monthly report; the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs edits a monthly report; the American Legion Auxiliary edits a monthly report.

Probably the most widely circulated preview list is "Selected Motion Pictures," published at the request of East and West Coast Preview groups. This reaches each month approximately 30,000 civic leaders who rebroadcast the information it contains through such media as local newspapers, schools and library bulletin boards, local telephone committees, radio stations and announcements in clubs, community organizations and from church pulpits, so that these evaluations of films reach millions of people throughout the United States, all of whom have an active interest in films and are potential promoters of the higher grade of product turned out by the industry.

The Association publication is available free of charge to Better Films Councils, the motion picture chairmen of local organizations interested in special types of entertainment, and to those desiring to use the information in community motion picture work.

Motion Picture Councils

It is estimated that approximately 6,000 motion picture councils and committees exist in the United States whose primary function is to stimulate interest in and patronage of films of the higher type. These groups frequently mobilize in support of photoplays of especial merit, particularly those which are based on literary classics, which have social import or are of such unusual artistry as to commend themselves to civic organizations.

Photoplay Appreciation

A recent development resulting in large measure from the introduction of photoplay appreciation into the curricula of secondary schools has been the formation of large numbers of photoplay appreciation clubs and junior motion picture councils. Many of these junior groups regularly preview films, publish their evaluations in the school papers and post them on the bulletin boards. They also stimulate in every possible way patronage of the higher type of films.

It is estimated that approximately five million students are enrolled in formal or informal film study classes in elementary and secondary schools, colleges and universities. At a recent session of the National Education Association, teachers reported that analysis of feature films not only increases appreciation of better pictures but stimulates greater interest in the study of literature, history, art, music, social studies and the sciences.

Special Service to Schools

During the past year the Community Service Department, in collaboration with producing companies, has issued twice monthly an announcement of a forthcoming picture likely to be of interest to schools. These announcements are designed to serve as guides to a study of the photoplay and to stimulate interest on the part of organizations desiring to support films dealing with fundamental social and sconomic problems.

Each announcement contains a foreword from the secretary of the MPPDA indicating the principal values collateral to film entertainment. Exhibitors wishing additional copies of these announcements for local distribution should order them on receipt of their sample copy. These publications, together with Selected Motion Pictures, provide source material for photoplay appreciation.

The Community Service Department is always available to public groups as well as exhibitors for counsel in the planning of local motion picture programs designed to improve community motion picture taste and encourage support for the best product.

Research Exhibits and Stills

Research exhibits have been made on seventeen notable photoplays. Research departments of the production companies collaborate with the Community Service Department and with librarians in preparation of these displays. Each exhibit is designed to present those phases of production related to the background of some classic of literature, period of history or legitimate drama. These exhibits are in the form of 20-inch by 30-inch panels from 3 to 14 in number, and are sent only to school and public libraries which are able to provide suitable wall space for display. Requests have been received from 3,882 such libraries located in 2,089 cities and towns in every state in the union. Customs regulations make it impractical to distribute these materials in Canada.

Many libraries are interested in developing library-film cooperation on photoplays for which research exhibits have not been prepared, and make request for pictorial materials on other outstanding photoplays. To meet this need sets of stills have been assembled, suitably selected for school and library display from about 40 photoplays which are based on standard works of literature and other similarly important productions. These stills are provided at $1.00 per set on request of librarians and teachers of photoplay appreciation classes.

A further distribution of stills is effected in many other communities where librarians cooperate with local exhibitors who obtain stills from branch and sales managers. This is a very valuable arrangement both to the exhibitors and to the libraries, since it stimulates circulation of the library books and interests the patrons of the libraries in photoplays before they are shown in local theaters.

Films in Formal Education

Activities of the MPPDA looking toward the use of films in classroom teaching developed coincidentally with the photoplay appreciation movement but antedated it in time.

"Developing the educational as well as the entertainment value and the general usefulness of the motion picture," was included in the statement of the purposes for which the Association was formed in 1922. Mr. Hays has consistently pursued this policy both as regards research and production.

Facilities for study of the motion picture as a teaching tool have been available to research workers, with the result that a vast amount of scientific data, all indicating advantages in the use of motion pictures for instruction in specific subjects, has accumulated. References to this material may be obtained from the Community Service Department.

Production for the school field has been encouraged by the major producers. The Eastman Teaching Films and the more recent production of educational talking pictures by Erpi have been direct efforts to supplement the incidental contributions of theatrical productions.

It is difficult, but necessary, to make a distinction between the study of the motion picture as an art form, that is, photoplay appreciation, and its use as a medium of instruction. In the first instance, the place of exhibition is the theater; in the second, the classroom. The objective of photoplay appreciation is broadly cultural. The pedagogical use of the film should be direct and specific as to subject matter.

In the first instance, entertainment is paramount and education incidental; in the second, education is the sole motive and entertainment a liability or asset as it contributes or fails to contribute interest in the prescribed learning. Only when exhibitors, teachers, and laymen alike come to recognize this distinction will the disparity of interests be recognized as an illusion and the school and theater realize the compatibility of their interests and the mutual advantages in the cooperative use of motion pictures. With Boards of Education properly assuming costs of the use of films in teaching, there can be no basis for competition between schools and theaters.

Character Education

Growing out of a public relations conference held in New York in 1929, a series of films known as the Secrets of Success was developed by a committee called the Committee on Social Values in Motion Pictures. It was the purpose of this group to experiment with the film in "character education." With the approval and assistance of the major producers and financed by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, twenty one-reel subjects were edited from famous photoplays. Each subject presented some problem normal to the life of adolescent youth in America.

Practical experiment with these films in schools was so satisfactory that early in 1937 the General Education Board of the Rockefeller Foundation agreed to finance the further development of this program and arranged with the Progressive Education Association to appoint a Motion Picture Commission to explore the further possibilities of using films in teaching the important social function of individual adjustment. A considerable number of subjects have been added to those selected from the Secrets of Success series and testing of these subjects is proceeding in some thirty experimental schools.

The personnel of this Commission follows: Dr. Alice V. Keliher, Chairman of the Commission; Edna Albers; Willard W. Beatty, Director of Indian Education; Earl S. Goudey, formerly Science Instructor, Bronxville High School; Leo Huberman, author of "We the People" and "Man's Worldly Goods"; Walter C. Langer, Harvard Psychological Clinic; Mark A. May, Director, Institute of Human Relations, Yale University; Lorine Pruette, author of "Parents and the Happy Child"; Louise Rosenblatt, Member of the English Department, Barnard College, and author of "Art for Art's Sake"; and Robert Wunsch, professor of English and Dramatics at Black Mountain College.

The original Committee on Social Values in Motion Pictures is working with the Commission in an advisory capacity. Information concerning the Human Relations program is obtainable from Dr. Keliher, 1600 Broadway, New York City, or from the Community Service Department. The date these films will become available for general use has not yet been determined.

Motion Picture Curriculum

Early in 1936, Dr. May, encouraged by his experience as a member of the Committee on Social Values in Motion Pictures, presented a proposal to the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America which he called "A Motion Picture Curriculum for Schools." It contemplated the organization of a committee of distinguished educators to make a study of the photoplays and short subjects which in previous years had attracted the attention and acclaim of school people. The purpose was frankly exploratory, to determine whether this material had value for formal education, under what circumstances it might be feasible to make it available, if at all, and, assuming that might be possible, to arrange some procedure for its appraisal.

In the spring of 1937 member companies of the MPPDA agreed to make a group of selected short subjects available to an Advisory Committee of educators for appraisal purposes. Dr. May assumed responsibility for organizing the committee, which includes himself as chairman; Frederick H. Bair, Superintendent, Bronxville, N. Y., Public Schools; Isaiah Bowman, President, Johns Hopkins University; Karl T. Compton, President, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Edmund E. Day, President, Cornell University; Royal B. Farnum, Executive Vice-President, Rhode Island School of Design; Willard E. Givens, Executive Secretary, National Education Association; and Jay B. Nash, Director, Department of Physical Education and Health, New York University.

Non-Current Shorts Reviewed

Stating that the first requisite of developing further the use of motion pictures in education was a larger library of films, the Committee requested an opportunity to review some of the 15,000 entertainment short subjects now non-current in theaters. The Committee agreed to select panels of teachers expert in their professional fields to do the reviewing if permission were granted and to make an initial selection of the most promising short subjects on the basis of reviews available.

In the spring of 1937 the cooperation of the producing companies was assured and the Committee selected approximately 2,000 short subjects for review. The panels were organized and spent the summer of 1937 appraising them. One thousand five hundred and ninety-five short subjects were surveyed, of which 849 were considered acceptable and admirable material for school use without change, 234 as acceptable with minor changes, while 478 contained some usable elements.

The Committee is continuing its work in cooperation with the MPPDA. Monthly meetings have been held throughout the year. Its members contribute their services without compensation. Principal activity at present is the preparation of entries for a contemplated catalogue of the best material for education in the non-theatrical as well as theatrical fields.

Educators Praise Films

In its report to Mr. Hays, the Committee said: "If education is to be adequate for the future needs of our increasingly complex life, it must avail itself of every modern device for teaching. The motion picture is destined to take its place beside the text book, the laboratory and the workshop as a factor of major significance in education."

Thanking the Committee for its work, Mr. Hays said:

"Since the organization of our Association in 1922, we have constantly pursued as one of its purposes the development of the classroom usefulness of motion pictures. The values you have found in these non-current pictures will be developed for the classroom in a field and with a technique separate from the essential services of theaters in furnishing wholesome entertainment."

Detailed information concerning the Committee's activities may be secured from Dr. May or from the Community Service Department of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., 28 West 44th Street, New York City.

PRODUCTION CODE OF ETHICS

Formulated by the Association of Motion Picture Producers, Inc., and The Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.

Motion picture producers recognize the high trust and confidence which have been placed in them by the people of the world and which have made motion pictures a universal form of entertainment.

They recognize their responsibility to the public because of this trust and because entertainment and art are important influences in the life of a nation.

Hence, though regarding motion pictures primarily as entertainment without any explicit purpose of teaching or propaganda, they know that the motion picture within its own field of entertainment may be directly responsible for spiritual or moral progress, for higher types of social life, and for much correct thinking.

During the rapid transition from silent to talking pictures they have realized the necessity and the opportunity of subscribing to a Code to govern the production of talking pictures and of reacknowledging this responsibility.

On their part, they ask from the public and from public leaders a sympathetic understanding of their purposes and problems and a spirit of cooperation that will allow them the freedom and opportunity necessary to bring the motion picture to a still higher level of wholesome entertainment for all the people.

General Principles

1. No picture shall be produced which will lower the moral standards of those who see it. Hence the sympathy of the audience shall never be thrown to the side of crime, wrongdoing, evil or sin.

2. Correct standards of life, subject only to the requirements of drama and entertainment, shall be presented.

3. Law, natural or human, shall not be ridiculed, nor shall sympathy be created for its violation.

Particular Applications

I. CRIMES AGAINST THE LAW

These shall never be presented in such a way as to throw sympathy with the crime as against law and justice or to inspire others with a desire for imitation.

1. Murder.
   - a. The technique of murder must be presented in a way that will not inspire imitation.
   - b. Brutal killings are not to be presented in detail.
   - c. Revenge in modern times shall not be justified.
2. Methods of Crime should not be explicitly presented.
   - a. Theft, robbery, safe-cracking, and dynamiting of trains, mines, buildings, etc., should not be detailed in method.
   - b. Arson must be subject to the same safeguards.
   - c. The use of firearms should be restricted to essentials.

d. Methods of smuggling should not be presented.

3. Illegal Drug Traffic must never be presented.
4. The use of liquor in American life, when not required by the plot or for proper characterization, will not be shown.

II. SEX

The sanctity of the institution of marriage and the home shall be upheld. Pictures shall not infer that low forms of sex relationship are the accepted or common thing.

1. Adultery, sometimes necessary plot material, must not be explicitly treated, or justified, or presented attractively.
2. Scenes of Passion.
   a. They should not be introduced when not essential to the plot.
   b. Excessive and lustful kissing, lustful embraces, suggestive postures and gestures, are not to be shown.
   c. In general, passion should so be treated that these scenes do not stimulate the lower and baser element.
3. Seduction or Rape.
   a. They should never be more than suggested, and only when essential for the plot, and even then never shown by explicit method.
   b. They are never the proper subject for comedy.
4. Sex perversion or any inference to it is forbidden.
5. White slavery shall not be treated.
6. Miscegenation (sex relationship between the white and black races) is forbidden.
7. Sex hygiene and venereal diseases are not subjects for motion pictures.
8. Scenes of actual child birth, in fact or in silhouette, are never to be presented.
9. Children's sex organs are never to be exposed.

III. VULGARITY

The treatment of low, disgusting, unpleasant, though not necessarily evil, subjects should be subject always to the dictate of good taste and a regard for the sensibilities of the audience.

IV. OBSCENITY

Obscenity in word, gesture, reference, song, joke, or by suggestion (even when likely to be understood only by part of the audience) is forbidden.

V. PROFANITY

Pointed profanity (this includes the words, God, Lord, Jesus, Christ—unless used reverently—Hell, S.O.B., damn, Gawd), or every other profane or vulgar expression however used, is forbidden.

VI. COSTUME

1. Complete nudity is never permitted. This includes nudity in fact or in silhouette, or any lecherous or licentious notice thereof by other characters in the picture.
2. Undressing scenes should be avoided and never used save where essential to the plot.
3. Indecent or undue exposure is forbidden.
4. Dancing costumes intended to permit undue exposure or indecent movements in the dance are forbidden.

VII. DANCES

1. Dances suggesting or representing sexual actions or indecent passion are forbidden.
2. Dances which emphasize indecent movements are to be regarded as obscene.

VIII. RELIGION

1. No film or episode may throw ridicule on any religious faith.
2. Ministers of Religion in their character as ministers of religion should not be used as comic characters or as villains.
3. Ceremonies of any definite religion should be carefully and respectfully handled.

IX. LOCATIONS

The treatment of bedrooms must be governed by good taste and delicacy.

X. NATIONAL FEELINGS

1. The use of the flag shall be consistently respectful.
2. The history, institutions, prominent people and citizenry of other nations shall be represented fairly.

XI. TITLES

Salacious, indecent, or obscene titles shall not be used.

XII. REPELLENT SUBJECTS

The following subjects must be treated within the careful limits of good taste:

1. Actual hangings or electrocutions as legal punishments for crime.
2. Third degree methods.
3. Brutality and possible gruesomeness.
4. Branding of people or animals.
5. Apparent cruelty to children or animals.
6. The sale of women, or a woman selling her virtue.
7. Surgical operations.

Resolution for Uniform Interpretation

(Adopted June 13, 1934)

1. When requested by production managers, the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, Incorporated, shall secure any facts, information or suggestions concerning the probable reception of stories or the manner in which in its opinion they may best be treated.

2. That each production manager shall submit in confidence a copy of each or any script to the Production Code Administration of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, Incorporated (and of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, Inc., California). Such Production Code Administration will give the production manager for his guidance such confidential advice and suggestions as experience, research, and information indicate, designating wherein in its judgment the script departs from the provisions of the Code, or wherein from experience or knowledge it is believed that exception will be taken to the story or treatment.

3. Each production manager of a company belonging to the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, Incorporated, and any producer proposing to distribute and/or distributing his picture through the facilities of any member of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, Incorporated, shall submit to such Production Code Administration every picture he produces before the negative goes to the laboratory for printing. Said Production Code Administration, having seen the picture, shall inform the production manager in writing whether in its opinion the picture conforms or does not conform to the Code, stating specifically wherein either by theme, treatment or incident, the picture violates the provisions of the Code. In such latter event, the picture shall not be released until the changes indicated by the Production Code Administration have been made; provided, however, that the production manager may appeal from such opinion of said Production Code Administration, so indicated in writing, to the Board of Directors of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, Incorporated, whose finding shall be final, and such production manager and company shall be governed accordingly.

CENSOR BOARD RULES

The following is quoted from the statutes of the various States:

Ohio

"Only such films as are in the judgment and discretion of the board of censors of a moral, educational or amusing and harmless character shall be passed and approved by such board."

New York

No motion picture will be licensed or a permit granted for its exhibition within the State of New York, which may be classified or any part thereof, as obscene, indecent, immoral, inhuman, sacrilegious, or which is of such a character that its exhibition would tend to corrupt morals or incite to crime."

Newsreels not subject to review.

Kansas

The board "shall approve such films, reels, including subtitles, spoken dialogue, songs, other words or sounds, folders, posters and advertising matter which are moral and proper; and shall disapprove such as are cruel, obscene, indecent, or immoral, or such as tend to debase or corrupt morals."

In addition to the quotation from the statute, this board has adopted the following rules:

A. Pictures should be clean and wholesome, and all features that tend to debase morals or influence the mind to improper conduct should be eliminated.

B. Ridicule of any religious sect or peculiar characteristics of any race of people will not be approved.

C. Evil suggestion in the dress of comedy characters will be eliminated.

D. Loose conduct between men and women will be eliminated, and whenever possible, barroom scenes and social drinking.

E. A display of nude human figues will be eliminated.

F. Crimes and criminal methods, such as give instruction in crime through suggestion, will be eliminated or abbreviated.

G. Prolonged and passionate love scenes, when suggestive of immorality will be eliminated.

Pennsylvania

"The board shall . . . approve such films, reels or views which are moral and proper; and also disapprove such as are sacrilegious, obscene, indecent, or immoral, or such as tend, in the judgment of the board, to debase or corrupt morals."

Virginia

The board shall issue a license "unless such film or a part thereof is obscene, indecent, immoral, inhuman, or is of such a character that its exhibition would tend to corrupt morals or incite to crime . . . "

Maryland

No film to be licensed which is in the judgment of the board ". . . obscene, indecent, immoral, inhuman, sacrilegious or of such character that its exhibition would tend to corrupt morals or incite to crime."

President

THE Motion Picture Theater Owners of America is the oldest and largest national trade association of motion picture exhibitors in the United States. Organized and established in 1920, the purpose and objects of the organization, as set forth in the MPTOA Constitution and thus made the basis of our activities, are:

1. To maintain a national trade association of motion picture theater owners, theater executives and managers.

2. To unite for mutual benefit, protection, improvement, and association, motion picture exhibitors of good moral character and of reasonable desire and ambition to improve themselves and willingness to help others.

3. To encourage among the members closer personal acquaintance and a friendly spirit of mutual cooperation.

4. To foster and cultivate the highest possible standards in motion picture exhibition and theatre management, in trade relations and in business conduct, in the motion picture industry.

5. To forward and promote the general welfare and prosperity of motion picture exhibitors, to improve by all lawful and honorable means their status and condition, and to secure the good will of the public for the motion picture industry.

6. To gather, receive and disseminate such information as may seem helpful to the members and associated organizations, to interchange ideas in rendering mutual assistance and to provide helpful vocational advice.

7. To forward all progressive public programs and make every proper and lawful effort to uphold, dignify and protect the motion picture industry.

8. To do any and all of the usual functions of a trade association or chamber of commerce of theater owners.

Organization Structure

The foundation of the MPTOA organization structure is the State and regional exhibitor associations who have voluntarily banded together into the national MPTOA and who direct and actively participate in the affairs and policies of MPTOA through a representative of their own choosing on the MPTOA Board of Directors, which in turn elects the Officers and Executive Committee, and is the final authority in all matters in MPTOA. The work and activities of MPTOA are carried on inexpensively but effectively by the volunteer effort of theater owner members.

Membership is open to any and all constructive local exhibitor organizations who are willing to work with our members to achieve the purposes set forth in the MPTOA Constitution, but no high pressure soliciting of new members is carried on, nor does the MPTOA interfere with or dictate policies to local exhibitor association members.

MPTOA Program for Self-Regulation

During the past year of 1938 MPTOA continued to advance the fair trade practice program for exhibition and distribution by voluntary self-regulation developed and presented by this organization three years ago. A determined effort, supported by other exhibitor organizations, early in the year finally overcame the obstacles and obstructions that had been placed in the way of this program, and joint negotiations with the distributors for the adoption of these proposals were resumed immediately following the failure again of Congress to enact the Neely Bill, only to be again interrupted by the filing of an anti-trust suit involving some of the same complaints by the Department of Justice. After some delay, however, the distributors were again persuaded to proceed with this program, and by the end of the year its final adoption in part was at least in sight.

Block Booking Legislation

While MPTOA is opposed to compulsory block booking of motion pictures, nevertheless the organization opposed the Bill in Congress known as the Neely Bill, which would prevent the wholesale distributor from giving any price discount to secure the sale of more than one picture at a time, and which contains numerous other impossible provisions to be imposed on our business by criminal penalties. The deceptive and misleading features of this piece of legislation, drafted and promoted by the Motion Picture Research Council, were analyzed and exposed by MPTOA.

The Music Tax

MPTOA continued its opposition to the music tax, levied on all theaters that play sound pictures, for copyrighted music for which the composer has already been well paid by the picture producer to get the use of the music, and paid again for the privilege of recording it, and both payments recovered from the exhibitors in the film rental. Why the exhibitor should be forced to pay a third time for the same music has never been given any rational explanation, particularly in view of the fact that the third payment is not based upon merit or its value in a free market, but is an arbitrary, inescapable assessment in which the exhibitor has no choice whatever. The anti-trust suit brought by the Government against the combine that collects the music tax has never been brought to trial, but several States have enacted laws to curb its activities.

Hollywood Radio Broadcasting

Additional progress has been made in removing the more objectionable features of the free radio broadcasting of motion picture talent and material in competition with the motion picture theaters that are required to collect admissions for the same talent and material. Sponsored radio advertising programs featuring gossip commentators and designed to damage and destroy public demand for the merchandise (pictures) on sale at the motion picture theaters continue to plague the business.

Oklahoma City National Convention

The MPTOA Annual National Convention in Oklahoma City, October 30th to November 2nd, was the largest meeting of theater owners held during the year. In a colorful frontier atmosphere, amidst Indians and cowboys but in a new modern metropolis, this four-day pow-wow embraced a series of well-planned business sessions that covered in concise, thorough fashion all of the important exhibitor problems and matters of interest to theater owners and managers that are today current, as well as a sparkling series of social affairs, culminating in a movie ball that was graced by the presence of several of the outstanding personalities and stars from Hollywood, who came in especially for the occasion.

Motion Picture Litigation

During the past year a tremendous burden of unproductive expense has been imposed upon the industry by a flood of lawsuits and litigation. How much of this can be carried by the business before it cuts into the quality of the pictures produced is becoming a serious problem. Court decrees, legal interpretations, control of business policies by company lawyers, and threats of more lawsuits have seriously obstructed the practical solution of troublesome competitive and economic problems through cooperation and self-regulation. The whole business is becoming mired down in a legal tangle. Destructive cut-rate competition has spread across the country like a contagious disease, driving people who like fine motion picture entertainment away from the theaters. Efforts by responsible exhibitors to restrain such practices have been largely blocked.

Even though many theaters are compelled by competition and the production policies of the studios into the practice against their will, we must not lose sight of the fact that lots of people who like motion pictures either quietly avoid or openly resent being forced to look at a second-rate picture on a double feature program in order to see the one they want. And many people are also annoyed and irritated by three and four-hour shows, lotteries, premiums, give-aways, and other come-ons, even at cut-rate admissions.

There is also the serious risk in such litigation of drastic and unexpected court decisions imposing impossible and destructive regulations on the ordinary business operations of all theaters. MPTOA has devoted all of its efforts to practical plans for removing the complaints and grievances on which much of this litigation is based.

Improvement in Theaters

Marked improvements in the design, construction and equipment of theaters throughout the country were developed in 1938. A large number of theaters of sound construction but old-fashioned appearance were modernized into streamlined theaters with new up-to-date fronts, lighting, decorations, seats, air-conditioning and sanitary conveniences, for the added enjoyment of the public.

The pictures produced and released throughout the year maintained a high standard of decency and good taste, exhibitors have just pride in the fact that more than ever they offer clean wholesome entertainment at a price within reach of everybody. It is still a great country and a great business we are all in, and both are certain to go on to new and greater achievements in 1939. We will do our part to the fullest extent of our ability and resources to realize these ideals.

ALLIED in 1938

By

ABRAM F. MEYERS

General Counsel and Chairman of the Board

THE calendar year 1938 was not only the most active in the history of Allied States Association, but was also the most productive. The educational campaign and other spade work during the past decade bore fruit and the harvest promises to be abundant. The first development was the passage by the Senate of the Neely anti-block booking bill. Opposition to compulsory block booking has long been a major policy of Allied. The distributors having refused to mitigate the evils of the practice by voluntary action, Allied sponsored first the Brookhart Bill and then the Neely Bill to prohibit the practice altogether. The bill failed to reach the floor of the House, but, barring effective corrective action by the distributors in the meantime, it stands a good chance to pass in 1939.

North Dakota Trust Suit

Next came the trial at Fargo, where many Allied men voluntarily took the witness stand to build up a factual record on which the North Dakota theater divorcement law could be sustained. The trial, conducted by the General Counsel of Allied and Counsel for Northwest Allied, who had been commissioned Special Assistants to the Attorney General of North Dakota, resulted in a unanimous three-judge decision upholding the law. The case was appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States, where it was affirmed February 13, 1938. This decision will have an important bearing on the future of the motion picture industry as now organized and functioning.

Anti-Trust Action

An event of overshadowing importance was the filing by the Government of a suit under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act against the major producer-distributors, asking that they be required to divest themselves of their theater holdings and that they be enjoined from using all manner of oppressive trade practices. Finding that independent exhibitors were unable to obtain adequate protection or definition of legal rights from scattered individual actions, Allied for more than a year sought action by the Federal Government. In this suit Allied sees benefit for the industry as a whole through final settlement of existing controversies and the definition of rights for future guidance.

Trade Practice Proposals

Having received overtures from the distributors, Allied appointed a Negotiating Committee to meet with a committee of distributors to try and formulate a code of fair trade practices with suitable arbitration machinery to administer the same. Prolonged conferences have been held and considerable progress has been made, although no final agreement has been reached.

Expansion

During the year, considerable progress was made in strengthening and expanding the association. New regional affiliates were formed and are functioning in New York State and in Eastern Pennsylvania. The annual convention held in Pittsburgh in May was one of the largest and certainly the most successful ever held by any exhibitor body.

Allied was formed in January, 1929, and enters upon the New Year proud of its ten years of service to the exhibitors. The present satisfactory outlook for the exhibitors of the country is the product of the consistent policy and unremitting efforts of Allied.

THIRTY-THREE years in the history of civilization is a negligible length of time, but referred to the history of the motion picture, it measures very closely its life's span. Thirty-three years ago the Society of Motion Picture Engineers was formed. True, before that time, some very important developments and inventions had been made,—the foundation of the motion picture industry had been laid, and we were actually seeing "flickers" upon the screen. A few hardy pioneers had even done some work in sound reproduction, but as yet things like sound were still in the laboratory or the manufacturer's workshop, and had a long way to go before they could be brought out into the open.

Pictures had actually been shown 15 or more years before the organization of the Society, but in comparison with what we have today on the screen, they left much to be desired. Nevertheless, viewed in retrospect, they were good in their day.

Today's pictures are approaching perfection. There seem to be few, if any, fundamental changes in motion picture technology in prospect. The present era of motion pictures, speaking of an era in terms of five or ten years, seems to be concerned mainly with refinements in process and practice.

Four significant variations from the commonly accepted monoplane, black and white motion pictures, are now receiving considerable attention. The first, the universal use of color, has made great progress, including rather general public acceptance. One can readily believe that soon all feature pictures will be in color. Stereoscopic pictures are still in the laboratory stage, although some progress has been made in the realm of pseudo-stereoscopy. Stereophony has had in its public demonstrations, but much remains to be done before perspective in sound can be introduced into the theaters. Television is more in the immediate future, as far as motion pictures are concerned, and it is likely that the motion picture industry will be intensely interested in the introduction of television to the public because of the fact that motion picture films will, without doubt, be used widely in television transmission.

The subject of this article is "The Society of Motion Picture Engineers," whence it may seem strange that I have started by touching on the technology of motion pictures rather than the Society itself. However, such a sort of approach is necessary, in view of the fact that the activities of the Society are an important part of the activities of the industry, and anything that concerns the development of the art in all its technical phases is a subject for consideration, study, perhaps standardization, and ultimately publication by the Society. That is the purpose of the Society's technical committees—The Standards Committee, the Sound Committee, the Color Committee, the Laboratory Practice Committee, the Projection Practice Committee, and so on.

The Standards Committee in particular, during the past year, has been studying intensely the problems associated with the reproduction of sound from the standard soundtrack; the Television Committee, formed only a year ago, has been gathering together technical data and other factual material relating the art of broadcasting pictures to the art of producing and reproducing motion pictures; the Color Committee has been engaged in classifying and collecting material on all the various color processes and their application to practical use; and so on.

The Sectional Committee on Motion Pictures, sponsored by the SMPE, under the American Standards Association, has been especially active during the past year. A complete collection of all national standards including SMPE standards, and those of the Research Council of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, and others, has been made, and the SMPE standards in particular have been completely revised and brought up to date in the light of the latest developments of the art. This compilation has been very minutely studied by the sub-committees of the Sectional Committee and has been submitted to the members of the Sectional Committee for recommendation as national standards under the American Standards Association. All the standards thus voted upon have been approved, with the exception of the proposed standards for sound-track dimensions, which subjects are being held in abeyance pending further study by the SMPE Standards Committee and the Research Council of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. It is hoped that these standards may be completed within a relatively short time.

Peace reigns at present in the 16 mm. industry, as regards dimensional standards. It will be recalled that two years ago the SMPE proposed a set of dimensional standards to the International Standards Association at a meeting in Berlin, and after considerable discussion and argumentation, the SMPE standards were finally adopted as international standards. We are fortunate, therefore, in no longer finding the sound-tracks on various edges of the film in different countries of the world. As a result of this international standardization, all the countries of the world can go forward with their developments in a more or less parallel fashion. It is hoped that after the completion of the present balloting on the 35 mm. standards, the new American standards may then be submitted to the ISA for similar internationalization.

Despite the fact that times may not have been so good as many of us would wish them to be, the membership of the Society has risen steadily during the past few years. After a sudden drop from about 760 in 1930 to 560 in 1933, the membership has climbed steadily year by year until at the present time it includes more than 1400 members. It is interesting to note that a large proportion of these new members have come from the Hollywood area and likewise many from abroad, despite the unrest in some of the foreign countries. The prospect for the future seems good. Although each year we can normally expect a certain percentage of the members to resign or become delinquent, the accession of new members always more than overbalances the loss, so that the net change of membership remains positive rather than negative.

The Journal of the Society continues to be the most comprehensive source of up-to-date information on motion picture technlogy in the world. From 1500 to 2000 pages of material written by the technical experts in the industry are published each year in the Journal and are presented at the Spring and Fall conventions of the Society. These conventions are of especial importance to the industry in providing an avenue for the release to the industry of information on the latest technical developments in motion picture engineering, and by this means the Society is enabled to follow up the technical advances made from day to day, keep the world informed, and thereby help to contribute in a great number of ways to these technical improvements.

In closing, I should like to urge all technical members of the industry to take full advantage of the Society's resources regardless of whether they are members or not. The prime purpose of the Society is to serve the industry in its technical aspects, and it is felt that those who learn the value of the Society in that respect will eventually become members and contribute their share to the Society's work. The General Office of the Society at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, N. Y., is open to visitors at all times.

NATIONAL BOARD OF REVIEW

THE National Board of Review of Motion Pictures is a group of men and women of all ages, representing a wide variety of professions and callings, who serve without remuneration as a body whose aim is to express the reactions of the intelligent public to motion pictures, and to spread appreciation of the best that the motion picture produces both as entertainment and as a cultural and educational force.

It was organized in 1909 by the People's Institute of New York City. It reviews films and distributes information about them to individuals and affiliated citizen groups in various parts of the country who do local work in conducting a constructive program of community cooperation in the advancement and uses of the motion picture. The National Board of Review is opposed to all forms of censorship, and believes firmly in selection and classification—a plan it was the first to evolve—as the most effective and constructive method of creating a public appreciation and demand for good films.. The National Board of Review is carried on through various committees:

General Committee

The General Committee is the group developed out of the original group organized in 1909. Matters of general policy may be referred to it and it acts regularly in an advisory capacity. Dr. Russell Potter, Associate Director, Columbia University Extension, in charge of Institute of Arts and Sciences, was added to this Committee in 1938.

Executive Committee

The Executive Committee is composed of members of the General Committee and is charged with the formation of policies, election of members, expenditure of funds and supervision of all administrative affairs. The Chairman of the National Board of Review is elected from among the membership of the Executive Committee, and ratified by the General Committee. The present Chairman is Dr. George W. Kirchwey, Director of the Department of Criminology, New York School of Social Work, former Dean of the Law School of Columbia University and former Warden of Sing Sing Prison. The personnel of the Executive Committee is listed elsewhere in this book.

Membership Committee

The Membership Committee is the supervising group of the Review Committee personnel. It meets regularly to act upon applications and qualifications of prospective members, continues or terminates the service terms of regular members, and makes recommendations to the Executive Committee for the election of new review members. This is a rotating Committee with members added each year.

Review Committee

The review work is conducted in New York City and performed by trained review groups of men and women, who combine to constitute the membership of the Review Committee, numbering over 300 persons and representing a great variety of professions, activities and interests. Through this Committee personnel, in its work of film review, selection, classification and recommendation, a constant endeavor is made to reflect the intelligent public opinion of the country. These members, like all other members of the National Board of Review, serve entirely without pay. The decisions of the committees regarding pictures under review rest upon a majority ballot. A number of members, following the usual probationary period of study, have been added to this Committee during 1938.

Committee on Exceptional Photoplays

This Committee, composed of critics and students of the art of the motion picture, is particularly interested in whatever esthetic values can be found in films, as distinguished from mere popular entertainment. It looks at all the better films and publishes criticisms of those thought worthy of discussion. It selects, annually, the ten films considered to be artistically the best of the year, and through the agency of Little Theatres and Motion Picture Councils and forums seeks to encourage the showing of films that will create a more general appreciation of the motion picture as an important medium of artistic expression. Their selection of the ten best films for 1938 appears in another section of this publication. This is a rotating Committee and new members are added each year.

National Advisory Committee

Early in 1915, when the Board had passed through its experimental stages and had become established as a nation-wide influence in regard to the motion picture with resultant connections throughout the entire country, there was proposed a committee national in scope and personnel to be known as the National Advisory Committee. The committee formed was an enlargement of the already existing local Advisory Committee. The personnel has changed from time to time in the period of years but it has remained country-wide in representation and opinion and at present numbers fifty-three members from thirty-seven cities.

National Motion Picture Council

The community or field work of the National Board of Review is conducted under a National Council. This department of the National Board of Review has had, since its organization in 1916, several designations in line with its ever-changing and developing program. It was first known as the Committee on Children's Pictures and Programs, having its beginning in the classification and listing of films for youth. As this program of selection grew to cover the need of selective information for the adult as well, the name National Committee for Better Films was assumed. Outgrowing a Committee activity, it became the Better Films Council, and in 1935, the more descriptive name of National Motion Picture Council was adopted. The designation Better Films was properly descriptive in 1916, but the intervening years has brought about a marked improvement in films and a resulting change in approach and attitude toward them. It is the belief of the Board that the present work of a community organization is to unite effectively in a constructive program for the support, study and use both recreationally and educationally of the finer motion pictures now available. Thus the change to the present National Motion Picture Council was made, through the action of the Executive Committee in consultation with the advisory group of the Council.

The Council program is carried out through affiliated memberships, both group and individual, service contact groups and correspondents throughout the country. The National Council assists in the organization and program of work of the local groups.

The local Councils follow the plan initiated by the National Board of Review in 1916 of having a membership composed of representatives from many organizations, cultural, educational, recreational, religious and civic, so that they typify the original movement for organized community participation in the best use of the motion picture and the support of the best pictures in the community. They provide a means of unifying and making articulate the wishes of the discriminating public in regard to the motion picture, and offer a coherent and commonly formulated plan which avoids duplication of effort and most effectively integrates the varied and various community interests.

The objectives of such organizations are:

To demonstrate through the education of public opinion, the effectiveness of selection and classification, instead of censorship, as a means of forwarding the development of the motion picture and its best uses.

To encourage through open meetings, forums, classes and other means, the study of the motion picture as a medium of entertainment, education and artistic expression.

To concentrate the attention of the public on specific worth while films through the publication of a Photoplay Guide to the Selected Pictures being currently shown at local theaters.

To arrange family Friday night or week-end programs of selected films and junior matinees of pictures particularly suited to the tastes of children, through cooperation with local exhibitors.

To endorse and further the use of visual education through motion pictures in the schools.

To arrange and promote occasional exhibitions of exceptional and cultural films that would not ordinarily be shown in the commercial theaters.

Through its publications, the National Board of Review makes available advance information on the selected pictures, with their audience classification, and on the exceptional pictures so that community groups can be prepared to publish local Photoplay Guides to the Selected Pictures, sponsor special showings and in other ways give community support to the best pictures.

The Board and the Council have sent, in answer to invitation, speakers from the various Committees and the staff personnel to many communities, particularly those not far from New York City, to aid in the formation and development of community organizations and to present various phases of motion picture interest and activity on council, club, school and other programs.

Two members were added to the Council Advisory group during 1938, and many new contact groups were established.

The Young Reviewers and the 4-Star Clubs

In 1931 the National Board organized a group of boys and girls ranging in age from 8 to 17 years, to review and discuss motion pictures in order to learn directly from them what the young people themselves think about this art form. The opinions of the Young Reviewers, as this group is called, have been of great educational value in making larger and larger numbers of young people critically conscious of what they see in motion pictures and creating a larger future discerning audience, as well as being an invaluable check for adults to apply to their own ideas of juvenile reactions.

The 4-Star Clubs, young people's motion picture study and activity organization, developed as an outgrowth of the Young Reviewers. These motion picture clubs are functioning in various parts of the country and the number is constantly growing. Their program of activities is divided into four parts —appreciation, projection, production and community service. Each year these boys and girls join in a poll to determine the Juniors' Ten Best Pictures. The selections for 1938 appear elsewhere in the Year Book. Every year also a "Make Your Own Movies" contest is held and the prize-winning films shown at the morning session of the 4-Star Club Spring Conference. The clubs which produced the 1938 winning films are in the following schools: Greenwich (Conn.) High School; Point Loma Senior High School, San Diego, Calif.; Central High School and East Side High School of Newark, N. J. The afternoon session of the junior Conference is devoted to addresses by club delegates on their motion picture interests. The juniors have charge of one of the sessions of the Annual Conference of the adult Council of the Board. This fall a Council of New York City 4-Star Clubs was formed and monthly meetings have been held for the purpose of enlarging upon the clubs' activities. This year also a questionnaire was prepared by the Board on junior movie tastes and filled out by various 4-Star Clubs, resulting in valuable information on this subject.

The 4-Star Clubs have their own publication known as the 4-Star Final, which contains news of club activities, reviews of current films, general articles on the motion picture, etc.

Publications

"The National Board of Review Magazine" is a periodical containing articles of general interest on motion pictures and motion picture activities, and reviews of exceptional and selected features and short subjects. Various topics are suggested monthly for group discussion and a Comment and Correspondence column carries viewpoints submitted on the topics and reports of activities. It is published monthly, except July, August and September. "The Weekly Guide to Selected Pictures," giving the most up-to-date information on the pictures selected by the Review Committee, and the "Weekly Official Bulletin" are compiled regularly throughout the year. The twenty-third annual Selected Pictures Catalog and the seventeenth annual list of Selected Book-Films were published this year. Special lists such as "Books on the Motion Picture," "Exceptional Photoplays" and "Foreign Films" are compiled each year. Two pamphlets descriptive of the Board's organization and functioning are available, entitled: "The National Board of Review: Its Background, Growth and Present Status," "The National Board of Review: How It Works."

This year an "Outline of Activity for Community Motion Picture Councils and Film Study Groups" was prepared covering—Organization, Objectives and Activities. Other services available on community motion picture organization activity include: "A Plan and a Program for Community Motion Picture Councils," "Constitution and By-law Forms for Community Motion Picture Councils," "Objectives of Community Motion Picture Councils," "Organizations Represented on Community Motion Picture Councils," "Committees or Chairmen Conducting Motion Picture Council Activity," "How to Prepare a Photoplay Guide and Suggestions for a Council Publication," "Suggested Special Activities for Community Motion Picture Councils."

University Study Courses on the Motion Picture

The Motion Picture: Its Artistic Educational and Social Aspects, the first general course, begun in 1934-35, on motion pictures as a part of the accredited work of a university given under the joint auspices of the National Board of Review and the School of Education, New York University, under the direction of Dr. Frederic M. Thrasher, was repeated during the school year 1937-38. Many prominent speakers gave of their time and interest to make the course both comprehensive and authoritative. The National Board of Review Magazine is used as text material for the students.

Radio

Last spring it was decided that the National Board of Review should extend its activities to the extent of presenting regular broadcasts upon subjects relative to motion pictures. Accordingly a program was put on paper, time was provided by New York City's station WNYC and a series of "Film Forum" addresses, each lasting fifteen minutes, was presented once a week from the end of May to the beginning of November.

These addresses were arranged with a very definite object in mind. It was felt that while many radio programs gave adequate coverage to matters of surface interest in motion pictures (general gossip, Hollywood notes, etc.) there was virtually no attempt to give the public any real insight into the making and study of motion pictures. For this reason the National Board chose as its speakers persons who were actually engaged in film work. Directors such as Alfred Hitchcock, John Brahm, and William K. Howard spoke on the work of a director; cameramen Stacy Woodard and Hal Mohr covered the field of photography. The many other functions pertinent to movie-making were also covered, by people with authority to describe them. These included research work, talent scouting, script-writing, the making of a March of Time edition, newsreel coverage, the making of a Max Fleischer cartoon, the adaptation of stories and plays for the screen. Also included as being important and interesting to the student of motion picures were talks by such people as Mr. Langdon Post and Dr. A. A. Brill on censorship and social problems in films, the problems of film criticism, the study of the motion picture in the university, the foreign film, the biographical film, and the film from the standpoint of popular audiences.

It is hoped that these programs will be continued in the near future, since it is felt at the National Board that the audience response would quite justify a new series.

Neely Bill Statement

A statement opposing passage of Senate Bill 153, known as the Neely Bill, was prepared by the Executive Committee of the National Board of Review and sent to group and individual members of the Board, members of Congress, the press, etc.

Annual Conference

The National Board held its 23rd annual gathering in New York City, January 20th to 22nd, 1938, at the Hotel Pennsylvania. These annual meetings began as luncheons more than twenty years ago, but so great was the response and the demand for lengthier program and discussion periods, that in 1925 a conference of three days' duration was planned, terminating with the Annual Luncheon, and they have been continued since that date, with an increasing representation of delegates coming from many parts of the country for this interchange of ideas and plans. Community representation last year included New Orleans, Jacksonville, Chicago, Rochester, Macon, Detroit, Atlanta, Cleveland, Toledo, Philadelphia.

The 1938 Conference had as its subject "The Film Equation in People's Lives." The subjects presented at the first speakers session and the speakers were: "The Importance of the Motion Picture as World Communication,"

William P. Montague, Jr., Assignment Editor, Paramount News; "As a Scientific Interest," Sidney K. Wolf, President, Society of Motion Picture Engineers; "Promoting Motion Pictures," Leon J. Bamberger, Sales Promotion Manager, RKO Radio Pictures, Inc.; "The Importance of the Motion Picture as a Publication Interest," Maurice Kann, Editor-in-Chief, Box Office; "As an Educational Medium," Herbert S. Walsh, Technical Supervisor, Objective Teaching Materials and Techniques, sponsored by New York City Board of Education.

One evening session was spent visiting the exhibit—"The Making of a Contemporary Film from Script to Preview" at the Museum of Modern Art Galleries, arranged by the Museum Film Library, and the other in a consideration of "The Films as Document and News," speaker Edgar Anstey, Director of Production, March of Time, Ltd., London. There was a Panel Session on "Community and Organization Motion Picture Activities" with many delegates taking part.

"Taste and Demand in the Movies" was the general subject for the second speakers sessions. Topics and those presenting them were: "The Movies as Entertainment," Mark Van Doren, motion picture critic, The Nation, and Associate Professor of English, Columbia University; "The Movies, the People, and the Critics," Mortimer J. Adler, Associate Professor of the Philosophy of Law, University of Chicago, and author of "Art and Prudence"; "Majority and Minority Audiences," Gilbert Seldes, author of "An Hour with the Movies and the Talkies" and "The Movies Come from America"; "Movies and Popular Criticism," Alistair Cooke, contributing author to "Footnotes to the Film," radio film critic; "A Mid-West Critic Looks at the Films," Ward Marsh, film critic, Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Junior Session included the showing of an unreleased film with discussion by Young Reviewers and 4-Star Club members, and awards for the winners of the country-wide junior "Ten Best Film Selections for 1937" contest.

The 23rd Annual Luncheon was the final event of the Conference. Present were guest stars and the following speakers: Mr. Robert Edmund Jones, noted scenic artist; Dame May Whitty, playing one of the leads in "Night Must Fall," chosen by the National Board as the best film of 1937; Mr. Paul Rotha, film critic and historian; Mr. Paul Moss, Commissioner of Licenses, representing Mayor F. H. La Guardia; Dame Sybil Thorndyke, actress; Mrs. Mary K. Simkhovitch, Director of Greenwich House, New York City; Mrs. J. Bertram Hervey, Chairman of the School of Industrial Arts of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

National Motion Picture Week

A plan for the observance of a Motion Picture Week, which had been conceived in Chicago, was presented at the Conference by Mrs. Richard M. McClure, President, Better Films Council of Chicago. She said in part: "The Film as It Influences Life might well be chosen as the theme which underlies the observance of National Motion Picture Week, from April 16 to 23. April seems a particularly significant month in film history. It is not intended that during National Motion Picture Week emphasis shall be placed upon motion picture attendance but rather to make those people who are regular patrons appreciate the privilege of attending the movies and at the same time develop a more discriminating mass audience. Such a week of programs, exhibits and demonstration may serve to interest that larger and more critical audience which is not now patrons of the motion picture and make this group become better-films conscious. Each local film organization will develop a program which fits the needs and interest of the community."

The Conference expressed itself as being in favor of National Motion Picture Week as outlined and it was observed in various communities later in the season. The program carried out by the Cleveland Cinema Club, which the Council Secretary of the Board visited, serves as an example of a fine program bringing together the many community interests in the motion picture, including as it did —Demonstration forum of the Progressive Education Association film activities at two schools; Presentation of cinematic work by Cleveland Photographic Society; "From Pinheads to Parades"—illustrating work of the Cinema Laboratory Western Reserve University, Dr. James E. Bliss, Director; Guest Day of the Cinema Club, morning session speaker, Mrs. Bettina Gunczy of the National Board of Review; Banquet, Hotel Statler, Guest speakers—Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland, Harold Goldberg, Director of Warner Bros. Theaters Advertising and Publicity, Ward Marsh, Motion Picture Critic, Cleveland Plain Dealer, with many prominent citizens as guests. Motion picture displays were arranged in the main library and many branch libraries, in stores and theater lobbies. Western Reserve University had an exhibit of study aids for motion picture art and a fine collection of books and magazines were displayed in the Fine Arts Department of the main library. Neighborhood theaters offered special programs and the churches cooperated by giving special announcement from the pulpit on Sunday. A committee is at work on plans for the 1939 observance of Motion Picture Week.

U.S. GOVERNMENT FILM ACTIVITIES

ALL Government films are obtainable without charge. Requesting organizations must pay transportation costs to and from the point of exhibition. A number of agencies authorize purchase of prints for school film libraries. This compilation does not include titles of all available films but a complete directory of U. S. films is available from the United States Film Service, Division of the National Emergency Council, Commercial Bldg., Washington, D. C.

Department of Agriculture

A library of nearly 250 subjects devoted to educational pictures on agriculture, forestry, rural engineering, home economics and related subjects has been produced by the Department in its own studio and is available to farmers' organizations, schools, colleges, churches, theaters and other agencies or persons whenever copies of the desired pictures are available.

Films illustrate how to raise and care for cattle, horses, swine, sheep, poultry and birds; how to produce crops of all kinds, combat destructive insects and disease, cope with engineering problems on the farm; build roads; how to care for the home and health of the family. Additionally, the pictures inform as to Federal regulations concerning animals, forests, crops, insects, rural organizations and marketing.

The majority of films distributed by the Department are available on both 35 and 16 mm. slow-burning stock. Sound-on-film pictures are available on both 35 and 16 mm. film.

Department films are distributed in the following states by the institutions named: Arizona: Extension Division, University of Arizona, Tucson; California, Utah, Nevada: Extension Division, University of California, Berkeley; Colorado: Extension Division, University of Colorado, Boulder; Indiana: Extension Division, Indiana University, Bloomington; Kentucky: Dept. of University Extension, University of Kentucky, Lexington; Michigan: Extension Service, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor; New Jersey: New Jersey States Museum, Trenton; North Carolina: Extension Division, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill; Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming: Extension Service, State Agricultural College, Corvallis; South Carolina: Extension Division, University of South Carolina, Columbia; South Dakota: Extension Division, University of South Dakota, Vermillion; Texas: Extension Division, University of Texas, Austin.

Applications for films from these states should be addressed to the distributor serving them. Applications from other states may be addressed to Division of Motion Pictures, Extension Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Department of Commerce

Motion Picture Division

The Motion Picture Division is an informational unit only and has for distribution one film, "Commerce Around the Coffee Cup," in 16 or 35 mm. sound. Data as to sources of films on various subjects or statistical information concerning the motion picture industry throughout the world, may be secured from this division. Address, Motion Picture Division, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington, D. C.

Bureau of Fisheries

The Bureau of Fisheries at present has two films for distribution entitled "Speckled Beauties," a silent film in either 35 or 16 mm. and "Fur Seals in Alaska." They are reserved primarily for conservation organizations and sportsmen's clubs. Address Commissioner of Fisheries, Department of Commerce. Washington, D. C.

Inland Waterways Corp.

The Inland Waterways Corp. has one three-reel sound film, describing the Corporation's activities on the rivers of the country. Address, G. S. Wilkin, Special Representative, Inland Waterways Corp., 211 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

Department of the Interior

U. S. Bureau of Mines, Bureau of Reclamation, Indian Bureau, National Park Service

Work of the Department of the Interior is depicted through motion pictures which are available for exhibition through the office of the Secretary, Washington, D. C. Prints are loaned at no cost except transportation charges to and from Washington, D. C., or to and from Pittsburgh, Pa., for films of the Bureau of Mines.

The films of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, covering 48 subjects pertaining to the mineral and allied industries, are widely used. These pictures visualize the Nation's great mineral industries. They tell the stories of petroleum, silver, iron, copper, lead, abrasives, sulphur, asbestos and many other mineral substances.

Bureau of Mines films are produced and circulated under the direction of John A. Davis, chief engineer, information division, U. S. Bureau of Mines, Washington, D. C. Cost of production is paid by co-operating industrial concerns, but the pictures are free from trade marks, trade names, or other direct advertising material. Production is in charge of M. F. Leopold, supervising engineer, motion picture section, U. S. Bureau of Mines, Washington, D. C., to whom inquiries concerning production and revision should be addressed. The Bureau's main distributing center is at 4800 Forbes St., Pittsburgh, Pa., in charge of Louis F. Perry, supervising engineer, graphic section.

Department of Justice

Bureau of Prisons

Has one film, "Protecting the Public," 16 mm. sound only, produced for the Great Lakes Exposition, 1936. Address, Bureau of Prisons, Dept. of Justice, Washington, D. C.

Department of Labor

Children's Bureau

Has three 16 mm. silent films on prenatal care, posture and a day in the life of a six-months-old baby. Address, Children's Bureau, Dept. of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Division of Labor Standards

Has a one-reel picture, "Stop Silicosis," 16 and 35 mm. sound. Address, Division of Labor Standards, Dept. of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Women's Bureau

Engages in production and is now distributing three pictures on problems and conditions pertaining to women workers. Address, Women's Bureau, U. S. Dept. of Labor, Washington, D. C.

U. S. Maritime Commission

Has three silent films in 16 and 35 mm. Address, Information Service, U. S. Maritime Commission, Washington, D. C.

National Youth Administration

Has a one-reel 16 mm. silent picture on "NYA Student Aim." Address, National Youth Administration, 1010 Mather Bldg., Washington, D. C.

Department of the Navy

Has about 25 films on scenes of life in the Navy, travelogues, etc. Address, Recruiting Section, Bureau of Navigation, Navy Dept., Washington, D. C.

Pan-American Union

Has about 10 films. Address, Section of Motion Pictures, Pan American Union, Washington, D. C.

Social Security Board

Has a few films. Address, Director of Informational Service, Social Security Board, Washington, D. C.

Tennessee Valley Authority

Has from time to time made engineering and progress motion pictures of the development. These center chiefly about the construction program and the conservation work and parts of these progress pictures have been assembled into subjects. Address, Film Circulation Unit, Information Division, Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tenn.

Treasury Department

Coast Guard

Has three one-reel 16 mm. sound subjects, "The Story of the Coast Guard," "The U. S. Coast Guard Academy," and "Communications-U. S. Coast Guard." Address, Office of Public Relations, Coast Guard, Washington, D. C.

U. S. Public Health Service

Has two 16 mm. silent films each running 30 minutes. "Syphilis: Its Nature, Prevention and Treatment" is intended for the general public. "Syphilis of the Central Nervous System: A Preventable Disease" is intended for informative programs among physicians and health officers. There are also available two sound films, in both 16 and 35 mm. "Syphilis—A Motion Picture Clinic" runs 90 minutes and is intended for the information of physicians. "Three Counties Against Syphilis" runs 20 minutes and is designed to stimulate the interest of health authorities in the institution of rural syphilis control programs. Address, Division of Venereal Diseases, Public Health Service, Treasury Dept., Washington, D. C.

United States Film Service

The U. S. Film Service, a division of the National Emergency Council, has charge of distribution of the two documentary musical films, "The Plow That Broke the Plains" and "The River," both written and directed by Pare Lorentz, and produced by the Farm Security Administration (successor to the Resettlement Administration). Both subjects are available in 16 and 35 mm. sound prints. The Service also acts as an information clearing organization for Government films; operates a consultation and film advisory service for Federal agencies, foundations and schools; prepares visual education materials; and is a production agency for requesting Government departments. Address, United States Film Service, National Emergency Council, Washington, D. C., or 347 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

War Department

The Photographic Division of the Office of the Chief Signal Officer of the Army handles the production and distribution of all military instructional films, and all historical and general interest pictures of the Army except the post war pictures of aviation activities. The Signal Corps produces approximately 20 reels per year of instructional motion pictures on military subjects designed specifically for class use. A number of silent and sound training films on military subjects are available to the Regular Army, National Guard, Organized Reserves, Reserve Officers Training Corps, and other similar patriotic organizations interested specifically in military training. Lists of available films will be supplied upon request to the Chief Signal Officer.

In addition to the training films, the Signal Corps distributes a limited number of general interest pictures on the Army which are available for loan to recognized patriotic societies, schools, organizations, etc., upon payment of transportation costs.

The Signal Corps. is the custodian of the historical motion pictures of the War Dept. and has available for loan a number ot subjects of the World War period. These are available for loan to patriotic societies, schools, organizations, etc. War Dept. policy does not permit the loan of any of these pictures for showing where an admission charge is made. Lists of all classifications are available upon application to the Chief Signal Officer of the War Dept., Munitions Bldg., Washington, D. C. Prints are available to 16 and 35 mm. sound and silent versions. Because of the limited number of prints available, their use is restricted to organizations and groups.

Works Progress Administration

WPA has available five films, "Work Pays America," 40 mins., sound; "Hands," six mins., sound; "We Work Again," 15 mins., sound; "Man Against the River," 10 mins., sound, and "Rain for the Earth," 18 mins., sound. Address, Motion Picture Section, WPA Information Service, 625 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

DISTRIBUTION PERCENTAGES

Sales expectancies in percentages, of national and independent distributors as supplied by a major organization and by a leading state-right authority. While all companies do not use these exact figures, they are average. Also, every company does not have the same boundaries for territories but these are average.

EXPLOITATION DIGEST

● ● ● A compilation of exploitation material is herewith presented that represents a cross-section of typical stunts that are applicable to the various divisions of showmanship. They have proved their merit at the box-office, and the best evidence of their worth is that they have stood the test through the years. With the changing times, there develops a new series of publicity material to meet the modern trends. An effort is therefore made to incorporate any of these that seem to possess the merit of permanency. Every idea from the inception of this Digest, has been selected because of its adaptability to a certain type of picture or to its universal publicity value as a straight theater promotion stunt. Many worthwhile stunts are omitted because they are limited to a specific type of picture, or to one production. The main value of this Manual is in employing it as a Quick Digest List, or to supplement the showman's own file. It is a foundation to help the busy theater man to find quickly and conveniently an idea that will fit in readily with his current campaign.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

● ● ● Acknowledgment is made to the advertising chiefs of the major producers who through the years have aided in compiling this section. Special mention must be accorded William Ferguson of M-G-M, and Joe Weil in the independent field, for their expert advice on Exploitation Trends. The bulk of the stunts themselves have appeared in the excellent weekly exploitation department of "Variety," which generously places its best material at our disposal each year.

THEATER FRONTS

● ● ● Continual change in your theater front is the trick for catching the attention of your public. But the changes must not be radical. The experienced showman knows the value of a change of pace in his fronts. Contrast from week to week, but at the same time building the theater personality into the display, is the thing to strive for.

SILHOUETTES

A AN artist out front is seated certain hours, cutting silhouettes of the star in the feature attraction. He occasionally varies this by cutting a profile of somebody in the watching crowd. Some amateur with talent along this line can be sold the idea of building up some private trade in the town through the reputation he builds himself working in front of your theater.

WIGWAGS

A TWO boy scouts are used, who know the flag telegraph code, and one other youngster who need not. One of the boys is stationed on top of the marquee with a pair of large signal flags. The other signaler is across the street and some distance up or down. The street lad signals the other, who replies, and as he does so the lad on the sidewalk calls off the message to his companion. For a moment the stuff is chatter to suggest that the boys are practicing their scout drill. When a crowd gathers, the message becomes a plug for the coming show. The boy on the marquee is provided with suitable copy, which he should actually transmit. The waving flags add the necessary color and action.

CARNIVAL NIGHT

A USE this one on any feature with a carnival setting. The front of theater is decorated in the carnival spirit. Japanese lanterns are strung under marquee, with 75-watt colored globes. String serpentine paper from the roof to marquee, and from there to the lobby cards. The display is illuminated at night with two flood lights attached to a flasher. It may be possible to line up a carnival parade with the cooperation of the high school students, and make it worth while for them to costume by admitting them free. This gives the merchants a chance to come in with prizes for the best costumes. They get their publicity with the awarding of prizes from the stage.

SHIP ATMOSPHERE

A A three-foot structure is built on the marquee suggesting a ship's rail, with the netting painted on board. Life preservers strung around to give the sales talks on the attraction. Title of the pictures is displayed on the ship's bridge sufficiently above the railing not to be covered up too quickly as a prospect approaches the theater. A pair of shore lights are placed on the edge of the bridge with the lights, like the bridge, facing in both directions. Remember that the green light is on the left as one faces the bridge from the bow, and the red light on the right. If desired, and costs warrant, a mast may be run up with a searchlight and an operator, but just the bridge and rail will get plenty of attention.

SIGN-SAVERS

A GETTING away from standard usage sometimes saves money. Most theaters when they want hanging banners, use sign cloth or paper, but just as good work can be done on builder's sheathing or "rosin" paper neatly tacked to a frame of roofing lath. The paper is given a coat of oil paint of the desired tint, and lettered in with oil or water-color, the latter where the sign is protected from storms. For marquee structures, corrugated paper braced on the back with ordinary plasterers' lath, will often serve as well and is much cheaper than compoboard and much easier to cut out. The design is done on oil paint and the back varnished with "ceiling" varnish, which can be had for less than a dollar a gallon. Such a structure can withstand a moderate amount of rain, and still save considerably on the cost.

WHEEL OF FORTUNE

A A wheel of fortune is rigged up, which patrons spin on the chance of winning free admission. The face of wheel contains pictures of 10 name players booked in pictures coming to your theater during next couple of months. If the wheel stops at picture of player currently at house, it calls for a free ducat. Odds of 150 to one make it a safe proposition for the theater.

NIGHT STUNT

¶ ONE of the best marquee flashes that has ever been used—the Winking Star. It is used with an attractive head of a popular femme star. Use a twinkle light in back of one eye of a cutout head of the star from the 24-sheet. Here is one of the finest of night stunts, that costs little and gets you plenty of comment.

TIMERS

¶ A good-will getter that will meet with general favor from your patrons. Twin clocks are suspended from the glass front of the cashier's cage, facing the public. On a metal plate, about nine by twelve inches, two clocks are set in. One time-piece conveys the correct time, while the time on the second clock is about two hours later. Above the first clock is the legend: "The time is Now—". Over the second clock, the message reads: "You will be Out—". In short, the ticket purchaser knows at a glance not only at what time he is entering, but when he will be exiting.

PATRON BROADCASTS

FUN BARREL

¶ AN old gag, but sure to stop them as they pass your theater front. Passersby are lured by signs to look into the barrel which is set at one end of your front, promising them they will see something funny. They see themselves in a mirror placed in the bottom of the barrel. The lettering around the glass reads: "If you think this is funny, wait until you see (name of coming attraction)." The barrel should be covered inside and out with funny papers.

TRUNK GAG

¶ ONE manager mapped this stunt to introduce a new star to his patrons and put it over with telling results at the box-office. After effecting a tie-up with his local luggage dealer, he had a number of trunks stacked upon the sidewalk in front of the theater. Across these he hung a huge banner with the announcement that a new star has arrived. It drew a crowd to look at the handsome luggage, but they also knew the name of the star and the feature that was his next attraction. This backed by classy lobby material sold his show.

HIDDEN BALLYHOO

¶ A life-size cutout of the star is placed near front of lobby. It is mounted on beaverboard. Completely surrounding the cutout place a number of star stills. A microphone is placed in a spot where the speaker can watch persons looking at the display. As each person examines the display, he is treated to a talk on the highlights of the picture and the work of the star. The announcer in this way has a great opportunity to put over some clever selling talk.

NOVELTY SIGN

¶ WHERE you have a big picture booked in, you can give it a long advance plug with this one. A large sign on the marquee reads: "Thirty days to New Year's, but only 22 days to —." Add the title of picture. Numbers are of course changed daily, and the sign kept going till the day before the feature opens. You can plug special with this one before all the main holidays, such as Fourth of July, Thanksgiving, Christmas, etc.

SOUTHERN CABIN

FEATHER HAT

¶ USE only on exceptional pictures. A large compo board hat is placed atop the marquee. It is lettered "Another feather in our cap." A feather about four feet high, to match the size of the hat, gives the title of the big attraction. As the hat is sufficiently large to be seen two blocks away, it arouses the curiosity of pedestrians till they approach close enough to read the picture title. If this stunt is used on sure-fire shows, the public will get to recognize it as a guarantee of unusual entertainment.

LOBBIES

● ● ● Getting over the atmosphere and appeal of your current show, and plugging your coming attractions, and doing it without confusing the observer, is a showman art. The thing to avoid is overcrowding your Lobby, and thus defeating the purpose.

CANDID SHOTS

A NEW twist to the if-you-see-your-photo stunt by using a candid camera to bring the old-timer up to date. Use on a Saturday matinee, by announcing that all kids will be snapped by the cameraman. The following week, display 25 of the prints in the lobby, with free admission to these youngsters. This way you get them twice—the first time to be snapped, and then to see if they won. Most of the youngsters will come with the coin for admission the second trip, just in case they were not among the winners.

CINDERELLA STUNT

USE this on any prominent star. Local store provides a pair of slippers which are presented to the first woman able to wear them comfortably. A very small size is of course selected. The tryouts can be made in the store, but the lobby is preferable. The trials should be stopped at the peak hours, or the crowd will be inclined to stay outside instead of buying tickets. Better plan is to run off the stunt till a crowd collects, then shut down and display a sign reading: "Next contest at —." That leaves the crowd with nothing to do but disperse or see the show.

TOY TRAIN GAG

THIS toy train contest will get the grown-ups as well as the boys, for all males go for the miniature choo-choo outfits. The cooperating store supplies the trackage, complete train, switches and signal lights. They are all operated from a pair of switchboards. The contestants control the operation of the train from one switchboard, while an attendant puts on the red lights, danger signals and the like. The idea is for the contestants to take the train over the tracks in the shortest possible time. Penalties are imposed for not stopping at stations, whistling for crossings, or halting for danger signals. The winner of contest can be awarded the set, or some other suitable prize.

"LUCKY" 13

A simple yet effective box-office lure. On the 13th of the month, admit every thirteenth customer for half price. This can be elaborated with an assortment of "unlucky 13" props, such as ladders, a prop black cat, etc. The idea is that the number 13 is not unlucky, as proved by the fact that every thirteenth patron saves money on admission.

GHOST MIRROR

ON a feature with the spook angle. Rig up in lobby a narrow box of the height of the average man. There is a hole at top to admit the patron's head. The box carries an invitation to look in the hole and see the ghost. The observer finds his face reflected in dimly lit full-length mirror, with a skeleton body reflected from head to feet from opposite side of box. This gives the observer something of a shock, since the face is undoubtedly his or her's, perched on the body of a skeleton. The people hovering around who have already seen the "ghost," will get a laugh out of the astonishment of the newcomers who try the peep-show.

ANIMATIONS

ANIMATING posters is an old stunt, but falling into disuse in many spots because the sign room is not kept up on its toes. Even a figure that raises its hat or makes a bow will get notice. One good animation can be secured with poster in which one character slugs another. A practical arm can be rigged up and given motive power. The area of the poster in the vicinity of the impact of the blow struck by the player, can be made translucent through waxing, then blacked out save for zig-zag flashes similar to those used in comic strips to indicate a punch. The same motive power that moves the arm makes contact with an electric bulb back of the poster for a fraction of a second, with the result that a vivid flash accompanies the blow. The same mechanical rig can be used on another poster in which a red light in back causes a girl to blush violently when the animated man kisses her. The light can be used as well for pistol flashes and similar effects.

TIME TABLE

WHERE the theater depends largely on drop-in trade, many hesitate because they do not want to walk in on the middle of the feature. If they know the shorts are running, they drop in to get settled and wait. A special lobby sign is placed on one of the easels. It is lettered: "We are now running short subjects. The main feature will start at —" and the time is chalked on a small blackboard space. A clock is just above. In double bill houses it might be a good plan to indicate which picture is on next. In both drop-in spots and nabes there is a feeling that there is only one good feature, and many wish to avoid the padder. Playing up the next appearance of the top feature will often help.

TELEVISION

CAPITALIZATION on public interest in television development can be made very impressive. Television equipment may possibly be borrowed, with a competent expert to explain latest developments. One manager in a big city had a broadcasting unit set up in his lobby, while the glare of photo flood lamps drew the crowd. On opposite side of lobby a television receiving set was placed in a miniature theater where customers saw and heard broadcasts being made from transmitter. The television expert did the broadcasting, and explained briefly advances made in sight transmission.

STAR FRAMES

DIG an old set of frames out of the stock room. Have them painted to match the general color scheme of the theater lounge. Make a list of the stars in the companies whose product you have booked. One frame is dedicated to each of the more prominent players, with the name neatly lettered and a photograph centered. The surrounding space is left for chat about the particular player. The items are taken from the fan magazines, also Variety, which always carries live, up-to-the-minute chatty items about the players. One of the girl ushers does the clipping in her spare time. Items are mounted on light cardboard, and thumbtacked to the frame, which is backed by soft pine, and covered with glass. This stunt gives the fans a chance to follow their favorites closely. In the center of the frame is a tablet announcing the players' coming pictures, with dates added as soon as they become known. Old items are replaced by newer ones, after the frame is filled, the guide being dated credit to the paper from which the item is clipped. When an item mentions two or more players, a neatly typewritten card repeats the item for the other frames. This bulletin board of stars does not require more than three or four hours' work each week.

GUESSING CLOCK

WIND up an eight-day clock at noon, eight days before the opening. Set it at the extreme of slow speed and let the crowd figure just how much time the clock will lose in seven days. Name six prizes, each of a little less value, and award the top prize for the closest estimate made on the first day, and in decreasing value to the sixth day, no estimate being accepted the last day. The idea is that as time passes and the clock continues to lose, estimators can get a better line on how much time is being lost daily. Or else one prize can be given for the best estimate each day. Estimates should be in hours, minutes and seconds.

LOCAL CRITICS

THIS is a good gag for a small town where everyone knows most everyone else. It is based on the psychology that most small towners like to see their names played up. So we have the "Criticism Board," which is used to mount the audience comment. A desk is installed in the lobby, with paper about 3 x 5 inches, with an invitation card over the top of the desk inviting patrons to write out a criticism. These are used on a permanent board with the best and a few of the worst picked out. Most of the slams will be written in an attempt to be funny and will not prove hurtful. All criticism must be signed with authentic names.

MOVIE BAIT

AFTERNOON and night of change of show, have movies taken of folks entering your theater and advertise by slide that the films will be shown the following night as a part of the new program. This may require the services of a professional cameraman, or possibly the town's amateur movie man. Have only about 100 feet made during the afternoon and, if you have enough lights out front or in your lobby, a like amount of footage at night. Have the print ready for the next afternoon and night showing and be sure to announce the stunt in a large frame in your lobby. This stunt has been tried out and proved to be a big business-getter.

SUMMER COLORS

IN order to secure a cool-looking lobby for the hot months, study your color combinations. Try a bright green on a glossy white ground for your signs. Dress up your lobby with a complete suit of signs in this combination and you can ease up on the air conditioner, for the place will look so cool. There is a combination of a light purple, just off the lilac, and a pea green that will give more delicate effects, if a quieter lobby is desired. Deep blue on a greenish light blue can be made to suggest an icy background, and light blue letters against a very faint pink is another good combination that does not heat up. Strong reds and yellows should be omitted from lobby displays until the snow flies. Another inviting stunt is to drop the cross lobby banner down to within eight feet of the floor and light from behind with plenty of rose-colored bulbs. If you use spots, use steel, light blue and pink mediums and lay off the strong purples and reds.

DUALS

¶ WHERE two good films appear on a dual bill, this stunt will attract attention. Two barrels are painted black, and illuminated inside to display the ads on the coming attractions. A sign above the barrels states: "A Double-Barreled Program."

COMEDY SLIDES

¶ ONE of the most successful stunts that a small house can use for comedy effect. Prizes are offered for the most absurd portraits or poses made by amateurs. The best photos are used over a period of weeks, several of them being used as lantern slides at every change of bill. At the end of the contest, the ten best are thrown on the screen and an audience vote taken. The submissions not put on slides are shown in lobby frames. You will find a big proportion of the town filing into your lobby to look over the displays and get a laugh at the funny poses of people they know. Cost of making the slides is small.

FLOWER SHOW

¶ ENLIST the support of the local growers and florists for a fall flower show. Split up the list of awards with a prize for the best bouquets, best chrysanthemums, etc. Get several competent judges. Pick them from out of town, as all the local growers will be in the contest. Contact the women's page editors and the garden clubs, and start in early to build up. It's a lot of work, but it will make your theater a landmark with everybody talking if properly handled.

EYE-TEST

¶ A novelty slant can be given to this poster display. Have card printed up. Similar to the testing charts used by oculists. At the top in large letters is printed: "Test Your Eyes." The rest of the copy is graduated into type size for each line until your entire billing is completed. End up your message with copy about the fact that viewing pictures on your screen is soothing to the eyes. Place this in a prominent spot in your lobby. You will be surprised to see how many people will linger to test their eyes. It makes the stunt more attractive to have each line printed in a different color.

SUMMER FIREPLACE

¶ SET up a fireplace in the lobby during the hot spell, with an electrical coal effect. Set it in a darkened corner of the lobby with a one-sheet against the backing. Those who investigate this winter utility in the hot season are greeted with the breeze from the cooling plant. The cool fire will be talked about in town. Every stranger is run up against the gag, and the word-of-mouth advertising is very effective. The only cost is the cold air. You can promote a coal dealer to pay for the installation in return for a reminder that now is the time to lay in the winter coal.

HOSTESS

¶ SMALL town theaters will find this a good idea to build up matinee business. Employ a hostess as a sort of greeter, spending as much of her time as possible in the lobby. It is her job to get acquainted with the women she does not know. She also contacts her friends, keeps her eye on the children, and generally promotes a spirit of friendliness and goodwill. A good hostess can earn her pay in tickets sold, and by attending women's clubs get over a lot of valuable publicity where it will do the most good.

SPECIAL BOARD

¶ HAVE on hand one large board of emergency purposes for special announcements. This board should have a yellow face, and the lettering in red. Thus it stands out above all the other boards in the lobbies when used. Hold it in readiness for a quick talk to the lobby crowds. It may be used for a clip from the newsreel that has more than ordinary local interest; or to announce a switch in bookings; a special short, etc. Only use this emergency board to announce something worth while. And keep the printed message short and concise. The regulars will come to look for it, knowing it is part of your system, and they will have confidence in its message.

TIE-UPS

● ● ● No department of theater publicity is easier for the exhibitor than Tie-Ups. All the major producers have standardized the national cooperation between manufacturers, dealers and the theater, so that today on any important picture there are available hook-ups with local dealers all set and waiting for the theater man to employ. Here are listed supplementary tie-ups on productions lacking national dealer cooperations.

SOCIALITE STUNT

CAN all-day bally stunt with some society debbie impersonating the society girl role of the star in the feature. The tieup is with the newspaper, which sponsors the stunt in connection with certain department stores and fashion shops which are co-operating. The day's activities will take her on a morning shopping tour, then luncheon, a bridge party, tea, dinner, theater and night club. The girl wears several costumes similar to those of the star.

JAIL BROADCAST

CGOOD novelty tieup with local radio station. The theater manager makes a trip to the penitentiary or reform school with the mobile unit of the studio, and the announcer interviews some youth who has been committed for a first offense. The interview should be broadcast direct from the boy's cell. Of course the stunt is used on a reform school type of film.

SONG WRITERS

CA song writing contest tied in with a music or radio shop, which receives the efforts of the amateur cleffers. In the finals, held on the stage of the theater, the five best are heard. The audience applause decides the three winners in order of merit, who receive prizes of small silver cup and cash.

RADIO QUIZ

CWITH the current popularity of the radio quiz programs, it should not be difficult to arrange a stunt with some prominent local enterprise sponsoring. It can be made a weekly feature for a 15-minute spot. With intelligent handling, this can be built up to great popularity, with some of the questions on each program of special local interest. Of course the quiz contains a plug for the current attraction and the name of the theater.

GARAGE HOOKUP

CTHE garage man builds several boards along a tourist highway with copy like this: "Stop at the Pelham garage for check-up or minor repairs. Drive your car into the garage, drop into the cool Pastine theater to see ———, and your car will be ready and waiting at the door when you have finished the show." Drivers swing their car into the garage, receive a check and pay the charges. They go to the theater nearby, and when they come out, the car is parked alongside with a boy from the garage waiting to turn the car over to the check holder. The theater has the signs painted, and supplies for each change of bill a strip where the blank space occurs in the board, naming the current feature.

CITY DAY

CHAVE the city officials and merchants association join together in a special day named for your town to boost buying. Every merchant in town joins by offering attractive reasons why the citizens should loosen up and buy. Trolleys and buses give free rides to shopping districts during certain hours. Leading garages and parking spaces give free parking to anyone presenting a sales slip from any store. The telephone company phones housewives to remind them of bargain day. Taxi companies cut a flat 25 cents from anywhere in city limits to center. Leading restaurants cut the price on their luncheon menus. The theater can get in on this one to advantage in many ways, especially if you take a lead in promoting the gala day.

BRIDGE PARTIES

CSECURE list of bridge parties for three days prior to your opening. A wire is sent to each hostess, reading along these lines: "It is our pleasure to give you an additional prize, two guest tickets to see (name of attraction) at the (theater), which we think is one of the finest pictures of the year. We sincerely hope that the winner enjoys the entertainment as they did winning your prize. Please present this telegram at the ticket window for admittance." Here is an idea that can be applied to many features.

COOKING SCHOOL

¶ EVERY morning for a week hold a cooking school at your theater. For the instructress have a teacher from a local school. Tie up with local merchants for use of nationally advertised brands of foodstuffs and ingredients. Free admission to the school and a display of the results is the pay-off. Make the stunt for unmarried girls only. If you want to add comedy to the gag, have the cakes, etc., judged by unmarried men.

PERSONALITY CONTEST

¶ A variation on the usual hairdressing contest. The competitors are not asked to imitate the star's hairdress, but are judged on the basis of the hair arrangement that best expresses their personality, as does that of the star in the picture. A natural for the beauty shops, who give it window display. The contest is judged on your stage, with the hairdressers acting as judges.

SPRING OUTFIT

¶ A department store finances this stunt on the question: "What would you buy at (store name) if you had only $100 to spend for a spring outfit?" The stipulation is made that the list must be itemized, with actual prices as listed on price tags in the store. The winner gets the outfit she has selected, and makes several appearances at the theater, wearing the winning costume.

WAITRESS CONTEST

¶ THIS forms a neat ballyhoo for advance publicity on a feature that strikes a waitress angle. Every restaurant competes, selecting the prettiest girl. These entries appear on your stage between the two night shows. The applause of the audience decides the winner. By making it an advance stunt, it gives the girls plenty of opportunity to talk about it to their customers and friends.

AIR CHAT

¶ A radio broadcast plan that gets away from the routine scripts. The announcer opens with a brief newscast, and then adds that he will tell about the coming show at your theater. There is a sound effect of getting a number, and then the manager comes in to tell about the new show in answer to "What have you got next week, Joe?" The idea is to keep it informal and chatty. The story is only touched on briefly but the star, production angles and any good publicity angle are played up. A script must be prepared, to provide for the announcer's breakins and make it all sound informal. The manager merely talks his idea of the picture to the stenog, and she breaks in with the questions.

SODA FOUNTAIN

¶ FOR the neighborhood house with a pop soda fountain close by. It is a combination ticket good for a certain number of sodas, fashioned after the style of a meal ticket with punch spaces for each nickel, to permit a choice ordering. The ticket is sold at face value by the soda fountain. When all of the holes are punched, it is good for one admission to the theater. An ad for your theater is carried in the center of the ticket.

LOCAL NEWS

¶ THIS is good in a small town where your theater is some distance from the newspaper office. Make a deal with the editor to send a man around to your theater every evening and pick up the news. Have a standing screen notice that persons desiring to contribute personal items for the paper may hand them in at the box-office instead of going downtown to the newspaper office. Late items, if important, are phoned in. The editor should appreciate the courtesy, and will be generous with mention of your theater.

ATHLETICS

¶ DONATE a cup to some outstanding athletic meet, to be awarded to the winning team. The trophy is to be presented from the stage of the theater, with the newspaper playing it up in advance, for it is a natural to build circulation among the athletic interests of the city. Your announcement cards of the contest are displayed at the athletic association, hotels and all places where the athletic fraternity gather. This contest can be used on swimming, basketball, baseball, football.

HOME TRADE

¶ A campaign to promote shopping in town, instead of traveling in the family bus to the neighboring city. A tieup is made with merchants for ad space in their newspaper ads in return for a screen campaign on the "trade at home" movement. The stores run the theater name and that of the current attraction somewhere in their ad. Your theater pays for the slides, and the merchants buy the newspaper space. With a merchants' committee organized to line everybody up, this home town ballyhoo can be made very popular and profitable.

BABIES' PHOTOS

ONE stunt that never fails when properly handled is the baby photographed in a prize contest, for it has an irresistible appeal to the mothers. This plan keeps it going for several weeks, and consequently the interest keeps mounting as the finals approach. A local photographer comes in on the stunt. He makes one print and one lantern slide of all entrants sent him by the theater. The slides are exhibited in batches of ten for a ten-week period, with votes cast for a winner of each week's contest. On the eleventh week the winners of the ten contests are again voted for the grand prize. The cost to the theater is merely for the ballots. The photographer is willing to work free for the sales he makes to the parents, and the attendant publicity.

SANTA CLAUS

SEVERAL theaters in town can work together on this Christmas stunt. It is worked in conjunction with a local department store's holiday parade. The children in the parade march from the department store to the railroad station. At the station, Santa Claus, accompanied by Mickey Mouse, and perhaps a girl who has won a Shirley Temple likeness contest, board a float, and the parade heads back to the various theaters, where a morning show is given for the children. They are admitted free under a tie-up with the department store.

DOLL DRESSING

TIE up with a store selling thread, needles and material so that you can stage a doll dressing contest for girls. Have a woman from the store attend the contest and aid the girls in planning the costumes. Suitable gifts can be given the winners. This can be staged for personal wear, and if you do, contact sewing circles and teachers. Parents will like this stunt and will co-operate. The stunt should be staged on a Saturday morning and you can invite all contestants to stay for the show.

FOOTBALL

TIED in with a local dealer, the winner of this stunt can be given a trip to see the out-of-town game of the home football team. The merchant passes out tickets with each dollar of purchase. The tickets are deposited in a box at the theater. At the end of the week, the individual who has deposited the largest number is given the trip to see the local eleven in action in some adjoining town. In the event of a game at home, a number of good stadium seats are the prizes, to compensate for the out-of-town seats that of course include rail fare.

AUTO PLUG

A STRONG tie-in with local auto dealer on the occasion of the new car model arriving in town. Can be effectively used only on a picture whose title lends itself to the stunt, such as "The Whole Town's Talking." The public is invited to submit short stories on the outstanding features of the new model. No strings or limitations. Anybody of age is eligible. Stories are deposited in a receptacle in theater lobby. Prize is one of the new cars for the most effective plug. Award is made from stage on closing night of picture. Advertise it heavily with dealer co-op in newspapers and with throwaways.

MARATHON

THIS one is sure-fire, for it costs practically nothing and brings your theater to the attention of thousands in a more or less dramatic manner. Two runners are sent out to cover the last two miles of the marathon race. They start a few minutes ahead of the leaders, and of course as they sweep into view they attract plenty of attention. On their backs they carry signs reading: "We are running to see (star) now playing in (picture) at (theater)."

MOTHERS' DAY

THERE is a goodwill builder that can't miss, with all the local tradesmen ready to kick in on this Mothers' Day plan. The inmates of the home for the old folks are the guests for the day. Automobiles provide them a tour of nearby points of interest. From the florists come bouquets for the ladies. The theater of course is the climax of the activities, the guests being driven there for the show. The finale is a visit to a restaurant for light refreshments.

PREMIUMS

THIS one can be used to fill the theater at the early matinees, and just before the price boost for the evening. To the first hundred femmes, with or without escorts, arriving at the first morning show, the ushers present a bottle of lotion for the hands, attractively wrapped, and carrying a card of coming attractions. For the early evening show, the gift can be a small bottle of perfume. Through your local druggist's cooperation, a manufacturer can be lined up who will provide the samples.

BALLYHOOS

● ● ● The Ballyhoos listed have been selected because they are adaptable to a variety of pictures. Every showman knows that a big proportion of pictures call for originating the ballyhoo to fit the atmosphere or some natural showmanship quality of the feature. However, the list herewith will also help in that situation, as many of them can be readily adapted to the attraction the exhibitor is considering.

GIRL COPS

TWO attractive girls are dressed in special abbreviated police uniforms. They distribute printed "summonses" to passersby. They can attract even more attention working at a busy traffic intersection, and handing the summonses to the motorists as the traffic lights halt them. The announcements request the appearance of the reader at the theater where a feature with a court atmosphere is showing.

HALLOWE'EN SHOW

SPECIAL announcements plugging a Hallowe'en Spook Show are made over the public address system set up in front of the theater, while two girl ushers dressed as farmerettes distribute glasses of cider to passersby. Cider should also be on tap in a barrel in front of the theater, which is decorated with pumpkins, cornstalks, Spook Show posters, etc.

BOY MAYOR

ON a feature with a strong boy hero angle, have some boy impersonate him, and secure his appointment as mayor-for-a-day in conjunction with some civic event or "good-citizenship" activity. The schools cooperation can be secured with the help of the teachers of civics. Also a tie-up angle with stores is possible, through having the boy mayor visit certain establishments.

WRECKED CAR

ALWAYS good for a Safety Drive, or any film with an auto racing slant. Get police permission to feature a wrecked car, if possible one that has recently figured in a local smashup. Placard the car: "Drive carefully. You may be next." Add the theater advertising. The car should be displayed in a roped arena in the center of town for advance week, and parked at the theater for the run. The newspaper can give this a boost hammering on the safety angle.

FIGHT STUFF

YOU can have the town gaping with this ballyhoo. An open car drives up to a street corner, and a couple of youths in bath robes jump out. The car driver rings a gong and the youths toss off the robes, emerge in ring togs and put on a fast round of fisticuffs. Then the gong rings again, and the driver unfurls a banner advertising the current or coming attraction, which of course is concerned with the prize-ring. Then the car moves on to another busy corner. A couple of boys on the theater staff can play the fighting roles, and they will find it a lot of fun.

FOR A THRILLER

FOR a thrill-shocker. Have a nurse in attendance. She works with a "plant," who faints at each performance. The "casualty" is taken from the theater front in an ambulance, in full view of the lines waiting to go in. The plant gets a ride of a few blocks, and then walks back to do the act all over at the next showing. A supplementary bally is to promote aspirin sample packages from manufacturer to be handed out on the streets, with the printed message on the package: "Bring this when you see —— at the ——. You'll need it."

PERAMBULATORS

ALWAYS effective at the Summer resorts, the old perambulator will get attention for your picture. The trick auto is the best, and is easy to construct. Use the stripped chasis of an old car on which to build a temporary framework. The locomotive is standard stuff, as well as the land ship. The latter can be anything from a Chinese junk to a submarine. The structure can be compo board, but easier construction can be had with cloth and split bamboo, heavy wire or split saplings. These can be bent into the required framework, and covered with cloth. Mail order houses frequently offer remnants of sheetings, and dry goods jobbers may have a bolt or two of some brand no longer stocked. Fire sales of fabric damaged by smoke and water are particularly good, as the cloth must be painted over.

PLAY BALL

¶ THE time-honored stunt of dropping a baseball from a building at the opening of the local season. The best way to handle this stunt in order to prevent someone from getting hurt, is to arrange to toss the balls to the players in the regular or semi-pro nines, with the general crowd merely getting the spectacle for attendance. Space in front of the building should be roped off, not only to give the players a chance, but to keep spectators out of the danger area.

CANDID SHOTS

¶ THERE is a personal touch about this ballyhoo that never fails to intrigue the femmes, for it hits the vanity angle. The candid cameraman stunt is pulled on as many girls and women as you care to photograph. Caught on the street of course, the women shoppers between 16 and 30 are lensed by the cameraman. He hands them prepared postcards for their name and address, which when mailed to the theater brings them their photo, which is sent to them with the compliments of the star in your current attraction. This lends the stunt a personal touch. The angle here is that the women show the pix to their friends, with resultant advertising for the feature.

TRAVELING JAZZ

¶ WITH the assistance of five high school boys musically inclined, this stunt gets over attractively. They team up as a jazz band, consisting of a piano, drums, clarinet, trombone and sax or cornet. A Ford truck can be gotten from the dealer in return for a banner on the truck. The music store furnishes one of those miniature pianos. The truck parks occasionally in front of the music store. If the attraction has a musical number, they feature this in their repertoire. During selling hours, the truck plays in front of the theater. Easy to enlist the boys for this, as they play after school hours, and get passes for the show.

CHARITY DRIVE

¶ GOOD for the Red Cross, or any local charity drive. A framework ticket kiosk is built, light enough to be carried around the streets by one man. He sells special tickets for the feature advertised, the structure being plastered with announcements that a percentage on all tickets purchased from this special office would be donated to the Red Cross or other local charity involved. A girl in Red Cross uniform can accompany the ballyhoo to help. The special tickets are only good for the opening day.

FOR MEN ONLY

NOVELTY GAG

CURIOSITY-BUILDERS

¶ LEARN to capitalize on natural human curiosity. One outstanding example is the undated 24-sheet which is permitted to stay up while people wonder to which house it is coming. Another is the trick painted sign. Put in a few letters at a time, with the letters being scattered about so that the clue to the title is kept obscure as long as possible.

FALL OPENINGS

¶ FOR the Fall opening, try to plan something in the way of a civic event that will stir up business for the entire town. The well planned civic event with a parade can create town-wide interest. There will be a parade of industrial floats, autos containing the entrants in a star resemblance contest to be decided at the theater and programs listing the coming attractions. The mayor will speak and the governor will send a letter of congratulation at the urge of his party leader in town. Where a civic parade is not possible, it is practical to send out a house parade. This is better in a small town if the event can be made of sufficient importance to draw them in from the country. The merchants are persuaded to offer special bargains and to circularize the country trade.

WINDOW DISPLAYS

● ● ● With the national advertisers sold on window displays through the tie-ups with the major producers, the local dealers have also been educated up to the advantages of cooperating with the theater. So the local dealers selling these national advertised products are ready to place their windows at your disposal. The following Window Displays will help to interest him.

FEATURE NOVEL

TIE in with book and drug stores on your feature when it is an adaptation from a popular novel. Secure a window in an empty store near the theater, and fill it with copies of the novel. A large card in the window lists the names of stores where the book is on sale.

IDENTITY CARDS

THIS one is particularly appropriate for an art store or stationery dealer, or any establishment that takes orders for business or personal calling cards. The store places about twenty calling cards in the window. Each card contains the name of a local resident. When they identify themselves at the store, they receive a theater pass. This is always a good draw for the dealer, as it keeps crowds in front of the window trying to pick out their names.

MYSTERY DISPLAY

THE dealer has his window dressed with stills from a future attraction, with poster cutouts as a background. All billing or printed matter on stills and paper is eliminated. Offer prizes to person who submits the best title to display, or who can exactly name the coming attraction. The only printed matter in the window is a card stating this offer, and the fact that the window decorations represent a popular film soon to be shown on your screen. The strength of the idea lies in the fact that spectators will search for the title through newspapers and advance theater ballyhoo. The stunt can be made more difficult by eliminating stills of the stars, and only playing up the characters less familiar to the public.

TOY TRAIN

A TOY electric train is running through a miniature scene, entering and emerging from tunnel entrances at the rear. Back of the tunnel is boxed in with a semi-circular structure that carries out the idea that the train merely rounds a curve to come out on the other side. Over the display is a big sign reading: "Watch the train change signs." This concentrates attention on the sign, which practically covers the train. One time it advertises the top feature and then the second attraction, but there seems to be no way in which the change can be effected. People watch and watch, but the alteration is uninterrupted. The answer is that there are two trains. When one runs into the tunnel entrance, instead of swinging around the curve it runs over an extension track, while the second train, bearing the other sign, emerges from the tunnel mouth. The trackage is just sufficiently long to detain the first train until the second has made its exit. Extra trackage runs through the rear of the window and into the empty store, but the curved housing suggests there is no way out.

IMPERSONATORS

THE Wild West cycle gives a chance for staging a cowboy and Indian parade, but with an added kick. Since most play suits the kids wear look alike, coming as they do from the same stores, it is a safe plan to base the prizes on the accessories used, such as bows and arrows, belts, holsters and the like. Stipulation should be made that they be home-made. The best set-ups are given display in a store window, following the awards, with the stuff going back to the owners after display. To dress up the window, there is always a chance for a loan exhibit of old-time Western curios. Suitable ticket prizes to the donors.

BROKEN WINDOW

ONE of the best of the window stunts is the "broken" window. It is easily produced without injuring the glass plate. The effect is obtained by cutting some object apart, and pasting the halves to either side of the glass. There are a number of cements that can be used, and easily removed with alcohol. A wooden brick, for example, is cut on a slant and the two halves carefully matched. Realistic-looking cracks are drawn with soap, and the result is something that will stop the average pedestrian dead in his tracks. Baseballs, bits of scantling, and even a can of paint, have been successfully used.

FISH ILLUSION

ONE of the crowd-stopping window stunts is the Phantom Fish Globe. The window display consists of a screen of fairly large size in the center of which is a fish globe set snugly into an opening and not filled with water. At intervals the globe suddenly becomes populated with goldfish which as suddenly vanish again. A slight flicker of the lights suggests an illusion of some sort, but without giving much of a clue. The trick is based on the old Galatea effect, in which a light is turned on and off a similar globe back of the screen, backed by a black velvet "tent" or enclosure. The other part of the apparatus is a sheet of polished glass, also backed by black velvet. This is directly behind the globe, but is set at such an angle that when the light is on the hidden globe it will be reflected into the eyes of the spectators focussed on the visible globe. When the light is on the hidden globe, which should be slightly larger than the visible one, the empty visible globe suddenly becomes apparently filled with water in which fish are swimming. Some nice adjustment is required before the gag is exactly right, but once the glass is set in its proper relation to the two globes, the rest is easy.

NOVELTY CARD

ONE method for getting away from the simple window announcement card. Instead of the usual theater announcement card placed in a store window, try tricking it up. Set a mirror at an angle, and fasten the card above it so it will be reflected into the glass, but naturally in reverse. Passersby who would not ordinarily give a glance at the straight card, will stop and stare at this one and try to read the text backward through the mirror. This is just utilizing a natural curiosity in the average person.

MINIATURES

YOU can be set for a neat window display any time on a moment's notice if you will start now to collect the necessaries, as follows: Watch the toy shops and specialty stores for miniatures. Model houses will be the foundation for your miniature set. Be on the lookout all the time for tiny furniture and animals. Build up a stock and be ready. Make up trees and fence rails, keep some sand handy, and for a lake you can have a tin pan painted sand color around the rim and a greenish blue below the water level. It is possible with this set-up to work out an idea for almost any outdoor picture. Often a single scene like this in a window will get you more than a dozen big stands elsewhere. A switch to get day and night lighting effect is highly desirable. You can pull this several times a year, for the public never seems to tire of miniature displays.

THE MAGIC SIGN

THIS one will catch the eye of every passerby. Secure an empty store with a deep show window. Screen the window so that the rear is in darkness. Adjust a sign with the title of your coming attraction painted in red flitter on a black background. Entire display should be lighted by a single baby spot from the front. Before the spot put a color wheel with alternate mediums of red and green revolved by a small motor. When the green spot hits the sign the lettering will disappear since the green and red make an approximate black. With the red spot the lettering will show up brightly. This can be elaborated upon by two sets of letters, in red and green, which alternately appear and disappear. It isn't complicated and it is effective.

TABLEAU

ONE showman in a small community was after something unique when he hit on this one. The idea was to have a tableau duplicate a scene-still from his coming attraction. He selected a pose with four figures, dressed a window in the furniture store to suggest the background, and arranged with members of an amateur dramatic society to do the posing. Then he advertised it as a living poster to be shown in that window on a certain day, and urged all the town to come and witness a poster do an "awakening of Galatea" by coming to life. In one corner of the window the still was displayed in a frame. Alongside was a sign reading: "Watch This Come To Life." Every so often at a signal, the players would rise from their chairs, strike the exact pose of the still, hold it for 30 seconds, and then break the pose and return to their seats, or step out of the window for a rest. The value of the attraction was in the fact that most of the spectators remained watching at the window to wait for the next tableau, just to see if they posed it exactly the same way again. The players had been well rehearsed to strike the same pose each time, and this was the trick that put the stunt over big.

STOCKING MODEL

THIS is about the best of the window stocking parades of live models. The shade is drawn down to expose only the lower part of the window. This reveals a row of lifelike stocking models. A sign states that only one pair of the legs is animated with live limbs, and challenges the spectators to pick the right pair. The girl must be selected for her ability to hold her limbs absolutely quiet. With a properly trained girl, the effect is really baffling. The model takes a ten-minute rest every so often. This serves to disperse the crowd so that a new audience may form. The model of course keeps changing her position in the line for each performance.

HOME ATMOSPHERE

IF your town has not seen this one, it will arouse plenty of word-of-mouth comment among men and women. It is advertised as the girl who spends three days in the store window on a bet or a dare. An electric range permits her to prepare her own meals, and she can even invite friends in for a visit or a bite to eat. The curtains are drawn only when she is dressing, and she sleeps under a dim blue light. This novelty is ideal for a furniture store window, with advertising for the house furnishings as well as the picture. If desired, the girl can wear a half-mask to make it mysterious, or preserve her anonymity. This stunt will go best in small towns.

CLOWN STUNT

A GOOD clown can hold the afternoon shoppers in suspense with this one. In the store window the clown affixes cutout letters to an easel announcing the attraction. He carefully spells out the title of the feature, and turns to the audience. As he does so, the letters fall to the ground. He expresses surprise at the laughter of the crowd, turns, sees the letters on the floor, and starts all over again. The trick is this: The panel on the easel is of fine wire cloth. A vacuum cleaner is hitched to an airtight box in back of it, creating a suction that holds the letters in place. In front of the easel is a switch that the clown works with his foot to shut off the current. This eases the suction, and the letters fall.

MYSTERY HOUSE

A GOOD novelty to play on a mystery feature. A window is secured in an empty store. Have a model made of the mystery house similar to the one in the feature attraction. Ribbons of various colors run from the different windows of the house, with cards pasted at the other ends explaining the various mysterious elements leading up to the mystery. This is a great stunt to arouse the curiosity of the window-lookers, and creates an urge to see your feature.

LOCAL BEAUTIES

THE students of a local school select the six prettiest girls by popular vote. Photos of each winner are displayed in a photographer's window. In the copy mention that an autographed photograph of any movie star selected by each one of the girls will be given prizes. These photographs can be secured from the publicity department of the company home offices. The newspaper can tie in nicely with this stunt by running the photos. You can go further by having one grand prize for the prettiest girl in the group.

LOAN EXHIBITS

THE loan exhibit is sure-fire in town or country. When you have a feature with an old time flavor like "The Bowery" coming along, start in early and promote the loan of old costumes, furniture, or anything that goes back to the time of the picture. Offer prizes for the most interesting antiques and tickets for all loans. Get your paper interested in helping to collect the loans. The store that gets the display has a sure-fire attraction, and ought to help out generously on the prizes. Properly handled, it is good for a big write-up in the papers, giving interesting yarns about various heirlooms and the original owners.

AIRPLANE MODELS

TIE-UP with a department store and display a number of models made by amateurs. Copy in the window should read that the winning display will be exhibited in the lobby of your theater and that free passes will be given the victors. Have as judges some local aviator and the head of the toy department of the store. Be sure to mention that each model will be returned to its owner, at the end of the contest. This gives the merchant a chance to not only display his other toys in the window but the children will enter the store to secure the return of their model.

PEEP SHOW

HERE is one that can be worked immediately following a nationally interesting prize fight. In a window of a main street store fix up a peek-box. Have the small opening up close to the window and about the height of a medium sized person's eyes from the street. Display a sign stating, "Look! See Why —— Lost the Fight!" When they look in the hole they see a card on which is printed "—— Lost the Fight because he had seen (name of picture) and he couldn't stop laughting." It's not new but worked with a fight should get more attention than worked without any special tie-up.

HOBBIES

THERE is a dandy that will attract a wealth of attention. Stage a hobby contest by inviting entrants to supply you with exhibits. You'll get miniature ships, stamp collections, all sorts of things that you never had thought could be classed as hobbies. Have each write a short note on a card regarding the hobby. Display the collection in a nearby window and also display a card telling at which performance the winner will be announced. Give some attractive prize. Have local newspaper people as the judges.

HORROR SHOWS

A WINDOW filled with various nerve tonics gets over the idea for your thrill picture that is a natural chiller. Get all the various brands, and the market is filled with them. The druggist can easily fill his window. The card gets over the suggestion that the picture carries so many chills that it would be a good idea to brace up before attending your theater. Swell for a string of chain stores, but the one-window play in a small town is all you need.

ARTIST

PROPERLY built up by the department store, this can result in strong publicity for both store and theater. The department store engages an artist to appear in a window at certain hours. The artist makes sketches of the star of the feature, models of the store's new style creations, and every once in a while sketches one of the onlookers. Stills and cards in window tie up your feature attraction.

STAR MODEL

IF it is possible to secure the real gown worn by the star from the studio, this can be built up into a real fashion furore in your city. But a replica of the gown will serve the purpose. It should be some striking new trend in fashion, first worn by the star in this picture. Secure a girl whose proportions approximate those of the star, to do the modelling. This should be good for a nice newspaper break, with photographs of the star wearing the gown, and the local model alongside for comparison purposes on the part of the femme readers. This should be easy to sell for the fashion page. The store naturally comes in for a big share of the publicity.

SEALED BIDS

THIS is a welcome plan for the dealer, as it enables him to dispose of any trade-in used radios that he has on hand. The radio store announces a "silent auction," with those interested requested to drop a sealed bid in a box provided for that purpose at the theater lobby. On Saturday evening the bids are opened, and the sets delivered to the highest bidders from the stage. This stunt can be worked on a variety of articles that any dealer is trying to move off his shelves. It makes a strong window attraction, as the articles in the auction are on display all week.

SIGN BUILDER

THE main requisite in this one is to secure a very attractive girl. The girl is placed in the merchant's window, operating an easel with a beaver board about three by four feet. She is provided with cutout letters, 12 inches high, made of bright colored cardboard. These she pins on the board till the title of your feature is spelled out. There is a sign alongside that ties up with your theater. The girl varies her work by displaying a variety of signs on another easel, plugging the store's products. While the onlookers are reading these, the girl picks the cardboard letters from the first sign, and repeats the performance.

MERCHANT SPONSORS

ARRANGE for a group of merchants to sponsor the Wednesday show. Under the plan, special Merchants' Matinee coupons are placed in all business houses of the city. They are given, without cost or requirement, to men, women and children wishing to attend the show. The coupon admits patron for the matinee for ten cents, and fifteen cents in the evening. Patrons without coupons must pay the regular fee.

KISS-PRINT

PASS out cards after the show to young ladies. The cards state that a prize will be offered for the most attractive kiss imprint placed on the card. They perform this via lipstick, sign their name and address, and leave the cards at the box office. The card states that on a certain evening the award of the prize will be made from the stage.

STAND-INS

A NOVEL Stand-In stunt for the fans who are particularly keen about a certain star. At the photo gallery in the nearby amusement park, or in the downtown section where they turn out those quick photos, supply the place with large-size cutouts of the stars that you play at your theater. The posters are mounted on compo board, with the top cut away to permit the poser to place his head where that of the star should be. This is an old reliable stunt, that can be revived any time, anywhere, with good results.

NEWSPAPERS

● ● ● More and more the newspaper editor is ready to work hand in hand with the theater, which is proved by the fact that more space is being given in news and editorials and photographs of motion pictures and Hollywood doings than ever before. The public demands its movie news, and so you can always get the attention of your local newspaper with an intelligent idea that will work fifty-fifty.

KID MATINEE

¶ YOU may be able to interest the local newspaper in establishing a Junior Birthday Club, with the names of members printed in a birthday greeting box on the occasion of their anniversary day. With such a newspaper club, plenty of stunts for tieing in with your Saturday morning show will prove beneficial to both the newspaper and theater. One sure-fire idea is to have the newspaper take motion pictures of the children outside the theater before the Saturday show. These are shown at the next week's show. Another build-up for both theater and paper is to allow the members of the newspaper birthday club to attend the Saturday matinee for half price on special occasions.

FUN ON A BUDGET

¶ TIE up with newspaper on a promotion of a contest whereby the couples prove how much fun they can have in an evening's high jinks on a limited sum of money. The stunt is of course used in connection with some picture showing the trials and tribulations of a young married couple on a limited income. The paper selects certain couples, gives them each $2 for their evening's fun. They submit an account of their jaunt around town, and itemize their expense account to show they stayed within the prescribed sum. A money prize is given to the couple who in the opinion of the editor, enjoyed the most fun on the $2 budget. Three couples should be selected. For illustration: a young married couple more or less popular around town; a high school pair; a newlywed couple in moderate circumstances.

THEATER CALENDAR

¶ A GOOD play for femme patronage. Publish a theater calendar once a month in the newspaper. A free show is staged at the end of each month for all women who have clipped out the calendar and kept it during the four-week period. The theory is that the housewife will check each show she wishes to see on the calendar, and be less apt to forget it than if she depends on watching the daily newspaper ads.

OLDEST COPY

¶ THIS one can be worked anywhere on any classic that is made into a motion picture. It appears in the classified ads. The theater offers $5.00 for the loan of the oldest copy of the book on which the film is based. Upon securing an old copy, the theater manager writes the ad manager of the paper telling of his success. The newspaper reproduces the letter. The letter is worded in such a fashion to get a strong plug for the picture while apparently only praising the want ad results.

AD STYLES

¶ WHEN your newspaper ads seem to lose drawing power, try making a switch in style. If you are using more than a six-inch space, change over to the open letter style. Write a breezy chat about the picture instead of using smash lines as display. You can use the same lines if you want, but work them into a running comment on the picture. Use open space top and bottom, and decorate with a head cut from some large ad mat. You can cut down your space and still be so different on the page that yours will be the first announcement read. When that wears off, you can go back to regular display, but the open letter style should give you more punch in smaller space. Have the copy set in 10 or 12 point, leaded, and make it so easy to read that people are willing, and so bright that people look for more.

JUVENILE ATHLETES

¶ WITH the vacation season many cities devote their school yards to recreational centers to keep the children off the streets. It is a simple matter in most instances to tie up to this project with an athletic league, sponsored by the theater and conducted by those having charge of the playgrounds. A few medals just before school opens again gives a talking point that will last all Summer. Often this stunt can be broken into a newspaper where contests and similar hook-ups have been done to death. The circulation manager and the editor may see nothing in a week's contest, but they will appreciate an eight or ten weeks' feature that will appeal to parents and children alike. With the paper in, it may also be possible to promote other prizes from the merchants. If it can be arranged, talks by athletic coaches at matinees should further build the kid patronage. Theater parties each week for the playground showing the best results is another help.

SILHOUETTES

¶ HAVE the newspaper publish, each day, the silhouette of a prominent resident of the community, man or woman, with the stunt being for readers to guess who it is. Have one to five prizes each day. A variation of this stunt is to publish a photograph of some well known native son or daughter. The photograph shows the back of the head, or the head slightly turned.

SOAP BOX DERBY

¶ HAVE the newspaper sponsor an Annual Soap Box Derby. The home-made "racing cars" of the first 15 boys who enter are placed on display in the lobby the week before the event. Have an instructor on hand to give the boys advice on the construction of models. The newspaper can make a big thing of this event if it is tied up with the national finals.

ROAMING CAMERA

¶ YOU can't go wrong with this one. It's old, but always clicks. Have a roaming photographer from the newspaper take still pictures of various groups at certain hours on the streets of your town. The paper should announce that pictures taken one day will be reproduced in all editions the next. Persons locating themselves in the reproduction will receive a ticket to your theater. The stunt is sure-fire for the circulation department of the paper, a business-getter for you, and also a fine tie-up plan for merchants whose stores show in the photograph. This of course is the really big angle for the paper, which gives merchants who are good advertisers a break, by having their establishments as the backgrounds of the photographs wherever possible.

PLANTING STORIES

¶ OFTEN the best results come not so much from newspaper stories written by the theater for publicity, but from a story written by some reporter from a tip given by the management. Planting stuff in this manner has become a lost art in many theaters. The alert manager makes a point of feeding material to the reporters whether or not it concerns his theater. If he hears a bit of gossip, he passes it along. He offers suggestions for other stories, and in between he shoves in something about the house. These stories may not concern the feature being run, but they create a more permanent interest in the theater itself as a place of entertainment. People, for instance, are interested in just how much electricity it takes to run a feature through the projectors. They seldom realize that smoothness of performance is due to the efficiency of the change-over signals. There are dozens of similar items that are commonplace to every manager, but interesting to the average reader, and which the reporter will be glad to work into a story. It pays to play up the theater as well as the current attraction.

CITY TRIPS

¶ ROUND up a half-dozen merchants to kick in on a round-trip ticket to the nearby big city, with a three-day hotel accommodation. It is worked along the usual lines of a coupon with each dollar purchase, the trip going to the person holding the largest number of coupons. These must be dropped in a box at the theater. The daily paper gives ten consecutive stories in return for a double-truck announcement. Merchants keep plugging the stunt in their daily ads. The theater makes announcements from the stage, and carries a lobby sign with the names of cooperating merchants prominently displayed.

BUSINESS GIRL WEEK

¶ ON any picture with a business girl angle. Induce the local authorities to proclaim the week during showing of the film as "Business Girl Week." The mayor issues a special proclamation which is played up by the newspapers. The mayor in his announcement calls attention to the community importance of the business girl in all occupations. The stores can cooperate and benefit by offering attractions and inducements for the patronage of the business girls.

MYSTERY STORIES

¶ WELL in advance of the playing of a thrilling mystery film, offer a season pass to the person sending in the best story under the heading, "My Most Horrible Experience." Advertise that all acceptable articles will be published by the newspaper, and if you think it advisable, have the winning article read from the stage when the presentation to the winner is made. The contest should result in a series of interesting and human-interest articles in the newspaper. Of course, all articles submitted should first be read by you and any undesirable or unusable material eliminated, and only worthwhile contributions submitted to the paper.

PERSONAL TOUCH

A GOOD angle to use in your advertising where the feature is big but has no particular box office strength, yet you know if you can get them in that they will like it. You can't do it with adjectives in your ads, so do it along these lines: Your copy might read: "I can't tell you how good this picture is. You'd think I was lying. Come and see for yourself if it isn't a real treat." This method of approach leaves you in a nice position for your next anonymous feature with class, for the public has now learned from experience that you won't fool them.

NEWSREELS

TOO many managers regard the newsreels as part of the furnishings of the theater instead of a real ticket-seller. The newsreels can be made a positive aid to the box office with very little effort. One manager makes a point of having his patrons vote on national issues featured in the newsreel and the newspapers. A sign in the lobby calls attention to the newsreel special, and suggests that people see the newsreel and then vote for or against the proposition as they leave the theater. In the inner lobby a ballot box is placed with a supply of votes and pencils for marking. An attendant gives a ballot to each person who is interested. The theater sends the tabulation of votes to the newspaper, which finds it an interesting news item on local opinion concerning the national question.

DAILY MENTION

THIS plan will cost you only 12 tickets daily for as many mentions of the theater in the paper. The newspaper selects the names of twelve subscribers, and prints each name in a 21-line space, in addition to giving a front-page announcement. Those whose names are mentioned, pick up their tickets from the newspaper office.

LOST AND FOUND

TIE in with the newspaper, which offers two tickets to each person who finds an article advertised in its lost and found columns. The finder first returns the article to the owner, who gives a personal reward. Then the finder calls at the newspaper office for the free tickets. The paper of course plays this double reward up in plugging its lost and found column.

MEASUREMENTS

THE love of contests, and a natural desire to evince skill in guessing contests particularly, makes this a strong stunt at this time, with contests of all descriptions running in the newspapers. The questions to be answered are printed in a coupon run in the newspaper. How tall is (name of star in next week's attraction)? What size hat? Shoes? Gloves? Collar? Socks? Readers are expected to guess the star's exact measurements. Give an enlarged still of the star, or a pair of tickets as the prize. On the day you announce the winner, have an enlarged telegram, supposed to have come from the Hollywood studio, giving the star's exact measurements, which can be secured from the publicity department of the home office. This wire will make a strong display for your front, surrounded by coupons received from contestants.

ESSAY CONTEST

PICK out a feature with an historical background, and interest the high school history instructor in an essay contest. Plenty of publicity can be secured by tieing up with the grammar or high school, offering a prize for the best essay on a subject bearing a connection with the theme of the coming attraction. Handle this through the newspaper by having them announce the contest. The paper builds up a nice feature by printing the best essays on its home page.

CLASSIFIED ADS

FOR use in the paper's classified column. The theater contributes 10 tickets as prizes for the best answers to five questions about classified ads in the current issue. Used for the merchant advertisers rather than for the job seekers, and of more permanent benefit. A sample set of questions, for instance, calls for identification of three slogans of merchants, the name of a firm handling weather strips, and the name of the prominent dealer who is going to move on the first of the month. In return for the tickets, the theater receives a flash ad for the current attraction.

SPECIAL EXTRA

THIS ad stunt is only good at long intervals, since it is the unusual quality that gets it over. Run your formal ad for the picture with the usual pressbook cut. Alongside that ad, run another in double-column space, in which you talk somewhat like this: "We hasten to place this addition to our advertisement before the newspaper goes to press." The remainder of your talk is all straight type set in bold italics, in which you jubilate over the excellence of the show and the picture. It must be done in a natural tone of self-congratulation and modest pride that rings true. It is that "something different" that catches the reader's eye and impresses with its sincerity. Of course your feature must have the quality of extra strong appeal to back up your statement.

PRINTED MATTER

● ● ● Always surefire, and delivering publicity at minimum cost, Printed Matter is a field in which every exhibitor can exercise his showmanship profitably. Intelligent use of printer's ink brings big returns to any theater.

HIDDEN TREASURE CARDS

THESE Hidden Treasure cards are issued to regular customers. They are designed along the lines of the numbered meal tickets used in cafeterias. The card has 20 spaces to be punched out, and the ticket-taker punches one for every paid admission that is marched through the turnstile. When it is punched out, the holder turns it into the box-office. A secret panel at the bottom is opened, and the amount of money that it calls for is presented. There are no blanks, and awards can run up to several dollars.

FUTURE PASSES

YOU can build up your summer business with this one. At the end of June, issue 500 passes good any time between Monday and Friday the third week in September. The pass must be stamped each week from the time it is issued until the final date. Use any rubber stamp of a cartoon character which can be bought at the stationers. Change the stamps weekly. It is not required that a ticket be purchased at the time the pass is stamped, but the people come to your lobby, and that's more than half way into your theater. The pass will be shown to others and thus carry plenty of ad value. Use several hundred of these passes.

PROGRAM PRIZES

THE question of whether your programs are being read or not will be answered if you put over this idea each week. In your next issue, include a panel on page one announcing that some person's name will be mentioned in that space next week, and that the person will receive a pair of passes. You can say that the name will be printed "somewhere" in the program, and in that way make the readers go through the pamphlet from cover to cover. Slip the name in on an ad or house article. Do it each week for a month or so. You can carry it further by scattering several names throughout the program. Results of a few weeks will tell you just where the paper is not being read. And that is the area to cover with exploitation and accessories.

PHOTO GALLERIES

THIS plan should not be hard to sell to the neighborhood photo gallery, or to the one located at the nearby amusement park. You supply the tintype emporium with large-size cutouts of stars you play regularly. The customers can pose as this star while being photographed. The posters are mounted on compoboard, with the top cut away to allow the poser to place his head where that of the star should be. This is a simple effective stunt that costs little, and makes a big hit with the patrons of the photo studio.

MERCHANT SPONSORS

HAVE the local merchants as a body sponsor your Wednesday shows. Under the plan, special Merchants' Matinee coupons are placed in all business houses of the town. They are given, without cost or requirement, to men, women and children wishing to attend the show. The coupon admits the patron for 10-cent matinee and 15-cent evening performance, whereas patrons without coupons must pay the regular fee.

KISS IMPRINTS

CARDS with an indicated place for a kiss imprint are passed out to the young ladies as they leave the performance. The directions on the card explain that the patron is to leave her kiss imprint via lipstick on the card, sign name and address, and leave at the box-office. This is in competition for a small cash prize, with the winner to be announced from the stage at a certain evening performance.

FORMAL FLOAT

GOOD for a feature with a society slant, or one with college atmosphere. A float is decorated to carry out the atmosphere of the attraction. Two girls are dressed in evening clothes, or a girl and a boy. Secure a five-piece string orchestra from the high school or college set, to supply the music.

This can be tied up to some local dance or festival, with the sign on the float indicating that they are going to the party. At the street corner, the float stops, and the girls pass out heralds.

SEALED ENVELOPE

¶ YOU can put over a big forthcoming feature by appealing to curiosity. For a period of a week in advance of the attraction you give to departing patrons a sealed manila envelope with the face printed up: "Please do not open this until . . ." with a date a fortnight away. Practically everyone in town will know before the end of the week that the picture is coming. The date on the envelope will start their curiosity. Practically no envelopes will remain unopened, which is just what you expect. People will not only read the enclosed herald, but they will read it with greater care than they would give an ordinary announcement. Other catchlines for the envelope are: "Do not open this if you are not married." "For single women only." Or, "Don't let your husband see this." The latter works best on a matrimonial problem.

AN ANNUAL

¶ GIVE some thought to issuing an annual publication about your theater. Here is a permanent announcement, a copy going to each household. The chief feature should be a running comment of the pictures played last year, with stress on the hits. Embellished with a few cuts on coated paper, chiefly scenes from various plays. There will be articles on the new stars, the outstanding bit actors, and the best players of the current year. Also an alphabetical list of all titles played, a short history of the house, a brief list of early coming attractions, and a full roster of employees. The trick in starting an annual publication like this is to assure yourself of sufficient advertising in the first issue to nearly break even on printing costs. If you start off modestly, you can't go in too deep, and if the innovation catches on, you can extend it the following year, and bid for more ad support from local merchants.

TYPED INFO

¶ THIS system will make your rest room more attractive. As soon as the pressbook is received, have typed a brief description of the feature, just enough to arouse interest without giving the story away. Paste the cast to the card, and place it in a frame about five feet from the floor. In this way you can have a dozen frames or more plugging your coming attractions. One central frame should be lettered:: "Our Next Picture." This information, especially the cast, will start the women talking. And often a picture is sold to several on a minor name, which advantage is lost in the usual campaign centered on the stars.

REQUEST REVIVALS

¶ A month can be set aside for Request Revivals. Use one revival and one new picture on each dual program. Ballots are given to patrons to designate their preferences. The ballot can carry a list of attractive revivals that you can secure readily, and it will aid patrons in recalling pictures that they missed seeing originally.

AUTO OWNERS

¶ YOU can make your own compilation of owners of automobiles. All auto buyers of both new and second-hand cars are advised that if they register the car with the theater they will receive a pair of tickets. Names and addresses are given, and this special list is used for mailing out advertising on automobile pictures. This plan, if properly handled, will give you a fine list of a majority of the car owners in your town.

POSTCARD CHAT

SCATTERED STUNTS

¶ HERE is a good stunt with which to sell weak attraction, lacking good title or names. Make sure there is at least one typographical error in each newspaper ad, and in the throwaway. Have something wrong with every lobby frame and sign. Even the marquee should be spoiled with a transposed letter. One manager even made a new admission card for the box-office with "lodges" instead of "loges." Offer a substantial prize for the largest list of errors. Some inconspicuous error can be included in a lobby card, to make it more difficult. And you will have a lot of people reading every word of your newspaper ads.

SPECIAL STUNTS

● ● ● The ideas listed here are those that do not apply to any special publicity field. They are mainly attractions that are staged in the theater itself. This is an important division, including such opportunities as the current dance craze, national holidays, football season, etc. The field is as large as the theater man's ingenuity in taking advantage of it.

GOLDEN WEDDING

GIVE a theater party for all couples in the city who have been married fifty years or more. Have some prominent citizen act as their host. The party attends the special show given at 1 p.m., following which the men receive cigars and the women flowers as a courtesy from the management.

AIR COVERAGE

TRY and promote a half hour of free time on your local station. The show goes on from your stage on Friday evenings. Call the show "Sing 'n' Quiz." It is an audience participation idea, in keeping with the present popularity of singing and quizzing programs that are occupying the air waves on all stations. About ten people are called up from the audience. They draw a question, one of ten. A certain cash prize is affixed to the question they pick. If they are unable to answer the question properly, the money goes into a pot, and is held over until the following week.

THANKSGIVING BASKETS

FOR the Thanksgiving season, the lobby is suitably decorated, including special stills that the major studios turn out expressing the spirit of the holiday. A ticket box is placed in the inner lobby for patrons to drop the stubs of coupons presented with purchase of each theater ticket. This entitles patrons to a chance on six to twelve Thanksgiving Turkey Dinner Baskets. These are given away on the Monday prior to Thanksgiving. Alongside the ticket box place a poster of a large turkey's head, with a green light flasher where the gobbler's eye would be. This light is flashed on and off. An imitation turkey "gobble-gobble" can be secured through the house phone setup, which sound makes the display perfect.

MORNING MATINEES

THIS will turn out to be a surefire stunt if properly handled. It is an early show for the femme office workers. It starts at 7 a.m. and ends at 8:30, allowing patrons 30 minutes to reach their place of business. Through advertising tieups with a nabe restaurant, free coffee and doughnuts can be provided. The show being for the girls only, the escorts if they come along must pay admission.

MOVIE APPRECIATION

WITH the approval of the city council and the proper members of the education board, you can hold movie appreciation classes for the school students on Saturday mornings. This means showing the very finest films, those that have study guides for students issued with their release. Keep the admission down to 10 cents if possible, figuring that this is a goodwill builder with the better elements of your city. This plan will secure the hearty cooperation of all civic and educational groups.

SURPRISE NIGHT

FOR small towns, take the dead night of the week and call it Surprise Night. Something is added to the last evening show. Never the same added attraction twice, and never announced in advance. It may be a pie-eating contest one week, and a hat-trimming contest for men the next, with now and then a vaudeville act. If it is a contest, those in the audience are invited to compete. Plenty of people come every week, regardless of the picture, just to see what's going to happen. And don't forget that these radio contests and quizzes prove that folks like to participate in the show personally. Any stunt that can get your audience actively participating is bound to be a success. It takes an inventive mind to keep thinking up new attractions, but here is one plan that will pay big dividends for some extra thought.

SUMMER CONTESTS

A series of contests to be run each Friday through the hot weather. The first is for the prettiest girl, and the second for the girl with the prettiest legs. In turn will be others for the fattest man, the ugliest man, most freckled boy, tallest married couple, and skinniest man. With the tallest married couple, their heights are added and divided by two. In the leg contest, the girls stand on a platform behind a drop through an opening in which only their feet and ankles show. Another pop summer feature is the tap dancing contest to run until the middle of September. Then the winners of the various nights gather to dance it off for the final prizes.

THEATER ANNIVERSARY

FOR your anniversary, try to get the mayor, or some other local celeb, on the stage for the special program. Your local editor can stress the advance in quality of entertainment since the opening year of your theater. A musical program should be offered, with a current pop singer and a revival of the old illustrated song, if slides can be obtained. Or get one of these shorts specializing in the old favorites. It should be possible to get someone to circulate an album in which all the townsfolk subscribe to a resolution of goodwill to the manager, and of course, he is taken by surprise at the presentation ceremonies. Another good gag is to offer a prize for the best recollections of the theater's opening night, to be written, and read at the anniversary.

POLO TOURNEY

IF you have a stage, this attraction will give your audience a lot of laughs, and create business on an off-night. It is a kiddie car polo tournament. It is played the usual way but with undersized mallets. When adults are the players, it becomes a riot of laughter. It is possible when the stunt becomes popular, to form several teams and play off as a tournament. Have the girls compete with the men, to add interest. Here is a stunt that of course will go strong at the kid club gatherings.

PREVIEW BOARD

A plan for getting the youngsters in for the Saturday morning shows. It calls for a tieup with the local Better Films organization which acts as the sponsor. A junior organization is formed with various groups in the different schools. Representatives from these groups act as a preview board to pass on what they think the other youngsters would like. Programs include the usual educational, comedies, Mickey Mouse and westerns. Properly approached, the senior organization in your town will help you put the idea over.

REPORT CARDS

I ADVISE members of the kiddie club that during the spring term all youngsters who can show an A report card will be introduced from the stage and given a prize (of nominal cost). Secure the cooperation of school teachers and local educators. Send around a pamphlet or card telling of the affair. Set the afternoon or night performance in keeping with the desires of the teachers. On the night of the rewards it is very probable that your theater will be filled with scholars and their parents. Announce that the contest for the A report cards will be repeated later in the following term, and that children winning twice will be given a medal.

SAFETY CLUB

THE club is organized to teach the youngsters safety principles in traffic. Each child gets a metal badge with a number, and a booklet. The latter is a stiff card four-page folder. At the bottom are numerals 1 to 10, in boxed spaces. One space is punched each visit, and the book is good for a free admission when the ten spots are cancelled. Twelve local merchants pay for the metal badges in return for ad space in the booklet, and the latter is supplied by the printer in return for the back page. Parents will go for this stunt, and do everything to make it a success. No doubt the police department can be induced to send an officer each week to talk on safety. And the presence of an officer will permit the management to present child actors on the stage.

NATURE TRAMPS

THIS plan works best in a city where concessions can be obtained from the utility companies in the matter of transportation. If a large club can be formed with a newspaper backing the scheme, it is often possible to obtain transportation into the country for a nominal fare. Some of the larger papers maintain their own nature study clubs as a circulation feature. The major requisite is a man who knows his way about the country, and has a real knowledge of botany and local natural history. The idea is to devote the usual kid club session on Saturday to a chat and have a trip to the country in mid-week with an alternative day in case of rain. Indoor session is preparation for the sights to be seen on the coming trip, when the children are taught the difference between various classes of trees and plants, the nature and habits of small animals, and anything else the guide can ring in. Children bring their own lunches.

GRADUATION

¶ ONE of the best standbys for graduation is the congratulatory letter to each pupil, with or without a pass for an early show. The names and possibly the home addresses can be secured from the principal or the school clerk. In some instances, where the addresses are not given, the letters can by arrangement be sent to the school in bulk. The letters should congratulate the recipient, express good wishes for the future, and mention the ticket, if one is sent.

CLUB NITE

¶ A variation on the old amateur night, only in this case the performers are members of a certain club, or a group of clubs. The best plan is to have the several clubs compete for a trophy or some prize. Tryouts for club members can be held once a week. Register the performers the same as was done with the amateur nights. On the night of the final award, have some prominent townsman act as master of ceremonies. The winners should be selected by applause. The newspaper will go strong on the publicity for this one, and the patrons will find it a real novelty feature.

CAMERA NIGHT

¶ YOUR anniversary show can be combined with a Candid Camera Night. The first few rows of seats are roped off so that the camera owners can shoot the stage show offerings which you put on specially for the anniversary celebration. A hookup can be made with the newspaper to run the best of the candid camera shots.

SERIAL BUILD-UP

¶ MAKE an effort to convince the adults that the serial is not just juvenile fare. To this end, a poll is taken among the patrons. Small sheets are passed out carrying voting spaces to indicate whether the patron is in favor of showing the serial at the night shows on Friday and Saturday.

STAMP CLUB

¶ WITH stamp collecting more popular than ever, this idea of a Stamp Club among the youngsters is sure to prove popular. Advertise that you will help youngsters get a collection started. Those attending the matinee performance are given a small package of cancelled foreign stamps. These can be secured from the dealer at the rate of $1.00 a thousand, so it is not an expensive undertaking. This is built into a permanent draw with the stamp club, allowing the youngsters to meet in the theater after the show so that they can swap stamps together. And there is nothing the average kid likes to do better when he once gets the stamp fad. Through a local stamp dealer, you can no doubt secure some stamp collector to address the youngsters occasionally, and talk on philately. Every city has its dyed-in-the-wool philatelists who would welcome a chance to air their knowledge. Some collectors who have a genuine fondness for interesting others in their hobby.

FAN MAIL CLUB

¶ FOR the neighborhood spots, this plan of a Fan Mail Club is a natural. Start this by soliciting members with a trailer on your screen. Those who sign up for the club receive a personal letter accepting their membership and explaining the aims of the fan mail group. The plan is to arrange from time to time for letters direct from picture stars to club members, and weekly card or mailing piece on coming show. The letter contains request for member's birth date without revealing reason for wanting that information. Club members will receive a pair of guest tickets with a suitable letter of congratulation from the management on their birthday.

DANCING CLASS

¶ Good for neighborhood houses. Hire a hoofer to teach hoofing from the stage in a ten-minute demonstration twice a week. He has two ostensible pupils—two good looking girls in rehearsal rompers. All of the lesson is addressed to them, but it is phrased to tell the audience what to do. The stunt costs little, as the girls are glad to appear for the lessons they get and a chance to get on a stage. The grown-ups will enoy it as much as the juveniles. And it breaks the monotony of the all-film show.

STORY PERIOD

¶ Making the Saturday matinee popular with the parents as well as the youngsters. A two-minute story period is staged, with someone taking the role of "Uncle Ed" and recounting a feat of some local child over the loudspeaker system. The stories aim to teach a worthwhile lesson. The kids flock in to see whose name will be mentioned. Parents also like the idea, and will send in enough stories to keep the announcer busy for months.

PATHE FILM CORP.

Holding Company
Incorporated Dec. 28, 1914, in New York
General Office, 35 West 45th St., New York

Company incorporated as Pathe Exchange, Inc., in 1914 as a continuation of the business organized in this country in 1904 (started in France in 1898). Certain major assets sold to RKO in 1931. In reorganization effected in August, 1935, name changed from Pathe Exchange, Inc., to Pathe Film Corp.

Under a plan approved by the stockholders of Pathe Film Corp. on Feb. 16, 1939, a new company, Pathe Laboratories, Inc., was formed. To this company were transferred the two laboratory properties, Monogram Pictures stock, Radio-Keith-Orpheum notes, capital stock and properties of all subsidiary companies and other Pathe assets except 3,500 shares of Du Pont Film Mfg. Corp. stock. In addition, Pathe borrowed $200,000 on the Du Pont stock and transferred it to the new company for operating capital. In return Pathe received 11,600 shares of Pathe Laboratories, Inc. —total amount of outstanding stock. The new company assumed all obligations and liabilities of Pathe except a bank indebtedness of $275,000. It is planned to issue 50 per cent of the stock of the new company to Pathe stockholders as a dividend and to distribute the balance within two years.

Capitalization: Common, $1 par, 2,000,000 shares authorized, 585,095 outstanding; $7 convertible preferred stock, no par, 30,000 shares authorized, 8,043 outstanding. (40,215 shares of common stock are reserved for conversion of 8,043 shares of preferred stock. The preferred stock is redeemable at the option of the corporation at any time on 60 days notice at $110 per share and accrued dividends, and entitled in liquidation to $100 per share and accrued dividends).

Dividends: Preferred $7.00 in 1937.

General Office, 233 Broadway, New York

Capitalization: Under a recapitalization plan adopted by stockholders on Apr. 7, 1936, the A preferred stock was retired by cash payment and all but 2 per cent of the B preferred had been turned in on Nov. 5, 1937, for a new first preferred stock and common stock. The new capitalization is 18,500,000 shares of common stock of which 13,881,016 is outstanding and 920,300 authorized shares of first preferred of which 900,844 shares are outstanding.

Organized by General Electric Co. Acquired stations of Marconi Wireless Tel. Co. of America. Owns numerous patents upon which royalties are collected from manufacturers. In October, 1928, company received 500,000 shares of Class "B" stock of Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corp. in return for use of Photophone and for contract under which National Broadcasting Co., affiliated with Radio Corp., will broadcast R-K-O programs. Owns Radio-Victor Corp., of America. Affiliated with General Motors and Westinghouse Electric in a radio manufacturing company formed in September, 1929. In January, 1932, increased its controlling interest in RKO to about 70 per cent.

In October, 1935, sold part of its controlling interest in RKO, and gave option on balance, to Atlas Corp. and Lehman Bros. Option was not taken up.

Dividends: Arrears on Class "A" to end of 1934 cleared up by action of board on Jan. 18, 1935, payable Feb. 19 to stock of record Jan. 29, 1935.

Arrears on "B" or common stock to Dec. 31, 1937 cleared up by action of the board on Nov. 5, 1937, payable Dec. 21 to holders of record Dec. 10. Common, 20 cents in 1938; Preferred, $4.60 in 1938.

THE FILM THEATER OF TODAY

Discussion of Present Trends, and a Prophecy of Future Houses

By JOHN EBERSON,
Architect

(Editor's Note: In the following symposium, the author—builder, designer and furnisher of an impressive list of leading film theaters both here and in foreign lands—sets forth current factors in architecture, equipment and appointments, and ventures his opinion as to what the years immediately forthcoming have in store as to the forms design will take, as well as the advisability of combining the classic period influences with those of modernism as a means of reaching an ideal for the investing exhibitor and the public.)

AS ONE annually surveys the forward march of Filmland as one of the nation's and the world's important industries, it is always gratifying to note that in no single field of commerce is the retailing of any manufactured product carried on quite so effectively as in the field of the motion picture.

Unique Problem

More than this, the organization of the processes of retailing in our industry is unique, in that the establishments carrying on the retailing are also the physical grounds upon which the product is consumed by the purchaser.

Thus the exhibitor, who is the retailer, is keenly conscious both of providing the best of available product within the economic limits of his theater,—in keeping with public taste, —and offering to his patrons the most comfortable, pleasing, and scientically correct surroundings possible for the fullest enjoyment of that entertainment for which they pay.

Exhibitor Ideas

Currently, the most significant of the innovations and developments in motion picture theaters have been suggested and inspired by the exhibitors themselves, who, in the service of the critical filmgoing public, sensed ther patrons' likes and dislikes.

Out of this exhibitor astuteness has come many a highly important suggestion to the theater architect. Hence, the theater architects, by and large throughout the country, have been and are enabled to strike upon successful formulae in the design and equipment of houses.

Credits Architects

A great deal of credit is certainly due to the many skillful theater architects who have, in the past few years, provided film houses which have met handsomely the requirements of the modern, discriminating picturegoer and the communities in which they reside. Principally the new trend in style followed a recipe for proper and sound building costs. Designers also adopted successfully a different scale of color schemes and values, and, correctly, the trend for proper oral and acoustical properties of a moving picture theater, plus concentrating upon the consideration of patron comfort.

Optimism for 1939

Optimistically, architects and builders look to the future and the season of 1939, and, while the 1938 motion picture theater is drastically different from its predecessor, we prophesy (prompted by our own studies, observations and experiences) that the 1939 film house again will be different from the cinema of 1938,—not different in its functional fundamentals which are now so thoroughly established, but different in style, veering from its present course to one which will create greater responsiveness on the part of the public. Concerning this point, we shall discuss the "handwriting on the wall" later in this article.

20% Obsolete

At the present writing we have approximately 17,800 film theaters in the U. S., and some 20 per cent of these are of the obsolete kind and virtually beyond redemption.

Further, we have 45 per cent of houses which need remodeling, and which, in our estimation, will be remodeled during the 1939 building season, to some extent or another.

On the other hand, expansion will cause, we believe, some 400 new theaters to be built in the next 12 months.

New Patrons

New crops of patrons have sprung up to augment the army of film enthusiasts, and the Signaling to the entering patron the modernity and luxury which lie ahead is the impressive, highly utilitarian lobby of Warners' Beverly, Washington, D. C. This type of lobby provides efficient handling of crowds at all times. It has the further advantage of low maintenance costs.

rank and file of picturegoers are obviously showing a renewed interest in the motion picture, chiefly because of two factors, namely, that we have today better productions than ever issuing from Hollywood's studios, and these are being projected under far better mechanical circumstances than in the past, and the facilities for enjoying them, too, have been increased. There assuredly should be added the incontrovertible consideration that we have today more showmanship than ever before in the production and exhibition fields. Consequently, the outlook for 1939 building, remodeling and new construction takes on a decidedly promising hue.

Larger Budgets

Then, too, through reorganization, and with new talent at the helm of many of our exhibition groups, the financial structures of these corporations have been greatly strengthened, with the result that budgets for expansion and improvements should be larger in 1939 than in the previous year. Consolidations have taken place for the benefit of both the public and the industry, thus creating opportunity for more economical and efficient operation, with greater service possible to the public.

Results of the 1939 trends adapted by American theater architects are surprising and most informative, and we repeat, for emphasis, that in referring to the impressive innovations one must give credit to all the American theater architects, and to the modern showmen and exhibitors who guided and supported the advent of these innovations.

Design Important

One could scarcely behold the development of public taste, or the astonishing advances along scientific lines with respect to film exhibition without weighing carefully the question of design best suited for permanency and satisfaction to the exhibitor and his audiences.

Careful consideration, following the probing of many questions involved in relation to the query as to what will and should be the theater of tomorrow, has, quite frankly, led me to the conviction that the masses of filmgoers are somewhat fed up with a straight-laced, machine-like, modern style, and that the best solution to this is the incorporation of modest ornament for the light and pleasing embellishment of hard streamlines of design.

Personally, it is my intention to modify the phrase "off with the old and on with the new" by retaining in practice the best features of the new and also the best features of the old, believing as I do that there should be modification of the machine age architecture, and of the streamline and floating screen theory which I had the pleasure to underwrite in its incipiency several years ago.

It is obvious that the modern style of architecture so common in America should and must be "sweetened," embellished, and must go through a renaissance leading to usage of the best of the classical features of design and ornamentation so dear to all patrons of art, and those who are film theater patrons with either an appreciation of art or possessed of a subconscious appreciation of it,—and this covers the vast majority of all who seek satisfying surroundings in which to enjoy and better enjoy their entertainment.

ding" of the best in modernity with the best which classical genius has given to the world, and which has demonstrated itself to be capable of awakening pleasure and appreciation in the individual. Such a "wedding" will combine beauty and utility to a surprising degree. It will also be in tune with the conception of permanency, and at odds with fad and its extremes,—which have little benefit to the exhibitor who builds, not for just today, but for the future.

In the following, you will find just a few references as to what we have in mind in presenting the satisfactory to the investor, and what we recommend to the patron as well:

Furnishings

(2) Special design, color, shape and fabrics in furnishing;

Display Space

(3) A leaning toward metal display frames and advertising values exploited by architects, in facades and in lobbies;

One-Floor Houses

(4) Leaning toward one-floor theaters, hence no climb, no effort, and, conversely, free and easy access, safety in exits, and due respect to elderly patrons whose advanced years make any climb burdensome;

Parking Lot

(5) A parking lot, whenever or wherever possible,—a subject of prime importance in the discussion between owner and architect, —since parking facilities today presents a problem to a large percentage of patrons

Typical of the theater of today is the orchestra floor of Schine's Auburn Theater. Here, ornateness of a distracting character is completely abandoned in favor of the new trends in design. Although in the modern spirit, the proscenium also call up a consciousness of the classical.

Acoustics

(10) The acoustical properties of a theater, when passed upon via the opinion of experts, should be intelligently judged by the architect. We do not hesitate to call attention to the over-specifying of acoustical properties, and, in view of the modern architect's experience in this field, the shape of the theater, its cubical contents and an analysis for proper acoustics, means nothing. Neither does the expense of sound absorbing materials offer any disturbing influence.

We feel that the veil of mystery covering the acoustical properties of a theater has been lifted, and no theory or theoretical writers can divert us from a policy leading towards proper sound absorption accomplished with the aid of inexpensive but proven materials, void of any theatrical fanfare or ballyhoo.

Decoration

(11) The decorating features of a modern movie, as we visualize it for the coming seasons, will employ color harmony rather than color contrast, which is to say families of colors rather than conflicts; mellow tones of murals, fabric patterns and sheens to be correct and effective in the theater throughout the spans of picture lighting;

(12) The intelligent theater decorator will decorate the house so that the effects can be felt in the dark.

(13) Any discussion of auditorium and other interior decorations for the new type of film theater, as well as for those which are to be remodeled, should be attended by the revelation that astonishingly satisfactory and unique effects have been recently achieved by the grading of a single primary color into its myriad component shades, as, for example, blue.

THE NAME RAMBUSCH IS THE HALL-MARK OF QUALITY IN THEATRE DECORATION

Problem of making the film theater's balcony alluring to the public is handsomely solved in the Nostrand Theater, Brooklyn, one of New York City's most recent cinemas. In this case, there is an incentive created for viewing the picture program by re-accenting the exclusiveness of the loge seats.

Such a color possesses so many pleasing variations, running the gamut from the dark tones to the light pastel shades, that the design of one auditorium for a major circuit of theaters was executed to utilize some 16 different shades of blue.

This grading, of course, was so applied to the auditorium that the lighter tones dominated the rear areas, while the tones deepened as the procenium and picture screen were reached.

Obviously, this scheme proved to be both artistically and scientifically correct, and, therefore, practical in the extreme. Experience has taught that for visual comfort, and hence fullest enjoyment of the projected picture, the areas in and about the field of vision upon which audience eyes concentrate must not contain any color values which will conflict with the picture, divert attention or cause either conscious or subconscious distraction.

In other words, the projected picture or pictures is the commodity which is being paid for primarily at the box-office, and a film theater architect would be no more justified in suggesting light or conflicting areas in and about the screen than one would expect to find outside noise provided to interfere with the reproduced voices, music and effects issuing from the sound track.

Today, and in the future, color films have to be reckoned with by the film theater architect. During 1938, according to authoritative sources, close to 20 per cent of the total U. S. product—including both features and shorts—was made in color. As a result of the rise of color, architects have been compelled to provide areas surrounding screens with non-conflicting values. This has been successfully accomplished, and the catering to color projection has resulted in better definition, too, of the attractions shown in black-and-white;

(14) While the "winning-back" of the public to motion picture entertainment during 1938, and the apparent consolidation of gains this year, plus the promise of the future that enthusiasm will be sustained, is due in great measure to the quality of product, nevertheless deserved credit should, in part, be tendered to the splendid advances made in projection and sound equipment, together with more suitable screens.

Several of the leading manufacturers of projection and sound equipment have recently brought out mechanisms which are so perfect that the human eye and ear are absolved from virtually all taxation. Improvements in screens have also been noteworthy.

Constantly, engineers are carrying on research to effectuate even more perfect results, and so, with these scientists ever on the alert, as are the modern architects and the progressive exhibitors, the future of the film theater is secure.

Seats

(15) Certainly spectacular advances have occurred in the realm of proper seating. Cooperation between exhibitors, architects and seating engineers with SMPE has done much in the matter of realizing the necessity for, and application of, proper spacing of chairs, and their relation to screen visibility. Further, companies have harnessed the science of seating from the standpoint of physical conformity of the seat with the contours of the seated patron, and this is truly a triumph, since never before has the filmgoer been able to enjoy comfort to the degree possible today. So perfect are chairs now that it is safe to predict that only minor refinements can be initiated henceforth.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

PROMOTES EXPORTS OF MOTION PICTURE PRODUCTS

By

NATHAN D. GOLDEN

Chief, Motion Picture Division

THE chief function of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce, is "to promote and develop the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States." The organization of the Motion Picture Division and its method of operation, will be outlined herein, and it is hoped that the reader will be enabled to visualize the working of this branch of the Government which is now generally recognized as contributing much toward expanding sales of American manufactured products in all parts of the world.

Major Sections of the Bureau

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce should be considered in its four major sections:

1. The Washington headquarters may be regarded as the central switchboard of American business. It respons to the vital need for information on commercial conditions at home and abroad. From here the Director (who reports to the Secretary of Commerce) and his assistants control the operations of the bureau staff in both the foreign and domestic fields. Here is to be found a completely coordinated group of service divisions, both commodity and technical, working under the direction of men of practical experience and intimate acquaintance with the industry or specialized branch which they serve.

2. SERVICES OF THE FOREIGN OFFICES: Since the Foreign Offices form a vital element in the Bureau's service, it seems desirable here to summarize their functions concisely. They constantly provide data on all the significant economic, commercial, and financial developments of the various countries. They interpret the decrees, laws, and regulations that are promulgated with great frequency under modern conditions. They report on the general business situation in a specific foreign market—the completion between American goods and the products of other countries—the import duties and restrictions that may be imposed—sales methods and credit terms—and the foreign-exchange situation, when pertinent. They conduct surveys covering specific commodities in definite foreign markets, and provide a variety of other current special data.

These Foreign Offices call the attention of American business to specific "Trade Opportunities" abroad where such opportunities call for the actual purchase of American products. The publication of such an "Opportunity" in Commerce Reports, the Bureau's weekly magazine, means that a market actually exists or is capable of development, that the prospective buyer is qualified to distribute successfully, and that no trade obstacles exist to a degree serious enough to preclude business.

3. INDUSTRIAL DIVISIONS: To keep abreast of the changes taking place in individual industries, and to correlate the endless supply of facts and figures and the specialized problems relating to them, the Bureau maintains 12 Industrial Divisions, staffed by experts conversant with the details of a given industry.

These divisions bring the Bureau into direct and vital touch with producers and dealers, making possible the establishment of mutually helpful relationships. For each industry there is provided a highly specialized service, satisfying some of its peculiar and characteristic needs for statistical and other information. Necessary and valuable data are gathered under competent supervision, and material is disseminated to the many trades in the most efficient ways that can be devised. Most of the material is provided by representatives of the Department of Commerce and State stationed in foreign countries; the information covers a wide field of industrial and trade activities and is released to business in periodical and special bulletins.

4. ECONOMIC AND TECHNICAL DIVISIONS: While the Industrial Divisions render specialized services to specific groups, there are in the Bureau 10 divisions devoting intensive study to various distinctive phases of economic effort. In response to inquiries from industry, they can supply information not otherwise obtainable on some of the highly specialized aspects of the economic system.

Brief Description of Functions of the Motion Picture Division

The Motion Picture Division advises the motion picture industry on all phases of film conditions abroad including markets for educational and industrial films and for motion picture equipment. The Division collects, analyzes, coordinates and distributes information received from the foreign offices of the Department of Commerce, and from the Consuls of the State Department. Special statistical data covering exports and imports, and foreign production of films, is given to the trade each month, as well as reports of foreign censorship boards. Bi-weekly a Foreign Market Bulletin, covering a wide variety of motion picture subjects on the foreign market, is published; a weekly press service of interesting items goes each week to Export Managers, trade association magazines, trade papers and newspapers.

An important function of the Division is its service in furnishing each month in bulletin form the latest production and distribution of non-theatrical films to home users, colleges and schools. Equipment manufacturers, exporters and associations are currently advised on the foreign market potentialities for all types of motion picture and sound reproducing equipment through press releases and Foreign Market Bulletins, close relationship is maintained between the Division and the appropriate associations in the industry and trade press.

The Division also endeavors, in so far as it is possible, to provide data on the domestic market; but until such time as sources of information are more detailed, its efforts in this direction are to a great degree limited.

The difficulty confronting film exporters abroad is a paramount need for as much frequent data as the Motion Picture Division can furnish, particularly from those foreign territories where quotas and contingent barriers exist. This need is filled through annual surveys and are supplanted by frequent pamphlets dealing with recent conditions in individual markets. Statistical data embodying information relating to competition, number of films distributed by countries over given periods, number of theaters in different foreign territories, and the like are constantly being published and are in great demand.

The Division acts as consultant advisor to other Government agencies on matters having to do with the motion picture industry, and commodity trade groups within its jurisdiction, and directs the foreign representation of our Government in submitting reports that will be of interest and value to American trade and economic interests in its field.

MOTION PICTURES ABROAD: Twice a month the Division releases a foreign market bulletin covering some important phase of the motion picture situation abroad. This bulletin may cover one foreign market or a number of foreign markets, and is based on reports received in the Division from foreign offices of the Department. The subscription price is $1.00 per year.

CURRENT RELEASES OF NON-THEATRICAL FILMS AND FILM NOTES: This service started in December 1932. As its name implies, it consists of the merging of a former bulletin entitled "Non-Theatrical Film Notes," containing news notes covering non-theatrical film developments in all countries, with a list of industrial and educational films (together with supplementary data on these) released by film producers during the preceding month. This bulletin is issued once a month, and is extremely valuable to all users of non-theatrical films. The yearly subscription rate for this service is $1.00.

WORLD WIDE MOTION PICTURE DEVELOPMENTS: Each Saturday the Division releases a series of news items relating to motion picture developments abroad. This service is free, but is confined almost exclusively to the trade and lay press, which republishes the items.

STATISTICAL SERVICE: The Division's statistical service consists of a single statement, No. 4700. This statement shows exports to all countries of motion picture films, sensitized, not exposed; negatives; positivies; other sensitized films, not exposed; motion picture cameras (standard and sub-standard), projectors (standard and sub-standard); motion picture sound equipment, projection arc lamps. These statements are issued each month, and the price is $1.00 per year.

REVIEW OF FOREIGN FILM MARKETS: This is an annual survey covering some 80 important film markets of the world. Detailed data covering the highlights of the market are given. Price 10 cents per copy.

FOREIGN FILM MARKETS

DURING 1938

By

NATHAN D. GOLDEN

Chief, Motion Picture Division
Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce

AMERICAN motion pictures continued to enjoy widespread popularity in every region of the world throughout the year 1938—although there was a decrease in the quantity and value of our film exports. As always, our American pictures have won friends during the past twelvemonth through their outstanding merits, but they have been confronted by the same impediments and handicaps as in other recent years—sometimes in accentuated form. The intensification of difficulties abroad has resulted in a falling off, from 70 per cent to 65 per cent, in America's domination of the world's motion-picture screens.

The obstacles, which have been of diverse sorts, have more or less demoralized the local amusement business. Transfers of territories have involved drastic changes in the circumstances governing the motion-picture trade. The intangible psychological factors of uncertainty and apprehension have had an appreciable effect. In many cases, the spirit of nationalism has been heightened, to the disadvantage of a product such as American films, whose appeal is ordinarily designed to transcend geographical boundaries.

During the past year, the ardent fanning of that spirit of nationalism has meant, in numerous countries, an ever-increasing fervor and energy in the attempt to build up the struggling local film industries—industries which, despite their obvious faults and feebleness, are apt to be supported by governmental action. Often, this has meant more frequent play dates for locally produced pictures, at the expense of our American productions. Foreign restrictions on American pictures in 1938 assumed varied, but generally vexatious and embarrassing forms. In certain countries, quota systems are entrenched, and that troublesome system shows a tendency to spread. Taxes on motion-picture business abroad are usually high, and the trend is unmistakably upward. "Racial" theories and campaigns continue, here and there, to bring difficulties, which are not easy to deal with. Foreign-exchange controls and censorship were continuing problems during 1938, though there have been few startling alterations in those fields.

It may well be noted, at this point, that certain foreign governments have been resorting somewhat oftener, and with more vigorous insistence, to the method of diplomatic intervention with neutral governments in order to prevent the local showing of American feature pictures which authoritarian states choose to regard as objectionable. The number of such interventions has not been particularly large—but the activity, in itself, deserves to be noted.

Legislative Restrictions

Restrictive measures enforced in Europe during 1938 included a new quota system instituted in Great Britain on April 1, 1938, lasting for the next 10 years. The purpose of this new law is to compel distributors and exhibitors to utilize a proportion of British-made films, and foreign producers, including American, are induced to produce in British studios quality films for both domestic and world distribution.

Italy has placed the distribution of all films, commencing January 1, 1939, under a Government monopoly. A decree to this effect was issued on September 4, 1938, establishing the Ente Nazionale Industria Cinematografica to purchase and distribute in Italy, its colonies and possessions, all motion pictures imported from abroad. Because of the severe terms of this decree and the scant opportunity offered for the showing of our American films, all American firms having their own distribution branches in Italy, and those distributing films through Italian agents, ceased doing business in Italy on January 1, 1939. This is something new in restrictions. It is the first time that a foreign government has gone into the business of distributing motion pictures for the outward purpose of profit. With the closing of American branches in Italy, Italian exhibitors will unquestionably feel the severe "pinch" involved in the lack of an assured supply of films. At best, Italian films average about half of the normal box-office receipts attained by American films, and, in the past, Italian audiences have not refrained from expressing their adverse reaction to Italian films.

Germany, during 1938, widened its authority and influence in Europe by absorbing Austria and the Sudeten territory of Czechoslovakia.

Not only did the Anschluss of Austria and the partition of Czechoslovakia bring some 1,100 additional motion-picture theaters under the German Swastika but, also the quota laws of Germany were applied—virtually shutting out our American films. Cooperation and "compensation" agreements between Germany and other countries also have materially decreased the showing of our American pictures. This restrictive tendency is spreading over these countries that are looking to Germany for economic assistance.

On October 12, 1938, a Federal Decree went into effect in Switzerland making the importation of motion pictures subject to an import permit to be issued by the Federal Department of Interior, which has also been empowered to fix import contingents. Up to now, however, no quotas have been fixed. It is understood that the primary purpose of this new decree is to establish a dependably functioning import control of films, which was not possible previously.

The new agreement of May 18, 1938, effective June 1, 1938, in Czechslovakia permits of greater facility of American film distribution. It has removed certain threatening restrictions, decreased the cost of introducing features and dubbed versions (the recent ceding of the Sudeten territory to Germany has diminished the value of the concessions with respect to films dubbed in the German language), bound certain conditions, and established the right of American companies to establish their own distribution organizations under equitable conditions.

The Danish Parliament on April 13, 1938, revised the existing motion-picture law and created a Government distributing agency called the Film Central, for the purpose of distributing Danish films that are not distributed by the producer himself or by independent Danish distributors. The law prohibits the distribution of domestic films by local branches or agents of foreign motion-picture distributing companies.

Although restrictive barriers in many of the European countries are being enforced in greater number, the European market for American films is far from being lost. Countries such as England and France (even with their legislative barriers), Belgium, Denmark, the Netherlands, Finland, Norway, Poland, and Sweden still remain important outlets for our American pictures.

The ban on the importation of American motion pictures into Japan was lifted in October 1938. For a period of 13 months, no new American films were permitted entry, in accordance with the law of September 1937, banning luxuries—under which motion pictures were classified. The new plan permits the entry of 200 American films into Japan during 1938, and the transfer of Yen 3,000,000 of frozen funds in Japan to the United States through the Yokohama Specie Bank at San Francisco, where such funds are held without interest for a period of 3 years. Second, it provides for the grant of import and exchange permits for the importation of $30,000 worth of films on the basis of a fixed valuation of 1.5 cents per foot. Third, it allows distributors to remit these funds on a monthly basis, converted into dollars and kept in the Yokohama Specie Bank in San Francisco under the same restrictions as noted above for the Yen 3,000,000 of frozen assets.

While the lifting of the ban permitted the entrance of our American pictures again in Japan, reports of uncertainty is felt in consequence of predictions that legislation is being drafted for presentation to the next session of the Diet in March 1939, providing for rigid control over all phases of the motion-picture industry.

On December 22, 1938, the Governor of New South Wales, Australia, aproved an amendment to the Cinematograph Bill of 1938, providing for a Theater and Films Commission to replace the Film Advisory Committee, and setting up new provisions of the Quota Act. The new act provides for a 15 per cent quota on the part of exhibitors for British quota films, and a 2½ per cent quota on the part of exhibitors for Australian pictures. Exhibitors, under the new act, have a maximum rejection right of 25 per cent plus 2½ per cent for Australian films, or a total of 27½ per cent.

Latin America

The Latin American market at present appears to be the market our American distributors are seeking to offset the restricted markets in other parts of the world. With 5,239 potential theater outlets, and with new theater construction increasing each year, American companies are wisely coming to the realization that here a geographical area that should receive closer attention. Economically, it would be unwise for our companies to encourage production in South American countries; however, American companies should produce in Hollywood Spanish-dialogue films employing stage favorites brought from South America and placed in a Hollywood setting, with the use of reconstructed sets and Hollywood technique. In this manner production costs can be kept at a minimum, and producers will have Spanish-language films available to carry their other American product which is now being frequently shoved into the background by Spanish-speaking productions from Mexico and the Argentine. A case in point is the drop in the showing of American films in Peru from 70 per cent of the total in 1937 to 49 per cent in 1938, which is attributed primarily to the augmented number of Spanish-dialogue pictures from Mexico, Argentine, and Peru itself. Although none of these films approached the quality and standard of our American films, they helped to consume playing time that might otherwise have been obtained by American films.

The one important market in Latin America which may become beset with difficulties in Argentina. In the closing sessions of the Argentine Congress in 1938, a bill was introduced which would give definite powers of regulation and control of motion pictures to the Instituto Cinematografico Argentine. This bill would encourage a national industry through prizes, subsidies, and other means; it would establish a central censorship board, with Argentine films exempt from censorship taxes; it would encourage the future establishment of a Government film studio. While the bill will not be acted upon until the next session of the Argentine Congress, it gives a clear indication which way the trend is moving and may be the forerunner of a quota law. Recently in this market a ban has been placed upon the importation of advertising matter. This ban forces our American companies in the future to print their posters and lithograph material in Argentina to aid the native printing and lithographing trade.

As an indication of the rising legislation designed to hamper the distribution of our American films, one finds that during 1938 a new tax was levied against American disrtibutors in Guatemala. Formerly, distributors paid $300 per year for the right of operation. This has now been changed to 10 per cent of the distributors' share of entry receipts. A deduction of 25 per cent from the distributors' share may be made to cover expenses, and the 10 per cent is applied to the balance.

During the year 1938, Cuba attempted to pass an exhibitors' quota providing that for every 7 imported films 1 Cuban picture must be shown. The House of Representatives failed to pass this quota. When one realizes that only two Cuban films were produced during 1938, the impracticability of the proposed legislation is clearly evident.

American Film Exports

Statistics of American motion-picture film exports for the full 12 months of 1938 show a 13,000,000-feet decrease in positive and negative sound and silent films as compared with those exported during 1937. During the year 1938 a total of 202,526,821 feet of motion-picture entertainment films, both sound and silent, with a declared value of $4,519,594, were exported to all foreign markets, as compared with 215,721,956 feet of film, with a value of $4,797,641, for the year 1937. This is a decrease of 6.1 per cent during the year 1938 in the total of all films exported.

The following table shows a break-down of the above totals (with figures indicating percentages changes) for the years 1938 and 1937, of both sound and silent positive and negative film:

The foreign-exchange situation has not changed perceptibly during 1938. In 57 out of 94 countries throughout the world, up to December 31, 1938, foreign exchange was liberal and easy, ranging from prompt to retarded payment. In the remaining 37 countries, foreign exchange is "tight and normal" in 9 countries, "tight and slow" in 15 and "restricted" in 13 countries.

Censorship

Censorship abroad has not been unusually troublesome during 1938. In most cases, the censorship rules have been carried out in a spirit of reasonableness, moderation, and judicious liberalism. In certain instances, though, it would seem that the literal terms of the local censorship regulations may be regarded as unduly stringent. For example, we learn of films being banned occasionally on such grounds as mere "banality" or "the conveying of prejudicial illusions." In one country of southeastern Europe, pictures portraying stories of the French Revolution are taboo, because, though the events happened a century and a half ago, they are "connected with political or social movements of revolt." One great nation forbids all films that it considers "horrific," and thus the picturization of certain novels written by that nation's own distinguished authors are excluded from its screens. "Anything that might offend local sentiment" is the broad and vague description of the sort of dramatic themes that might mean "thumbs down" in a certain country. In another region, one is forbidden to show, in motion pictures, "organized knuckle fights" or "profuse bleeding"—and the same country also bars scenes depicting "relations of capital and labor," a rather onerous restriction on producers, interested in showing the vivid drama inherent in economic problems of the present day. One is inclined to agree with a report from a country in southeastern Asia, expressing the opinion that apparently "the local censor does not take into consideration the growing sophistication of native audiences."

Foreign Film Production

During the year 1938 foreign motion-picture production totaled approximately 1,706 feature films, as against 1,809 features in 1937. The countries of the Far and Near East led in production, with a total of 967 features in 1938, as compared with 959 in 1937. Japan with 575 features was again the leading producer, followed by India with 200 features. The Philippine Islands account for 67 films, Hong Kong 53, China 33, Egypt 16, Siam 10, Australia 8, Chosen and Formosa 2 each, and New Zealand 1.

Production in Europe fell off sharply in 1938, primarily as a result of England's decline in production. For the year 1938, all countries of Europe produced a total of 609 features. The following countries were producers of feature films during 1938: Germany 137, France 122, England 85, Russia 51, Italy 47, Czechoslovakia 41, Sweden 30, Hungary 26, Poland 25, Finland 20, Denmark 9, Norway 4, Turkey, Belgium, and Portugal 3 each, Netherlands 2, and Switzerland 1.

Latin American feature-film production during 1938 took an upward jump of 40 films. During 1938, 130 full-length features were produced as compared with 90 in 1937. Mexico was the largest producer, turning out 60 features. Argentina jumped its production to 50 features from 30 in 1937. Peru increased from 2 in 1937 to 11 in 1938. Brazil produced 4, Cuba and Uruguay 2 each, and Venezuela 1.

Increased production in Latin America substantiates the fact of the Latin Americans' desire to see and hear their own stars speaking their native tongue. In many markets these native pictures, regardless of their quality, have far outdistanced some of our biggest American productions. This especially is true in the rural communities of Latin America. Films produced in Mexico and Argentina have scored notable box-office successes in nearly every Latin American country in which they have been shown. This is true also of those Spanish-dialogue films produced in Hollywood employing actors brought from Latin American countries, speaking Spanish, and placed in stories having a Latin American atmosphere.

It is keenly interesting to note some of the salient characteristics of "infant" picture-producing industries in various foreign countries during the past year, as recorded by competent observers on the spot. On the one hand (as just indicated) we must frankly recognize the fact that the locally produced pictures often exert a powerful, though naturally restricted, appeal; they do so not only because they speak the language of the people but also because they "portray outstanding aspects of the national life, showing typical landscapes, dances, and music" (to paraphrase one report from the Caribbean region). One picture in particular, produced south of the Rio Grande, is noteworthy as having achieved a really "tremendous hit" during 1938 in a number of Latin American countries, where the people welcomed it eagerly by reason of their perfect comprehension of the language and the animating moods of the action.

On the other hand, we have a wealth of recent evidence to demonstrate the grave defects, shortcomings, and often insuperable difficulties of the motion-picture production attempted in certain countries, very largely on the basis of nationalistic ambition, without a solid foundation. From one European country we hear of complaints by audiences that "the local pictures seem 'stationary'." Lacking the proper facilities for moving the cameras, or for creating a fascinating variety of settings, the local producers are unable to avoid, in their films, an annoying and exceedingly tiring "static" quality. Again, we learn that "the make-up of even the leading players in local pictures is often far from flattering," and the spectators are thereby repelled—or amused in the wrong places. (What is being said here does not refer, of course, to major producing countries such as France and Great Britain.)

"The lighting is generally hard and flat" is a criticism voiced of the pictures being turned out in one Far Eastern country—in vivid contrast to the magical lighting effects achieved in nearly every American picture. The music used in some foreign studios is that of old, imported phonographs records—and, when the picture is edited, there occurs from time to time an abrupt and disconcerting "chopping off" of the musical background, perhaps in the middle of a phrase.

"Direction is deficient", is the 1938 dictum from another part of the world, with respect to locally produced pictures. A basic handicap noted is that "many local films have been and are being produced 'on a shoestring'." "Technique lags behind" is the point emphasized in still another discussion of foreign production, and, with respect to one major country, it is asserted today that the local producers "cannot provide the spice and variety characteristic of American pictures."

In one foreign country, with a vast population, the motion-picture production attempted by various local interests has, in general,

"gained the reputation of being a poor financial risk and a highly speculative venture." In another part of the world, the local producers are described as being "unable to do any really serious work," the existing companies being "small, poorly organized, and inadequately financed." In one very substantial nation of western Europe, we find that "the high percentage of financial failures registered by local motion-picture productions discourages fresh investments."

In northern Europe, one splendid new theater took the rather staggering loss of 2,000 crowns daily while showing a locally produced picture, of which high hopes had been entertained. In that country, we ascertain, producers have experienced great difficulty in engaging satisfactory casts; one reason for this is the fact that they are compelled to rely exclusively on stage actors and actresses, and these artists can act in pictures only during the 3 months of their summer holidays. In one British Dominion, the year 1938 witnessed the production of one lone local feature—which was "shown in one theater and immediately forgotten."

In one of the European countries, in 1938, the sum of 600,000 francs was sunk in the production of a local film called "Evil Eye"—which, when it was finished, found no market whatever. It is said that the film cannot be sold and that the money invested in it is likely to represent a total loss. A number of firms, in the same country, are attempting to produce pictures in a structure converted for other purposes, where they have a working-room only 8 meters wide by 20 meters long.

Summation

From such reports as these, covering 1938, one gets a clear idea of the flaws, misfortunes, frustrations, and frequent unfavorable reactions involved in the attempt by various foreign interests to establish local motion-picture production abroad where there is actually scant necessity or justification for the effort. In numerous cases the difficulties seem well-nigh insurmountable, since they arise out of the inherent limitations of the country. In other instances, of course, the present handicaps are to some degree temporary, and faults will be gradually corrected as circumstances are altered and development proceeds.

But whether the future, in a given country, presents one prospect or the other, today the fact is indisputable that a very considerable proportion of the motion-picture production abroad is of a quality markedly inferior to prevailing American standards.

In view of that fact, what action should be taken by our American companies in order to maintain a position of superiority over their competitors in the markets of the world? To what major measure can they today resort, with the object of checking trends which we must acknowledge to be adverse? What dynamic attraction or allurement can be exerted, of greater potency than the local appeal of a spectator's mother-tongue and his natural fondness for familiar scenes and ways of life?

Plainly, before all else, we must emphasize to the utmost the CONTRAST IN QUALITY between our good American pictures and the typical product of local producing industries abroad. We must make that contrast as vivid, as striking, as impressive, as it can possibly be made. Persistently and adroitly, we must make the foreign movie-goer acutely conscious that the American picture is a product of DECIDEDLY SUPERIOR quality—of rich and varied artistry, of entertainment value unmatchable in the run-of-the-mine output of our competitors abroad. We must make this "High-Quality" factor so universally recognized that local audiences abroad will have no desire to see inferior films that owe their existence simply to some Government legislation or subsidy.

Very recent news dispatches tell us how certain foreign audiences, deprived of American pictures, have manifested their displeasure in the strongest possible terms.

It is unwise for us to try to export mediocre films. Foreign audiences, in numerous countries, get an abundance of that kind of pictures from their own studios. American distributors should send only their choice Grade "A" films to the foreign market. If the choice is between our "B" type of films and a picture from a native studio, the latter (one need hardly say) is almost invariably preferred. An examination, over the past few years, of our best revenue-producers in the foreign market discloses that those films listed among the best pictures shown here in the United States have also been the biggest revenue-REMITTERS.

Certainly, therefore, it behooves our American companies today, more than ever before, to make a very careful selection of the films to be exported—and not to send, more or less at random, pictures that might affect unfavorably the ultimate gross returns, while impairing our indispensable prestige and reputation for superior quality.

As we advance into the new year 1939, the factors to be relied upon, in maintaining our position in foreign markets, may still be defined as the simple, basic elements of our unmatched scientific skill in the motion-picture production—our amazing capacity for devising new and really wonderful methods—our determination to achieve artistic and enthralling camera-effects—the incomparable richness of our material facilities and resources—and our unequalled variety and range of every type of acting talent. Together, these things spell QUALITY—and it is quality that will continue to attract foreign audiences to American pictures.

CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND

PROSPERITY for Canada and Newfoundland seemed to be very close around the corner when the year 1938 opened up. During the previous three years economic conditions had slowly improved and the prospects were alluring. These prospects were not fully realized, although further economic recovery was evident. The general business result for the year was an indicated loss for all industries of somewhere between one per cent and ten per cent as compared with the previous year.

There were some bright features such as an increased grain production, amounting to about thirty per cent. Unfortunately, lower world prices fully counterbalanced this increase. Gold and other minerals showed a slight improvement. Newsprint production, one of Canada's leading exports, showed slight improvement. General employment increased steadily in the first nine months of the year but fell off again in the last quarter. Railway receipts were somewhat higher, but so were railway expenses.

In a word, the year 1938 was a good year in both Canada and Newfoundland because there was no setback. Progress was maintained and conditions continued fairly satisfactory. But, there was no brilliant expansion. The building trades were perhaps the least progressive of all the industries, and real estate values continued at the low level which they had reached in the depression period. High taxation by municipalities and governments received the blame for this condition, but lack of confidence in the future on the part of the general public is the real explanation.

Statistics for the motion picture business in Canada for the year 1937 were not issued by the Bureau of Statistics until about the 1st of December, 1938. However, they indicated that 1937 had been a good year for theaters. The total receipts for 1937 were $32,500,000. This was three millions higher than in 1936 and eight millions higher than in 1933. Official statistics for the year 1938 will not be published for another ten months, and, therefore, these can only be estimated. From all available evidence it is probable that theater gross receipts will again have passed the $33,000,000 mark.

In December, 1936, the number of wired houses was quoted at 1033; in December, 1937, this number had grown to 1205; in December, 1938, a further growth to 1310 had been recorded. From each of these figures must be deducted a certain number of theaters that are closed and some that are open in the summer only. Of the 1310 presently reported, 53 are said to be closed. Even making these deductions, the growth in the number of theaters during the past two years has been remarkable; the net increase is around 250 theaters. Moreover, there has been considerable rebuilding and refurnishing. Canadian Government statistics give the seating capacity on December 31st, 1937 as 601,611. Canadian Film Board's figures for that date were 623,432 and for December 31st, 1938 are 668,432. This is an increase for the year of 45,000. It is questionable, however, if attendance has kept pace with the increase in the number of theaters and the improvements in the buildings.

The Government statistics for attendance showed an increase from 127,441,000 in 1936 to 134,374,000 in 1937. This was an increase of 5.4 per cent, but it is doubtful if the increase was as great in the year 1938. Everybody reports that the second quarter of 1938 showed a decided loss in admissions. It was expected that the Campaign during the autumn would have given a filip to attendance, but these hopes were not realized, except in a few of the larger theaters.

There have been no changes in the general distribution situation. The purely Canadian companies—Regal Films, Limited; Empire-Universal Films, Limited, and Columbia Pictures, Limited—remain the same. The major distributors — 20th Century Fox, Paramount, Warners, R.K.O., and United Artists—have their own branch offices, while M.G.M. is distributed by Regal and Universal by Empire. The distribution of French films is almost exclusively in the hands of France-Film Limited, of Montreal. In Toronto, where all head offices are, there has been a growth of smaller exchanges. These include; Superior Films (Harry Price), Peerless Films (J. Roher), Cosmopolitan Films (L. Glavir), Colonial Pictures (B. W. Silver), Grand National (H. Allen).

There was little change in the Canadian License Agreement, which is revised once a year, usually about April. Such changes as were made were not notable. There is no cancellation clause, as there is in Australia and New Zealand and in most of the existing United States contracts. An arbitration clause has always existed, but in recent years has been more or less voluntary; nevertheless arbitration flourishes in all provinces.

One of the notable things in Canada in the past three years has been the elimination of itinerants and 35 mm. portables. A campaign has been waged against these as being dangerous to the public and as unprofitable to the distributor. As a consequence, most portable machines now in use in the rural districts in Canada are 16 mm. sound. Two companies are making a success of distributing this film to clubs, institutions, and schools, and are sending out regular shows for one-night stands in villages. There is a general understanding that 16 mm. showings with an admission price shall not be held within ten miles of a standard theater. The supply of 16 mm. is, of course, limited, and is subject to censorship in most of the Provinces.

The Canada-United States trade treaty which comes into force on January 1st, 1939, provides for a reduction of the duty on positive film imported into Canada from 3 cents per lineal foot to 2¼ cents. It is expected that a further reduction will take place in April when the 3 per cent excise duty collected on all imports will be eliminated. There is also a slight reduction in the duty on negatives imported for printing purposes. The chief saving under these changes will be the reduction in customs paid on colored positives which are not made in Canada. It is thought that about 3,500,000 feet of colored positive will be imported in 1939 for use in theaters, on which there will be a saving of about one cent per foot.

Amusement taxes in Canada are levied by the provinces and not by the Federal Government. Last year (1937) amusement taxes were entirely abolished in Ontario which represents 40 per cent of Canadian theater business. This year there has been a decrease in the amusement taxes collected in New Brunswick on the lower admissions. Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island have no amusement taxes.

Censor Board fees remain high in Canada, and Nefoundland increased its import tax from 65 per cent on a value of $2.50 per thousand feet to 65 per cent on a value of $4.00 per thousand feet in lieu of censorship fees. Ontario has the highest fee, charging $6 per reel on U. S. films and $3 per reel on British films. Second copies pay the same rate as first copies.

The number of feature pictures imported into Canada in 1938 shows a slight increase from all countries except Great Britain. French language films numbered 104. British dropped to 38, which includes American films made in England. There were about 40 Russian, Polish and other "European." The number of purely United States feature pictures was approximately 500, which is slightly higher than in 1937.

CANADIAN EXCHANGE TERRITORIES

Toronto Territory

Toronto, in addition to having head offices for all Canadian distributors, also has Toronto branches to supply the Province of Ontario. This Province has 367 theaters, which is an increase of 11 over 1937 and 43 over 1936. Of these, 110 theaters are situated in Toronto. About 40 per cent of Canadian film rentals are derived from this Province. The leading cities, other than Toronto, are Hamilton, Ottawa, Windsor, Kitchener, St. Catharines, Oshawa, London and Brantford. There is a Provincial Censor Board of four members, and censorship is the highest in Canada, viz., $6.00 per reel for "foreign" sound film and $3.00 per reel for British pictures. Even trailers are charged $3.00 per reel for censorship, and there is also a charge for censoring advertising "per subject." Ontario amusement tax was abolished in 1937. The 35 mm. exchange license is $100.00 a year, and 16 mm. exchanges pay $50.00 a year. The censorship fee for 16 mm. is $2.00 per reel of 400 feet.

Montreal Territory

Quebec Province is the second territory in Canada as regards rentals. The number of theaters in December, 1938, is 205 as against 187 in the previous year. Approximately 20 theaters showed French pictures exclusively and about one-third of the balance used both French and English dialogue pictures. A newly constructed Censorship Board was operating in 1938 and some pictures used in all other provinces were refused a license in Quebec because of their strict ideals in social matters, such as divorce. This strict censorship has also been applied to French-dialogue pictures. Children under sixteen years of age are prohibited from attending picture shows, but there is some prospect that this 12-year-old rule may soon be relaxed. The exchange fee is $200.00 a year and the censorship fee $3.00. There are no regulations with regard to 16 mm. The principal centres of population are Montreal, Quebec, Three Rivers, Sherbrooke, Hull and Verdun.

Saint John Territory

St. John territory includes New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and Newfoundland. The number of theaters operating at the end of 1938 was 136. The largest of these were located in such cities as St. John, N. B.; Halifax, N. S.; Moncton, N. B.; Sidney, N. S.; Glace Bay, N. S., and St. John's, Newfoundland. Nova Scotia charges a censorship fee of $3.00 per reel for 35 mm. and $1.50 per reel for 16 mm. New Brunswick fees are $2.50 per reel for 35 mm. and $1.00 per reel for 16 mm. Exchange licenses are $250.00 in both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. There are neither exchange licenses nor censorship fees in Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland. However, film entering Newfoundland pays an import duty of 65 per cent on a valuation of $4.00 per reel, which is double what it was in previous years.

Winnipeg Territory

The Winnipeg territory includes the eastern half of Saskatchewan, the Province of Manitoba, and a portion of Western Ontario. The total number of theaters in this territory is 230, which is practically the same as the year before. Of these, 107 are open one or two days a week and 33 are open only in the summer. Winnipeg, Regina and Saskatoon are the three largest cities in this territory. The Manitoba and Saskatchewan Censor Boards sit in Winnipeg, where the exchanges have their offices. The Manitoba censorship fee is $2.00 per reel for 35 mm. and the same fee for 16 mm. Saskatchewan charges $2.00 for 35 mm. and $1.50 for 16 mm. (750 feet). The exchange license fee in each Province is $250.00.

Calgary Territory

Exchange offices in Calgary supply Western Saskatchewan, the Province of Alberta, and seven towns in British Columbia. The number of theaters operating at the end of 1938 was 229 as against 205 a year ago. Of these, about 28 are open in summer only and 130 operate only one or two days a week. The Alberta censorship charge is $4.00 per reel for 35 mm. and $2.00 per reel for 16 mm. Exchange license fee in Alberta is $250.00.

Vancouver Territory

Vancouver territory is the smallest in Canada and is confined to the Province of British Columbia. The total number of theaters is 108, an increase of two over the previous year. Vancouver and Victoria are the largest cities. The exchange license fee is $300.00 and the censorship fee is $3.00 per reel for 35 mm. and $1.50 per reel for 16 mm. All distributors have their offices in Vancouver, where there is a special film building for housing exchanges, as there is in all other Provinces.

DURING 1938

By

ERNEST W. FREDMAN

Managing Editor of "THE DAILY FILM RENTER"

THE TROUBLE with writing articles for a YEAR BOOK is that in this industry of ours time passes so quickly that before you've finished one, it's almost time to write another. Seldom have I known 12 months to pass with such kaleidoscopic rapidity as the year that's now drawing to a close. Seems only the other day that I was sitting down to sum up the position as regards the British film industry for the benefit of American readers—and here I am again, weighing up what it has done—and what it's going to do.

Weighing up what it has done isn't very difficult, for we have made some good pictures—but not enough. However, that isn't altogether the fault of the British producer, for he has had many things to contend with. Finance isn't very easy to obtain; the British film producing industry suffers—and suffers badly—from losses in the past—losses made by fly-by-night producers which have left finance in a very precarious position. Investors are chary where they put their money—but Hollywood has gone through exactly the same pains and has emerged, and there is no reason why the British film industry shouldn't similarly find itself making a greater number of films with solid financial backing in the future. This much can be said—our pictures can, I modestly claim, be regarded as having made prétty good strides both in their technical excellence and in their general appeal.

I don't think there is much wrong with "Victoria the Great" or "Sixty Glorious Years," both of which will gross a million dollars in England—not because of any sentimental appeal, but because they possess real entertainment value and are very well made. We are pretty proud of them and see no reason why we shouldn't state the fact. Take another—"The Drum"—which, I believe, has played the screens of America and Canada. Here is a film that has grossed over a million in its own country, and will gross nearly a million in the United States and Canada. Not bad going, and I think you must have liked it, otherwise you wouldn't have paid to see it.

Take "A Yank at Oxford," made by M-G-M at Denham Studios. Could you wish for a better job of work? Take "The Citadel," also made by the same American company in their British Studios with an all-British technical staff. I don't think you'll find anything very much wrong with that.

I don't know whether you have seen it, but "Pygmalion" is another British picture, of which we are proud, whilst I think you will agree when you see "The Mikado" that this famous Gilbert & Sullivan opera has been treated as well as it could be by the finest studio in Hollywood. So, as I say, we are not downhearted, even if we have not made the great number we should have liked to have embarked upon—at any rate, the quality has been good.

British production has been hampered both by lack of finance and general uncertainty; also it hasn't been helped by recent political crises. The Films Act which was passed by Parliament in the latter part of this year, had so much undesirable publicity that it scared money away—and without money you can't make pictures—whether it is in England, America, or any other country you care to name. Money is necessary! The next thing is brains and manpower—but you can always get those—if you have the money!

The talks went on so long and there were so many conferences and Parliamentary sessions held before this Act finally became law, with the attendant stories of vast sums of money that had been lost in the making of pictures, you can't wonder financiers sheered off. But that's all being put right—and if the new Films Act hasn't helped British film production much—and definitely it doesn't seem to have done that yet—we are hopeful it may prove of value in the years to come. I am not hazarding an opinion on that score, because the future at the moment is very cloudy. One thing it has done—and that is, American companies have embarked upon a definitely higher grade of picture to meet their quota requirements—that is all to the good; and the elimination of the quota quickie which corroded the screens of this country is the best thing that could have happened; they were neither entertaining, nor did they show any credit to whoever produced them—except in the rarest instances. Now, nearly all the American companies are embarking upon worth-while British films, and the production of pictures such as "A Yank at Oxford" and "The Citadel" has given a decided fillip in that direction.

The theater side continues to flourish; it's had its setbacks, particularly at the beginning of October when the crisis had a very bad effect upon the box office, and it didn't recover for several weeks—but good entertainment will still attract and as the political atmosphere cleared so the box office reacted.

Mergers are still in the air; it is freely rumored Gaumont-British will merge with the Odeon Circuit, controlled by Oscar Deutsch, and if this does come about it will mean a group of at least five hundred theaters under one control.

John Maxwell with his A.B.C. circuit still continues to be a formidable figure in the theater field, and whilst building has not continued with the same vigor, which is partly due to the fact that saturation point has certainly been reached, it still goes on. There are many new and very handsome kinemas that have been erected this year. In the West End of London alone there has been a beautiful addition in the shape of the Warner Theater, a two thousand seater which stands on the site of the old Daly's Theater, and a very imposing addition to the amenities of the theatrical center.

The hub of studio activities continues to be Pinewood and Denham. Just recently these two studios have concluded a working agreement or merger which brings them under one control and makes for the elimination of unnecessary expense. This amalgamation, I might add, was immediately followed by a statement from Robert T. Kane, that 20th Century-Fox, who had been working at Pinewood, would transfer their British producing activities to the Gaumont-British Gainsborough Studios at Islington, so that apparently rationalization has its drawbacks as well as its advantages.

Films that have been produced at Pinewood and Denham during the year include "This Man Is News," "Pygmalion," "Sixty Glorious Years," "The Drum," "The Mikado," "Four Feathers," "The Citadel," "A Yank at Oxford," "Keep Smiling" and "We're Going to Be Rich."

Ealing Studios have turned out a number of really worthwhile productions, among them "The Ware Case" and "It's in the Air." The latter features their main asset, George Formby, the very popular favorite in variety in this country who has repeated that popularity on the screen.

Gainsborough, turning their attention mostly to comedy, have made some very good pictures at Islington, such as "Bank Holiday," "The Lady Vanishes," "Alf's Button Afloat," "Oh, Mr. Porter," and "Hey, Hey, U. S. A." A very welcome sign is the fact that the Gaumont-British organization are re-opening their Shepherds Bush Studios, where pictures will be made, the first of which will come under 20th Century-Fox release.

Associated British Studios at Elstree specialize in a modest type of picture made at a reasonable figure, and have done remarkably well with such films as "The Outsider," "Yellow Sands," "Black Limelight" and "The Housemaster," whilst a newcomer in the production field, Mayflower Pictures Corporation, have introduced Charles Laughton in "The Beachcomber" and "St. Martin's Lane."

Relations between distributors and exhibitors which at one time were very strained, have now been re-established and much more goodwill ensues. There has been talk over the latter months of the year for a Greater Movie Campaign somewhat similar to that initiated by the American film industry, but nothing has been embarked upon, because in England the little falling off in attendances is in no way due to the public getting tired of the movies, but merely because of political crises which always affect the box office. Good pictures will always attract audiences; it's poor pictures that keep them away, so we look to 1939, and if at the moment the future of British film production is a little cloudy it is hoped that is of a merely transient nature.

The Films Act will have its testing time throughout the ensuing 12 months, and next year, if the fates are kind and I still continue my article in this YEAR BOOK, I am hoping to say it has proved of value to British film producers.

ENGLISH PRODUCTION

BY AMERICAN COMPANIES

By

HOLLIS KENNAHAN

FILM DAILY Staff

PRODUCTION in England by American companies in the past has been a somewhat haphazard venture, but 1938 saw a complete change in the picture. The advent of the Films Act last April acted as a spur to American producers and resulted in a number of fine box office films, with an even greater number of top-notch pictures scheduled to come from American production units in England during 1939.

Notable among the made-in-Britain films distributed here in 1938 were "The Citadel" and "A Yank at Oxford," produced by M-G-M at their English plant. When the former film received many honors as one of the outstanding releases of the year, it served to confound dubious critics who said American companies would never make a good picture in England.

American quality production in England on an increased scale seemingly also served to stimulate English producers, at any rate, English releases generally here during 1938 were without doubt the finest imported to date. Especially well received were "Pygmalion" and "The Lady Vanishes."

It is no reflection on the British industry when it is pointed out that American companies had, and have, many obstacles to overcome in producing pictures in England. Production methods have not been geared to the pace prevailing in Hollywood and the number of trained technicians is smaller, but these stumbling blocks are being rapidly overcome, to the mutual benefit of both American and British producers.

Hollywood is going to Britain in a big way from now on, it is indicated on every side. Players and technicians are being freely lent for productions in the English units of the Coast companies, and budgets are steadily mounting, with budgets for American companies in England during 1939 expected to be double what they were last year. These moves can bring about only one result, bigger and better pictures, which will add to the prestige of British made product, and act as an increased stimulus to British production itself.

The most active companies in England during 1938 were 20th-Fox, Warners, M-G-M, and Columbia, directly producing a total of over 30 pictures in England during the year. These companies have announced increased UK product line-ups for 1939, with a definite trend toward bigger and better pictures emphasized. RKO Radio and Herbert Wilcox late in the year effected a production-distribution partnership. Paramount also will produce a number of pictures in England during 1939. Other companies as well are laying plans now for English production, and it is a fairly safe prophecy that all U. S. major companies eventually will be found producing their own films there.

It is significant that most of the pictures planned by American companies for English production this year will be aimed at world-wide distribution. This is far different than the practice in the past.

Mention properly is made here of the affiliation of United Artists with Alexander Korda, English producer, which automatically puts this company in the English producing field. Affiliation of 20th-Fox with GB-Gainsborough has also strengthened that company in the English field and further cemented good will between the American and British industries.

Barring unforeseen difficulties—especially an outbreak of hostilities—the year 1939 promises to usher in a new era in the British production field.

Text of Act

Chapter 17.

An act to make further provision for securing the renting and exhibition of a certain proportion of British cinematograph films, and for restricting blind booking and advance booking of cinematograph films; to make provision as to the wages and conditions of employment of persons employed by makers of cinematograph films; and to provide for purposes connected with the matters aforesaid. (30th March, 1938.)

Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Part I.

Renters' Quotas and Exhibitors' Quotas Provisions Relating to Exhibitors' Quotas

1.—(1) Subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, where a renter has, in any renters' quota period, acquired for distribution in Great Britain films which are registered as foreign long films, or has, in any such period, so acquired films which are registered as foreign short films, then unless—

(a) in the first case, the films which have been so acquired by him in that period and are registered as long films include films registered as British long films and also as renters' quota films, and having a total length bearing to the total length of all the films which have been so acquired by him in that period and are registered as long films (exclusive of films registered only as exhibitors' quota films) a proportion not less than the proportion prescribed in relation to long films by Part I of the First Schedule to this Act for that period or, as the case may be, for the year beginning with the first day of April in which that period falls, or

(b) in the second case, the films which have been so acquired by him in that period and are registered as short films include films registered as British short films and also as renters' quota films, and having a total length bearing to the total length of all the films which have been so acquired by him in that period and are registered as short films (exclusive of films registered only as exhibitors' quota films) a proportion not less than the proportion prescribed in relation to short films by Part I of the said Schedule for that period or, as the case may be, for the year beginning with the first day of April in which that period falls, the renter shall be guilty of a quota offense, except in a case where either the Board of Trade certify, under the following provisions of this Part of this Act, that his failure to fulfill the relevant conditions imposed by this subsection was due to circumstances beyond his control, or the renter proves that fact to the satisfaction of the court.

2. For the purpose of the preceding subsection, the length of a film shall be taken to be its registered length; but where a film registered as a renters' quota film is also registered as a British long film and also as doubled or trebled for the purpose of renters' quota on the ground of its cost, then, subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, the length of the film shall be taken for the purpose of paragraph (a) of that subsection to be twice or, as the case may be, three times its registered length:

Provided that a renter shall be deemed not to have fulfilled the quota conditions imposed by paragraph (a) of the preceding subsection as respects the quota period beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and thirty-eight or either of the two renters' quota periods falling in the year beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and thirty-nine or in any subsequent year, if the aggregate of the registered lengths of the films acquired by him in that period or year, as the case may be, for distribution in Great Britain which are registered as British long films and also as renters' quota films bears to the aggregate of the lengths which are to be taken, for the purpose of that paragraph, to be the lengths of those films, a proportion being less than one-half.

(3) The Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may, not later than the end of June in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-eight or any of the eight succeeding years, lay before Parliament the draft of an order directing—

(a) that, in relation to the renters' quota period beginning with the first day of April the next following and in relation to any subsequent renters' quota period specified in the order, this section shall have effect as if for subsection (2) thereof there were substituted the following subsection:

"(2) For the purpose of the preceding subsection, the length of a film shall be taken to be its registered length; but where a film registered as a renters' quota film is also registered as a British long film and also as doubled for the purpose of renters' quota on the ground of its cost, then, subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, the length of the film shall be taken, for the purpose of paragraph (a) of that subsection, to be twice its registered length"; or

(b) that, in relation to the year beginning with the said first day of April and in relation to any subsequent year specified in the order, the proviso to subsection (2) of this section—

(i) shall have effect as if in that proviso for the reference to one-half there were substituted a reference to such other proportion as may be specified in the order, or

(ii) shall have no effect:

and if, not later than the thirty-first day of July next following the date on which the draft of any such order is laid before it, each House of Parliament resolves that the order be made, the Board shall forthwith make the order in terms of the draft.

(4) The power conferred by the last preceding subsection to lay in draft before Parliament and to make an order shall be construed as including a power exercisable in the like manner and subject to the like manner and subject to the like conditions, to lay in draft before Parliament and to make an order varying or revoking an order having effect by virtue of that subsection:

Providing that an order varying or revoking such an order as aforesaid shall not have effect in relation to any period prior to the first day of April next following the date on which the order is made.

2.—(1) Subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, no film registered as a British film shall, for the purpose of the fulfillment of any conditions imposed by subsection (1) of the last preceding section (hereafter in this Act referred to as "quota conditions"), be counted more than once by the same renter or counted by any renter other than the renter who has first acquired the film (whether before or after the commencement of this act) for distribution in Great Britain; and no film so registered shall be counted for the said purpose if it has already been counted for the purpose of complying with the requirements of section thirteen of the Act of 1927.

(2) Where, at any time in a renters' quota period, a renter has acquired, for distribution in a limited area in Great Britain only, a film which is registered as a British film and also as a renters' quota film, and which, at that time, had not been exhibited to the public at a theater in that area then if throughout that period or, as the case may be, the part thereof during which he carried on business as a renter in Great Britain—

(a) that renter has had no right to distribute in Great Britain outside that area any films which are registered as foreign films or are registered as British films and also as renters' quota films, and the said film may, for the purpose of the fulfillment of any relevant quota conditions as respects that period, be counted once by the first-mentioned renter, notwithstanding that some other person is also entitled, by virtue of this sub-section, to count the film for the said purpose.

(b) no other renter has had a right to distribute the first-mentioned film in that area,

(3) Where the films which a renter has, in any renters' quota period, acquired for distribution in Great Britain consist of, or include, old films registered as British film and also as renters' quota films, and old films registered as foreign films, he may, for the purpose of fulfilling any relevant quota conditions as respects that period, count once each of the said old films which is registered as a British film—

(a) if all the registered films so acquired by him in that period (exclusive of films registered only as exhibitors' quota films) are old films, or

(b) (in a case where the said registered films include films other than old films) if any such quota conditions would have been fulfilled as respects those others films had they been the only films so acquired by him in that period.

section, a film which in any renters' quota period a renter acquires for distribution in Great Britain shall, in relation to that period, be deemed to be old if, and only if,—

(a) the film has previously been acquired as aforesaid by some other renter, and

(b) not less than one year has elapsed since the end of the year in which the film was previously acquired as aforesaid by any other renter; and in this subsection the expression "year" means year beginning with the first day of April.

3—(1) Where, by means of such evidence (including statutory declarations) as the Board of Trade may require, a renter carrying on business in Great Britain satisfies the Board with respect to any film registered under Part III of this Act as a British long film and also as doubled or trebled for the purpose of renters' quota—

(a) that in any renters' quota period the said renter has, for a price of not less than twenty thousand pounds, acquired the film for distribution in a foreign country, and

(b) that the said renter has not acquired the film for distributing in Great Britain, the Board may, if they think fit, give directions that in determining whether any relevant quota conditions have been fulfilled—

(i) the film shall (except for the purpose of the proviso to subsection (2) of section one of this Act) be treated as if, at the time when the said renter acquired it for distribution in that foreign country, he had acquired it for distribution in Great Britain, and

(ii) any acquisition of the film by another renter for distribution in Great Britain whether before or after the giving of the directions) shall be disregarded.

(2) Any directions given under this section by the Board of Trade shall—

(a) in a case where—

(i) the film to which the directions relate is registered as trebled for the purpose of renters' quota, and

(ii) the Board are satisfied that the price paid or payable by the renter in respect of his acquisition of the film for distribution in the foreign country is not less than thirty thousand pounds, include a direction that the length of the film shall, for the purpose of determining whether any relevant quota conditions have been fulfilled by that renter in any renters' quota period, be taken to be twice its registered length, or

(b) in any other case, include a direction that the length of the film shall, for the said purpose, be taken to be its registered length:

Provided that if the total length of the films which, by virtue of any directions under this section, a renter is to be deemed for any purpose to have acquired in any renters' quota period for distribution in Great Britain exceeds half the total length of films registered as British long films which, apart from those directions, he must have acquired for distribution in Great Britain in order to fulfill the relevant quota conditions as respects that period, the first-mentioned total length shall be deemed to be reduced by the amount of the excess.

(3) If, at any time after giving any directions under this section, the Board of Trade discover that they were misinformed as to any of the material facts by reference to which their decision to give the directions was made, the Board may revoke the directions; and where any such directions are revoked, they shall be deemed to never to have been given.

(4) If, and to the extent that, section one of this Act has effect subject to the modification made therein by an order containing such a direction as is authorized by paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of that section, this section shall have effect as if, in subsection (1) of this section, for the words "doubled or trebled for the purpose of renters' quota" there were substituted the words "doubled for the purpose of renters' quota or capable of being doubled under this section," and as if, in subsection (2) of this section, for the words "trebled for the purpose of renters' quota" there were substituted the words "capable of being doubled under this section."

4—(1) Upon application made, with respect to a film to which this Act applies, by a renter who has, in any renters' quota period, acquired that film for distribution in Great Britain, or who proposes to acquire it in any such period for distribution in Great Britain, the Board of Trade, if satisfied that the film is a long film and that it has not been exhibited to the public in Great Britain within the twelve months immediately preceding the date on which the application was made, may, if they think fit, direct that, subject to the fulfillment of the conditions set out in the following subsection, the fact that he has, before the end of the year beginning with the said date, acquired the film for distribution in Great Britain shall, for the purpose of determining whether that renter has fulfilled any quota conditions, be disregarded.

(2) The conditions subject to which any directions given under this section in respect of a film shall have effect that the film must not, in the year beginning with the date of the application upon which the directions are given—

(a) be delivered by any other renter to exhibitors Great Britain for public exhibition therein, or

(b) be exhibited to the public at more than twelve theaters in Great Britain or at more than six theaters in the administrative county of London, or

(c) be exhibited to the public at more than one theater in Great Britain on the same day; and if the renter delivers the film, after the end of that year, to an exhibitor for exhibition to the public at a theater in Great Britain, then, for the purpose of determining whether any quota conditions have been fulfilled by him, the film shall (without prejudice to any previous effect of the directions) be treated as if, at the time when he first so delivers it, he had acquired it for distribution in Great Britain.

5. Upon application made to them in that behalf, the Board of Trade, if they think fit, may in relation to any renters' quota period, designate any two or more renters as an approved combination for the purpose of fulfilling the quota conditions as respects that period in relation to long films; and if, in that period, not more than one of those renters has acquired, for distribution in Great Britain more than three films which are registered as long films (other than films which are registered only as exhibitors' quota films), the preceding sections of this Act shall, so far as regards the fulfillment of the quota conditions as respects that period in relation to long films, apply to those renters as if they constituted together a single renter;

Provided that the preceding provisions of this section shall, in relation to the renters' quota period beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, have effect as if in those provisions for the word "three" there were substituted the word "six."

6. Where, for the purpose of any of the preceding provisions of this Act, it is material to determine what films a renter has acquired in any renters' quota period, a film which he has, in that period, acquired for distribution in Great Britain, but which has been registered in any subsequent renters' quota period, shall be deemed to have been acquired by him as aforesaid in the renters' quota period in which the film was registered and not in the renters' quota period in which he actually so acquired it.

Provisions Relating to Exhibitors' Quotas

7.—(1) Subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, where an exhibitor has, in any exhibitors' quota year, exhibited to the public at any theater in Great Britain films which are registered as foreign long films, or has, in any such year, so exhibited films which are registered as foreign short films, then, unless—

(a) in the first case, the proportion which the total length of films which have been exhibited by him to the public at that theater in that year, and are registered as British long films, bears to the total length of films which have been so exhibited and are registered as long films is at least equal to the proportion prescribed in relation to long films for that year by Part II of the First Schedule to this Act, or

(b) in the second case, the proportion which the total length of films which have been exhibited by him to the public at that theater in that year, and are registered as British short films, bears to the total length of films which have been so exhibited and are registered as short films is at least equal to the proportion prescribed in relation to short films for that year by Part II of the said Schedule.

the exhibitor shall be guilty of a quota offense, except in a case where either the Board of Trade certify, under the following provisions of this Part of this Act, that his failure to fulfill the relavent conditions imposed by this subsection was due to circumstances beyond his control, or the exhibitor proves that fact to the satisfaction of the court.

(2) For the purpose of the preceding subsection, the total length of films of any class mentioned in that subsection which, in any exhibitors' quota year, has been exhibited to the public at any particular theater shall be computed as follows, that is to say:—

(a) the registered length of each film of that class which, in that year, has been exhibited to the public at that theater during the normal hours in the ordinary programs shall be multiplied by the number of times the film has in that year been so exhibited; and

(3) In relation to any exhibitor who does not, in any exhibitors' quota year, exhibit registered films to the public at any one theater in Great Britain on more than six days nor at more than one such theater at the same time, the preceding provisions of this section shall have effect as if all the registered films which had in that year been exhibited by him to the public at theaters in Great Britain had been so exhibited at one such theater.

(4) For the purpose of determining whether any conditions imposed by subsection (1) of this section have been fulfilled as respects any exhibitors' quota year, a film which was first registered as a British film more than four years before the beginning of that year shall be disregarded, unless, upon an application made not later than the end of that year by a renter having a right to distribute the film in Great Britain, the Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, direct that the film shall be taken into account for that purpose.

General Provisions

8. If, on any occasion on which, during the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, a registered film is delivered by a renter to an exhibitor in Great Britain for public exhibition at a theater therein, the length of the film as so delivered on that occasion differs from the registered length of the film by more than one-tenth of that registered length, the renter shall be guilty of an offense and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds.

9.—(1) No person shall, in the year beginning at the commencement of this Act or any of the nine succeeding years, carry on the business of distributing registered films in Great Britain, unless—

(a) there is in force a license under this section authorizing him to carry on business as a renter, or

and if any person carries on business in contravention of this subsection, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which he so carries on business.

(2) No exhibitor shall, in any exhibitors' quota year, exhibit a registered film to the public at a theater in Great Britain, unless at the time of the exhibition—

(a) there is in force a license under this section authorizing him to carry on business as an exhibitor at that theater, or

and if any exhibitor exhibits a film at any theater in contravention of this subsection, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding ten pounds for every day on which he so exhibits the film at that theater.

(3) A license authorizing a person to carry on business as a renter in Great Britain or, as the case may be, to carry on business as an exhibitor in Great Britain shall, upon application made in that behalf by the said person, and on payment of the prescribed fee, be granted to him by the Board of Trade, unless he is disqualified for holding the license applied for:

Provided that the Board of Trade may refuse to grant such a license, unless the applicant has furnished to the Board such information, verified in such manner, as they may reasonably require for the purpose of satisfying themselves that he is not so disqualified.

(4) Subject as hereinafter provided, a license under this section authorizing a person to carry on business as an exhibitor shall be limited so as to extend only to the exhibition of registered films at such one theater in Great Britain as may be specified in the license:

Provided that such a license as aforesaid may be granted so as to extend to the exhibition of registered films at more than one theater in Great Britain, subject to the limitation that the license does not authorize the holder thereof to exhibit registered films at any one theater on more than six days in the year in respect of which the license is granted, or to exhibit registered film at more than one theater at the same time.

(5) Without prejudice to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, a person shall be disqualified for holding a license under this section unless he has a place of business in Great Britain.

(6) Where the holder of a license under this section which is for the time being in force changes the address of his place of business in Great Britain, or ceases to have a place of business in Great Britain, he shall, as soon as practicable, notify to the Board of Trade the change of address or, as the case may be, the fact that he has ceased to have such a place of business.

(7) Subject as hereinafter provided, a license under this section shall take effect on such day, not being earlier than the beginning of the year in respect of which it is granted, as may be specified in the license, and shall continue in force until the end of that year and no longer:

Provided that if, after the granting of such a license, the holder of the license becomes disqualified for holding it, the license shall forthwith cease to have effect.

10—(1) An exhibitor shall not, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirty-first day of March nineteen hundred and forty-eight, exhibit on any occasion to the public at a theater in Great Britain any film to which this Act applies, unless—

(a) he has acquired the right to exhibit the film to the public at that theater on that occasion from a person who, at the time of the acquisition, was lawfully carrying on business as a renter in Great Britain, or

(b) the exhibitor is himself lawfully carrying on business as aforesaid, and has acquired the film for distribution in Great Britain.

(2) If any person exhibits a film in contravention of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which he so exhibits the film.

11.—(1) Any person guilty of a quota offense under this Part of this Act shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty pounds or, on conviction on indictment, to a fine not exceeding five hundred pounds.

(2) Where a person is convicted, on indictment, of a quota offense under this Part of this Act, then, in addition to imposing such a fine as aforesaid, the court—

(a) if the offense is an offense under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to renters' quotas, and the offender has previously been convicted of a renters' offense not less than twice (whether summarily or on indictment), may revoke any renter's license held by him, and may order, with respect to the offender or any of the following persons, that is to say,—

(i) any person who, at or since the time when the offense occurred, was or has been financially associated with the offender in his business as a renter.

(ii) any person concerned in the management of the offender's said business who was knowingly a party to the offense, and

(iii) any person who has acquired the offender's said business either wholly or in part, that he shall, for such period as may be specified in the order, be disqualified for holding a renter's license, and

(b) if the offense is an offense under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to exhibitors' quotas, and the offender has previously been convicted of an exhibitor's offense not less than twice (whether summarily or on indictment), may revoke any exhibitor's license held by him in respect of the theater in relation to which the offense has occurred, and may order, with respect to—

(i) the offender,

(ii) any person who, at or since the time when the offense occurred was or has been financially associated with the offender in his busines as an exhibitor, or

(iii) any person concerned in the management of the offender's said business who was knowingly a party to the offense, that he shall, for such period as may be specified in the order, be disqualified for holding an exhibitor's license in respect of that theater, and may also order that every person in whose case an exhibitor's license or a license granted under the Act of 1927 for the purposes of section twenty of that Act, has been revoked during the year immediately preceding the date of the conviction, shall, for such period as may be specified in the order, be so disqualified:

Provided that an order under paragraph (a) of this subsection shall not operate so as to prevent the offender performing, for a period not exceeding six months, any obligations under any contract entered into by him before the institution of the proceedings leading to the conviction.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in the Summary Jurisdiction Acts, summary proceedings for a quota offense under this Part of this Act may, in the case of an offense under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to renters' quotas, be instituted at any time within two years after the end of the renter's quota period in relation to which the offense has occurred, or, in the case of an offense under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to exhibitors' Quotas, be instituted at any time within one year after the end of the exhibitors' quota year in relation to which the offense has occurred.

(4) In this section the expression "renter's offense" means a quota offense under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to renters' quotas, or an offense under section thirteen of the Act of 1927, and the expression "exhibitor's offense" means a quota offense under the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to exhibitor's quotas, or an offense under section nineteen of the Act of 1927.

12.—(1) Any renter who has, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirty-first day of March nineteen hundred and forty-eight, acquired for distribution in Great Britain a film which is a registered film shall, as soon as practicable, record in a book to be kept by him for the purpose—

(a) the title and registered length of the film, the fact that it is registered as a British film or registered as a foreign film, as the case may be, and such other particulars with respect to the film as may be prescribed for the purpose of identification, and

(b) the theaters in Great Britain for public exhibition at which he delivers the film to exhibitors, and the respective dates on which, or periods for which, the film is to be, or has been, exhibited to the public at those theaters on delivery as aforesaid; and shall, whenever requested so to do by a person authorized in that behalf by the Board of Trade, produce the said book for inspection by that person.

(2) Any exhibitor who, in any exhibitors' quota year, exhibits a registered film to the public at a theater in Great Britain shall, as soon as practicable, record in a book to be kept by him for the purpose in respect of that theater—

(a) the title and registered length of the film, the fact that it is registered as a British film or registered as a foreign film, as the case may be, and such other particulars with respect to the film as may be prescribed for the purpose of identification, and

(b) the dates in that year on which the film was exhibited to the public at that theater, and, in relation to each of those dates, the number of times the film was so exhibited and the respective hours at which the exhibition of cinematograph films to the public at that theater began and ended:

Provided that an exhibitor who does not, in any exhibitors' quota year, exhibit registered films to the public at any one theater in Great Britain on more than six days nor at more than one such theater at the same time, shall not be obliged to keep under this subsection more than one book in respect of the theaters at which he so exhibits registered films in that year.

(3) Any book which an exhibitor is required by this section to keep in relation to a particular theater shall, so long as he continues to carry on the business of exhibiting registered films to the public at that theater, be kept by him at that theater and be open to inspection thereat, at all reasonable times, by any person authorized in that behalf by the Board of Trade; and, subject to the preceding provisions of this subsection, an exhibitor who is required to keep a book under this section shall, whenever requested so to do by a person authorized in that behalf by the Board, produce the book for inspection by that person.

(4) If any person who is required to keep a book under this section fails to keep the book in accordance with the requirements of this section or to record any particular therein in accordance with those requirements, or fails to produce the book on demand for inspection by any person entitled to inspect it, or prevents or attempts to prevent the inspection of the book by any person so entitled, he shall be guilty of an offense and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds.

13—(1) If, upon application made to them, the Board of Trade are satisfied that any failure on the part of a person to fulfill any relevant quota conditions was due to circumstances beyond his control, the Board may issue a certificate to that effect:

Provided that, where any application is made under this subsection to the Board, they shall, before determining the application, consult the Cinematograph Films Council and consider its advice in the matter.

(2) For the purposes of this Part of this Act, a failure on the part of a person to fulfill any relevant quota conditions shall be deemed to have been due to circumstances beyond the control of that person if, owing to the character of the films available or to the excessive cost of such films, it was not commercially practicable to fulfill those conditions, but, in the case of a renter, shall be deemed not to have been due to circumstances beyond his control if it was commercially practicable for him to fulfill those conditions by making, or arranging for the making of, the necessary films.

14—(1) Where, in any renters' quota period, a person being the holder of a renter's license for the time being in force has ceased to carry on business as a renter in Great Britain, and, in consequence of the cessation, the right to distribute in any country or area film to which this Act applies, and which that renter had acquired in that period for distribution in that country or area, passes in that period, by assignment or will or by operation of law, from the said person to some other person being the holder of such a license, then, subject to the provisions of the following subsection, the first-mentioned person shall, for the purposes of the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to renters' quotas, be deemed never to have acquired the film for distribution in that country or area, or delivered the film to an exhibitor for public exhibition.

(2) If, in relation to any such assignment as is mentioned in the preceding subsection, it appears to the Board of Trade that the assignment was made with a view to the evasion of any of the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to renters' quotas, the Board may direct that the said subsection shall not apply in relation to that assignment.

15.—(1) Subject to the following provisions of this section, the Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may, not later than the end of June nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, lay before Parliament the draft of an order altering either or both of the proportions prescribed by Part II of the First Schedule to this Act for the year beginning with the first day of October nineteen hundred and thirty-nine; and if, before the end of July nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, each House of Parliament has resolved that the order be made, the Board shall forthwith make the order in terms of the draft, and the order shall come into operation upon the making thereof.

(2) Subject to the next following subsection, the Board of Trade after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter,—

(a) may, at any time during the year nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, lay before Parliament the draft of an order altering, either generally or in relation only to long films or short films, all or any of the proportions prescribed by Part I of the First Schedule to this Act for the year beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and forty and the next succeeding year, or prescribed by Part II of the said Schedule for the year beginning with the first day of October nineteen hundred and forty and the next succeeding year, and

(b) may, at any time during the year nineteen hundred and forty-one, lay before Parliament the draft of an order altering as aforesaid all or any of the proportions prescribed by Part I of the said Schedule for the year beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and forty-two and the two succeeding years, or prescribed by Part II of the said Schedule for the year beginning with the first day of October nineteen hundred and forty-two and the two succeeding years;

(c) may, at any time during the year nineteen hundred and forty-four lay before Parliament the draft of an order altering as aforesaid all or any of the proportions prescribed by Part I of the said Schedule for the year beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and forty-five and the two succeeding years, or prescribed by Part II of the said Schedule for the year beginning with the first day of October nineteen hundred and forty-five and the two succeeding years;

and if, before the end of the calendar year in which the draft of such an order is laid before Parliament, each House of Parliament has resolved that the order be made, the Board shall forthwith make the order in terms of the draft, and the order shall come into operation upon the making thereof.

(3) This section shall not authorize the making of an order—

(a) altering any of the proportions prescribed by Part I of the First Schedule to this Act to a proportion being, in relation to long films, less than twenty per cent, or more than thirty per cent, or, in relation to short films, less than fifteen per cent, or more than thirty per cent; or

(b) altering any of the proportions prescribed by Part II of the said Schedule to a proportion being, in relation to long films, less than fifteen per cent or more than thirty per cent or, in relation to short films, less than twelve-and-a-half per cent or more than thirty per cent.

(4) As from the coming into operation of an order under this section altering any of the proportions prescribed by the First Schedule to this Act, that Schedule shall have effect as if it prescribed, instead of that proportion substituted therefor by the order.

(5) In this section the expression "calendar year" means year beginning with the first day of January.

16. The First Schedule to the Act of 1927 shall have effect, and be deemed always to have had effect, as if the proportion prescribed by Part II of that Schedule as respects the year ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and thirty-eight were fifteen per cent and not twenty per cent.

Part II.

Restrictions on Blind Booking and Advance Booking of Films

17.—(1) No renter shall, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, procure the giving by an exhibitor (whether for a consideration or not, and whether orally or in writing) of any such undertaking as would, if it were legally binding on the exhibitor, impose on him an obligation, either actual or contingent, to take delivery of a film to which this Act applies, for public exhibition at a theater in Great Britain, being a film which had not been trade-shown at the time of his giving the undertaking:

Provided that this subsection shall not operate so as to restrict—

(a) in relation to any serial film or series of films, the making, at a time when at least three parts of the film or series have been trade-shown, of an agreement for the public exhibition of any part thereof,

(b) the making, in relation to any one film, of an agreement for the exhibition of that film at one theater only and on a number of consecutive days, or

(c) the making, in relation to any one film, of agreements for the exhibition of that film on not more than three days and at not more than three theaters.

(2) Where, in relation to any one film, there have been made, at a time when that film has not been trade-shown, several agreements the purport of which taken together is to provide for the public exhibition of that film in Great Britain either at more than one theater or otherwise than on consecutive days, the benefit of paragraph (b) of the proviso to the preceding subsection shall not extend to any of those agreements; and where, in relation to any one film, there have been made, at a time when that film has not been trade-shown, several agreements the purport of which taken together is to provide for the public exhibition of the film in Great Britain either on more than three days or at more than three theaters, the benefit of paragraph (c) of the said proviso shall not extend to any of those agreements.

In relation to any film being a part of a serial film or series of films, the preceding provisions of this subsection shall have effect as if, in those provisions, for the words "when that film has not been trade-shown," in each place where those words occur, there were substituted the words "before three parts of that serial film or series of films have been trade-shown."

18. No renter shall, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirty-first day of March nineteen hundred and forty-eight, procure the giving by an exhibitor (whether for a consideration or not, and whether orally or in writing) of any such undertaking as would, if it were legally binding on the exhibitor, impose on him an obligation, either actual or contingent, to take delivery of a film to which this Act applies for public exhibition at a theater in Great Britain at a date later than six months after the date on which he gives the undertaking:

Provided that, in relation to any serial film or series of films, this section shall not operate so as to restrict the making of an agreement in so far as it provides for any part of the film or series being exhibited after three parts thereof have been exhibited to the public at a theater in Great Britain.

19. If any renter contravenes any of the provisions of this Part of this Act, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty pounds.

20.—(1) Any agreement made after the commencement of this Act (whether in Great Britain or elsewhere) shall be invalid, if and so far as—

(a) in the case of an agreement made before the end of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, it purports to impose on an exhibitor an obligation, either actual or contingent to take delivery of a film to which this Act applies for public exhibition at a theater in Great Britain, being a film which has not been trade-shown at the time of the making of the agreement, or

(b) in the case of an agreement made before the end of March nineteen hundred and forty-eight, it purports to impose on any exhibitor an obligation, either actual or contingent, to take delivery of a film to which this Act applies for public exhibition at a theater in Great Britain at a date later than six months after the date on which the agreement is made:

Provided that the preceding provisions of this subsection shall not apply in relation to any agreement the making of which is unrestricted by virtue of the proviso to subsection (1) of section seventeen of this Act or the proviso to section eighteen of this Act, as the case may be.

(2) Any agreement validly made before the commencement of this Act (whether in Great Britain or elsewhere) which, if made after the commencement of this Act, would be invalid under the preceding subsection, shall, if and so far as it relates to the delivery after the end of September nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, for public exhibition in Great Britain, of a film to which this Act applies, cease to have effect at the end of that month.

21. A renter shall, whenever requested so to do by a person authorized in that behalf by the Board of Trade, produce to that person such books or other documents, and furnish to that person such other information, with respect to any film delivered or to be delivered by him to any exhibitor in Great Britain for public exhibition therein, being a film to which this Act applies, as the Board may require for the purpose of the enforcement of this Part of this Act.

Part III.

Registration of Films

22.—(1) No person shall, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, deliver to an exhibitor in Great Britain for public exhibition therein any film to which this Act applies, unless, at the time of the delivery, the film is a registered film; and no person shall, in the said period, exhibit to the public at a theater in Great Britain any film to which this Act applies, being a film which he knows, or ought to have known, not to be a registered film:

Provided that this subsection shall not restrict the delivery or exhibition, in pursuance of a valid agreement for its exhibition at one theater only on a number of consecutive days, of a film in respect of which a provisional application for registration has been made, if the film is trade-shown within six weeks from the date on which the application was made, and shall not restrict—

(a) the delivery or exhibition of any film which has been exhibited in Great Britain to exhibitors or to the public before the commencement of this Act, other than a film which was first so exhibited after the end of September nineteen hundred and twenty-seven and is a film to which the Act of 1927 applies, or

(b) the delivery or exhibition, in pursuance of valid agreements for its exhibition on not more than three days and at not more than three theaters, of a film which, at the time of the delivery or exhibition, has not been trade-shown.

(2) If any person delivers a film in contravention of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty pounds; and if any person exhibits a film in contravention of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which he so exhibits the film.

23.—(1) Upon application duly made to them, not later than the end of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, for the registration of a film to which this Act applies, the Board of Trade shall, subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, register the film under this Part of this Act in a register to be kept by the Board for the purpose.

(2) The register shall be so kept as to record, in relation to each film registered therein—

(a) the title and length of the film, the fact that it is a British film or a foreign film, as the case may be, and such other particulars (if any) with respect to the films as may be prescribed for the purpose of identification, and

(b) such other particulars with respect to the film as are required by the following provisions of this Part of this Act to be entered in the register.

(3) On the registration of a film under this Part of this Act, the Board of Trade shall issue to the person on whose application the film is registered a certificate of registration specifying all the particulars which, at the time of the issue of the certificate, are recorded in the register with respect to that film.

(4) As soon as may be after the end of the week beginning at the commencement of this Act, and of each subsequent week, the Board of Trade shall publish in the Board of Trade Journal a list of films registered in that week.

(5) The register shall, at all reasonable times, be open to inspection by any person at the offices of the Board of Trade, on payment of the prescribed fee, and any person inspecting the register may take copies of any entries therein.

(6) The Board of Trade shall, on demand made in that behalf by any person and on payment of the prescribed fee, furnish that person with a copy of the entry in the register relating to any particular film, being a copy certified to be true by the officer of the Board of Trade having the custody of the register.

24.—(1) Every application for the registration of a film shall be made either by the maker of the film or by a renter who has acquired it for distribution in Great Britain, and shall be accompanied by the prescribed fee.

(2) No such application as aforesaid shall be entertained unless the film which is the subject of the application has been trade-shown within the fourteen days immediately preceding the date on which the application is made:

Provided that—

(a) a provisional application may be made before the film has been trade-shown and in that case, if the film is trade-shown within six weeks after the date on which the provisional application is made, the provisional application shall thereupon be treated as if it had been made within fourteen days after the film was trade-shown; and

(b) an application made more than fourteen days after the film was trade-shown may be entertained by the Board of Trade if they are satisfied that the delay was due to special circumstances and was not intentional.

(3) the applicant for the registration of a film, and if the applicant is not the maker of the film, the maker, shall produce to the Board of Trade such books and other documents relating to the film, and furnish to the Board such other information with respect thereto, as the Board may require for the proper discharge of their functions under this Part of this Act in relation to that film; and any information furnished for the purposes of this subsection shall, if the Board so direct, be accompanied by a statutory declaration as to the truth of the information, being a declaration made by the person furnishing the information:

Provided that an application for the registration of a film shall not be granted, unless and until there has been furnished to the Board of Trade a statutory declaration made by the applicant to the effect that there has not been made, in relation to that film, any such agreement as is declared by Part II of this Act to be invalid in any respect.

25.—(1) Subject to the following provisions of this section, a film shall, for the purpose of the registration thereof under this Part of this Act, be deemed to be a British film if, and only if,—

(a) the maker of the film was, throughout the time during which the film was being made, either a British subject or a British company, and

(b) the studio, if any, used in making the film was within His Majesty's dominions, and

(c) not less than the requisite amount of labor costs represents payments paid or payable in respect of the labor or service of British subjects or person domiciled in some part of His Majesty's dominions.

(2) In paragraph (a) of the preceding subsection the expression "a British company" means a company incorporated under the laws of any part of His Majesty's dominions, being a company the directors of which, or the majority of the directors of which, were British subjects; and for the purposes of paragraphs (a) and (c) of that subsection, any film used for making photographs depicted as part of any scene in the film which is the subject of the application for registration, shall be deemed to form part of the last-mentioned film; and in paragraph (c) of that subsection the expression "the requisite amount of labor costs" means, in relation to any film—

(a) (in a case where the total labor costs of the film amount to not less than twenty-two thousand five hundred pounds, and the quotient derived from dividing the amount of the said total labor costs by the number of feet comprised in the length of the film is a sum of not less than three pounds) whichever of the two following amounts is the less, that is to say—

(i) the amount arrived at by applying the fraction three-quarters to the total labor costs of the film, after deducting therefrom, if the applicant for registration so desires, the amount of any payment which, as part of those costs, has been paid or is payable in respect of the labor or services of any one person who was, while engaged in the making of the film, neither a British subject nor a person domiciled in some part of His Majesty's dominions;

(ii) the amount arrived at by applying the fraction four-fifths to the total labor costs of the film, after deducting therefrom the amount of any payments which, as part of those costs, have been paid or are payable in respect of the labor or services of any two persons neither of whom was, while engaged in the making of the film, a British subject or a person so domiciled, and at least one of whom was so engaged in the capacity of an actor or actress, or

(b) in any other case, the amount arrived at under sub-paragraph (i) of the preceding paragraph:

Provided that if, upon the application for the registration, as a British film, of a film in respect of which the condition imposed by paragraph (c) of the preceding subsection is not fulfilled, the Board of Trade are satisfied that the maker of the film took all reasonable steps to fulfill the said condition, and that the non-fulfillment thereof was due to exceptional circumstances beyond his control, the Board, if they think fit, may direct that this subsection shall have effect in relation to that film as if in paragraph (a) of this subsection for the words "three-quarters" and the words "four-fifths" there were respectively substituted the words "seven-tenths" and the words "three-quarters."

(3) If, upon an application for the registration of a film as a British film, the applicant requests the Board of Trade so to do, the Board shall, for the purpose of determining whether the conditions imposed by this section are fulfilled in respect of the film, treat the film as if such portions thereof as may be designated by the applicant, being portions the length of which does not exceed in all ten per cent of the total length of the film or twenty per cent of so much of its total length as consists of photographs of studio scenes (whichever percentage is the less), did not form part of the film; and in that case the length of the film shall, for the purpose of the registration thereof, be deemed to be reduced by the length of the portions of the film which, by virtue of this subsection, are to be treated as not forming part of the film.

(4) Every film registered under this Part of this Act shall, if the conditions imposed by subsection (1) of this section are fulfilled in respect of the film, be registered as a British film, or, if those conditions are not so fulfilled, be registered as a foreign film.

(5) Section seven of the Finance Act, 1928, (which provides for the reduction of customs duties on negative cinematograph films which are certified by the Board of Trade to satisfy the requirements of subsection (3) of section twenty-seven of the Act of 1927) shall have effect as if the reference in the said section seven to the said subsection (3) included a reference to subsection (1) of this section.

26.—(1) Every film registered under this Part of this Act as a British film shall be registered as an exhibitors' quota film, and, subject to the following provisions of this section, shall, if the applicant so requests, be registered also as a renters' quota film.

(2) A film registered under this Part of this Act as a British film shall not be registered as a renters' quota film unless—

(a) the maker of the film was, throughout the time during which the film was being made, a person carrying on business in the United Kingdom and having his principal place of business therein, and

(b) the studio, if any, used in making the film (exclusive of any portion of the film which, by virtue of subsection (3) of the last preceding section is to be treated as not forming part of the film) was within the United Kingdom, and

(c) at least half the requisite amount of labor costs, as defined by subsection (2) of the last preceding section, represents payments which, as part of the labor costs of the film, have been paid or are payable in respect of the labor or services of British subjects ordinarily resident in, or persons domiciled in, the United Kingdom.

(3) A film registered under this Act as a British long film shall not be registered as a renters' quota film unless—

(a) the total labor costs of the film amount to not less than seven thousand five hundred pounds, and

(b) the quotient derived from dividing the amount of the said total labor costs by the number of feet comprised in the length of the film is a sum of not less than one pound;

Provided that the Board of Trade may exempt any particular film from the operation of this subsection if, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, the Board are of opinion that the film has special value for purposes of entertainment.

(4) The Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may lay before Parliament the draft of an order directing that the last preceding subsection shall, subject to such modifications of that subsection as may be specified in the order, apply in relation to films registered under this Part of this Act as British short films, as it applies in relation to films registered as British long films; and if each House of Parliament resolves that the order be made, the Board shall make the order in terms of the draft, and the order shall come into operation on such date as may be specified therein.

(5) The Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may lay before Parliament the draft of an order providing that the Board, upon representations made to them within the prescribed period after there has been trade-shown a film which is the subject of an application for the registration thereof as a British film and also as a renters' quota, or which has been registered as aforesaid, may, notwithstanding that the conditions as to cost imposed in relation to the film by subsection (3) of this section, or by an order under the last preceding subsection are fulfilled either refuse to register the film as a renters' quota film or, as the case may be, cancel the registration of the film as a renters' quota film, if, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, the Board are satisfied that the film has insufficient value for purposes of entertainment; and if each House of Parliament resolves that the order be made, the Board shall make the order in terms of the draft, and the order shall come into operation on such date, falling not earlier than twelve months after the date on which the order is made, as may be specified in the order:

Provided that an order under this subsection shall not apply in relation to short films unless and until an order under the last preceding subsection is in operation.

(6) Where, in the case of a film registered under this Part of this Act as a British long film and also as a renters' quota film,—

(a) the total labor costs of the film amount to not less than twenty-two thousand five hundred pounds but to less than thirty-seven thousand five hundred pounds, and

(b) the quotient derived from dividing the amount of the said total labor costs by the number of feet comprised in the length of the film is a sum of not less than three pounds but of less than five pounds,

the film shall be registered as doubled for the purpose of renters' quota; and where, in the case of a film registered as a British long film and also as a renters' quota film,—

(i) the total labor costs of the film amount to not less than thirty-seven thousand five hundred pounds, and the film shall be registered as trebled for the purpose of renters' quota.

(ii) the quotient derived from dividing the amount of the said total labor costs by the number of feet comprised in the length of the film is a sum of not less than five pounds.

(7) If, and to the extent that, section one of this Act has effect subject to the modification made therein by an order containing such a direction as is authorized by paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of that section, subsection (6) of this section shall have effect as if in that subsection for the words "trebled for the purpose of renters' quota" there were substituted the words "capable of being doubled under section three of this Act."

27. If, upon any application for the registration of a film under this Part of this Act, being an application in connection with which it is material to ascertain—

(a) the labor costs of the film, or

(b) the proportion of those costs which represents payments in respect of the labor or services of persons of any particular class, it appears to the Board of Trade that any sum which, as part of those costs, is paid or payable in respect of the labor or services of any particular person is so great as not to be a bonafide payment by way of remuneration for the labor or services in question, the Board may direct that the said sum shall, as to the whole or any part of the amount thereof, be disregarded in ascertaining the said labor costs or the said proportion thereof, as the case may be.

28.—(1) Subject to the provisions of the following subsection, an application for the registration of any part of a serial film or series may be entertained if three parts of the film or series have been trade-shown.

(2) The Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may by order direct that the preceding subsection shall not apply in relation to any such application for registration as aforesaid which may be made during the continuance in force of the order; and any order under this subsection may be revoked by a subsequent order of the Board.

(3) If an order is made under the last preceding subsection, any provision contained in Part II of this Act which qualifies, in relation to any serial film or series of films, a restriction imposed by that Part of this Act shall operate so as to qualify that restriction in relation only to the exhibition of such parts (if any) of a serial film or series of films as are not the subject of applications for registration made during the continuance in force of the order.

29. A film which has been exhibited in Great Britain to the public before the commencement of this Act (other than a film which was first so exhibited after the end of September nineteen hundred and twenty-seven and is a film to which the Act of 1927 applies) shall not be registered after the commencement of this Act, and a film which has been duly registered under Part II of the Act of 1927 shall not be registered under this Part of this Act:

Provided that for the purposes of this section a film shall not be taken to have been exhibited to the public by reason only that the film has been trade-shown.

30. If, at any time after the registration of a film, the Board of Trade, upon making any such inquiries as they think desirable, are satisfied that the film either ought not to have been registered or is incorrectly registered in any particular, they shall cause the necessary deletion or correction to be made in the register and, if the Board think proper, issue to the maker of the film, or, if the film has been acquired by a renter for distribution in Great Britain, issue to the renter, a certificate of registration to take the place of any such certificate previously issued in respect of the film; but the Board, if in any particular case they think fit so to do, may direct that, for the purpose of any of the provisions of Part I of this Act relating to renters' quotas and exhibitors' quotas, the film shall, to such extent as may be specified in the direction, be treated as if the deletion or correction in the register had not been made.

31.—(1) Any person who is aggrieved by any decision taken by the Board of Trade for the purpose of the performance of their duties in relation to the register, may, subject to rules of court, make application in the matter to the High Court, and the decision of that court on any such application shall be final and not subject to appeal to any other court.

(2) In relation to any person whose principal place of business is in Scotland, the preceding subsection shall have effect as if for any reference therein to the High Court there were substituted a reference to the Court of Session.

32. The registration of a film may be proved by the production of—

(a) a copy of the Board of Trade Journal containing a notification of the registration of the film, or

(b) the certificate of registration issued, or, as the case may be, last issued in respect of the film, or

(c) a copy of the entry in the register relating to the film, being a copy certified to be true by the officer having the custody of the register; and a document purporting to be such a certificate of registration, or to be such a certified copy as aforesaid, shall be evidence of the matters stated in the document, without proof of the signature or authority of the person signing it.

33.—(1) A renter who, in the period beginning at the commencement of this Act and ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and forty-eight, delivers a registered film to an exhibitor in Great Britain for public exhibition therein shall, in such manner, and at such time, as may be prescribed, notify to the exhibitor the title and registered length of the film, the fact that it is registered as a British film or registered as a foreign film, as the case may be, and any such other particulars for the time being recorded in the register with respect to the film as may be prescribed.

(2) If any renter fails to comply with the provisions of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds.

Part IV.

Provisions as to Persons Employed by Makers of Cinematograph Films

34.—(1) The wages paid by any person carrying on in Great Britain the business of making films to which this Act applies to persons employed by him in connection with that business, and the conditions of employment of persons so employed, shall, unless agreed upon by the employer and by organizations representative of the persons employed, be not less favorable to the person employed than the wages which would be payable, and the conditions which would have to be observed, under a contract which complied with the requirements of any resolution of the House of Commons for the time being in force applicable to contracts of Government departments; and if any dispute arises as to what wages ought to be paid, or what conditions ought to be observed, in accordance with this section, it shall, if not otherwise disposed of, be referred by the Board of Trade to the industrial court for settlement.

(2) Where any matter is referred to the industrial court under this section, the court, in arriving at its decision, shall have regard to any determination that may be brought to its notice relating to the wages or conditions of service of persons employed in a capacity similar to that of the persons to whom the reference relates, being a determination contained in a decision of a joint industrial council, conciliation board or other similar body, or in an agreement between organizations representative of employers and work people.

(3) Where any award has been made by the industrial court upon a dispute referred to that court under this section, then, as from the date of the award or from such later date as the court may direct, it shall be an implied term of the contract between the employer and workers to whom the award applies that the rate of wages to be paid, or the conditions of employment to be observed, under the contract shall, until varied in accordance with the provisions of this section, be in accordance with the award.

Part V.

General and Supplementary Provisions

35. The films to which this Act applies are all cinematograph films other than—

(a) films consisting wholly or mainly of photographs which, at the time when they were taken, were means of communicating news, or

(b) films made wholly or mainly for the purpose of commercial advertisement, or

(c) films certified by the Board of Education under subsection (2) of section seven of the Finance Act, 1935, as being entitled to exemption from customs duties under the convention for facilitating the international circulation of films of an educational character which is referred to in that subsection.

36.—(1) The Board of Trade, after consulting the Cinematograph Films Council and considering its advice in the matter, may lay before Parliament the draft of an order directing that any provisions of this Act or of an order under Part III of this Act which specify a sum to which—

(a) the labor costs of a film, or the quotient arrived at by dividing the amount of labor costs of the film by the length thereof, or

(b) the price paid or payable for the acquisition of the right to distribute a film in a foreign country, must amount for any particular purpose, shall have effect as if for any reference in those provisions to the said sum there were substituted a reference to such other sum as may be specified in the order; and if each House of Parliament resolves that the order be made, the Board shall make the order in terms of the draft, and the order shall come into operation on such date as may be specified therein.

(2) The power conferred by the preceding subsection to lay in draft before Parliament and to make an order shall be construed as including a power, exercisable in the like manner and subject to the like condition, to lay in draft before Parliament and to make an order varying or revoking an order having effect by virtue of that subsection.

37.—(1) Every person who has, in the year beginning at the commencement of this Act or any of the nine succeeding years, carried on business as a renter in Great Britain shall—

(a) within one month after the end of that year, or within such longer period as the Board of Trade may in any particular case allow, furnish to the Board a return stating whether or not he has in that year acquired for distribution in Great Britain any film which is a registered film, and, if he has done so, giving with respect to each registered film which has been so acquired by him in that year such particulars as may be prescribed, being particulars which the Board consider necessary for the purposes of this Act, and

(b) not later than the end of April in the year next following that in which a return has been made by him in pursuance of paragraph (a) of this subsection, furnish to the Board of Trade a supplementary return giving, with respect to any registered film acquired by him as aforesaid in the year to which the original return relates, such of the prescribed particulars as could not have been given in the original return:

Provided that, in relation to any such person who has ceased in any such year to carry on business as a renter in Great Britain, paragraph (a) of this subsection shall have effect as if for the reference in that paragraph to the end of that year there were substituted a reference to the date in that year on which he ceased to carry on business as aforesaid.

(2) Any such return as aforesaid shall be admissible in evidence for the purpose of determining whether the films mentioned in the return as having been acquired by the person by whom the return was made were acquired by him for distribution in Great Britain.

(3) Every person who has, in any exhibitors' quota year, carried on business as an exhibitor at a theater in Great Britain, shall, within one month after the end of that year, furnish to the Board of Trade a return stating whether or not he has in that year exhibited to the public at a theater in Great Britain a film which is a registered film, and if so—

(a) specifying the dates in that year on which any registered film was exhibited by him to the public at that theater, and, in relation to each of those dates, the number of times the film was so exhibited, and

(b) giving such other particulars (if any) with respect to the film as may be prescribed, being particulars which the Board consider necessary for the purposes of this Act; and the said return shall include a statement showing, in relation to each day in the said year on which cinematograph films were exhibited to the public at that theater, the respective times at which the exhibition of films as aforesaid began and ended:

Provided that, if in any such year an exhibitor ceases to carry on the business of exhibiting registered films to the public at any particular theater in Great Britain, the return to be made by him with respect to that theater for that year shall be made within one month after the date on which he so ceases to carry on that business at that theater.

(4) A return required by this section shall be deemed not to have been furnished in compliance with this section unless it is accompanied by a statutory declaration of the truth of the particulars contained in the return, being a declaration made by the person required to furnish the return.

(5) Every person by whom a return has been made to the Board of Trade in pursuance of this section, shall produce and furnish to the Board such books and other documents and other information by way of explanation of the return as the Board may require for the purposes of this Act.

(6) For the purposes of any proceedings which may be taken by virtue of this section, the fact that a person has been the holder of a renter's license or of an exhibitor's license shall be evidence that the said person has, in the year in respect of which the license was granted, carried on business as a renter in Great Britain or carried on business as an exhibitor at a theater in Great Britain, as the case may be.

38.—(1) If any person fails to produce, furnish or give to the Board of Trade, in accordance with the requirements of this Act, any book or other document, or any return, notification or other information, which is required by this Act so to produce, furnish or give, he shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding five pounds for every day during which the default continues.

(2) Any person who, in furnishing or giving any return, notification or other information for the purposes of any provisions of this Act, or, in recording any particulars in pursuance of this Act, knowingly or recklessly makes a statement false in a material particular, shall be guilty of an offense and liable, on summary conviction, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds or to both such imprisonment and such fine.

39. Where a body corporate is guilty of an offense under this Act, and it is proved that the offense occurred with the consent or connivance of, or was attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other officer of the body corporate, he, as well as the body corporate, shall be deemed to be guilty of that offense and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

40.—(1) Subject to the following provisions of this section, the Board of Trade may make regulations prescribing anything which by this Act is required or authorized to be prescribed, and may make regulations prescribing—

(b) the particulars and evidence necessary for satisfying the Board that a film is a British film or is a film which ought to be registered under Part III of this Act as a renters' quota film, and

(c) the form of the returns to be made, and the record books to be kept, under this Act, and also regulations providing that any statutory declaration which a person is required by this Act to make shall be deemed to be properly made if it is made on his behalf by any such person as may be specified in the regulations; but no such regulations prescribing the payment of fees shall be of any effect unless those regulations have been made with the consent of the Treasury.

(2) Any regulations prescribing the amount of any fee shall be so framed as to secure, as nearly as may be, that the aggregate amount produced by those fees will be equal to the amount of the expenses incidental to the carrying out of this Act and the carrying out of the Act of 1927 after the commencement of this Act; but the amount of the fees payable on applications for the registration of films or for licenses under this Act shall not exceed the amounts specified in the Second Schedule to this Act.

41.—(1) There shall be a council to be called "the Cinematograph Films Council," consisting of twenty-one members appointed by the Board of Trade; and the members of the said Council—

(a) eleven (of whom one shall be the chairman of the Council) shall be persons appointed as being independent persons.

(b) two shall be persons appointed as representing makers of British films,

(c) two shall be persons appointed as representing renters,

(d) four shall be persons appointed as representing exhibitors, and

(e) two shall be persons appointed as representing persons employed by makers of British films.

(2) It shall be the duty of the Board of Trade to satisfy themselves, with respect to any person whom they propose to appoint under paragraph (a) of the preceding subsection to be a member of the said Council, or who is a member of the Council by virtue of an appointment made under that paragraph, that he will have or has, as the case may be, no such financial or commercial interest as is likely to affect him in the discharge of his functions as a member of the Council; and any such person shall, whenever requested by the Board so to do, furnish to them such information as they consider necessary for the performance of their duty under this subsection.

Before appointing a person to be a representative member of the said Council, the Board of Trade shall consult such bodies, if any, as appear to the Board to be representative of the interest concerned.

The Board of Trade shall not appoint to be a member of the said Council any person who has been convicted of an offense under the Act of 1927 or this Act.

(3) The functions of the said Council shall be—

(a) to keep under review the progress of the cinematograph film industry in Great Britain, with particular reference to the development of that branch of the said industry which is engaged in the making of films, and to report thereon to the Board of Trade at such times as the Council thinks fit,

(b) to advise the Board in any matter relating to the cinematograph film industry in which the advice of the Council is sought by the Board (whether at the request of any persons appearing to the Board to have a substantial interest in the matter or otherwise), and

(c) to make to the Board, as soon as may be after the end of the year beginning at the commencement of this Act and each subsequent year, a report of the proceedings of the Council during that year.

(4) As soon as may be after receiving any report made to them under paragraph (c) of the last preceding subsection, the Board of Trade shall lay copies of the report before Parliament.

(5) The Board of Trade shall furnish to the said Council such information as the Council may reasonably require for the proper discharge of its functions.

(6) The quorum of the said Council shall be such number, not being less than ten, as the Board of Trade may determine; and the Council shall have power to regulate its own procedure, and may act notwithstanding a vacancy among the members thereof.

(7) A member of the said Council shall hold and vacate office in accordance with the terms of the instrument under which he is appointed, and a member of the Council who ceases to hold office shall be eligible for re-appointment; but no person shall, on any occasion, be appointed to be a member of the Council for more than three years:

Provided that, if any member of the said Council is convicted of an offense under the Act of 1927 or this Act, his office as a member of the Council shall forthwith become vacant.

(8) The said Council may, subject to any such limitations and conditions as it thinks proper, delegate any of its functions to a committee of the Council consisting of such members of the Council as it may determine.

42.—(1) Proceedings for an offense under this Act shall not, in England, be instituted otherwise than by the Board of Trade.

(2) Any process to be served on any person for the purposes of this Act shall, if that person is out of Great Britain but has a place of business in Great Britain, be deemed to be duly served if it is addressed to that person and left at, or sent by post to, that place of business.

43. Anything required or authorized by or under this Act to be done by, to or before the Board of Trade, may be done by, to or before the President of the Board, any secretary, under-secretary or assistant-secretary of the Board, or any person authorized in that behalf by the President.

44.—(1) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires, the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them, that is to say:—

"the Act of 1927" means the Cinematograph Films Act, 1927;

"the Cinematograph Films Council" means the Cinematograph Films Council constituted under this Part of this Act;

"exhibitor" means a person carrying on the business of exhibiting cinematograph films to the public;

"exhibitor's license" means, in relation to any person, a license under Part I of this Act authorizing him to carry on business as an exhibitor;

'exhibitors' quota year" means the year beginning with the first Day of October nineteen hundred and thirty-eight or any of the nine succeeding years;

"foreign country" means a country or territory which for the time being does not form part of His Majesty's dominions;

"labor costs," in relation to a film, means the total amount of the payments paid or payable by the maker of the film in respect of the labor or services of persons directly engaged in the making of the film, in so far as those payments are attributable to the making of that film, but does not include payments in respect of copyrights; and for the purpose of this definition—

(a) the author of the scenario of a film shall be deemed to be a person directly engaged in the making of the film, and

(b) a person shall not be taken to be directly engaged in the making of a film by reason only—

(i) that he is financially interested in the making of a film, or is engaged, in an administrative or clerical capacity, as an officer or servant of an undertaking concerned with the making of the film, or

(ii) that he supplies goods used in the making of the film or is in the employment of a person who supplies such goods;

"long film" means a film the length of which is not less than three thousand feet;

"maker," in relation to a film, means the person by whom the arrangements necessary for the making of the film are undertaken;

"the register" means the register of films registered under Part III of this Act, and "registration" means registration under that Part of this Act;

"registered" means registered either under Part III of this Act or under Part II of the Act of 1927;

"registered length," in relation to a film, means the length of the film as registered for the time being;

"renter" means a person who carries on the business of distributing cinematograph films to exhibitors, and, in relation to any renters' quota period, includes a person who has carried on that business in that period;

"renters' license" means, in relation to any person, a license under Part I of this Act authorizing him to carry on business as a renter;

"renters' quota period" means the year beginning with the first day of April nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, or the period of six months beginning with the first day of April or October in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-nine or in any of the eight succeeding years;

"serial film or series of films" means a serial film or series of films consisting of a number of parts not exceeding thirteen, each of which does not exceed two thousand feet in length, and which are intended to be exhibited on successive dates at intervals not exceeding fourteen days;

"short film" means a film the length of which is less than three thousand feet;

"studio" means a building constructed or adapted for the purpose of making films therein, and includes any land occupied with such a building, and a studio shall be deemed to be used in making a film if any part of that film, or of any other film used in making it, consists of photographs taken in that studio; and "studio scenes" shall be construed accordingly;

"theater" means any premises used for the exhibition of films to the public, except that the expression shall not, in relation to any year,—

(a) be construed as including any church, chapel, or other place of religious worship, or any hall or other premises used in connection with, and for the purposes of, any church, chapel or other such place as aforesaid, if the number of days on which registered films are exhibited in that year at the church, chapel, place, hall or premises (exclusive of any exhibition forming part of a religious service) does not exceed six, or

(b) be construed as including any premises used in that year for providing entertainments at which the exhibition of films is only part of the program, if the total length of the registered film or films exhibited in the course of any one of those entertainments does not exceed two thousand feet;

"trade-show," in relation to a film, means—

(a) displayed within the administrative county of London to exhibitors or their agents in a building, and under conditions, allowing for the satisfactory viewing of the film, after announcement to such persons at least seven days before the display, the display not being open to any member of the public on payment, or

(b) displayed to exhibitors or their agents on one occasion on which the film is exhibited to the public at a theater in Great Britain during the first four consecutive days on which the film is so exhibited, the display taking place after announcement to such persons at least seven days before the display.

(2) Any film registered under the Act of 1927 as a British film (not being a film which, by virtue of paragraph (ii) of the proviso to subsection (1) of section twenty-seven of that Act, is to be deemed to be a registered film for the purposes of the provisions of that Act other than those relating to the renters' quota) shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to be registered also as a renters' quota film.

(3) A person shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to acquire a film for distribution in any manner if he acquires the right to distribute the film in that manner.

(4) Any reference in this Act to distributing, or the distribution of, a film in any country or area shall be construed as a reference to distributing, or the distribution of, the film to exhibitors in that country or area for public exhibition therein.

(5) For the purposes of this Act, the making of a film shall be deemed not to include the production of blank film or of positives intended for public exhibition, or the production of negatives by means of any process used for making copies of negatives.

In this subsection the expressions "blank film," "positives" and "negatives" have the same meanings respectively as in section three of the Finance Act, 1925.

(6) For the purposes of this Act, registered films shall be deemed to be exhibited at more than one theater at the same time if any part of the period during which any one registered film is exhibited at a theater coincides with any part of the period during which any one registered film is exhibited at another theater.

(7) For the purposes of this Act, each part of a serial film or series of films shall be deemed to be a separate film.

(8) Any reference to this Act to His Majesty's dominions shall be construed as including a reference to any British protectorate, and to any such territory, being a territory in respect of which a mandate on behalf of the League of Nations is being exercised by His Majesty, as His Majesty may designate by Order in Council.

Any Order in Council under this subsection may be varied or revoked by a subsequent Order in Council.

45.—(1) The provisions of the Act of 1927 specified in the Third Schedule to this Act are hereby repealed.

(2) No film shall be registered under Part II of the Act of 1927 after the end of March nineteen hundred and thirty-eight; and any application for the registration of a film under the said Part II, being an application which has been made before the commencement of this Act and has not been determined before the commencement of this Act, shall be treated as an application made under Part III of this Act for the registration of the film under that Part of this Act.

(3) Any reference in the Act of 1937 to a license or to a licensed person shall be construed as a reference to a license granted under that Act or, as the case may be, to a person holding an appropriate license granted under that Act which is for the time being in force; but the power of the court under paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of section twenty-four of the said Act to order that no license shall be issued to a person may be exercised with respect to the issue of a license under this Act, as well as with respect to the issue of a license under that Act.

(4) Section eighteen of the Act of 1927 shall not apply in relation to any acquisition of a film after the end of March nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, and section twenty-one of the said Act shall not apply in relation to any exhibition of a film after the end of September nineteen hundred and thirty-eight.

(5) The reference in subsection (2) of section twenty-three of the Act of 1927 to the advisory committee thereinafter mentioned shall be construed as a reference to the Cinematograph Films Council.

(6) Any regulations made by the Board of Trade under section twenty-nine of the Act of 1927 shall, if and so far as those regulations were in force immediately before the commencement of this Act and provide for matters other than the charging of fees, continue in force notwithstanding the repeal of that section, but may be revoked as if they were regulations under this Act; and the sum by which the aggregate amount produced up to the commencement of this Act by the fees charged under the Act of 1927 exceeds the expenses incidental to the carrying out of that Act up to the commencement of this Act shall be deemed to form part of the amount produced by the fees chargeable under this Act.

(7) The expressions "registered," "registration" and "the register," wherever used in the Act of 1927, shall be construed as meaning respectively registered under that Act, registration under that Act and the register of films registered under that Act, except that in section nineteen of the said Act the expression "registered" shall, in relation to the year ending with the thirtieth day of September nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, be construed as meaning registered either under Part II of that Act or under Part III of this Act.

(8) Any Order in Council made in pursuance of subsection (5) of section twenty-seven of the Act of 1927, shall, if and so far as the Order was in force immediately before the commencement of this Act, have effect as if any reference in the Order to the said subsection (5) included a reference to subsection (8) of the last preceding section of this Act, and may be varied or revoked as if it were an Order under the said subsection (8).

46.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Cinematograph Films Act, 1938.

(2) This Act shall come into operation on the first day of April nineteen hundred and thirty-eight.

(3) This Act shall not extend to Northern Ireland; and for the purposes of the Government of Ireland Act, 1920, the enactment of legislation for purposes similar to the purposes of this Act shall be deemed not to be beyond the powers of the Parliament of Northern Ireland by reason only that such legislation may affect trade with places outside Northern Ireland.

Statutory Rules and Orders—1938

No. 266, CINEMATOGRAPH FILMS (Registration)

The Cinematograph Films (Registration) Regulations, 1938, dated March 31, 1938, Made by the Board of Trade under Sections 40 and 45 (6) of the Cinematograph Films Act, 1938 (1 & 2 Geo. 6, C. 17).

In pursuance of the provisions of Sections 40 and 45 (6) of the Cinematograph Films Act, 1938 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") the Board of Trade hereby make the following Regulations:—

1.—(a) These Regulations may be cited as the Cinematograph Films (Registration) Regulations, 1938, and shall come into operation on the 1st day of April, 1938.

(b) The Cinematograph Films (Registration) Regulations, 1927 (a), and the Cinematograph Films (Registration) (Amendment) Regulations, 1933 (b), are hereby revoked.

(c) The Interpretation Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 63) shall apply to the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies to an Act of Parliament.

Applications

2. Every application for registration of a film shall be made to the Board of Trade by the maker or renter in writing in the form set out in Form A in the Schedule hereto.

3. Each application shall relate to one film only, or to one part only of a serial film or of a series of films, and shall be accompanied by a fee of:—

In the case of an application for registration of—

(i) a long film for renters' quota	1	10	0
(ii) a long film for exhibitors' quota only	1	0	0
(iii) a short film	1	0	0

(b) S. R. & O. 1933 (No. 288) p. 493.

4. Within fourteen days after a film in respect of which an application for registration is made has been trade-shown, evidence thereof shall be furnished to the Board in the form set out in Form B in the Schedule hereto.

5. An application for the registration of a film as a British film shall be accompanied by evidence of the British nature of the film in the form set out in Form C in the Schedule hereto.

A statutory declaration verifying the particulars given in Form C shall be furnished by the maker of the film.

The particulars as to salaries, wages and payments indicated in paragraph 8 of Form C shall be certified by an accountant being a member of an incorporated society of accountants.

6. A statutory declaration made by the applicant that there has not been made in relation to the film any such agreement as is declared by Part II of the Cinematograph Films Act, 1938, to be invalid in any respect, shall be furnished not earlier than with the last of the Forms to be submitted in connection with the application.

7. Applications and evidence in respect of the registration of films shall be addressed to the Principal Assistant Secretary, Industries and Manufactures Department (Cinematograph Films Branch), Board of Trade, 4, Central Buildings, Matthew Parker Street, London, S. W. I.

The Register

8. The particulars to be entered in the Register in relation to each film registered are:—(a) the title of the film and in the case of a part of a serial or series the title of the serial or series of which it is part; (b) the name and address of the maker; (c) the name of the renter who will distribute the film in Great Britain; (d) the name of the applicant for registration; (e) whether registered as British or Foreign; (f) if British, whether registered for exhibitors' quota only; (g) the registered length of the film in feet and, if the film is registered as a British long film for the purposes of the renters' quota, also the length of the film to be taken for the purposes of the renters' quota, and the renter by whom counted for such purposes; (h) the registration number; (i) the date of registration.

9. In the event of correction of the Register in respect of any film, if the Board of Trade think proper to issue a corrected certificate the original certificate shall be surrendered to the Board.

10. The Register may be inspected at the offices of the Industries of Manufactures Department (Cinematograph Films Branch), Board of Trade at the above address on any day, Sundays and holidays excepted, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. or on Saturdays 10 a.m. and 12 noon.

11. A fee of one shilling for each half-hour shall be payable by each person on each occasion of inspecting the register.

12. Applications for a certified copy of any entry in the Register shall be made in writing to the Principal Assistant Secretary, Industries and Manufactures Department (Cinematograph Films Branch), Board of Trade, at the above address, and shall be accompanied by a fee of five shillings in respect of each entry of which a certified copy is desired.

Notification to Exhibitors of the Registration Particulars of Films

13. The notification which by the provisions of Section 33 of the Act a renter is required to send to an exhibitor in Great Britain to whom he delivers a registered film for public exhibition therein, shall be sent in an invoice setting out the title, registered number and registered lengths of the film, the words "registered as a British film" or "registered as a Foreign film" as the case may be, and, if the film is a British film, whether, having regard to the provisions of Section 7 (4), of the Act, the film counts for exhibitors' quota in the exhibitors' quota year in which it is to be exhibited. If, after the invoice has been set, the registration of the film is corrected in a manner affecting the particulars given therein, a new invoice setting out the correct particulars shall be sent.

Statutory Declarations

14. Any statutory declaration which is required to be made for the purposes of these Regulations shall be made by the person in whose name the renters' license has been issued, or by the person who is the maker of the film, as the case may be, or, in the case of a partnership, by one of the partners, or, in the case of a company, by the secretary or by one of the directors of the company.

Dated this 31st day of March, 1938.

Statutory Rules and Orders—1938

No. 267, CINEMATOGRAPH FILMS (Renters)

The Cinematograph Films (Renters) Regulations, 1938, dated March 31, 1938, made by the Board of Trade under Sections 40 and 45 (6) of the Cinematograph Films Act, 1938 (1 & 2 Geo. 6 c. 17).

In pursuance of the provisions of Sections 40 and 45 (6) of the Cinematograph Films Act, 1938 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") the Board of Trade hereby make the following Regulations:—

1.—(a) These Regulations may be cited as the Cinematograph Films (Renters) Regulations, 1938, and shall come into operation on the 1st day of April, 1938.

(b) Paragraphs 2 and 3 and the First Schedule of the Cinematograph Films (Renters) Regulations, 1928 (a) are hereby revoked.

(c) The Interpretation Act. 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 63) shall apply to the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

Licenses

2. Every application for the issue of a renters' license shall be made to the Board of Trade in the form set out in the First Schedule hereto, and shall be addressed to the Principal Assistant Secretary, Industries and Manufactures Department (Cinematograph Films Branch), Board of Trade, 4, Central Buildings, Matthew Parker Street, London, S. W. I.

3. Each application shall be signed by the renter in whose name the license is to be issued, or, in the case of a partnership, by one of the partners, or in the case of a company, by the secretary or by one of the directors of the company, and shall be accompanied by a fee of five guineas.

Records

4.—(a) The particulars required by subsection (1) of Section 12 of the Act to be recorded in a book shall be recorded in the form set out in the Second Schedule hereto. A separate book shall be kept for each renters' quota period namely, the year beginning with the 1st April, 1938, and any period of six months beginning with the first day of April or October as the case may be in the year 1939 or in any of the eight succeeding years. In such book shall be entered from time to time the required particulars relating to all registered films (whether registered as renters' quota films or not) acquired by the renter for distribution in Great Britain, or by virtue of Section 6 of the Act to be deemed to have been acquired by him in the period to which the book relates. No page shall contain particulars relating to more than one film.

(b) The book in which the particulars are recorded may be in the form of a number of pages securely fastened together by means of a looseleaf binder, or in any other form approved by the Board of Trade.

Returns

5. The original and supplementary returns required by subsection (1) of Section 37 of the Act shall be made separately in respect of long films and of short films in the forms set out in the Third Schedule hereto. Each return shall be accompanied by a statutory declaration of the truth of the particulars contained in the return, and shall be sent to the Principal Assistant Secretary, Industries and Manufactures Department (Cinematograph Films Branch), Board of Trade, 4, Central Buildings, Matthew Parker Street, London, S. W. I.

Statutory Declarations

6. Any statutory declaration which a renter is required by Section 3 and subsection (4) of Section 37 of the Act to make shall be made by the person in whose name the license has been issued, or in the case of a partnership, by one of the partners, or in the case of a company, by the secretary or by one of the directors of the company.

Dated this 31st day of March, 1938.

W. B. Brown,
A Secretary of the Board of Trade.

Approved, so far as relating to fees.

AN INTERNATIONAL SURVEY OF

MOTION PICTURE MARKETS

The following survey of the World's film markets was compiled from data supplied by the Motion Picture Division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Lists of importers, distributors, etc. were obtained in a FILM DAILY world-wide survey.

ALBANIA

Legislation—There is no legislation in effect or contemplated which might reduce or prevent American distribution of motion pictures. There are no laws in Albania that restrict dealing in foreign exchange. It is forbidden, however, to export gold bullion and gold coin.

Censorship—Films imported from the United States and other countries must pass the commission with regard to their potential moral and political effect on the public. No films have been barred during the past several years, and only a few have suffered minor cuts. The important films come usually from Italy where they have been censored. Those brought direct from the United States are less likely to be censored as they are usually "westerns" and comics.

Competition—About 200 films were imported during 1937, about 75 percent of which were of American origin, about 20 percent of German and 5 percent French and Italian origin. During the first nine months of 1938 Albania imported about 160 films, 90 percent of which were of American origin and 10 percent were German, Italian and French.

Copyright Relations—There are no copyright laws protecting foreign producers from piracy in Albania.

Production—No films are produced in Albania, and there appears to be no prospect for the creating of a producing industry.

Taxes—Customs duties: Developed positive motion picture films are subject to a duty of 20 gold francs ($6.50) per 100 kilograms. There is a'so an additional duty of 18 percent of the total regular duty levied and one percent of the value, which is destined for municipal, educational, port and other improvements.

Theaters—There are 18 motion picture theaters in Albania, and all are wired for sound films. Seven are owned and operated by the "Kinema Nasional" of Tirana; six are owned in partnership with the Kinema Nasional and private individuals; three are owned and operated by the "Gloria" partnership organization of Tirana, and two by private individuals.

Legislation—Up to this time, there has been no

ARGENTINA

Legislation—Under the exchange control system European films have generally been imported at the favorite "official" exchange rate, owing to bilateral trade agreements between Argentina and the respective European countries. American films, on the other hand, must be paid for at the "free market" rate, which during the past year has averaged about 20 percent higher. A further exchange control measure was instituted by a decree dated November 7, 1938, which provided that a prior permit would henceforth be required for all goods imported at the "free market" as well as the "official" exchange rate. It is announced that this arrangement will be used at the outset merely to furnish additional statistical data on imports and exchange requirements, although there is a possibility that it will later be used to actually curtail imports from individual countries, should circumstances warrant.

The Buenos Aires City Council in June 1938 adopted an ordinance which authorizes the municipality to grant annual prizes to the best Argentine films, and which also provides for a scale of municipal tax reductions to local theaters which exhibit Argentine films. This latter feature will naturally stimulate a preference for national over foreign films.

A bill has been introduced in the closing session of the Argentine Congress in 1938 which would give broader and more definite powers of regulation and control to the Instituto Cinematografico Argentino. The principal points of the proposed legislation include the following: encouragement of the national industry through prizes, subsidies, and other means; establishment of a central censorship board, with Argentine films exempted from censorship tax; exemption from import duties of virgin film and other accessories used in the making of Argentine films; and the future establishment of a Government film studio. At present there are no laws requiring a certain percentage of national films to be shown. No quota or contingent laws on films are apparently contemplated at this time, although it would be possible for the Government to achieve substantially the same effect by withholding a prior exchange permit on films.

The charge against the Argentine Association of Motion Picture Distributors (comprising the principal American companies) relative to a violation of the anti-trust law continued to be a subject of litigation during 1938.

Censorship—Each municipality undertakes its own film censorship at the present time. Censorship in Buenos Aires is performed by an honorary commission, composed of municipal and federal government representatives, as well as one member representing the production and distribution industry. Other large cities have censorship boards along similar lines.

There were over 500 feature films reviewed in Buenos Aires during 1938, and only two or three (all of European origin) were rejected.

Censorship is reasonably lenient. Although there are no formal censorship standards, films are generally approved as long as they do not come under the following classifications: Those stressing immorality or bad taste; those which ridicule religion; those which contain propaganda insidious to the Government; and those which might lead to international complications. Apart from this latter category, there is a formal censorship agreement with Chile whereby films may be barred on protest by either country.

As mentioned previously, the Instituto Cinematografico has proposed a single national censorship board.

Competition—Based on the total number of feature films released in Buenos Aires, it is believed that the share represented by American films has declined from 70 percent in recent years to about 66 percent during 1938. Argentine and French films ranked after American, each accounting for about 9 percent of the total. Other important suppliers were Germany, Great Britain, Spain, Mexico and Italy, in the approximate order named. For the year 1937, Great Britain was in second place, followed by Argentina, Germany, France, Spain, Italy and Mexico.

American films continue to be well received, and definitely preferred in the metropolitan first-run houses. However, Argentine pictures have become increasingly popular in the subsequent-run and small town theaters, and in such houses they have displaced American and other foreign films to a very great extent

Copyright Relations—The Argentine laws provide for adequate protection concerning copyrights and piracy. Under date of July 13, 1934, Argentina ratified the Inter-American Copyright Convention negotiated at Buenos Aires on August 11, 1910.

Production—Approximately 50 feature films were produced by the local industry in 1938, compared with 30 in 1937 and 18 in 1936. Production estimates for 1939 have ranged between 75 and 100 pictures.

The local studios have been improving their technical equipment, and there are now several producers who have adequate facilities. Although a few of the larger companies appear to be making a profit, many of the smaller companies depend on outside backing and have difficulty in maintaining sufficient working capital. In general, therefore, the local production industry is not too well financed.

The technique of Argentine films is still inferior to American standards, although a gradual improvement is noted from year to year, and even now the average Argentine feature has a much greater earning power than the foreign films in the subsequent-run theaters.

The predominant language of the country is Spanish. There are no regulations requiring foreign films to be "dubbed" in Spanish. As a matter of fact, "dubbed" films were attempted several years ago and did not have a successful reception.

Up to this time there have been no provisions whereby the federal government would subsidize or render special assistance to the domestic film industry. However, such measures are contemplated in the proposed extension of the Instituto Cinematografico, mentioned under "Legislation." As the proposed law stands at present, such assistance would be financed both from a yearly legislative appropriation and a censorship tax. As mentioned previously, the city of Buenos Aires fosters the national film industry by annual prizes as well as a sliding scale of municipal tax reductions to theaters exhibiting Argentine films.

No accurate estimates are available as to the total investment in the local motion picture industry.

Taxes—Import duties on films, the unfavorable exchange rate on imports of American films, and a so-called "royalty" tax on remittance to foreign headquarters constitute relatively heavy tax burdens on the distribution of American films in Argentina. At the same time, the ordinary commercial taxes applied to theaters and to the routine business transactions of distributors may be considered as fairly reasonable.

Taxes on theaters vary with each municipality. In Buenos Aires the tax is based on the registered seating capacity in combination with the admission price of each performance. For instance, the basic tax provides that for each 10 centavos or fraction thereof collected for admission, and for each 100 seats or fraction of registered seating capacity, there is to be a tax of 14 centavos. During the summer months (November through March) this is reduced to 10 centavos. The foregoing scale applies to houses charging admission of more than 1.50 pesos for a "completa" (complete program consisting of several films) or 0.40 peso for a "seccion" (one to two pictures). Houses which charge a lower admission fee pay a basic tax of 11 instead of 14 centavos, with 7 centavos during the summer. Double the established tax is imposed for continuous performances.

utors pay the same taxes as other commercial organizations. The principal assessments in this connection are the income and sales taxes. Income tax is 5 percent on profits. The sales tax is 1.25 percent; distributors are not assessed the sales tax on films which they lease, but only on the sale of accessories such as posters and photographs. Distributors are also assessed a royalty tax of 2.5 percent on all gross remittances to parent companies.

Exposed motion picture films (or positive prints) pay a specific import duty of 15.00 gold pesos per kilogram. Unexposed film pays an ad valorem rate of 42 percent on an arbitrary valuation of 4.80 gold pesos per kilogram. The gold peso, which is used to express customs valuations, is equivalent to 2.2727 paper pesos, the latter being the monetary unit in general circulation.

Theaters—The latest estimate of the number of theaters in Argentina which is believed to be reasonably accurate is that contained in the 1937 Argentine film guide "El Indicador." At that time there were reported to be 1,021 motion picture theaters in the Republic, with a total seating capacity of 548,875. Of these, 178 houses seating a total of 131,084 were in the Federal Capital. Of the 1,021 houses in the whole country, some 800 may be considered as "active," with the remainder being either closed or else operating infrequently.

Sound—All of the 1,021 theaters are wired for sound, and prospects are, therefore, unimportant for sales of sound equipment to unwired theaters.

It is estimated that not more than 300 houses in all of Argentina have up-to-date imported sound equipment. The remainder possess mediocre equipment, most of which has been assembled locally.

AUSTRALIA

Legislation—There is no law in Australia which prohibits foreign exchange, but under the existing tariff British films are imported into Australia duty free while films from all other sources are subject to high tariff rates.

The only Federal laws affecting American films are those under which a rejection of 2½ percent on American films for the purpose of substituting Australian productions are permitted. This rejection right does not apply to British films. Similarly under the laws governing contracts between distributor and exhibitor, 12½ percent of non-British films may be rejected on each contract, and this likewise does not apply to British product.

The only other important laws affecting films specifically are quota laws existing in the States of New South Wales and Victoria.

Under contemplation at present are changes in the existing laws in New South Wales and Victoria, and also new legislation in the State of South Australia. It is also rumored that some legislation is being considered in Tasmania. None of this legislation is as yet in form for submission, but the numerous suggestions in connection therewith include variously, standardization of contracts, embodying 25 percent rejection allowances, restriction of new theater building, prohibition of exhibition by the distributing company, and, in New South Wales, imposition on imported films to subsidize Australian producers. Should these laws be passed in the present suggested form or in some similar form, it would undoubtedly have the effect of reducing the share of business at present enjoyed by American companies in this market.

The quota acts at present in force in Victoria and New South Wales require that a percentage of Australian films be screened if available.

Censorship—The Commonwealth Film Censorship during the calendar year 1937, dealt with 1712 standard films of all classes. Of these, 1,538 were passed without eliminations, 157 passed with eliminations, and 17 were rejected on first viewing. Of the 17 films rejected on first viewing, 7 were passed after appeal or reconstruction, 5 were rejected entirely after appeal, and in the case of the remaining 5, no appeal was made against the original rejection. Australia censorship is strict but the trade does not consider it unreasonably so.

Competition—Chief competition encountered by American films was from the product of British industry. Of the 1,712 films examined by the censors during 1937, 1,152, approximately 67.3 percent, were of American origin; 459, approximately 26.8 percent, came from the United Kingdom; and 101 approximately 5.9 percent, came from other countries. American films are very well received in Australia and are preferred to the local productions.

Copyright Relations—The laws of Australia give full protection to copyrights and there is little, if any, record of trouble in connection with piracy of films.

Production—Only eight feature films were produced in Australia during 1938, all of these being made by Cinesound Productions Ltd. Cinesound recently announced a scheme for the production of 40 feature films during the coming year.

Taxes—Taxation is considered high, being imposed by the Commonwealth Government as well as the six individual States. Commonwealth Government taxes fall on the distributors under the headings of "tariff," "sales tax," "income tax," "special tax" and in cases where buildings are owned, "land tax." Exhibitors pay Commonwealth taxes under the headings of "income tax," "special tax," and "land tax." State Government taxes against distributors include "income tax," "special tax," and "municipal rates"; while exhibitors pay "income tax," "special tax," "municipal rates," "amusement tax" and "license fees."

Feature films from the United Kingdom are duty-free, but those of other origin are dutiable at 8 pence (about $0.16) per foot. Because of this duty, only negatives are imported from the United States, and copies are made in Australia. There is no tax on theater tickets in Queensland, but each of the other 5 States has such a tax. In New South Wales (the most important State) the tax ranges from ½ pence ($0.01) on tickets from 1 shilling 6½ pence ($0.30) to 1 shilling 11½ pence ($0.39), to 5 pence, ($0.10) on tickets priced at 6 shillings ($1.25). The tax is higher in other States.

Theaters—At the end of 1938, there were 1,371 theaters in Australia plus a number of touring shows. The total seating capacity was approximately 1,100,000.

Sound—All of the 1,371 theaters in Australia are wired for sound.

BAHAMAS

Competition—Great Britain is the only competitor of American films in this Colony. About 96 percent of motion pictures shown are American.

Copyright Relations—Copyright relations are the same as in the United Kingdom.

Taxes—A customs duty of 1½ percent ad valorem is assessed on motion picture films imported into the Colony, provided satisfactory bond be given for the re-exportation thereof within 90 days.

Theaters—There are three motion picture theaters in the Bahamas and one, the "Savoy" is now being re-built after destruction by fire in March, 1938. The total seating capacity of these three theaters is around 1350.

BARBADOS

Legislation—There are no quota law changes since the Act of Feb. 12, 1937 to amend the Cinematograph (British Films) Act 1935. The requisite percentage of British films was established therein as follows:—Ordinary Films, 20%; News Films, 50%.

Censorship—During 1938 to November 15th, 407 feature films were censored, 433 shorts, 131 news reels. Seven features and two shorts were rejected, all of which were American.

There are no international censorship agreements at Barbados.

Competition—British films are the largest competitors of American films here. Eighty-eight percent of the feature films shown at the three theaters in Barbados were American during the period January 1 to November 15, 1938. No American news reels were exhibited.

Copyright Relations—Barbados is governed by the British Copyright laws.

Theaters—There are two first run motion picture theaters and one other with a total seating capacity of 1892.

BELGIUM

Censorship—The only censorship to which a film may be subjected in Belgium is the so-called "Commission de Controle" which decides whether a picture can be played before children under sixteen years old or not.

Competition—French films continue to be the most serious competitors to the American films in the field.

Production—There are three production units operating or being organized for operation in Belgium. They are led by Cinema Educational Production, the oldest organization in the field.

During the first months of 1938, a new studio was organized and equipped in Brussels. The firm behind the new enterprise is known as "Sonart." A second film studio in Belgium is known as Sacar-British. This organization is a Belgian society.

Taxes—Taxation is comparatively low. The taxation on distributors remains unchanged, at 2.475 per cent on the net royalty paid to producers. Apart from the entrance duty a further tax, known as the "Taxe de transmission" continues to be imposed in Belgium on all merchandise imported into the country. This tax amounts to 2.5 per cent ad valorem.

Theaters—The number of theaters in the country increased during the first months of 1938 until by the end of July they totalled 1,100. The total seating capacity has increased to approximately 650,000 seats.

Sound—The number of theaters wired for sound is understood to be 950.

BERMUDA

Competition — Approximately 200 films were shown during the year 1938, of which 186 were American, 12 British and 2 Portuguese. Only outstanding British films are projected. The Portuguese films are in the nature of an experiment to determine the reaction of local Portuguese to films of their country and in their language.

Production—No films are produced in the Colony except for advertising purposes and these are made by American concerns.

Taxes—Motion picture films (excluding undeveloped films), if of British origin, are subject to an import duty of one penny (approximately two cents) per 100 feet. If not of British origin they are subject to an import duty of six pence (approximately twelve cents) per 100 feet, plus a surtax of 25 percent. Films certified by the Board of Education to be of an educational character may enter free of duty.

Theaters—There are nine theaters in the Colony with a total seating capacity of 2,716. There are but two important houses and they are situated in Hamilton. They have a combined seating capacity of 1,200.

BOLIVIA

Legislation—There is no definite legislation imposed against motion pictures. The only restriction in force treats with transmitting of funds abroad.

Competition—About 85 percent of the films shown are American. The principal competitors of American films are Mexican, Argentine, German, French and Italian.

Theaters—There are approximately 20 theaters in the country, with a total seating capacity of 15,000.

Sound—There are 19 theaters wired for sound.

BRAZIL

Legislation—Under existing restrictions foreign motion picture distributors in Brazil are being granted exchange on the basis of 180 day future contracts against fixed daily quotas. The recent reduction of these quotas has resulted in a "backlog" in remittances which is the cause of some concern amongst American film companies with local distributing branches.

In accordance with a law enacted during August of 1934, all motion picture theaters in Brazil are required to run a minimum of 100 meters of national film with every program. Due to the poor quality of a majority of the "shorts" and newsreels produced in the country, it is seldom that an exhibitor exceeds the minimum requirements.

Censorship—According to the records of the Federal Censorship Bureau a total of 2,370 films were submitted for censorship during 1938. Of these films only two were rejected.

Competition—Germany and France with 5 percent each of the total film footage censored in the country are the principal competitors to the U. S. in feature length films.

The United States served as the source for 78 percent of the films censored in this country during 1938.

Production—A total of four domestic feature length films aggregating 25,600 feet were produced during 1938. Existing production facilities appear to be adequate to take care of the demand found here for domestic pictures.

Taxes—Foreign distributors are obliged to pay a tax of 6 percent on exchange remitted abroad.

Theaters—According to estimates provided by American distributing organizations there was a total of 1,450 motion picture houses in existence in Brazil at the close of 1938. The aggregate seating capacity of these houses is estimated at around 700,000.

Sound—American film distributors fix the number of theaters wired for sound in Brazil at the close of 1938 at 1,250. 150 of the 200 houses not equipped for the showing of sound film were reported to be closed at the end of the year under review.

BRITISH EAST AFRICA

Censorship—All films shown are censored by the Film Censorship Board. During 1938 only two films were rejected by the Board.

Competition—The largest competitors of American films are British films. British East Africa shows American films to the extent of 80 percent and 20 percent of the films shown are British.

Theaters—There are 16 motion picture theaters in British East Africa.

There is also a traveling motion picture outfit, going from town to town on trucks on circuit to halls and hotels.

Sound—All 16 theaters in British East Africa are wired for sound.

BRITISH MALAYA

Competition—The large majority of the films shown in British Malaya are produced in the United States. British producers are the only competitors that distribute films that are in the same category as American. The outlet for British films is in the cities where the majority of Europeans, who are British, live. Asiatic audiences prefer American films because of their action. Indirect competitors of American films are Indian and Chinese films. Competition is referred to as being indirect for the reason that such films play to a field of their own and do not directly clash with American films. There are a large number of small theaters which only exhibit Indian and Chinese films. In the theaters in which such are shown there is a large following for Indian films in which the dialogue is in Tamil and to a lesser degree Hindustani. Chinese films are very popular and have a substantial following.

Distributors estimate that between 65 and 70 percent of the films shown in British Malaya are American.

Production—Malayan Films Inc., which was organized in 1937, has produced about 10 news reels in British Malaya, some of which were distributed in the United States and Europe. This firm has also produced several commercial films for private interests. The company is now producing a Malay feature film which has the tentative title of "Chandu." Distribution will be confined to the Netherlands Indies and Malaya.

Theaters—From the standpoint of the distribution of American films, there are 97 theaters in the Straits Settlements, Federated Malay States, Un-Federated Malay States, Sarawak and Borneo.

During the year 1938 several new theaters were opened and four new ones are under construction. Improvements have been made in the theaters in Singapore where one theater has been air conditioned.

One of the most important developments from the standpoint of distribution of American pictures in Singapore has been the break-up of the monopoly which controls distribution in Singapore. One of the oldest theaters in Singapore was purchased by a Chinese group and another one is under construction. When the latter is completed, distributors will have a better chance to have some say in the methods of how their pictures are to be exhibited.

Sound—There are 83 theaters in the Straits Settlements, Federated Malay States, un-Federated Malay States, Sarawak and Borneo which are wired for sound and are used to exhibit American pictures.

BULGARIA

Censorship—No film may be shown in Bulgaria until it has been inspected by a special censorship board appointed by the Ministry of Education, and until the proper permit has been granted for its projection.

Competition—Thirty-nine percent of the films shown in Bulgaria are American, 36 German, 12 percent French, and the rest from other countries.

Production—There is almost no domestic film industry in Bulgaria. Domestic production during 1938 consisted of a few short silent news reels and other historical pictures.

Taxes—Local taxes on films are relatively high. It is estimated that taxes imposed upon motion picture theaters in Sofia, the principal film market, amount to 30 percent of the gross turnover, of which 17 percent is a direct tax, and 13 percent is a stamp duty and special fund taxes.

Theaters—There are 111 motion picture houses operating in Bulgaria, with a total seating capacity of 44,340. Fifty-eight of these theaters are privately owned, 41—owned by public libraries, five—school theaters, four—owned by coal mines, and three military.

The yearly gross income of Bulgarian motion picture theaters is estimated at 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 leva ($600,000—700,000 at 84.40).

All but one of the theaters actively operating in Bulgaria are wired for the showing of sound films, and the prospects for selling new equipment are therefore small.

CEYLON

Censorship—The censorship of all public performances is vested in the Municipal Chairman who is assisted by the Police, and actually the Police do practically all of the censoring. The managers of the theaters are required to send to the Police a synopsis of every film three days before it is to be exhibited. The Police either pass the film (with or without excisions) or report it to the Municipal Chairman as containing undesirable features. On receiving such a report, the Chairman orders a private view of the picture at which he is assisted by the Police and others. After they have seen the film, it is either released in its entirety, released with the excision of certain parts, or its showing prohibited altogether.

Competition—British films are the largest competitors of American films. About 60 per cent of the films shown in Ceylon are of American manufacture.

Taxes—The taxation of the motion picture industry in Ceylon consists of: A tax on net income; an import duty of two-thirds of 1 rupee cent per foot in the case of films of British origin and 1 rupee cent per foot for films of foreign origin; an annual license fee (payable to the Municipal Council), which is based on the seating accommodation of each theater.

Theaters—At the present time, there are nineteen motion picture theaters in Ceylon, all of which are equipped with sound apparatus, and all of these, with the exception of a small theater in an out station, exhibit pictures regularly.

The total seating capacity of these theaters is estimated at 11,970.

COLOMBIA

Legislation—Imports, exports and foreign exchange movement continued to be regulated by the Exchange and Export Control Board in 1938. Import licenses were readily available and foreign exchange remittances were promptly authorized during most of the year.

Censorship—Film to be exhibited in Colombian theaters were subjected to the approval of the censorship board of the city where the picture was to be released.

Competition—American films continued to be the public's preference and the trade estimated that 85 per cent of the box-office receipts were from American films. British, Mexican, French, German and Argentinian films, in that order, were the principal competitors.

Production—No features were produced in Colombia during 1938. The four local producers confined their endeavors to advertising shorts, newsreels, travelogues, and educational shorts.

Taxes—Office taxes collected by municipal government from distributor organizations range between 20 to 120 pesos per month.

Theaters—No accurate or complete list of motion picture theaters is available but information collected from various sources reveals a total of 256 theaters wired for sound. The number of silent theaters in existence, operating irregularly, is estimated at 20. The total seating capacity of all motion theaters in the country is estimated between 200,000 and 250,000.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Legislation—Foreign-exchange control has been exercised in Czecho-Slovakia since October, 1931, and the Czecho-Slovak National Bank is the administrative body. Czecho-Slovak branches of American motion-picture distributing companies have experienced intermittent delay in effecting remittances to their home offices because the National Bank does not place remittances for rentals and earnings on an equal footing with regular merchandise imports. There was no basic change in policy during 1938 with respect to allocation of foreign exchange for films and if anything, it has been somewhat more difficult to obtain exchange for film rentals since the September crisis than before.

The United States is the only country which has a special agreement currently operative with Czecho-Slovakia covering the Trade in motion pictures. The signing of this agreement on May 18, 1938, which took the form of an exchange of notes, headlined Czecho-Slovak motion picture developments in 1938. The agreement was put into operation effective June 1, 1938, through Czecho-Slovak Government announcement of May 25, 1938, which appeared as No. 113 of the Collection of Czecho-Slovak Laws and Decrees of May 31, 1938.

The new agreement permits of greater facility of American film distribution in Czecho-Slovakia, removed certain threatening restrictions, decreased the cost of introducing features and dubbed versions (it is evident of course that the recent ceding of the Sudeten territory to Germany has diminished the value of the concessions with respect to films dubbed in the German language), bound certain conditions and established the right of American companies to establish their own distribution organizations under equitable conditions.

Competition—Germany is the largest competitor of the United States on the Czecho-Slovak sound feature market, following by productions of Czecho-Slovak origin. Of the total 326 features released by the Board of Censors of the Ministry of Interior in 1938, 176 or 54 per cent originated in the United States; 55 or 17 per cent in Germany; 43 or 13.2 per cent in Czecho-Slovakia; 26 or 8 per cent in France; 11 or 3.4 per cent in Great Britain; other countries supplying 4.4 per cent.

Production—A total of 41 feature films were produced in Czecho-Slovakia during 1938, including 39 Czecho-Slovak pictures and 2 German versions, according to preliminary figures compiled by the Association of Czecho-Slovak Film Exhibitors. In 1937, domestic production recorded an all-time high of 51 features, 45 of which were in the Czech language and 6 in German. Twenty-one companies, most of them film distributors, participated in the Czecho-Slovak film production during 1938, the "Lucerna" ranking first with eight feature films. Out of the total of 41 films, 32 or 76 per cent were taken in the A-B Studio, at Prague-Barrandov. Most of the remainder were shot at the "Foja" Studio.

Taxes—Cinemas, as business enterprises, must pay regular business taxes. For joint-stock companies and limited liability companies the special profits tax is assessed. The basic rate is nine per cent of the net taxable income plus "profitability surtaxes" which vary according to the amount of earnings distributed. Individuals and establishments engaged in business, except companies subject to special profits tax, are subject to the general profits tax, the basic rate of which is 2.5 per cent. In addition, surtaxes ranging as high as 400 per cent of direct taxes assessed are collected in behalf of municipalities and other public corporations. New taxes were assessed during 1938, and were replaced effctive January 1, 1939, by certain surcharges to the basic rates.

Distributors pay regular business taxes referred to above, as well as the general 3 per cent turnover tax. Branches of American companies operating in this market together with independent distributors buying films abroad have avoided the necessity of paying the 12 per cent tax on rentals to foreign principals by altering their contracts from a percentage basis to fixed price basis.

Aside from the basic 17,500 crown ($612.50) import permit fee which must be paid when a feature film is imported, there are several fees that must be paid before the feature reaches the actual distribution stage. These supplementary changes vary depending on the censorship fee but usually total about 1,900 crowns ($66.50) per feature.

Theaters—According to the Association of Czecho-Slovak Cinema Owners, there remain within the new territorial confines of the Republic a total of 1,305 theaters. The total seating capacity is 409,653. As against the status obtaining at the close of 1937, the loss in the number of theaters is 29.5 per cent and in seating capacity 31.5 per cent.

Sound—All but 60 of the 1,305 theaters located within the new territorial confines of the Czecho-Slovak Republic are reported wired for sound.

CHILE

Censorship—In the message of the President to Congress on May 21, it was stated that the Board of Motion Picture Censors had reviewed 611 films during 1937, only six of these having been rejected.

There appears to be a growing sentiment for a stricter censorship. During September of this year, the Patriotic League of Chilean women addressed a petition to the President, asking that the Board be changed so that it might be more representative of the opinion of the country, not permitting pictures to be shown which would have a bad effect on young, impressionable minds.

Competition—While American films still hold a preeminently predominant place in this market, accounting for 65% of those shown the past year, Mexican and Argentine films have attained much popularity. It is true that the output of their studios is not large but those shown can be sure of an enthusiastic reception, especially with the masses.

Importation of films during 1937 showed the following precentages: United States, 74.4; France, 8.1; Germany, 4.8; England, 2.8; Argentina, 5.8; Mexico, 3.3; Others, 0.8.

Production—No films were produced in Chile during 1937 except for a scenic short or two sponsored by the Tourist Bureau. However, two companies were formed during 1938 for domestic production.

Taxes—The following rates are those assessed on theaters, distributors and the importation of films: Theaters, 5% on profits; 10% on admission price; 2.5% on total sales; Distributors, 2.5% on sales—Sales tax 6%—Income tax; Imports—Law 5786—5% on the landed invoice. Duties: Customs item No. 1824 equivalent to approximately $4.00 U.S. currency per legal kilogram at present exchange rates. We are informed that these duties work out at about 5% on the C.I.F. value of invoices.

Theaters—According to the Cinematographic Yearbook for 1938, there is a total of 277 theaters in Chile. However, data on some sections, particularly in the north, are not very accurate. Of this total, 17 were shown as closed and the names and locations of another 17 were given with no further details so that they are probably used only occasionally. This leaves a total of 243 in operation with an estimated seating capacity of 200,000.

Sound—According to the 1938 Cinematographic Yearbook, there are 193 theaters wired for sound in this country but the representative of an American film company gives this number as 200.

CHINA

Legislation—Drastic changes occurred during 1938 in regard to the manner and conditions under which foreign exchange could be obtained in China, particularly if such exchange was for remittance abroad. Prior to March 14, 1938, there were no regulations of an emergency nature affecting foreign exchange in areas under the control of the Chinese National Government. However, in order to protect its foreign currency reserves from being drained and to counteract the adverse effects of the institution in North China of the Japanese sponsored "Federal Reserve Bank," which began to issue notes to replace Chinese legal tender notes, the Chinese National Government on March 14, 1938, some eight months after the commencement of the Sino-Japanese hostilities, introduced a foreign exchange allotment system. Weekly allotments (at an officially maintained rate of one Chinese dollar equals U. S. $0.295) were made through applicants foreign exchange banks, though the percentage available was never more than 30 percent of the amount requested. Early in May, it became apparent that these weekly allotments were being made upon an indeterminate "luxury" and "non-luxury" basis, though no official announcement as to what commodities were considered essential was available. During that month, several items, among them imported motion picture films and photographic materials were excluded entirely from receiving further allotments at the officially maintained rate. This situation resulted in creating an open money market into which all film distributors and importers handling "non-preferred" commodities as well as importers still receiving some amounts at the official rate were forced to enter in order to obtain cover for their entire or additional foreign currency requirements. By June 13, the spread between the official rate and open market rates had reached 45 percent; during October it had advanced to nearly 50 percent.

In the Japanese occupied areas of North China such as Peiping, Tientsin and Tsingtao, the convertibility of existing notes and coins into foreign exchange is now regulated by or dependent upon the particular currency at hand. On March 10, 1938, the Japanese sponsored "Federal Reserve Bank" was inaugurated at Peiping. It immediately forced into circulation a note issue, having no concrete or accessible backing, for the express purpose of retiring Chinese legal tender notes and the provincial bank notes circulating in North China in exchange for its own notes; also to place this new currency within the framework of the "yen bloc" or on par with the yen and Manchurian yuan thereby affording Japan a favorable position in regard to control over North China's imports and exports.

However, branches of foreign banks functioning in North China accept these new "FRB" notes for deposit in separate accounts only and (except for conversion into yen which are at par with the new issue) said banks—including the "Federal Reserve Bank"—decline to accept "FRB" notes in payment for foreign exchange. On the other hand, Chinese legal tender notes and coins, though steadily diminishing in circulation, are in popular demand, and represent the only currency in North China convertible into foreign exchange at foreign banks.

The "Federal" notes when first issued were at a discount of 3 percent to 4 percent in exchange for Chinese legal tender notes, the discount rising to a high of 8 percent or 10 percent—much to the consternation of the Japanese. However, toward the end of the year the discount had dropped to around 1 percent, the decline partially attributed to temporarily shaken confidence in the yuan due to political situations rather than to faith in the new currency.

On June 10, 1938, the "Provisional Government of China" prohibited Chinese Central Government Banks from placing more of their notes in circulation in North China and on August 8, further decreed that Chinese national currency was thereafter to be accepted only at a discount of 10 percent. This decree, however, has so far proven abortive. The eventual ascendancy of the "FRB" notes, however, is not improbable as payment of all import duties, taxes and all public services in the Peiping, Tientsin, Tsingtao area are now required in "Federal Reserve" notes or yen. Should it be for the purchase of other than war supplies, the exchange of yen for foreign currencies is subject to the same rigid control in North China as is enforced in Japan. Only negligible amounts (issued by permit) may possibly be obtained for ordinary commercial purposes.

The Mukden motion picture law, promulgated on October 7, 1937, remains in effect throughout Manchuria. This legislation, directly sponsored by the Japanese, gave the Manchuria Motion Picture Association, a State Company, complete monopoly rights for the importation, exportation, manufacture and distribution of all motion picture films in Manchuria. American companies announced that they would not distribute through a State monoply. This decision continued to be observed throughout 1938. It is believed the formation of this State monopoly has not proven beneficial to Manchurian exhibitors nor has it brought the results anticipated by the Japanese. It is not improbable that in time, some arrangement may be forthcoming whereby American films will re-enter the Manchurian market subject to no monopolistic jurisdiction, but upon an agreement whereby net profits will be deposited in a designated Japanese bank in the United States and held in a yen account (the Manchurian Yuan is on a par with the yen) for a period of time before it can be exchanged into United States dollars. This plan has now been applied to American films exhibited in Japan where present emergency restrictions have greatly reduced the number of films permitted to enter the country.

Another regulation, which, if eventually enforced, will adversely affect the distribution of American films in China (and Hong Kong) is the announcement of August 26, 1938, by the Inspectorate General of Customs, Shanghai, that henceforth the privilege of duty free reimportation into China would only be accorded to duty paid foreign motion pictures provided reimportation took place within one year from the date of original importation except in cases where reasons acceptable to the Customs were advanced in writing for extending this time limit. If acceptable, an extension not exceeding six months might be granted. With this regulation in effect, a film playing Hong Kong any time after one year (or possibly 1½ years) from the date of its original entry into China, would, upon the return of the film to the home office in Shanghai, be required to pay another import duty at the rate of a second print. Should this film be sent from Hong Kong to China ports other than Shanghai, this second import duty would be collected at the port of entry. As a result of representations made by the Film Board of Trade (China) (eight major American distributors) and United States Government officials, the Customs announced that the enforcement of this regulation would be kept in abeyance for one year from date of its original advisement (August 26, 1938).

Censorship—The Chinese National Government's Central Film Censorship Board ceased functioning in Shanghai on August 1, 1938, though official statistics concerning the number of films censored during 1938 cannot be obtained.

Competition—American motion pictures during 1938 comprised approximately 85 percent of all films imported into China as compared with approximately 80 percent in 1937 and 82 percent in 1936. Although the actual number declined somewhat as compared with 1937 totals, the number of non-American pictures exhibited (including Chinese films) is believed to have declined more sharply as compared with 1937 and 1936 figures. No foreign films gave evidence of any increased amounts of competition with the American product during the year, rather the opposite could be said to be true. Of total non-American film imports, British pictures and to some degree Russian productions could be considered as representing the nearest competitors to American films.

Production—Owing to the hostilities, complete statistics on the production of motion pictures in China during 1938 are not available. Prior to the Japanese occupation of Hankow in October, the studio maintained by the Political Training Board of the National Military Council located in the Hankow area produced such pictures as would further national propaganda during times of emergency. The number of films produced by this governmental agency is not known. The organization still continues to function with Chungking as its new headquarters.

In Shanghai, center of China's film industry prior to the hostilities, 3 studios operated irregularly during 1938, producing up to mid-October approximately 16 features (non-propaganda) while 11 more are expected to be finished before the end of the year.

Production in Canton during 1938 is believed negligible as compared with pre-hostility levels owing to intermittent air raids and the occupation of the city by Japanese forces during October.

Taxes—The following represent approximately the municipal, provincial or National Government taxes and rates which could be said to apply generally throughout the country prior to the commencement of the Sino-Japanese hostilities. At present, in areas under Chinese control where foreign or domestic pictures are still being exhibited, emergency taxes have been either substituted or added to the following list. Not all of the taxes here given are levied on any one theater: Theater Tax (Local) Yuan 15.00 to Yuan 150.00 or more per month; Stamp Tax (Usually Government) Yuan 0.01 on tickets selling for 0.50 or under. Yuan 0.02 on tickets selling for over Yuan 0.50; Educational Tax (Government) About same rate as the stamp tax; Amusement Tax (Local or Provincial) From 5 percent to 15 percent of gross box-office; Business Tax (Local) 5 percent of gross receipts or a flat charge per month; Advertising Tax (Local) About Yuan 0.05 to Yuan 0.20 per poster or 100 handbills. Sometimes on a flat rate basis per month.

According to a revised Customs Tariff which went into effect on June 1, 1938, and which is applicable to all areas under Japanese occupation (including Shanghai), the import duty on cinematograph films (developed) is 20 percent ad valorem with surcharges amounting to 14 percent of the duty assessed. Prior to this revision, the import duty (as established by the Chinese National Government) was 25 percent ad valorem and with the same 14 percent surcharges. This later tariff is still in effect for all foreign made imports entering territory (original entry) under the control of the Chinese National Government.

Theaters—Prior to the outbreak of hostilities, it was estimated that there were slightly over 300 theaters in China with an aggregate seating capacity of approximately 255,000. Of this total, which includes Hong Kong and Macao but excludes Manchuria, about 250 were wired for sound with a seating capacity estimated at approximately 214,000.

CHOSEN (Korea)

Legislation—In general, the same laws apply in Chosen as in Japan Proper; and all foreign films shown in Chosen are first imported into Japan and later distributed in the peninsula.

Under instructions issued by the Governor General of Chosen, not less than one-half of the total length of film shown by each theater each month must be of domestic origin; viz., produced in Japan or Chosen.

Censorship—Although censorship is understood to be very strict no films were wholly rejected, but short lengths were cut from various films, the greater part of which had probably first been censored and passed by the authorities in Japan proper.

Competition—Japanese films dominate the market in Chosen on the basis of length, but it is thought that on the basis of total audiences and rentals, the proportionate share of American films in the market is somewhat greater than is indicated by the length of film censored. Although no statistics are available it is estimated that probably 35% to 40% of the total length of film actually shown in that peninsula is American.

Production—There is only one small commercial moving picture firm in Chosen, that firm having produced approximately 12,000 meters of feature films during the fiscal year 1937-38.

Taxes—Distributors selling films pay a national business tax of 12/10,000 of the amount of sales and a prefectural tax of about the same amount.

Distributors renting films pay a national business tax of 7/1,000 of the amount received in rents, and about the same amount to the prefecture.

Distributors, acting only as agents, pay a national business tax of 10/1,000 of the amount of their commissions, together with a similar amount to the prefecture.

The import duty on films as stated in the Japan Import Tariff is as follows: Films for photographs: Developed, Y 11.13 for 1 kin, including inner packings.

The Chosen China Emergency Special Tax Ordinance, in addition to the regular import tariff, imposes a 15 percent ad valorem tax on films imported from foreign countries.

Theaters — The number of moving picture theaters in Chosen is approximately 60, although films are occasionally shown in about 65 other theaters and halls.

Sound—It is reported that of the fifty theaters wired for sound in Chosen, twenty-four have American and twenty-six Japanese equipment, and that several theaters having Japanese equipment, as well as several of those without any sound equipment, desire to import American equipment, though due to present emergency measures limiting imports and purchasing of foreign exchange such sales do not seem probable or even possible. Imported sound equipment would probably be subject to a 40% ad valorem import duty plus a special China Emergency Tax of 15% ad valorem.

COSTA RICA

Censorship—Censorship of films is not strict. There were showings in Costa Rica of 519 films during the first ten months of 1938, all being passed by the censor. Two of these, both of American production, were allowed to be shown only after being "cut," due to protests by the official representative of Germany in Costa Rica. One Spanish film was rejected. Censorship is principally directed toward avoiding diplomatic protests from foreign governments.

Competition—Productions from Mexico and Argentina are the principal competitors of American films. Although American films are by far the most popular, there is a demand for films in the Spanish language. Of the 519 films shown during the first ten months of 1938, 404 were American, (77 percent) and 85 Mexican and Argentine (Spanish language), while a total of 30 were produced in France, Germany, and England.

Copyright Relations — Costa Rica's copyright laws pre-date the modern motion picture industry, and in a recent case existing legislation was found to be ineffective against film piracy. (Raventos vs. V. Saenz.)

Taxes—Films pay import duty under Item 82 of the Costa Rican Customs Tariff Schedule at the rate of ¢1.50 ($0.26) per kilo gross weight. No exception is made in the case of news reels. In addition there is a general income tax, which usually runs from 5 to not over 15 percent on net income in the case of local motion picture interests.

Theaters—There are 40 motion picture theaters in Costa Rica, with a combined seating capacity of 23,887.

Sound—All 40 of the theaters in Costa Rica are wired for sound. However, much of the equipment being used in the provinces is obsolete.

CUBA

Legislation—Revised regulations governing the activities of the Cuban Motion Picture Censorship Commission (Comision Revisora Cinematografica) became effective on March 17, replacing those contained in Decree No. 361 of 1937 and its modifications. The revised regulations differed from those previously in effect only in a few minor respects and motion picture distributors found them generally acceptable.

A bill introduced into the House of Representatives provided that imported motion picture films might be exhibited in proportion of seven for every Cuban picture shown. This was not enacted.

Censorship—The censoring function is exercised by a Film Censorship Board under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior (Gobernacion) which judges films from synopsis sheets and photographs. The Board is empowered to determine whether or not a picture may be exhibited and to suggest changes in films to render them suitable for exhibition. During the past year, however, a considerable number of pictures was required to be exhibited before the Board before being granted certificates of approval, even though the synopsis had been reviewed previously.

Competition—Spanish-language films, produced principally in Mexico, Argentina, and Spain, are the largest competitors of American films. French and British pictures are the next most important competitors. Competition from German films is unimportant.

From 75 to 80 percent of the films shown are American, and American films are generally well received. However, certain individual films imported from other countries may from time to time bring a greater gross return than most American pictures. Spanish-language pictures have declined somewhat in box office appeal as evidenced by an increased interest on the part of exhibitors in negotiating for American pictures.

Production—Early in the year Peliculas Cubanas, S. A. was organized and started the production of a feature-length film, "It happened in Habana." The picture was a box-office success and encouraged the firm to undertake the production of a second feature. It is important to point out that "Peliculas Cubanas, S.A." was voted an initial Government subsidy of $60,000.

While production facilities are apparently adequate for the production of feature pictures, the technique is greatly inferior to that of American films.

Although in past years several distributors have tried to introduce American films "dubbed" in Spanish, the results have not been successful. Cuban audiences apparently prefer to hear actors speak in their own voices rather than hear others speak for them, even though the technique is good, the voices similar and the language Spanish.

Taxes—Distributors are subject to a municipal license tax ranging from $100 to $1,125 and taxes of 1½ percent and 3 percent on the gross rentals. In addition, there is a scaled stamp tax on the face value of contracts signed by exhibitors and distributors, ¼ percent remittance tax, and a maternity tax of ½ percent of the gross payroll.

The import duty on motion-picture films prepared for exhibition imported into Cuba from the United States is $4.80 per net kilo which is 20 percent less than the lowest duty applicable to films imported from other countries. In addition to the duty, there is a surcharge of 10 percent of the duty and a consular invoice fee of 2 percent of the f.o.b. value, port of exportation.

Theaters—The number of theaters in operation in Cuba is about 375, of which 90 are in the Habana metropolitan area.

Sound—Virtually all of the 375 theaters are equipped with sound apparatus.

DANZIG

Censorship—The number of films censored from January 1 to October 31, 1938, was 465, none of which were rejected, as all the films coming to Danzig have been accepted previously in Germany.

Competition—During the first ten months of 1938, 465 films were shown in Danzig: 365 or 78 percent were German (including Austrian films); 76 or 16 percent were American as compared with 13 percent for the same period in the previous year. American films are becoming somewhat more popular and would become more so, were it not that only "dubbed" films are shown.

Production—Motion picture films are not produced in Danzig. All American films are "dubbed" in Germany in the German language, which is the predominant and official language of Danzig.

Taxes—According to information received from the Danzig Tax Office, the income tax is higher in Danzig than in Germany; the local turnover tax amounts to 1.5 percent as compared with 2 percent in Germany, and the trade tax varies from 2.7 percent to 10.8 percent, depending upon the amount of profit made.

Theaters—There are 24 motion picture theaters in the Free City of Danzig. The total seating capacity is 9,369 seats. All of the twenty-four theaters are wired for sound, with German equipment.

DENMARK

Legislation—A motion picture law passed by Parliament on April 13, 1938, and effective as of April 15, revised the existing law and introduced several new features. A government distributing agency called the Film Central was created by the law for the purpose of distributing Danish films that are not distributed by the producer himself or by independent Danish distributors. The law prohibits the distribution of domestic films by local branches or agents of foreign motion picture producing companies. The above-mentioned agency is also interested in obtaining and distributing educational pictures and films of a highly cultural and artistic value. A Film Board was also created and will make a close study of developments within the motion picture industries of foreign countries, especially as regards what pictures are being produced and their respective cultural and artistic values. It will control the operation of the government distributing agency and serve in an advisory capacity to all private film distributors doing business in Denmark. The Board also determines whether a picture shall be exempt from taxation and is the last court of appeal in case a decision of the film censor is appealed to the Minister of Justice. A Film Fund deriving its revenue from a tax imposed on all exhibitors earning a net profit of over 12,000 crowns per annum and among other things furthering the exhibition of educational, cultural and artistic films was also established.

Censorship—A total of 2,582 films, including prints and advertising films, with a total length of 1,928,664 meters was reviewed by the Danish Film Censor in the fiscal year 1937-38, ended March 31, as compared with 2,460 films with a total length of 1,820,897 meters in the preceding year. Feature films (over 1,000 meters) numbered 354 as against 357 in 1936-37, a drop of three feature films. Prints of features, however, rose to 290 from 265 the year before. The number of short subjects censored increased by 64, from 372 in 1936-37 to 436 in the year under review. Eight hundred and eighty-five topical films, news reels, etc. (618 films the year previous); 128 comedies, cartoons, etc. (153 the year previous); 237 advertising films under 25 meters (369 the year previous) and 258—16 mm. films (322 the year previous) were also reviewed by the censor's office.

All films shown publicly in Denmark must be approved by Statens Filmcensur (The Government Film Censor), Vesterport, Copenhagen. The office of the film censor is under the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Justice. There are 3 film censors, 2 of whom work regularly while the third is called in to advise in disputable cases. Any protests made respecting the censor's prohibitions are considered by the Film Board created by the recent film law.

Competition—The largest competitors of American films are the domestic productions. Although only nine domestic features were produced in 1938, they were made in from 12 to 15 copies and did approximately 50 percent of the total business. American films, which had 174 releases to their credit in 1938, are usually issued in one or two copies, occasionally three and seldom more than four. American features are supreme as respects foreign films and the American share of the business done by foreign producers is estimated at about 70 percent.

Danish films are to an increasing extent monopolizing Copenhagen theaters for weeks at a time and occasionally make it difficult for distributors of foreign films to place their films advantageously.

The following figures showing the number of feature films released in 1938 by country of production clearly depicts the leading position occupied by American pictures: United States, 174; Germany, 33; France, 26; Sweden, 19; Denmark, 9; Great Britain, 8; Italy, 2; Austria, 2; Russia, 1, and Hungary, 1.

Production— Only nine domestic feature films were produced in 1938 as compared with 13 features in 1937.

Theaters—On April 1, 1938, there were 370 motion picture theaters in Denmark as compared with 358 on the same date of the preceding year, an increase of 12 houses.

Ten new theaters were opened during the calendar year 1938 of which four were in Copenhagen and six were in the provinces. The total seating capacity of these new houses is 5,065 of which 3,498 seats are in new Copenhagen theaters and the remainder or 1,568 seats are in new provincial houses.

Sound—All Danish motion picture theaters of any consequence whatsoever are wired for the showing of sound films.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Censorship—There are no statistics available of the number of pictures censored during 1938, and during this year, it has been stated that there were no pictures rejected.

Competition—No exact data regarding the percentage of American and other films are available. Film distributors estimate that at the present time from 85 to 90 percent of all films shown are American. The chief competitors, which account for the remainder, are Mexican, Argentine, French and British, in about that order.

Notwithstanding the fact that a greater percentage of American films enter the market, there is evidence to show that from 20 to 25 percent of gross revenue is taken from Spanish speaking films since these films are given a longer run in the theaters.

Taxes—The import tax on films is 15 percent ad valorem, and there is also a 15 percent ad valorem internal-revenue tax. In practice, however, these taxes are never paid, since all films are imported under bond to re-export them within four months. Four months affords ample time to show a film in all theaters of the country.

Theaters—There are 28 motion picture theaters in the Dominican Republic, with an estimated seating capacity for 12,000 persons.

Sound—All of the 28 theaters in the country are wired for sound in some way.

EAST CANARY ISLANDS

Censorship—All motion pictures for exhibition are received censored from continental Spain. Censoring in Nationalist Spain is effected in Salamanca and Sevilla.

Competition—Conditions brought about by the Spanish civil war have completely cut off normal receipts here of motion pictures for rental and theaters have no other films for exhibition except old material which was in the district previous to the outbreak of the civil war or the limited material obtainable at the present time in continental Nationalist Spain.

In normal times, 80 percent of motion pictures shown here were American, 10 percent Spanish, five percent German, and the balance of five percent divided among British, French, and Italian pictures.

Taxation—Distributors pay a tax to the state as renters of motion pictures. Motion pictures usually come here for rental as printed matter through the mails, with no dues or duties imposed upon entrance.

Theaters—There are 22 motion picture theaters in operation in the East Canary Islands with an aggregate seating capacity of 12,070.

Sound—Twenty-one motion picture theaters in the district are wired for sound film.

ECUADOR

Censorship—By executive decree of April 30, 1937 there was established in the capital of each province a board of censors composed of the First Commissioner of National Police or his representatives, who presides, and two members named by the Ministry of Public Education. These boards of censors are in charge of the legal control and censor every motion picture to be shown in the theaters or places employed for that purpose in the Republic. In order to exhibit a film, a license issued by the board of censors is necessary.

It is reported that during the period from January 1 to October 31, 1938, 460 pictures were seen by censors and 46 or 12 percent were rejected, the majority rejected being crime and gangster pictures of American origin.

Competition—American productions continue to dominate the Ecuadoran film market. Insignificant competition is encountered from German films and a few British producers.

For the first 10 months of 1938, 25 percent of the total box office receipts were for films released by independent producers compared with about 8 percent for the same period in 1937.

Taxes—Theater operators and distributors pay the Social Security taxes for employees (5 percent by the employer and 5 percent by the employee), a municipal tax on advertising (30 sucres per month) and the 10 percent income tax on net yearly earnings. By executive decree of March 30, 1938, duties on many articles were increased. Motion picture films and advertising material were put on the dutiable list. According to the old tariff, motion picture films were exempt from duty; the new tariff assesses a duty of 3 sucres a kilogram of gross weight on exposed motion picture films. Advertising material is now subject to 1.35 sucres a kilogram of legal weight. Legal weight includes inner packing and wrappings but not the outer case and packing. The following additional charges should be included in calculations of duties. The consular fee of 6½ percent ad valorem as well as the surcharge of 5 percent ad valorem levied on all dutiable goods must also be paid. The 5 percent surcharge is paid at port of entry. Furthermore, imports of films valued at less than 1,000 sucres pay an import fee of 5 sucres to the board of control, those valued at more than 1,000 sucres are charged ½ percent ad valorem. Advertising material for free distribution, valued at less than $20 and sent by parcel post pays only 1 sucre for the required import permit. All duties and other charges are levied on the declared f.o.b. values.

Theaters—Thirty-seven motion picture theaters, with a total seating capacity of approximately 40,400, are operating in Ecuador at present. There are at present two theaters under construction.

The distribution of films in Ecuador is generally entrusted to Guayaquil agents who with few exceptions are under the Panama or Lima headquarters of the principal film exchange offices of the various companies. A few American distributors have their own branch offices.

Sound—All theaters in Ecuador are wired for sound. American sound film equipment and supplies dominate the market.

EGYPT

Legislation—Pressure has been brought on the Government to give some advantage in the Egyptian market for local films and among the means advocated to render aid to the domestic producing industry is the proposal that all cinemas in Egypt should show a quota of Egyptian films of the total exhibited. Though the number and quality of the local production does not warrant such a form of assistance, the problem of means of encouraging the local film industry is being given serious consideration by the Government but no concrete plans have as yet been formulated.

Censorship—Centered in Cairo in the premises of the Ministry of Interior where all productions are reviewed, the censorship of films in Egypt is regulated by two Ministerial Arretes—one sub No. 14 dated August 2, 1921 covering the importation of foreign films and the other sub No. 42 of August 22, 1928 on the exportation of domestic films.

The intent of the latter regulation is to prevent the showing abroad of films which might be prejudicial to Egyptian nationalistic interests or disparage the Islamic religion and customs. In this connection censorship of local productions continued to be very strict and several local feature films have been refused approval for export. Three or four musical comedies of local make have undergone major amendments on political and esthetic grounds.

A limited number of American, French and other motion pictures imported in 1938 were rejected while a substantial amount of "cuttings" were made on various foreign productions passed in addition to the "elimination" of alleged indecent words.

Competition—Of the films shown 68 percent are American, 21 percent French, four percent British and Egyptian and all other countries total seven percent. Compared with the relatively limited share obtained by France in the past few years, French productions during the last season and particularly in the 1938-39 season have shown a marked advance on account of the better class of films imported recently and on the other hand because of the large number of French speaking European theater-goers in Egypt.

Production—The annual production of the Egyptian motion picture industry which consisted of two or three sound films during the first few years following its establishment in 1927 has shown a certain amount of progress since 1935—when the "Studio Misr" was opened—and amounted to about 16 Arabic full length films for the 1938-1939 season in comparison with 12 Arabic and 3 Greek films during the 1937-38 season. There were also five foreign films dubbed in the Arabic language (one American, three French and one German). The production schedule of the domestic film industry calls for about 20 films to be turned out by local studios in 1939 in addition to local newsreels and three or four "dubbed" films.

Taxes—As of May 9, 1935, import duty on developed positive films is L. E. 2.5 per kilo net plus 10 percent representing custom dues and other auxiliary charges, which brings the total to approximately L. E. 3 per kilo net.

Theaters—There are 118 public theaters in Egypt and 10 military ones for the amusement of the British troops stationed there. A limited number of schools and private clubs have small cinemas. Of these about 25 operate in the open air during the long summer season, while 10 or 12 indoor theaters close during the summer months on account of the extreme heat. All 118 theaters are wired for sound.

EL SALVADOR

Censorship—Censorship is very strict, although few pictures are rejected. 431 and 358 short features were censored during 1938.

Competition—American films continue to dominate the market. About 75 foreign films, principally Mexican, were shown during 1938 and were very popular, especially with the lower classes at low-price theaters. A few Argentinian, Spanish, English, German and French films were exhibited. American films may be said to account for 90 percent of all showings.

Theaters—There are 34 theaters, seating approximately 38,450. Thirty of the theaters are wired for sound.

ESTONIA

Legislation—As in previous years, motion picture films can be imported into Estonia only on the basis of quotas fixed by the Ministry of Economic Affairs. On June 15, 1937, the quota was fixed at 180 feature films to expire on July 1, 1938. In the early part of March, 1938, this quota was changed to 192 films to remain in force until July 1 of the same year. However, imports under this quota allotment were carried on until as late as August, 1938, when a new quota was fixed by the Ministry at 191 films to remain in force until July 1, 1939, or an earlier revision if necessary. It is estimated that approximately one-third, or perhaps slightly more, of the whole will be American productions.

Competition-Censorship—During the fiscal year ended March 31, 1938, 939 films were released for showing by the Estonian Film Inspector. In this total number 293 films (31.20 percent) were American productions, Germany's share was 221 films (23.53 percent). Other productions which were released for exhibition were Estonian, British, French, Austrian, Russian, Hungarian, Czechoslovak, Italian, Lithuanian, Dutch, and Polish. The total number of screen plays exhibited during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1938, included 47 films which were abridged for release by the Film Inspector. During the same fiscal period 46 films were rejected by the Estonian Film Inspector.

The domestic production during the period January 1, 1938 until October 20, 1938, totaled 26 film chronicles and 11 cultural films or a total of 37 films all with sound synchronization. The Endowment "Eesti Kultuurfilm" (The Estonian Culture Film) is the only licensed film producer in Estonia.

Taxes—Motion picture films are dutiable in Estonia at Ekr. 3 per kilogram, in accordance with provision of paragraph 169, subdivision 4b of the Estonian Import Tariff. For importation the Government import license is required.

Control and registration tax (censorship tax): This tax on motion picture films is chargeable per each meter length, as follows: At the time of the first importation, 1 sent in case of strictly scientific or art films, and 5 senti in case of all other film productions; at the time of the second and all subsequent importations, 0.25 senti in case of strictly scientific or art films, and 1 sent in case of all other film productions; on films produced in Estonia and intended for exhibition or export, 1 sent; and on local compulsory film "chronicles" and on imported "chronicles" obtained in exchange for local films or film "chronicles," 0.25 senti.

Turnover tax: This tax is payable by the importers-distributors at the rate of 2 percent of the turnover.

Trade license tax: In order to import, local film distributors are required to possess a trade license of the first category. The tax on license of this kind is chargeable at Ekr. 475 per annum. The film exchange which is operated as a cooperative organization by the Association of Motion Picture Theater Owners of Estonia pays this tax at Ekr. 450 per annum.

Tax on net profit: Usually 16 percent of the total annual gross receipts of film exchanges are allowed for net profit. The tax thereon varies according to the amount set aside as net profit.

Income tax: Income tax is payable by persons operating film exchanges and varies according to the declared income.

Theaters—The total number of motion picture theaters in operation in Estonia is 62. All are wired for the showing of sound films.

FINLAND

Censorship—During the first six months of 1938, the Censorship Bureau reviewed 164 features. The corresponding figure for 1937 was 141. No information is available regarding the number of shorts reviewed during the first half of the year. The total number of films reviewed in 1937 was 1,145. Of these 330 were features and 815 shorts. During the first half of the year five features were rejected. The corresponding figure for 1937 was 10.

Competition—Although the number of Finnish features shown is relatively small, their box-office value makes them the principal competitors of American films. Of the features reviewed in 1937 by the Censorship Bureau, 56 percent were American, 11 percent German, 10 percent French, and four percent Finnish. Of the shorts, 57 percent were American, 19 percent Finnish, and 13 percent German. Of the features reviewed during the first half of 1938, 56 percent were American, 13 percent German, 11 percent French, and five percent Finnish. American films are well received but it is estimated that the box office value of one Finnish feature is equivalent to that of about six imported films.

Production—It is reported that 20 features and about 200 shorts were produced in Finland in 1938. Domestic production in 1937 amounted to 12 features and 155 shorts, and in 1936 to 10 features and 128 shorts.

Taxes—Distributors pay the usual income and property tax. Imported films are dutiable at 34 marks ($0.75) per kilogram under Item No. 462 b (1) of the Customs Tariff.

Theaters—There are 282 motion picture theaters in Finland at present, of which six were opened this year. The total seating capacity of these theaters is 82,339.

Sound—All of the 282 motion picture theaters in Finland are wired for sound.

FRANCE

Legislation—The Franco-American Trade Agreement, includes a clause safeguarding American films from such discriminatory action, and as this agreement is still in effect American films continue to be so protected.

The French film quota regulations for the film year July 1, 1938, to June 30, 1939, were published on June 28, 1938 and contain the following provisions:

"Article 1. The present decree will be valid from July 1, 1938, to June 30, 1939.

"Article 2. Under the reservation of the restrictions hereinafter, the importation and the showing in France of exposed films of foreign origin are free.

"The foreign exposed films are subjected to the same regime as the exposed films produced in France, in particular as concerns the application of the visa by the Cinematographic Control Service.

"Article 3. Dubbed films of more than 900 meters, of foreign origin, can be shown in public in France only in the limit of 94 films per semester and under the following conditions:

"1°—The dubbing will have been made entirely in studios located in French territory;

"2°—The original version of these films must have been given for the first time in public showing within less than two years, whatever may be the country in which this showing took place; this measure will enter into effect January 1, 1939.

"A written declaration specifying the date of the first showing in public must be furnished, accompanied by documentary proofs.

"Derogations in favor of older films presenting an exceptional interest from the artistic or technical point of view may be granted by the Minister of National Education;

"3°—These films must be presented to the public at the beginning of the showing as 'dubbed films,' with the title in the original language and, eventually, the title under which the film is presented, and with the indication of the names of the artists interpreting the visual part and the indication of the artists interpreting the spoken part. In addition, mention must be made of the country of origin and of the municipality (commune) in which the dubbing took place;

"4°—The inscription for visa will be valid only if the dubbing has actually been made; therefore, it will date only from the time at which, in support of the application file, the dubbed film has been deposited with the Control Service;

"5°—The regulation of the condition of an eventual repartition according to the countries of origin of the films may be fixed later, if necessary, by an interministerial decision.

"Article 4. For exposed films of all kinds coming from foreign countries in which the exploitation of French films is subjected to restrictions, the showing in public in France will be subordinated to the agreements concluded with the Governments concerned.

"Article 5. Under the reservation of the application of Article 4, the original films in any foreign language with the exception of animated cartoons (dessins animes) can be shown in public only in five cinemas of the Department of the Seine, and in six cinemas of the other Departments at the rate of a maximum of two cinemas per Department.

"Derogations to this limitation may be granted by the Minister of National Education.

"Original films in the French language made abroad must be presented to the public at the beginning of the showings with the indication of the country of origin, of the studios and of the names of the technical collaborators.

"Article 6. The films already presented to the Control Service for the second semester of 1938 will be validly inscribed only to the extent that they fulfill the conditions of the present decree.

"The non-observance of any of the above provisions will entail the refusal or the withdrawal of the visa.

"Article 7. The President of the council, Minister of National Defense, and of War, the Minister of the Interior, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, the Minister of National Economy, the Minister of Commerce and the Minister of National Education are charged with the execution of the present decree."

Sections 2 and 4 of Article 3 were included for the first time in the film regulations this year as well as the last paragraph in Article 5. Otherwise, the regulations governing the importation of American films into France are the same as last year and this in spite of strenuous efforts on the part of the local producers to impose further restrictions on the importation and release of American films in France.

There has been no let-up on the part of French interests to circumvent the film protective clauses of the Franco-American Trade Agreement and break down the protection which those clauses provided for the importation and release of American films in France. In contrast to previous years, these anti-American film interests have worked in secret during the past year. They have aimed, first of all, to eliminate the double feature program in France because by doing this they hope to eliminate the majority of the American films in France. At the present time, a large proportion of the American films in France are shown during the first half of the double feature programs in the French cinemas.

The French producers believe that if they could make it legally impossible for a cinema to show more than one feature film they could cripple the American industry in France. If they cannot do this, the French producers hope to force out the subsidiaries of the American companies and take over the importation, dubbing and release of the American dubbed films in France.

Recently, the leaders of the French film producers made a strong effort to have a film decret-loi issued by the Daladier Government under the full powers granted them by Parliament. The film decret-loi had been prepared but the Daladier Government did not issue it. This proposed decret-loi provided for the elimination of the double feature program, the collection of all film rentals by a central organization and that all cinemas would be forced to show a minimum number of meters of educational and documentary films in each program.

It was by this latter means that the leaders of the French producers hoped to circumvent the Franco-American Trade Agreement and eliminate the double feature program and therefore greatly reduce the showing of American films.

With reference to the contents of this proposed decret-loi, a French film paper had the following to say, giving a very good indication of the aims of the French producers:

"Finally, the proposal aims to make obligatory the programming of documentary films or short reels, in other words, to soften the disastrous effects on our national economy of the double feature program. The question was even considered of purely and simply forbidding the double feature program altogether. But unfortunate repercussions would have been caused on account of certain commercial treaties actually in force."

The film decret-loi was not issued, but in spite of this set back certain film interests are pushing plans for further measures to eliminate American films from the market here. The leader of this group has openly stated that he "would force the American group back across the Ocean."

If the French producers are unable to eliminate double feature programs and American films from France they will try, as stated above, to obtain control of the importation and release of American dubbed films here. Already they have asked the French authorities for preferential treatment in the issuance of dubbed visas to the French producers who are now buying and dubbing foreign films, principally American films.

For some time, a group of small French producers has been buying cheap foreign films and been spending very little to dub them and put them on the market at very low prices. One of these producers might spend a maximum of 25,000 francs to dub a foreign film whereas the subsidiaries of the American companies spend from 100,000 francs to 300,000 francs preparing and dubbing a film for release here.

The subsidiaries in France of the American companies have been handicapped during the past 18 months on account of the limitation on the number of dubbed films which may be released in France at the present time. This number, 94 per semester, is practically used up on the day of the opening for registration of dubbed films at the censors' office. The result is that some of the subsidiaries of the American companies have very few dubbed films to release in France, though they still have to maintain the organizations they had previously when they had obtained more dubbed films.

The representatives of the big American companies are unable to await the arrival of the outstanding films of the year and must dub anything on hand in order to make certain that they will obtain some visas. The result is bad all round because the best films are released in the dubbed version much later than they should be released and there is a race for visas for dubbed films which disorganizes the market. The cost of doing business here in France has been increasing on account of this unavoidable race for visas for dubbed films.

During the past year by a Decree promulgated by the French Government, there was formed what is known as the Commission for the Coordination of Cinema Questions.

The Commission will have the practical control of interior affairs of Motion Pictures, its decisions will also be a predominant influence in the matter of importation of foreign films.

The Decree organizing the Commission is as follows:

"The Prime Minister, Minister of National Defense and War, the Vice President of the Cabinet, entrusted with the coordination of the services of the Prime Minister's Office, and the Minister of National Education, DECREE:

Article 1—There is instituted at the Prime Minister's office an interministerial commission entrusted with the coordination of the activity of the different ministerial departments concerned with the problems relating to the cinema.

Article 2—Each ministerial department will designate a representative to participate in the work of the Commission.

The following are respectively President and Vice President of the Commission:

The General Secretary of the Prime Minister's Office.

The General Director of Fine Arts or his representative.

The secretaryship of the Commission is assured through the auspices of the General Secretaryship of the Prime Minister's Office.

Article 3—The representatives of the ministerial departments may, with the consent of the President of the Commission, and their substitutes, in case they are prevented themselves from attending, who must be functionaries from the same services.

Article 4—The President of the Commission may convoke to the meetings, for consultation, functionaries from other services than those of the delegates mentioned above, as well as any other personalities specially qualified by reason of their competency.

Article 5—The Commission will establish a general report on the questions submitted to it, which must be deposited before January 1, 1939.

Article 6—The General Secretary of the Prime Minister's Office is entrusted with the execution of the present decree, which shall be published in the Journal Officiel.

Made at Paris, September 21, 1938

The Prime Minister, Minister of National Defense & War, EDOUARD DALADIER.

The Vice President of the Cabinet,
Camille Chautemps.

The Minister of National Education,

Secretaire de la Commission: Madame Bacheville.

Secretaire Adjoint: M. Jean Brerault.

The most interesting point about the constitution of this new Commission is the transfer of direction of cinematographic affairs from the Ministry of National Education to the Office of the Prime Minister.

Up to now there are no laws or decrees requiring an exhibitor to show a percentage of domestic films on the screen of French cinemas. French interests attempted to have a decree-law issued by the Daladier Government, as mentioned above, including a provision forcing French exhibitors to show a certain proportion of so-called educational or documentary films. This decree-law was not issued, but the trade still is concerned that an attempt may be made to include the same provision in a cinema bill for consideration by Parliament.

There has been adopted one measure during the year which has the effect of eliminating a certain amount of the playing time from all cinemas and which the trade considers to be the opening wedge of the scheme to request French cinemas to give over so much of their playing time to domestic entertainment that American films will be eliminated from the first half of the programs of the French cinemas.

The measure referred to was one which originated in the Finance Law of December 31, 1937. The measure in question was presented, according to its sponsors, to compel cinemas to employ unemployed musicians and entertainers. The original measure provided that the State taxes on the receipts of cinemas grossing more than 200,000 francs per month would be increased by 25 percent if the cinemas in question did not employ either orchestras or attractions for a minimum period of their program.

There was unusually strong protest from the French cinema owners against the measure and it was not put into force immediately. It was postponed from time to time, but on June 11, 1938, there was published in the "Journal Officiel" a decree, signed by the Minister of Finance, which replaced the above-cited section of the Finance Law of December 31, 1937, and interpreted the tax in question. It provides that the State taxes on cinemas with more than 200,000 francs receipt will be increased by 25 percent if they do not employ orchestras and attractions for a minimum fixed time and furthermore that the State taxes on all cinemas will be reduced by 25 percent if they employ orchestras and attractions.

It should be noted that many films in this last list have been counted twice, because they have been counted when they were visaed in the original language and they were also listed when they were visaed in the dubbed version.

The following table gives statistics of the number of dubbed films visaed in France, by semesters, from the second semester of 1934 until December 31, 1938. (It will be recalled that the quota law provides that only 94 dubbed films may be visaed per semester or a total of 188 per year. The cinema year is considered as running from July 1 to the following June 30.)

There is no information available as to the number of films of all origin rejected in the past year although it is reported several were rejected. However, generally, in France, films are rarely rejected entirely as they usually can be arranged, by cutting to satisfy the censors. No American films were rejected. Censorship in France is rather liberal and is, principally, political. However, censors rarely ban films entirely although they often request minor cuts.

Competition—French films are the largest competitors of American films. Approximately 45 percent of the general release films in France are American films. This refers to dubbed films which are the only American films having general release throughout France. There are approximately 150 American dubbed films per year out of a total of 188 foreign films, and about 122 French films produced in France, plus some French films produced abroad, making approximately a total of 350 films which get general release in France.

There are two types of release in France of American films: (a) Release in the original version is limited to 15 cinemas in all France. (b) Release in the dubbed version, which are sold throughout France.

Original versions of films may be shown only in five cinemas in Paris and 10 in the provinces. In the provinces there is very little demand for original versions. The cinemas which specialize in original versions show American films mostly. Approximately 60 percent of all the original versions of foreign films are American films, and undoubtedly a larger percentage of the total business in original versions of foreign films is done with American films.

A better picture of the general release of films throughout France may be obtained from the comparison of release of dubbed foreign films and French films. Dubbed foreign films may be sold freely throughout the country in the same way as French films are sold.

France adheres to the Berne Convention and film producers who conform to the requirements of the convention by either presenting a film for the first time in one of the countries which adhere to the Convention or by "simultaneous publication" in one of the countries, which is a member of the Berne Convention and in the United States, are protected.

Production — Approximately 116 French films were produced in France and four or five French versions were made in Germany. Production facilities are adequate but the industry is not very well financed. French banks are still reluctant to discount film producers' papers because the Bank of France will not discount these notes. The financing of French production by English Insurance companies has ended. This was due primarily to the fall in value of the Franc which made it far too expensive for French producers to borrow English Pounds.

French films are still financed primarily by selling them before production. Usually a French producer gets his story and cast together and then sells the picture and with this revenue he starts producing. The most important buyers of French films finance the films. The provincial distributors are the most important in the financing of French films. During the past year foreign concerns have also financed French films and in at least one case the foreign buyers were called upon to pay additional sums in order that production might go on.

In general, there is no objection to American "dubbed" films. The great masses of the people in France prefer to see films in French and if an American film is well dubbed, they like it. The dubbing is only a detail of the film like all other technical details and is so considered. There are a few journalists who occasionally belittle dubbed films but they are becoming more and more rare. There is an important clientele who still prefer to see American films in the original version and it is to this clientele that the 25 or 30 cinemas in France, which specialize in original versions, cater.

There is an increasing number of so-called newsreel cinemas which specialize in newsreels but also show old films, particularly old American films in their original version. These cinemas do a very big business. It is estimated that the total of the business in original versions of foreign films equals around 3 percent of the total business of all cinemas in France.

All foreign films must be dubbed in a laboratory in France except the limited number of original language films permitted by law discussed above.

The Government does not subsidize French film production. It has granted occasional minimum subsidies for educational films and for the production of one or two entertainment films adapted from stories based on the French navy.

The Government is still directly interested in the Gaumont Franco Film Aubert group known as the G.F.F.A., and names the administrators of the Company.

The Government is interested in this big French film company because the Banque Nationale de Credit which failed several years ago had advanced 200,000,000 francs to the G.F.F.A. which had previously gone into the hands of the receivers. This was one of the most important causes of the failure of the Banque Nationale de Credit. The Government, through the Bank of France, took over the assets of the Banque Nationale de Credit and thus obtained the control of the G.F.F.A. Company.

There is still agitation on the part of certain interests in France to have the Government become more actively interested in production and distribution of films in France. So far, the Government has taken no further active part than its control of G.F.F.A.

The small subsidies which have so far been given to French producers come out of the funds of certain Ministries.

Taxes—Cinema taxation in France is extremely high. Cinemas are taxed anywhere from around 11 percent of their total receipts to 37 percent of their total gross revenue. In addition to the numerous business taxes including an extremely high "patente" tax and special taxes on publicity posters, etc., all of which have been increased during the past year, film distributors pay a 2 percent turn-over tax on every rental as well as a 9 percent "production tax" on the cost of prints. All State taxes in France were increased by 8 percent during the past year by the decrete-lois issued by the Daladier Government.

Import duties are relatively high and to them must be added what is, in effect, an import duty, namely the cost of dubbing. For, each American film in its original version, may not be sold to more than 5 cinemas in Paris and 10 cinemas in the provinces.

There have been no reductions in the poor tax in the past year. The following tables show separately and simultaneously the State and poor taxes collected on each 100 francs receipt of Paris cinemas:

	State Tax	Poor Tax
First class	Frs. 2.20	Frs. 8.75	equals	Frs. 10.95
Second class	" 5.40	" 8.75	"	" 14.15
Third class	" 10.80	" 8.75	"	" 19.55
Fourth class	" 16.20	" 8.75	"	" 24.95
Fifth class	" 21.60	" 8.75	"	" 30.35
Sixth class	" 27.00	" 8.75	"	" 35.75

The percentage of the taxes imposed to the total box-office receipts (including taxes and admissions), or the gross receipts which are used for statistical purposes are for each 100 francs of box-office receipts.

Admissions		Taxes	Total Box-office receipts
1st class	Frs. 100	10.95	110.95
2nd class	" 100	14.15	114.15
3rd class	" 100	19.55	119.55

5th class	" 100	30.35	130.35
6th class	" 100	35.75	135.75

	Percentage of total box-office receipts
1st class	10.95/110.95— 9.869 percent
2nd class	14.15/114.15—12.396 "
3rd class	19.55/119.55—16.353 "
4th class	24.95/124.95—19.968 "
5th class	30.35/130.35—23.283 "
6th class	35.75/135.75—26.335 "

(The 6th class cinemas are those which gross more than Frs. 200,000 receipts per month, not employing orchestras or attractions.)

Theaters—There are approximately 4,600 cinemas in France having a total seating capacity of 2,355,000 seats. The average admission price for first-run cinemas in which only foreign films are shown is about 20 francs per seat. The average admission price to other cinemas in France is still between 8 and 10 francs per seat.

The 1938 gross income of cinemas is estimated at approximately 1,000,000,000 francs or about 10 percent above 1937. Unfortunately the total revenue of box-office has not increased in proportion to the unusually heavy increase in the cost of operation and in taxes in the past year.

Sound—Approximately 3,750 theaters out of 4,600 are wired for sound films. As far as prospects for future sales of sound equipments are concerned, these include in addition to new houses, replacement of existing equipments. It is estimated on good authority that approximately 100 new sound equipments can be sold in France at the present time, 2/3 of which represent replacement and 1/3 new houses.

FRENCH INDO CHINA

Censorship—There does not appear to be any law providing for censorship of motion pictures, but they are required to be shown before an official of the local government charged with the duty of censoring films. Censorship is fairly strict.

Competition—About 35 percent of the films shown are of American production.

Theaters—There are approximately 110 theaters in operation. Approximately 85 theaters are now wired for sound pictures.

FRENCH WEST INDIES

Censorship—There appears to be no censorship practiced in this colony, although by decree of the President of France, dated May 16, 1935, and published in the Journal Officiel of Martinique there is established a censorship of films. There is no record extant of any films being rejected, and children of all ages are admitted to theaters at any time there is a showing.

Competition—French and American films. Some 50 percent of the films shown are American.

Theaters—There are 15 cinemas in Martinique, with an estimated seating capacity of 8,700. All are wired for sound.

GERMANY

Legislation—The entire German film industry is now subject to Government control under the direct supervision of the Ministry of Propaganda. This control includes financial support, credit facilities through the Film-Kredit-Bank, as well as assistance through other means, such as propaganda, etc. Subsidies are paid partially from the proceeds of the amusement tax and partially from other sources. The net receipts from contingent licenses are distributed among German film exporters, but the sums involved are not important. In the absence of the budget or other figures, it is impossible to estimate the total of Government financial assistance to the industry.

The importation of foreign films into Germany is regulated on the basis of annual contingents. The German Film Contingent Decree of July 15, 1930, expired on June 30, 1936, and was replaced by an enabling act of July 1, 1936, which empowered the Minister of Propaganda to establish the conditions under which foreign films might be imported. This was effected by the Decree concerning the Exhibition of Foreign Films, of July 12, 1936, and extended to Austria by decree of June 14, 1938. Under this decree the number of permits which may be issued for the importation of foreign feature sound films was set at 105. Of these, 60 may be non-transferable licenses issued to German distributors in proportion to the number of films distributed by them; 30 may be transferable "export permits" issued to German film exporters in proportion to the number of films exported; 15 are reserved for the free disposal of the Ministry of Propaganda. The license fee is set at RM (Reichsmarks) 10,000 which is reduced in proportion to expenditures in Germany for dubbing, etc. Only the second group (export permits) are of practical interest to the American industry.

This decree also includes a provision to the effect that "permits" may be refused in the case of films submitted by producers who persist in issuing films "whose tendency or effect is injurious to German prestige or which have been produced in a state in which the distribution of German films is hampered by impeding restrictions." This restriction applies also to "films in which actors participate who have previously appeared in pictures detrimental to German prestige." The definition of what may be considered as "injurious to German prestige" and the application of this restriction is left to the Ministry of Propaganda. In view of the fact that the German authorities are convinced that the American companies, through "impeding restrictions," are responsible for the failure of German films in America and that, furthermore, the regulations are applied in accordance with official "Aryan" principles, the effect is to keep imports of American films at a strict minimum necessary to supplement the insufficient German production of feature films.

Although no formal preference is given other foreign films as against American, in actual practice certain other countries are favored. Thus there is an actual preference in favor of the production of countries with which Germany has compensation agreements or "cooperation agreements." Questions of political propaganda also unquestionably enter into the picture and largely determine the allocation of the licenses at the disposal of the Ministry of Propaganda.

Admission permits of the Austrian Board of Censors have been cancelled as of December 31, 1938.

By the decree of August 6, 1937, the permission of the Reich Film Chamber is required for the establishment of any new enterprise for the production, distribution, preparation, or performance of motion picture films. The president of the Chamber is empowered to grant such permission if he considers the enterprise necessary from the standpoint of the German film industry and if he is assured of the financial soundness of the concern and of its capacity for satisfactory management and production.

Censorship—American films coming into Germany are subject to the approval first of the Contingent Office (Kontingentstelle) and subsequently of the Board of Censors (Zensurstelle). The former is a pre-censorship board made up entirely of officials of the Propaganda Ministry, which grants or withholds as it sees fit, a certificate of "non-objection" (Unbedenklichkeitsbescheinigung) without which a foreign film may not proceed to the regular Board of Film Censors. The Ministry of Propaganda exercises its authority in a purely arbitrary manner and is presumably actuated primarily by political considerations. The Board of Censors reviews the film, approves or rejects it, requires cuts and alterations, etc. The dubbed German text must also be approved by the Censors.

While the regulations governing the censorship are in themselves not unduly severe, they are so elastic as to give the Board a fairly free hand to prevent the admission of any films against which there might be (from their point of view) any sort of objection. Reasons for rejection are usually rather vaguely phrased, as "artistically inferior," "Offensive to National Socialist feeling," etc. Other considerations are sometimes mentioned, for example, "reflecting against German prestige," "detrimental to the honor of the German Army," "Racially offensive," etc. As compared to such motives for rejection, moral considerations are of secondary importance.

During the season 1937-38, the Board of Censors passed 159 long feature films, of which 93 were of German, 31 of American, and 35 of other foreign origin. In 1937, the Board rejected 2 long feature films, both of American origin; in the first three quarters of 1938, 10 long feature films were rejected, two being American, two German, five French and one Swedish. These statistics of rejections, however, are misleading because they do not take into account the far larger number of films disallowed by the Contingent Office before reaching the Board of Censors.

Competition—Since the incorporation of Austria the principal foreign competitors of American films are the French and Italian productions. The following table shows the nationality of films exhibited in Germany in 1936 and 1937:

FEATURE FILMS ADMITTED TO PUBLIC PERFORMANCE IN 1936 AND 1937

American films are generally well received in Germany and, in the larger cities especially, are often preferred to German films. In Berlin, American films have broken records for length of run in first-run theaters. In the smaller towns, because of the propaganda against foreign (and particularly against American) films, the reception is not always so favorable.

Copyright Relations—The interests of the author and producer are fully protected under German law. Recommendations, however, have been made with a view to a better adjustment of existing law to the peculiar problems of film production and to National Socialist conceptions. According to these recommendations only the author of the film story would be entitled to copyright, but the producer would be protected under the "right of exploitation" (Verwertungsrecht). Legislation to this effect has not yet been enacted, depending somewhat upon similar action in other countries. By a decree dated June 11, 1938, the German laws regarding the handling of music copyrights has been extended to Austria.

Production—For the 1937-38 season, 150 long features (i.e., over 1,000 meters in length) were announced, of which 114 were completed and passed by the Board of Censors. For the 1938-39 season, 137 long features have been announced. German standard gauge film production for the calendar years 1936 and 1937 were as follows:

GERMAN FILM PRODUCTION

Type of Film	1936 Number	Length (m)
Features:
Long	111	274,518
Short	90	49,094
Non-theatrical films	1,306	389,727
Total	1,507	713,339

Type of Film	1937* Number	Length (m)
Features:
Long	94	233,289
Short	77	41,294
Non-theatrical films	1,156	357,489
Total	1,327	632,072

*Not including 585 narrow gauge films of 127,070 m length passed by the Board of Censors.

German requirements for long feature films have been estimated at 200 to 220 annually.

The organization of the German film industry under the control and direction of the Ministry of Propaganda is now complete. This has led to the elimination of financially weak and poorly equipped film concerns, either through liquidation or consolidation. Production facilities are now generally adequate and there is no difficulty in financing approved projects. Special efforts have been made to assure uniform occupation of the studios throughout the year.

Production technique, though on the average of high standard, probably does not reach the quality of the best American productions.

There are no objections to the "dubbing" of American films in German, though particularly in conversation pictures, it is often difficult satisfactorily to adjust the language to the tempo of American dialogue. Most American pictures shown in first-class Berlin theaters retain the original dialogue with the addition of German captions. In the Provinces complete German text is usual.

"Dubbing" of films for local exhibition must be done in Germany, but a deduction in proportion to the cost is allowed from the license fee.

Taxes—The amusement tax amounts nominally to 15 percent of the admission fee and is usually absorbed by the film renter. As reductions are allowed for approved films, amounting in exceptional cases to the entire amount of the tax, the actual percentage paid is considerably less than the nominal tax. The fact that an approved culture film must be shown at every performance automatically reduces the tax to 12 percent or less. During the past year amusement tax payments averaged 8½ percent of entrance receipts. Total receipts from amusement tax for 1936-37 were RM. 21,100,000 and for 1937-38 RM. 24,800,000. Except for the import contingent fees, film companies are subject only to the usual taxes imposed on German industrial enterprises—that is, income, turnover, and corporation taxes. Import duties are insignificant, amounting to RM. 2,000 per 100 kilograms for positives, developed or undeveloped. Developed negatives are free of duty.

Theaters—According to the latest census of the Reich Film Chamber, there were 6,317 film theaters in Germany (including Austria), of which about 2,820 were in daily operation. After the incorporation of the Sudetenland the total has been estimated at about 6,800 cinemas. These figures apply only to commercially operated cinemas and do not include places where films are shown irregularly for special purposes without admission charge. By the Decree of August 6, 1937, no new enterprise intended for the production, distribution, preparation, or exhibition of films may be established without the permission of the Reich Film Chamber.

The seating capacity of German film theaters (including Austria) is given by the above census as 2,390,706. The average seating capacity of all film theaters is 366. The average seating capacity of German cinemas in 1938 was 391. With the incorporation of Austria the average was reduced to 378 seats. The average admission price is RM. 0.78.

German audiences show no marked preference for particular types of pictures. Pictures notable for cast, story or technique are highly favored, while there has apparently been some decline in the popularity of period and musical films.

The gross income of German film theaters for the 1937-38 season was RM. 335,000,000 as compared with RM. 282,000,000 in the preceding season.

No satisfactory estimate of capital investment in German film theaters is available, but the total is probably in the neighborhood of RM. 500,000,000, or about RM. 250 per cinema seat.

Sound—All theaters in "old" Germany are sound-equipped, but there are some 50 in former Austria which still have only silent equipment. Apparatus used is exclusively of German manufacture.

GREECE

Legislation—Motion picture films are included in Group A of the Greek import control scheme; with the exception of certain limitations outlined below, their importation is free of quota and exchange restrictions.

In the case of films imported from countries such as Germany and Italy, which have official clearing arrangements with Greece and a trade balance normally in the latter's favor, payment of drafts covering royalties and prints is effected without difficulty. The same is true of the United States and England, which countries do business with Greece on the basis of payment in unrestricted foreign exchange both for imports and exports. In the case of countries such as Poland, Belgium and Hungary, with which Greece has clearing facilities but an adverse trade balance, payment is delayed until drafts can be settled in chronological order as funds become available in the clearing accounts. In the case of Greek imports from countries like France, with which all trade is subject to private barter arrangements, a premium usually must be paid by the importing firm to an exporter of Greek products for the use of his so-called compensation exchange permit. In the case of imports from France, this premium currently (October 1938) ranges between 30 and 35 percent.

There are no limitations on the importation and exhibition of news reels and shorts not exceeding 500 meters in total length. These may be imported by anyone in any quantity, and exchange to pay for the cost of prints and about $125 per reel for royalties is made available in accordance with the general methods described above.

Censorship—Film censorship is controlled by the Domestic Press Bureau of the Ministry of Press and Tourism. Existing regulations provide that all films to be exhibited in Greece must be censored and furnished with a numbered license. The license number must be shown under the title of each film, together with a statement as to whether the film has been approved for children and adults.

Until 1936, film censorship was quite lenient in Greece. Subsequently, it has become very severe as regards communistic propaganda or ideas which may be considered as radical.

Competition—During the 1937-38 theatrical season (October 1, 1937, to May 31, 1938), American films controlled approximately 60 percent of the Greek trade. Out of a total number of 313 feature films released for exhibition, 187 were American. The latter figure includes films dubbed or produced in the European studios of American companies. There was a rather marked decline in American participation in the Greek film trade during 1938 as compared with 1937. This was due partly to the improvement in French production and partly to the failure of a considerable number of American films to arouse public interest and to prove commercially profitable. Interest in original versions of American feature films was further increased in 1938 and some of the leading theaters ran English dialogue films for full weeks with satisfactory box-office returns. Other theaters followed the plan of devoting a few days of their weekly programs to the exhibition of original English versions of American films with Greek subtitles.

The number of French films exhibited rose from 25 in 1936-37 to 66 in 1937-38, thus increasing French participation from 7.4 percent to 21 percent.

There was a further shrinkage in German film showings in Greece during 1938. The total number of German feature films shown in the 1937-38 theatrical season was 49 as against 60 in the preceding year.

Production—Film production in Greece is confined to a few news and advertising reels and the filming of sub-titles.

Taxes—The import duty on positive films, including all surtaxes, amounts to 126 drachmas per kilogram or approximately 51 cents per pound. In addition, there is a 3 percent excise tax payable at the time of entry, which is calculated on the basis of landed cost (cost of first print and royalties) plus the amount of import duty. The import duty, together with the surtaxes and clearing charges, averages about 0.90 to 1 drachma ($0.0078 to $0.0087) per foot, depending on the amount of royalty rights.

Theaters—The total number of motion picture theaters in operation in Greece is about 170. Many of these, however, do not operate regularly and are closed a good part of the year with frequent changes of management.

Sound—Nearly all theaters in Greece are now wired for sound. In many cases the equipment used is of the cheapest kind, assembled from imported or locally made parts.

GUATEMALA

Legislation—The only legislation enacted in 1938 affecting the motion picture industry in Guatemala consisted of Decree No. 2130 of August 12, 1938, which revised the tax to be paid by motion picture distributors, or their agents. This formerly was a lump sum of $300 per year, but it is now changed to 10 percent of the distributor's share of entry receipts. A deduction of 25 percent from the distributor's share may be made to cover expenses, and the 10 percent tax is applied to the balance.

Censorship—There is no official board of censorship in Guatemala, the Chief of Police Service having jurisdiction in the matter. Exhibitors of motion pictures are held responsible for the type of pictures shown, and are subject to fine if a picture is shown which contains anything contrary to the laws of decency and public order.

Competition—The chief competitors of American films in Guatemala are still the Spanish-speaking pictures, though the lack of good pictures this year has somewhat diminished the popularity which was built up last year by three outstanding Mexican films.

Theaters—There are thirty-four exhibitors of motion pictures in Guatemala, including eighteen theaters with an estimated total seating capacity of 18,000, and a number of clubs, recreation halls on plantations, etc., where motion pictures are shown from time to time.

Sound—Twenty-eight of the theaters and other establishments are equiped for sound, and there are one or two operators who have portable sound equipment with which they cover a number of small towns on a more or less regular schedule.

HAITI

Competition—The principal competitor of American films in this market is the French film. It is believed that language is the principal factor in favor of French films as French is the official language of Haiti.

Of the films imported during the fiscal year ended September 30, 1938, approximately 25 percent were American and 75 percent were French. American films when dubbed in French are well received in this market.

Taxes—Finished films, even though intended to be re-exported, are classified under paragraph 11045 of the import tariff, which provides a duty of $0.20 per net kilo. A surtax of 20 percent of the duties payable is provided.

Theaters—There are seven theaters in Haiti. All seven theaters are wired for showing of sound films.

HONDURAS

Censorship—According to the Political Governor of the Department of Tegucigalpa, a total of 288 films were censored by the Tribunal of Censors during the fiscal year ended on July 31, 1938. The number of films censored during the previous fiscal year was 306.

Of the films censored during the 1937-38 year, eight were rejected by the Tribunal of Censors.

Competition—American films are practically without competition in Honduras, it being estimated that approximately 90 percent of the films exhibited in the country are of American origin. The next largest supplier of films is Mexico, but the number of Mexican films shown during a year is small indeed. Occasionally a German, French and an English film is shown.

Theaters—There are 27 motion picture theaters in operation in Honduras.

Sound—All of the 27 theaters are wired for showing sound films.

HONG KONG

Censorship—During the period January 1 to September 30, 1938, the following motion picture films were censored in Hong Kong: Chinese, 99 Feature films, 31 Short subjects; Imported films, American, 208 Feature films, 587 Short subjects; English, 15 Feature films, 4 short subjects; U. S. S. R., 4 Feature films, 10 Short subjects; German, 2 Feature films; French, 1 Feature film; Japanese, 4 Short subjects; Indiana, 9 Feature films. Total number rejected, 7; Total American films rejected, 7.

Competition—Chinese films are the principal competitors of American films in Hong Kong. However, 75 percent of the films shown in Hong Kong are American.

Production—Thirty-eight films were produced in Hong Kong during the first nine months of 1938. Production for the last quarter of the year is estimated at 15, making a total of 53 for 1938. In 1937, 70 films were produced. Only Chinese film companies produce in Hong Kong.

Taxes—Taxes levied on the motion picture industry in Hong Kong are not high and in fact may be considered as low. Theaters pay an amusement tax and an annual license fee while distributors pay no taxes at all. Moreover, there is no import duty on films coming into Hong Kong. The amusement tax is passed on to the public by the theaters.

Theaters—There are 22 motion picture theaters in Hong Kong and six others showing motion pictures when Chinese stage plays are not available. Two motion picture theaters are under construction at the present time.

Sound—Twenty-eight theaters in Hong Kong are wired for sound.

HUNGARY

Legislation—A law prohibiting the transfer of oreign exchange has been in force since July 1931, since which time it has been necessary to obtain the permission of the National Bank of Hungary to transfer foreign exchange or currency from Hungary to a foreign country.

Censorship—The censorship of motion pictures is generally considered strict.

Competition—The domestic films and those imported from France are the principal competition with American films on the Hungarian market. It is generally estimated that 40 percent of the films shown in Hungary are American.

Production—During the present year, Hungarian film studios produced 26 feature films, of which the Hungarian Film Studio produced 10 and the Hunnia 16.

Taxes—The Hungarian import duty on films amounts to 250 gold crowns (about $55.73) per 220 pounds. In addition the Hungarian Film Fund receives 1,000 pengo as an import certificate fee for each film of more than 1,200 meters in length, and 100 to 500 pengo (on a sliding scale) for films of less than 1,200 meters. The importer of films of over 1,200 meters must purchase the so-called long censors cards, the price of which averaged 1,350 pengo during the present year. Decree No. 175,100/1936 specifies that for films under 1,200 meters, a short censors card must be submitted, the price of which varied from 80 to 100 pengo during the present year. In addition, the importer must also purchase a control card valued at 7 pengo for each film imported, including copies.

The censorship fee for Hungarian silent films and sound films is four fillers per meter, and for foreign sound films ten fillers per meter. In special cases the Board of Censors may grant an "urgent" supervision of films, the fee for which is double the usual one. Each silent or sound film is assessed 20 fillers per meter if the titles were made in Hungary, and one pengo additional Film Fund fee if made abroad.

Theaters—There are 524 motion picture theaters in Hungary, with a total seating capacity of 144,900. It is reported that 483 theaters are wired for the showing of sound film in Hungary.

INDIA

Legislation—No quota or contingent laws are in effect at present, but, toward the middle of the year, rumors were current about a proposal being put forward that a quota for Indian films, along the lines of the British Quota Act, should be enacted for India. The object of the proposal was to compel cinemas, showing exclusively foreign pictures, to exhibit a certain percentage of Indian films, as a measure of protection to the domestic industry.

It is generally conceded, that the enactment of some sort of restrictive legislation is only a question of time. Possibly this may take the form of an increase in the import duty.

In the recent conference of Industries Ministers of the various provinces in India, a tentative arrangement has been arrived at to establish a National Planning Committee with the object of developing Indian industries to their utmost possible extent. The motion picture industry being one of the key industries of India, it is sure to receive a fair measure of attention, and it is not unreasonable to assume that some form of protection will be extended to this industry.

Censorship—During the period January to September, 1938, inclusive, 1,820 films were examined, of which 1,149 were American:

American, 1,149; British, 331; Other Foreign Countries, 49; Indian, 291. Total, 1,820.

Censorship is strict particularly when it involves the question of maintaining law and order in the country. The Government of Bombay has recently issued definite instructions to the Board of Film Censors to the effect that, whenever a cinematograph film produced outside India, depicting Indian life or dealing with Indian subject-matter, wholly or in part, is tendered to the Board of Censors for certification, the Board's report and opinion on it, together with a synopsis of the film, should be submitted to the Government before it is certified as suitable for public exhibition under the Cinematograph Act.

Competition—Indian pictures offer the most serious competition to American films in the sense that they are successful in deflecting a vast number of film fans who would otherwise patronize the American picture. However, about 45 percent of the films shown are American. British films have almost ceased to be a competitive factor.

The number of Indian productions, on the other hand, is gradually growing, and it carries with it public appreciation and patronage to an increasing degree.

Production—It is extremely difficult to secure accurate data regarding the number of feature films produced in India in 1938. The nearest approach to the question is perhaps the number of Indian films censored. From January to September, 1938, inclusive, 163 Indian feature films were tendered for certification before the Indian Boards of Censors. It is understood, however, that production of Indian films was not as active as in the preceding few years.

Taxes—In addition to the payment of the Customs duty that falls to their lot, there are the following taxes to be paid—Trades and Professions Tax, Income Tax, Fire Brigade Storage License Tax, Octroi or Local Customs in certain provinces.

An advertisement tax has recently been introduced in Madras, such as on hoardings, etc., but information as to the nature of its assessment is meagre.

Imports—Item 29 of the Indian Customs Tariff levies an import duty of 20 per cent. ad valorem (standard), and 10 per cent ad valorem (preferential for products of the U.K.) on "Cinematograph Films, Not Exposed". It was previously 25 percent and 15 percent, respectively. Item 29(1) reads: "Cinematograph Films, Exposed"—37½ percent. ad valorem standard (no preference). This is meant to be a source of revenue to the Government. Tariffs on imported articles are revised annually, an increase or decrease in the duty depending upon the current market value of the articles imported and their average market value for the preceding twelve months.

Theaters—According to latest reports, there are about 1,025 theaters in India, distributed among some 200 cities or towns, and, in addition, some 200 mobile cinemas. The total seating capacity of these theaters is estimated at anywhere between 750,000 to 800,000.

Sound—Almost all theaters, including the traveling cinemas are fitting up with sound equipment, and it is the new houses that spring up here and there, and replacement of existing equipment, that provides most of the market for sound equipment. The general consensus is that India should, and gradually will, have some 2,500 more theatres.

IRAN

Legislation—All imports into Iran are governed by the law of February 23, 1931 which established an official monopoly of all foreign trade, and the law of March 1, 1936, which extends governmental control to all transactions involving foreign exchange. Under these laws, before an importer may purchase foreign exchange from the official Exchange Commission, he must purchase from the state-owned National Bank of Iran export certificates to the value of the intended imports, and, from an exporter, "exchange sales certificates" of the same amount.

Iran has a Clearing Agreement with Germany, which enables Iranian merchants to purchase German merchandise without the necessity of securing foreign exchange.

During the economic year ending June 21, 1939, the quota for motion picture film, photographic film, cameras and related products has been fixed at 3,000,000 rials (about $171,400). Normal imports of these products scarcely exceed half this amount.

Censorship—According to the best available information, about two hundred films were reviewed in Iran in 1938. Of these films, only eight were rejected.

Competition—Of the foreign films shown in Iran, it is estimated that about 50 percent are American, 20 percent German, 15 percent French, 10 percent British, and the remaining 5 percent Egyptian, Indian, etc.

Production—There is no domestic production in Iran, however, sub-titles must be "dubbed" into Persian.

Taxes—The import duty on foreign films is fairly high—100 rials ($5.70) per kilogram, net weight. The only other tax levied on motion picture films is a 5 percent municipality tax on tickets.

Theaters—There are 35 motion picture theaters in Iran, having a total seating capacity estimated at 22,000 persons, 32 are said to be wired for sound.

IRAQ

Censorship—About 200 films were censored during 1938 of which at least seven were rejected. Six of the seven films rejected were of American production, but there is no discrimination against American films. Censorship, which takes place in Baghdad, Basrah and Mosul, is not strict.

Competition—There is very little competition with American films with the exception of Arabic films produced in Egypt. These are however very expensive. French films have a certain popularity here but the demand for British films has recently been decreasing. About 97 per cent of the English-talking films shown in Iraq during 1938 were made in the United States.

Taxes—Distributors pay the usual income tax. The following are the customs import duties imposed on cinematographic films: (a) Films for cinematographs (exposed), when: (1) Certified by the Director General of Education or the Director General of Health to be useful for purposes of education or health and when for free exhibition to the public . . . Exempt. (2) Certified by the Director General of Education or the Director General of Health to be useful for purposes of education or health and when not for free exhibition . . . 250 Fils ($1.25) per kilo net. (3) Not certified as stated in (1) or (2) preceding . . . 500 Fils ($2.50) per kilo net.

Theaters—There are about 20 motion picture theaters in the country with a total capacity of about 14,550.

Sound—All of the 20 theaters in Iraq are wired for the showing of sound films.

ITALY

Legislation—On September 13, 1938, the Official Gazette published the text of Royal Decree dated September 4, which established a monopoly for the purchase, importation and the distribution in Italy, its colonies and possessions of motion picture films imported from abroad. This monopoly is now in the hands of the Ente Nazionale per l'Industria Cinematografica, with offices in Rome, a semi-governmental organization

Following this unexpected measure, the Ente made known to the various distributors that it would entirely take over the acquisition of all foreign films within the limit of the importation quota established for producing countries by the Ministry of Foreign Trade and Exchange.

Under the new system, any organizations which may continue to distribute films in Italy after December 31, 1938, can do so only as agents or sub-agents of the Monopoly. Moreover, all film renting contracts are required to be on a flat-price basis

It is reported in Italian circles that among considerations which motivated the Government to make the foregoing radical changes was the intention to limit the outlay of foreign exchange required for foreign pictures. As is known, for the 1936-37 and 1937-38 seasons, the Government had undertaken to allow the exportation of earnings on American films to a total amount of 20,000,000 lire annually. However, the 20,000,000 lire quota represented only a portion of total earnings due to American producers, who in consequence were accumulating large sums of lire blocked in Italy. The Ministry of Trade and Foreign Exchange was said to be opposed to the accumulation of these foreign-owned funds, even although the Government had made no commitment for their transfer.

As a natural corollary of monopoly control and of flat-price contracts, a much larger portion of the earnings from foreign films would remain in Italy unencumbered, utilizable for stimulating the growth of Italian motion picture production.

The reaction of American film producers to the new regulations has been that the latter so fundamentally hamper business in Italy that to continue sending films to the Italian market was unwarranted. Companies which had their own distributing organizations in Italy have terminated their business.

With the object of assisting the local cinema industry, it continues to be obligatory for theaters to show one Italian picture for every two foreign pictures. This measure is complied with in so far as the supply of national films is sufficient to meet the regulation.

As the projection of motion pictures in anything but the Italian language is prohibited, it is necessary to dub all imported films. This dubbing must be carried out in the country, and films which are dubbed abroad may not enter the country. With the object of financing the local cinema industry, a dubbing tax exists amounting to 50,000 lire for each film. In addition, there is a surtax applicable to films earning more than 2,500,000 lire. The surtax is applied as follows: 15,000 lire for every 500,000 lire in the excess of 2,500,000 referred to, with a maximum tax of 110,000 lire. (See table later under section on "Production").

The foregoing taxes are reduced by one-half for those films having a length of between 500 and 1,000 meters. The dubbing tax is not applied where the film is less than 500 meters. With the object of assisting the Italian production, producers of national films may dub free, four films for each national film produced. This tax exemption does not apply to the supplements.

The ban on other than Italian language is not applied to singing sequences, nor does it apply to news reels.

Censorship—The censor boards, which pass on all films, imported or otherwise, are generally considered to be rigorous and their findings are largely based on considerations of morality, national prestige, etc. The boards, or commissions (of which there are several) have in their composition representatives from the Ministry of Popular Culture, Ministry of the Interior, Ministry of Corporations, Ministry of War, the Fascist Party, and Juvenile Organization.

Competition—With the advent of the new Monopoly and the stated intention of American companies to withdraw from the Italian field, the current theory among Italians is that French, German, and English films will be sought in greater number than formerly, but the largest remaining source of supply is the Italian production. The outstanding problem for the later spring months of 1939 and for next season is that of obtaining a sufficient number of acceptable pictures to keep the theaters running.

While some of the latterly-produced Italian pictures have been very popular, the proverbial excellence of the American films make it almost impossible to compare these productions. In the case of the American picture, the audience is generally more attracted by the actors and actresses than the plot, which remark does not apply to the Italian picture. There are no outstanding personalities and more attention is given to the plot than would be the case if Italy had stars as is the case in America.

Production—With the creation of the Italian Hollywood, called the Cinecitta, which is described as one of the most up-to-date motion picture collection of studios in Europe, Italy places at the disposal of producers eight fully equipped studios with all the offices and quarters essential to up-to-date production. These studios are furnished with instruments which are claimed to be the last word in cinema technique. The citta covers an area of about 600,000 square meters. Many of the latter productions have been turned out at this center.

Details available regarding Cinecitta are to the effect that it is furnished with transparency apparatus: equipped with up-to-date American sound apparatus; has its own staff of permanent camera operators, who use Debrie and American cameras. In addition, there are rooms for cutting and editing films, and all such other quarters and equipment essential to production.

In order of importance, as regards activity, the following are the producing establishments located in Italy; Cinecitta; Farnesina; Tirrenia; Safa and the Scalera.

During the period 1937-38, 48 pictures were produced in Italy, three of which were in double versions. The average cost per picture was in the neighborhood of 1,875,000 lire, that is to say about 50,000,000 lire were expended in production during the period under review. Only one of the pictures had an English version.

The State contribution to the industry consists of the dubbing tax; 10 percent from gross revenue of theater earnings during the first three years of projection; 15 percent of revenue from 2,500,000 to 4,000,000 lire; 20 percent of revenue from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 lire; 25 percent of revenue from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 lire; and 10 percent on foreign sales.

Summed up, the Government's contribution to the domestic industry may be tabulated as follows:

Earnings of Pictures	Government Subsidy
1,000,000	320,000
2,000,000	440,000
2,500,000	500,000
3,000,000	575,000
4,000,000	725,000
5,000,000	925,000
6,000,000	1,175,000

Precise data covering the investment in the Italian motion picture industry, while not available, is now estimated at something over 1 billion lire. The exact amount of Government assistance to the industry is not available, but placed at about 10 million lire per annum, and takes the form of loans to producers. Where a film meets with the approval of the public, the loan is refunded by the producers. The Banca del Lavoro, likewise assists producers with loans. In these cases, a guarantee is signed to the effect that such loans will be refunded to the bank upon the showing of the picture. From 1937 to May 31, 1938, this bank has loaned more than 80 million lire to the industry.

Taxes—The cinema industry, that is to say, theaters and distributors, are taxed in the same way as any other industrial organization. In addition to income tax, supplementary income tax, etc., must be of course mentioned that levied on the dubbing of films and on cinema tickets, amounting to 10 percent on tickets costing up to one lira and 20 percent on those costing more. In certain cities, as Milan and Florence, there is an additional tax of 2 percent.

The customs duties levied on motion picture films are as follows: Unprinted, Sensitized, 3,740

lire per 100 kilos; Unsensitized, 1,870 lire per 100 kilos; Printed, 80.70 lire per 100 meters.

Theaters—Revised figures place the number of theaters in Italy as of December 31, 1937, at 4,049, with a total seating capacity of 1,643,161. No perceptible increase is recorded in the amount of entrance tickets, which vary from 0.60 lire in the smaller centers, to 13 lire or more in the first-run houses.

Sound—The most recent figure relative to the number of theaters equipped with sound apparatus is 3,800. The Italian sound equipment industry has supplied most of the material, and the percentage of other than domestic machines is so low today as to be almost negligible. Of course, the price element, import restrictions, and tariff barriers, have greatly assisted in the development of the domestic industry.

* All U. S. film company branches are reported as having ceased operations as of Dec. 31, 1938.

JAMAICA

Censorship—It is estimated that up to October 1, 1938, 255 films had been censored since January 1, 1938. It is estimated that 14 films had been rejected since January 1, 1938.

Competition—The largest competitors of American films are those from Great Britain. Eighty percent of the films shown are American, the remaining twenty percent being British.

Taxes—There are no import duties on motion picture films, they being admitted under deposit arrangements with the Government, and leave the Island within three months when the deposits are refunded.

Theaters—There are seventeen motion picture theaters in Jamaica. The total seating capacity of these theaters amounts to about 15,000.

Sound—All 17 theaters are wired for sound.

JAPAN

Legislation—The complete prohibition of American film imports into Japan, put into effect on September 20, 1937, continued in force during the next 13 months or until the middle of October. During that period the ban on imports was complete, save for news reels, and exhibitors were forced to show only films held in stock before the ban went into effect.

Representatives of the Association of American Motion Picture Distributors in Japan during February opened negotiations with the Japanese authorities for the partial or entire lifting of the ban. In June prospects for an early solution of the problem looked good and by July agreement was reached on all major points. The Finance Ministry accordingly advised the eight distributors of American films to order pictures from the United States so that they could be brought into the country when the import prohibition was finally lifted.

Not until October, however, was the final agreement signed by the Finance Ministry and representatives of the aforementioned association. On October 3, the ban was officially lifted. The first films were passed by the Yokohama customs authorities on October 15 and on October 29 the first permits to remit funds to home offices were received from the Finance Ministry.

Before giving details concerning the arrangement itself, it is in order to state that although the year opened on a highly pessimistic note, it closed with a considerable amount of optimism as regards the immediate future. From the long range point of view, however, uncertainty continues to be felt due to predictions that legislation is being drafted for presentation to the next session of the Diet in March, 1939, providing for rigid control over all phases of the motion picture industry.

The arrangement whereby American films are now being brought into Japan is unique and probably without parallel in any other market. No arrangement similar to it has thus far been made here and it is unlikely that it will be duplicated for other industries or commodities.

Briefly, the plan provides for the restricted importation and exhibition of American films with the provision that all royalty payments be frozen for a period of three years. Under current wartime conditions, Japan cannot afford to make foreign exchange payments for such an obvious luxury as motion pictures, it is pointed out. Considering the fact that no alternative was offered, American distributors state that the plan is fair and reasonable and definitely to be preferred to a continuation of complete import prohibition.

In the first place, the plan provides for the release of funds frozen in Japan due to exchange control regulations. Secondly, it provides for the grant of import and exchange permits for importation of $30,000 worth of films, based on a fixed valuation of 1.5 cents per foot. Thirdly, it allows distributors to remit funds to the United States on a monthly basis. The all-important angle, however, is the fact that all funds sent to the United States are converted into dollars and kept in the San Francisco branch of the Yokohama Specie Bank without interest for a period of three years.

Concerning the first point, royalties up to Yen 3,000,0000 may be remitted to the United States through the Yokohama Specie Bank on or before the last day of 1938. This amount includes a total of unremitted royalties approximating Yen 2,000,000 which have accumulated locally during the period from September, 1937, to May 15, 1938. The total of Yen 3,000,000 was scheduled to be remitted to the United States in four equal monthly installments during the months of September to December inclusive.

The second main feature of the plan provides for the importation of a maximum of $30,000 in print costs, the minimum price per foot being 1.5 cents. On this basis, imports of films up to 2,000,000 feet may be imported, roughly equivalent to between 180 and 200 features plus shorts and news reels. In the case of colored films, prints of which cannot be made in Japan, each print is taken as the equivalent of one regular picture. In the case of some companies, a total of five films (the original colored film and four prints thereof) will have to be imported while other companies reportedly might even have to import six films (the original and five prints). Under the circumstances, it will be appreciated that the distributors are not much interested in handling colored pictures unless they are certain to be smash hits.

By mid-December about 75 features had been imported from the United States, these films being covered by import and exchange permits having a combined value of $10,000. The Finance Ministry has been slow in granting permits for the remaining $20,000, as provided for in the agreement, and some apprehension has been aroused among American distributors since the agreement specifically states that all imports of new films must be made before the end of 1938. However, with the end of 1938, the Japanese Government continued to grant permits against the original $30,000 maximum even though the time limit had expired.

The third feature of the plan provides for the monthly remittance of funds to the United States under the same restrictions as noted for the Yen 3,000,000 of frozen assets. Each monthly remittance is to be converted into dollars and held without interest in the San Francisco branch of the Yokohama Specie Bank for a period of three years.

While the general public was frankly pleased with the prospects of seeing some new American films again, definite hostility to the aforemention plan to permit importation of between 180 to 200 features was voiced by ultra-nationalistic entities claiming that this is no time to spend money for foreign luxuries. Because of this hostility, the Finance Ministry reportedly has held up granting permits covering the balance of the $20,000 worth of print costs.

A concession to the times was made, however, the agreement specifying that all pictures imported must be suitable for the present emergency wartime conditions in Japan. Further information on this point is given in the section devoted to censorship.

A considerable amount of publicity appeared locally throughout 1938 concerning a scheme to import 40 German motion pictures through the "Manchukuo" state motion picture monopoly. These films are now being exhibited in "Manchukuo" in accordance with the German-"Manchukuo" trade agreement. Continued disagreement among the Japanese exhibitors blocked any definite action and no German films had been brought into Japan by the midddle of December.

During November, Japanese exhibitors of foreign films, excluding the American films distributed by the branch offices of eight major producers, organized the Film Trade Association of Japan. As reported by the press, this association was organized mainly for the purpose of bringing in German and other foreign films from Manchuria and thus avoid the necessity of making foreign exchange payments.

According to one report, the motion picture monopoly in Manchuria plans to import not only German films but also French, British and other European films as well as a few American productions made by independent concerns.

What appears to be the main stumbling block to the showing of the 40 German films in Japan is the fact that the pictures apparently will be apportioned among the Japanese distributors, some distributors getting good films along with indifferent features. Just how to apportion the individual films among the distributors seems to be the main difficulty. German films have not been particularly successful in this market but several selected features have enjoyed popularity. The prospects of unloading 40 films onto the market at one time, particularly now that new American films are being shown, obviously are not attractive to the various Japanese exhibitors who have organized the Film Trade Association of Japan.

Several Italian films were reportedly brought into Japan during 1938 by an Italian economic mission, causing American distributors some concern. However, only one of these films has thus far been exhibited and has enjoyed only moderate success.

Much concern is felt over reports indicating that a law is being drafted for presentation to the Diet in March, 1939, aiming at rigid State control over the motion picture industry.

The eight distributors of American films were asked to call upon the Home Ministry late in December and received word that the draft of the bill had been completed. They were presented with a copy of the drafted bill as well as a statement giving reasons for the proposal of a motion picture law.

Draft of Proposed Motion Picture Law—

1. In order to prevent undue increase in the number of persons engaged in production and distribution, as well as to foster development, the motion picture business shall be placed on a license system.
2. Violators of the law shall be ordered to reform or their business shall be restricted or stopped entirely.
3. To improve the quality and to promote the industry, motion picture directors and players shall be registered and further regulations issued for the control of unit persons.
4. At the time of enforcement of this law, those who are already established in business and those who have applied prior thereto, shall be recognized as being entitled to licenses.
5. In order to encourage the motion picture industry, awards shall be made to exceptional pictures which contribute towards national culture.
6. The exhibition of cultural pictures shall be ordered so as to promote the national culture.
7. For purposes of education and national propaganda, exhibitors may be ordered to exhibit certain designated pictures.
8. Certain pictures which are considered significant from the point of view of public welfare shall be ordered to be preserved by the owner so as to prevent its destruction.
9. Scenarios or manuscripts shall be presented to the authorities before production in order to prevent the making of undesirable films, as well as to prevent unforeseen loss of time when presented for censorship purposes.
10. Censorship of films, both for release in Japan as well as for export, shall be conducted as in the past. Portions of films deleted by the censors shall be confiscated.
11. Proper restrictions and control shall be exercised over the length of performance, method of exhibition and attendance of minors from the point of view of peace and order, hygiene, education and general public welfare.
12. In view of the influence of foreign pictures upon national morales and the domestic motion picture industry, the volume of foreign pictures distributed, as well as exhibited in theaters, shall be restricted.

13. Night work of women and minors engaged in motion picture production shall be prohibited or restricted when such is judged undesirable from the point of view of hygiene and public welfare.
14. Producers, distributors and exhibitors, who interfere with the healthy development of the motion picture industry, shall be ordered to restrict their activities.
15. A motion picture committee shall be established to discuss important matters relating to the industry.
16. Regulations additional to the above 15 shall be issued to decide the penalties for violation of the above.

Among the less pessimistic observers the view is held that the proposed law is aimed mainly at the domestic producing industry, in which conditions are chaotic and unsatisfactory. Proponents of this view say that the domestic companies were not able to avail themselves of the opportunity afforded to improve their competitive position during the 13 months when American films were prohibited importation. Their output continued to be characterized by weak plots, poor scenario work, and bad editing of the films before being released. The proposed law would force domestic producers to submit their scenarios to the Government before actual work is started on the pictures. The Government would guide producers to make better pictures, it is pointed out, both for the domestic market and for export to the Japanese-dominated areas on the Asiatic mainland. The Government would endeavor to make production of raw films approximate consumption by the producers, who now are said to waste large amounts of raw film.

In spite of the reassurances of the less pessimistic observers, however, it is generally opined that the proposed law will actually be presented to the Diet and that it may be put through without difficulty. Nationalistic groups are said to be backing the proposed law, these groups said to include the military and other factions aiming at using the motion picture industry for the purpose of molding public opinion.

The outlook for American participation in the Japanese market is not bright due to the trend toward greater control. It seems safe to say that the days of unrestricted competition in this market are over.

Censorship—Censorship in Japan continued to reflect the wartime conditions carried over from 1937. Although rigidly enforced, the censorship is said by American film distributors to be reasonable and not extreme. The censorship regulations are well known and strictly adhered to and therefor relatively little fault is found with the actual censoring of films.

Due largely to the great number of news reels made by Japanese companies, the total number of prints censored in 1937 reached the unprecedented total of 41,560 against 25,008 in 1936; 21,075 in 1935; 17,468 in 1934 and 14,989 in 1933. Of the 1937 total, news reels alone numbered 22,727, including 21,869 Japanese, 734 American and 124 European.

Details regarding the number of features censored are not available. It is reported, however, that new productions censored during 1937 totalled 3,268, including 2,306 Japanese, 755 American and 207 European.

The following details covering films censored during the first half of 1938 were obtained from the censor's office. Details for subsequent months are not yet available.

Films Censored in Japan, First Half of 1938

Films imported into Japan are inspected by the customs authorities and, if approved, by the censor's office. Some films are not permitted entry into the country by the customs or else the customs advise the distributors not to have them inspected by the censor because they will be banned anyway, the customs presumably recommending such action. Relatively few American films are rejected by the customs or banned by the censor due largely to the fact that distributors exercise great care in selecting films for this market.

Continued care will be exercised in prohibiting the screening of foreign films which run counter to the social and political economy and idealogy of the country. Scenes deemed detrimental to German and Italian interests will continue to be eliminated, since Germany and Italy are linked up with Japan politically and culturally as a result of the Anti-Comintern Agreement.

Japan, Germany and Italy, as co-signors of the Anti-Comintern Agreement, have tended to draw closer together in matters of international cooperation. Steps are being taken to exchange cultural missions and also certain films of the type deemed appropriate for better understanding. Under the circumstances, it will be appreciated that the Japanese Government does not permit any pictures to be exhibited which contain material likely to cause offense to German and Italian interests and feelings.

Competition — General competitive conditions were completely upset during 1938 as the result of the complete ban on imports of pictures other than news reels from the United States and Europe. Japanese films continued to dominate the market but American distributors enjoyed a fair amount of business with the limited number of features available for screening. By the end of the summer, however, a decided shortage of American features was reported, this shortage being referred to by the press as a "film famine." By the time the ban was lifted in October practically all American distributors were desperately in need of new pictures.

An indication as to the competition found in this market is afforded by the meterage of films censored in 1937 and during the first half of 1938. During 1937, Japanese films accounted for 82.7 percent of the entire meterage compared with 10.9 percent American and 6.4 percent European. During the 1938 first half, the Japanese share had risen to 87.4 percent, while the American and European shares had dropped to 8.8 and 3.8 percent respectively. It will be remembered that the Japanese figures are swollen by a heavy meterage of news reels.

From the standpoint of money-making attractions, however, the American films are the best in the market. Opposed to the fact that they have maintained their popularity in spite of the 13 month ban on new productions is the fact that Japanese theater outlets are largely controlled or dominated by domestic producers, who show American films mainly to round out their own programs. Isolated press reports tend to give the impression that the number of theaters showing foreign films exclusively has declined in 1938, due to shortage of features.

A development, which under normal conditions might have unfavorably affected the exhibition of American films, occurred when the new three-hour limit for shows was enforced from February 1, 1938. Prior to that time, exhibitors screened two foreign features, one foreign and one Japanese feature or two Japanese features, depending on policy, as well as shorts, and news reels.

Some programs normally ran for five hours, particularly in the case of double Japanese feature bills. The authorities considered long programs as being bad for public health and largely because of this put the three-hour limit into effect. Another consideration was the fact that domestic producers might profit from the new ruling by devoting more time to production of better films, with quality rather than footage the main attraction.

This new ruling coincided with the shortage of American films and resulted in having the limited supplies prove more adequate than they otherwise might have been. Even during 1939, with supplies of American films increased this ruling will undoubtedly prove helpful, it is predicted.

European productions seem to be gaining ground against American pictures, but this does not necessarily mean that they are achieving greater popularity. As one observer put it, "pictures produced under the social and political restraint peculiar to the European countries are more likely to find favor in the eyes of Japanese censors, especially in view of governmental amity." This observer points out that it must also be borne in mind that the exhibitor is able to make more favorable terms for these pictures than for the American pictures.

According to the "Cinema Yearbook of Japan," 1938 edition, the total number of features imported in Japan during 1937 was 287 against 341 in 1936; 311 in 1935; 320 in 1934; 287 in 1933; 293 in 1932; 251 in 1931 and 270 in 1930. Imported features released in 1937 aggregated 285 of which 231 were from the United States, 21 from France, 14 from Germany, 12 from England, three from Austria, two from Czechoslovakia, and one each from Switzerland and Italy.

Of the 231 American films released during 1937, the eight branch offices of American producing companies released 210, while 21 features made by independent concerns were released through Japanese exhibitors, according to the "Cinema Yearbook of Japan."

No accurate figures are available covering the number of domestic features released in 1937 and 1938. An approximation may be obtained, however, from the numbers produced, discussed in a subsequent section of this report.

The year 1939 will probably witness important developments as regards European, particularly German and Italian, competition. More films may be imported, as the result of special deals with Germany (via Manchuria) and Italy, which presumably will be essentially of a barter nature. Although these films may have the approval of the Japanese authorities from the standpoint of international amity it is doubtful whether they will seriously affect the general position of American films in the market. On the contrary, the large-scale importation of German and Italian films may have repercussions resulting from numerous indifferent films being released.

Popular demand for domestic films remains excellent among the masses, due to the fact that the dialog is understood and admission charges generally are lower. Nevertheless, American films have wide appeal and are likely to maintain their position due to more careful selection and high entertainment value.

Production—The 1938 edition of the "Cinema Yearbook of Japan" reported that total production of features by Japanese companies during 1937 reached 574, including 365 talkies, 50 sound pictures and 159 silent films.

The figures for 1937 are lower than those reported by the "Movie Times," Japanese monthly motion picture magazine, in the April, 1938, issue. This gave a total of 599 features, including 392 talkies, 14 sound films and 193 silent films. In referring to production in previous years, however, the "Movie Times" gave a total of 558 for 1936 and 444 for 1935, which data check with those released by the "Cinema Yearbook of Japan." All things considered, it is believed advisable to accept the figures presented by the "Cinema Yearbook."

The hostilities in China caused a tremendous interest in production and exhibition of newsreels. Mention has already been made of the fact that during 1937 the censors inspected a total of 21,869 prints of newsreels. While corresponding data for 1938 are not available, it is possible that the number may have reached that impressive total although after the fall of Hankow and Canton public interest in newsreels of the China fighting slumped appreciably.

Newsreels in Japan are for the most part produced by news agencies or newspapers who supply them at little or no cost to the exhibitor. Hence, quantity rather than quality has usually been predominant. During 1937, a considerable number of small theaters were opened for the express purpose of showing newsreels, each theater capable of seating only from 200 to 300 patrons. Early in January, 1938, it was reported that the total number of theaters showing newsreels exclusively was 60 but a subsequent report released in June placed the figure at 32. At the same time, however, it was stated that a total of 921 theaters showed newsreels as supplementary to their main programs.

It has frequently been pointed out that Japan has the reputation of being the largest producer of motion pictures for home consumption in the world. This reputation has been built up by a "grinding out" policy of production, with quality of secondary consideration and decidedly inferior to American and European productions. In spite of the large meterage of film produced, Japanese producers cannot make sufficient quality feature films to supply the domestic market.

Contrary to expectations, the 13-month ban on imports of American and European features did not materially benefit domestic producers. Distributors of American films point out that the Japanese producers follow closely the latest American productions in order to secure ideas for their own productions. It is even stated that the domestic producers are not adverse to copying the essential details of the scenarios of American features and that on occasion they have even duplicated certain scenes of some pictures.

Taxes—Prior to August, 1937, the taxes on imports of foreign films amounted to 11.13 yen per kin (1 kin equals 1,323 pounds). Since August, 1937, however, an additional 20 percent ad valorem commodity tax has been assessed, this tax being collected on an arbitrary valuation fixed by the Finance Ministry amounting to 65 yen per kin in the case of black and white prints and 95 yen in the case of colored prints.

In the spring of 1938 the taxes on imports of films was altered somewhat, the net result being a moderate decline. The regular 11.13 yen per kin tax was retained but the special commodity tax was changed to 15 percent. At the same time, the arbitrary valuations fixed by the Finance Ministry were also decreased to 45 yen in the case of black and white prints and to 90 yen in the case of colored prints Taxes paid by distributors during 1937 showed considerable advance over preceding years and it is reported that the taxes for 1938, which will be paid during the closing months of 1939, will show still further increases. The main reason for the substantial advance in taxes is the necessity on the part of the Japanese Government to secure funds for carrying on the fighting in China and maintenance of wartime economy generally.

On 1937 earnings seven separate and distinct national taxes are being paid in addition to several prefectural and city taxes. On an average and depending largely upon the paid-in capital of the distributing company established in Japan, American distributors in 1938 will have paid almost 50 percent of 1937 net profits to the Finance Ministry as taxes.

Heading the list of national taxes is (1) the regular business income tax amounting to 20 percent of net profits. The next tax (2) is the graduated income tax which is assessed on a sliding scale as follows: 4 percent on net profits exceeding 10 percent of paid-in capital; 10 percent on net profits exceeding 20 percent of paid-in capital and 20 percent on net profits exceeding 30 percent or more of paid in capital.

Then there is (3) the flat income tax of 10 percent of the amounts paid during the two preceding tax years. The (4) Emergency income tax of 15 percent is collected on any excess of 1937 net profits over average net profits realized during 1929 to 1931 inclusive. Next is the (5) special Emergency income tax which amounts to 15 percent of the preceding tax. The national business profits tax (6) amounts to 4 percent of net profits while the final national tax is the regular capital tax (7) which amounts to 0.1 percent of paid-in capital.

In addition to the foregoing national taxes there are several appreciable taxes collected by the Finance Ministry on behalf of prefectures and municipalities. On the national income taxes designated as (1) and (2) in the foregoing paragraphs about 45 percent additional of the taxes paid is assessed as taxes for prefectures and municipalities. Then too, a business profits tax of 5.865 percent of net profits is collected for prefectures and municipalities, this being additional to the 4 percent national business profits tax. For 1938 taxes, however, the last named tax will be increased to 6.9 percent.

Several distributors are reported to be having difficulty over payments of the 1937 taxes. In the case of these distributors, the Finance Ministry is arbitrarily estimating net profits as equal to 10 percent of the paid-in capital. For instance, if the paid-in capital amounts to Yen 500,000 then Yen 50,000 is the amount assumed to be net profit and all of the foregoing taxes are assessed on that figure. One distributor claims that this method of assessing taxes will result in his company being obliged to pay from three to four times the amount likely to have been paid under the regular system. The distributors whose taxes are being assessed on this method are said to be paying under protests, the matter now being reviewed by the board of appeals of the Finance Ministry.

Theaters—According to a report released by the Department of Home Affairs, the total number of theaters in Japan Proper at the end of 1937 was 1,749, an increase of 122 from the total of 1,627 reported at the end of 1936. The theaters showing Japanese films exclusively was 1,234 compared with 1,130 at the end of 1936, while the number showing foreign films exclusively was only 49 against 64 at the end of 1936. The number showing both Japanese and foreign pictures, however, gained from 433 at the end of 1936 to 466 at the end of 1937.

The number of 122 new theaters constructed during 1937 was the largest annual total since 1930 when 130 were built. According to a report attributed to the Department of Home Affairs, during the years from 1927 to 1937 inclusive the total number of new theaters built averaged 66 a year or a total of 693.

During 1938 new theatre construction was limited to about 20 or 30 small buildings with seating capacity of about 250 each, most of these being newsreel theaters. The building restrictions effectively prevented the construction of any new significant theaters.

Mention has been made of the great difficulty in securing accurate figures covering the number of theaters wired for sound, mainly due to the fact that the American distributors in this market are not interested in the hundreds of small theaters which show Japanese films exclusively and which are either owned or controlled by the several large Japanese producing companies. It was assumed that at the end of 1937 that about 85 percent of all theaters were wired for sound and it is possible that this figure has been increased to 87 to 90 percent during 1938.

It is estimated that the total seating capacity of all houses at the end of 1938 exceeded 1,000,000 and that between 100,000 to 200,000 additional may be accommodated in the standing room sections.

LATVIA

Legislation—The Foreign Trade Department regulates the import trade through a quota system, quotas being allotted to importers for three- or four-month periods. Importers file petitions for the amounts desired during a given period and the regulating body approves, limits, or disapproves the petitions as it sees fit. Import and foreign exchange remittance permits are generally granted in accordance with the quota allotment previously approved for that period.

Prior to July 1938, local film importers had no difficulties in importing American films, and sometimes were even allowed to exceed the quotas. However, in July there was a general tightening of restrictions of all articles of United States origin, and American films were affected. Film distributors have been able to import only part of the American films desired. In September, it appeared that the next quotas might drastically limit or even cut off completely imports of American films, but a concerted appeal on the part of the film distributors succeeded in obtaining a fairly liberal allotment for the last four months of 1938. It is understood, however, that the allotments granted for that period are for only about 75 percent of the amounts originally requested.

Censorship—During the first six months of 1938, 274 films of a total length of 356,565 meters were viewed by the Film Control Board of the Ministry of Public Relations, which is in charge of film censorship in Latvia. Twenty-five of these films, with a total length of 44,992 meters, were rejected. Forty-four percent (11) of the rejected films were American, 24 percent (6) Soviet Russian, and 20 percent (5) German. One English, 1 French and 1 of unspecified origin were also rejected.

Competition—German producers are the principal competitors of American films in Latvia. During the first half of 1938, 39.5 percent of the 274 films reviewed by the Film Control Board were American, 33.3 percent German, 6.8 percent French, 5.6 percent Soviet Russian, 4 percent English, 3.5 percent Austrian, 2.3 percent Latvian, 1.4 percent Czechoslovakian, 1.3 percent Italian, and 2.3 percent from other countries. In 1937, of the 623 films reviewed 45 percent were American, 23.8 percent German, 5.6 percent English, 4 percent Austrian, 2.4 percent Soviet Russian, 2.2 percent French, 1.3 percent Italian.

Production—Feature films are not produced in Latvia. During the first 6 months of 1938, 30 news reels of a total length of 6,118 meters, 3 educational films of 1,878 meters and 5 advertising films of 173 meters were produced by the domestic industry.

Taxes—Importers (distributors) are subject to a trade license tax and to an import license tax as well. The import license is based on the total value of imports during the preceding year.

The Latvian import duty on films amounts to 20 lats a kilogram (including the immediate container of the film), maximum rate, and 10 lats a kilogram, minimum rate. Films originating in the United States and accompanied by an appropriate certificate of origin are subject to the minimum rates.

In addition to the above taxes importers pay a special tax for the benefit of the Latvian Culture Fund at the rate of 0.15 lats a meter on imported exposed films displayed.

Theaters—In Latvia, there are about 100 motion picture theaters, all of which are wired for sound. The total seating capacity is about 20,000.

LITHUANIA

Legislation—According to Article 8 of the Cinema Theater Law promulgated on July 15, 1932, and the decree of the Minister of the Interior promulgated on August 20, 1932, Lithuanian news reels of not less than 120 meters long have to be exhibited at every show.

In conformity with an amendment dated September 2, 1938, of the Cinema Law, the office of the Film Censor was transferred on September 2, 1938, from the Ministry of the Interior to the Public Activity Administration. It is generally believed that the censoring of films will become more strict.

Competition—According to film distributors, approximately 40 percent of films shown in Lithuania are of American origin, 35 percent of German origin, 15 percent of Soviet origin and the rest of French, British, Lithuanian, and Czechoslovak origin. The predominance of German films on the Lithuanian market is explained by the fact that 90 percent of all films shown in the Klaipeda Territory are of German origin and by the fact that the German language is widely understood in the principal urban districts of this country.

Production—No films of any significance were produced in Lithuania during the first ten months of this year. The news reels produced locally are of a poor quality from both a cultural and technical point of view and are not comparable to films produced abroad.

Taxes—Licensed importers must pay a tax of Lits 350 per annum for a license to import merchandise, including motion films, having a value of up to Lits 10,000 during the calendar year. For each additional Lits 10,000 or fraction thereof, Lits 150 must be paid.

Theaters—According to estimates of film distributors, there are at present in Lithuania, including the Klaipeda Territory, 73 theaters with a total seating capacity of 19,000. Of the 73 motion picture theaters, 64 are wired for the showing of sound films.

LUXEMBURG
(Grand Duchy)

Competition—German films were the largest competitors of American products until the late spring of 1938, when the tide began to turn and by October 1, one of the most important local theaters which had hitherto displayed German and American films almost exclusively, announced that its policy from henceforth will be to show only French and American films in so far as possible.

Taxes—Taxes in Luxemburg are moderate.

Theaters—There are now 30 motion picture theaters in the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg. Their total seating capacity is 14,250 persons. All are wired for sound.

MEXICO

Legislation—The only restriction existent as far as foreign exchange is concerned is the payment of a four percent absentee tax in the case of monies leaving the country. Fraction 7-41-25 of the Mexican Tariff assigns a lower rate (8 pesos a legal kilo) to films in Spanish, while a duty of 20 pesos per legal kilo is charged on films in ANY other language. Thus, motion picture producers throughout the world are encouraged to produce for the Spanish-speaking market. In actual practice, this inducement has not been sufficient, since American-made Spanish films are practically non-existent, and importations of this type of picture from other countries are so limited as to represent no deterrent to the importation of American films.

Importers of film are very careful not to exceed 100,000 meters in any one year, since fraction 7-41-26 of the Mexican Tariff has two quotas: (a) 20 pesos per legal kilo for positive motion picture films measuring more than 20 millimeters in width, in any other language (not Spanish) provided importations are not more than 100,000 meters from any one company; (b) If this length is exceeded, the quota is 40 pesos per legal kilo on the same film.

Censorship—Official data supplied by the Central Censorship Bureau in Mexico City indicate that 1209 motion pictures were reviewed up to December 31, 1938.

Competition—The principal competition encountered by American films comes from locally produced motion pictures. The main advantage of the latter is the Spanish language used, which permits a greater number of persons to enjoy a "mediocre" picture as against the more limited number of "outstanding" foreign productions. From abroad, competition exists in the following order of importance during 1938: United States, France and Germany.

Production—About 60 films of six reels or more are stated to have been produced in Mexico during 1938. Of these, about 55 were exhibited. The balance will be shown during the first months of 1939.

Taxes—Taxes are considered high by distributors and exhibitors.

In lieu of an income tax, distributors pay five percent gross rentals charged for films which they distribute. Such a tax is covered by stamps attached by the distributor to receipts for payments received from exhibitors for the rental of films. In addition to this, distributors pay a tax on their capitalization plus stamp taxes, which latter comprise Government stamps attached to contracts and receipts.

Theaters—Reliable trade sources report that there are 437 moving picture houses in Mexico properly equipped to run sound pictures. There are also 386 moving picture theaters, the majority in very small towns, which are not equipped to run talking pictures.

MOROCCO
(French Protectorate)

Competition—The chief competitor in French Morocco for American films is the "Maroc-Film" company (affiliated to Isvy-Film) of Algeria, which buys French films exclusively, but the competition is secondary, as about 70 percent of the films shown in the Protectorate are American.

Taxes—Import duties on films are assessed at the nominal rate of 12½ percent ad valorem, irrespective of country of origin. Importers, distributors and exhibitors are liable for payment of the customary business-tax levied on commercial and other enterprises in French Morocco, and which varies according to the nature and value of premises occupied, number of employees, etc. No income tax is collected by the French Moroccan Government.

Theaters—A list compiled by local distributors indicate that there are at present in French Morocco about 62 motion picture theaters—all wired for sound—with a seating capacity of about 26,000.

MOROCCO
(International and Spanish Zones)

Censorship—There is no censorship except to the extent that the International Administration might request the theaters not to show films susceptible of arousing native prejudice or disturbing public order. In the Spanish Zone, the censorship is understood to be very strict, but as it is carried on in Spain itself before the films reach Morocco.

Competition—The largest competitors to American films are French and, latterly in the Spanish Zone, German. Taken together, however, it is doubtful, whether these films would constitute 10 per cent of those shown, as American films, dubbed in Spanish, continue to be by far the most popular.

Copyright Relations—The laws of Morocco in all three zones have as a general rule adhered to the international copyright agreements, and there have been no complaints of piracy.

Taxes—In the Tangier Zone films are imported on a temporary basis with only a small fee for customs formalities.

The situation is, practically, the same in the Spanish Zone, except that since the beginning of the Spanish civil war a 10 per cent tax on admission is collected for charitable purposes.

Theaters—There are five theaters in Tangier and sixteen in the Spanish Zone, with a total seating capacity of about 12,500. All of the 21 cinemas in Tangier and the Spanish Zone have been equipped for sound.

NETHERLANDS

Legislation—Regulation of the motion picture industry is largely effected through the Netherland Bioscoop Bond, a voluntary organization including all regular distributors and exhibitors of films, operating under by-laws and regulations which have the approval of the government. After a delay of more than a year the necessary royal decree of approval had been granted to revised by-laws providing for a new governing body for the "Bond" which will offer greater protection to the distributor members.

Censorship—There was no change in censorship regulations or policy in 1938; the law of May 14, 1926, continued to govern censorship through a Central Commission of 60 members from which reviewing boards are appointed. All films are placed in one of three classes: (1) "Long" (feature) films, (2) "cultural" and "scientific" films which are usually short (although, rarely, some feature films receive this classification), (3) "short" films, including news reels and "trailers." The board further gives each film one of four ratings: "A", those which may be shown to audiences of all ages; "B", not to be shown to children under 14 years of age; "C", not to be shown to persons under 18 years of age; "D", not to be exhibited.

Censorship fees are 0.035 guilder per meter for feature films and 0.01 guilder per meter for cultural and scientific films.

A Roman Catholic censorship must pass all films rated "C" by the National Board before they may be exhibited in 28 municipalities in the Provinces of North Brabant and Limburg. There is no charge for this censorship.

Competition—French films are seriously challenging the German for second place in the competition for the Netherland market in which American productions supply approximately two-thirds of the demand.

Production—Only two long feature films were produced in the Netherlands during the first ten months of 1938.

Taxes—Taxation is not considered excessive. Theaters and distributors are not subject to special taxation other than reasonable license fees. Amusement taxes are fixed by municipalities, varying in some few localities from the 20 percent (added to the net admission or 16⅔ percent deducted from the actual cost of admission, tax included) assessed in the largest cities and elsewhere generally. Import duties are fixed at 0.04 guilder per meter, to which must be added a compensating duty of 1 percent and a sales tax of 4 percent.

Theaters—There are 333 buildings in the Netherlands licensed to exhibit motion pictures, including several halls without permanent installations but dependent on portable equipment for occasional exhibitions; the total seating capacity of those theaters, and halls, is 174,145. However, there are only 275 theaters listed by distributors as giving regularly scheduled exhibitions, if only seasonally; the reported seating capacity is 145,000. All theaters giving scheduled performances are wired for sound and several of the buildings available for irregular performances; 297 theaters or buildings, with a seating capacity of 162,000 are wired for sound.

NETHERLANDS INDIES

Censorship—Censorship of all films shown in the Netherlands Indies takes place in Batavia by the Film Censorship Commission. Censorship is considered strict but is not generally thought to be unreasonably so.

Competition—The United States continues to obtain approximately two-thirds of the total market for films in the Netherlands Indies, the closest competitors of American films being Chinese pictures, which are, however, shown to a great extent in houses catering almost exclusively to Chinese audiences.

The third country in importance as a source of supply of films shown in the Netherlands Indies is Germany, although German pictures have lost a considerable amount of their popularity in recent years.

Taxes—Taxation affecting the motion picture trade in the Netherlands Indies is considered high, the first type of assessment being the regular corporation net profits tax of 20% levied on all companies operating in the Netherlands Indies and which local distributing branches of foreign film companies must pay. In the assessment of the 20% net profits tax, the government assumes the year's profit of a local film distributor to be in the same proportion to the producing company's total profits as the local sales are to the producing company's total sales. If the Netherlands Indian income from the distribution of an American company's films is, for example, 2% of the company's income from world sales during a given year, local profits are assumed to be 2% of the company's total profit during the year. The tax authorities, consequently, must be shown the American producing company's balance sheet as well as that of the local distributing company.

The duty on film entering the Netherlands Indies is f.15.00 per 100 meters.

Theaters—There are probably 200 theaters available for motion picture exhibition in the Netherlands Indies but it is estimated that not more than about 170 were open during 1938. Accurate figures concerning the number of theaters in the Netherlands Indies are difficult to arrive at since many "theaters" are nothing more than converted warehouses or barns.

NEW ZEALAND

Legislation—There are two ways in which New Zealand accords films produced in British Empire countries preferential treatment over those in the United States and other non-British countries, viz. quota requirements and preferential film-hire tax. They constitute the only preferential treatment given to films of any country.

The Cinematograph Films Act of 1928, provides that, for the years ended September 30, 1938, and September 30, 1939, 20 percent of the quota films shown by any exhibitor shall be British. This provision was interpreted in December, 1937, to mean that 20 percent of the total time devoted to quota films shall be used for British quota films. Quota films do not include films less than 3,000 feet long, educational films, news reels, travelogues and certain others. The same act also provides that for the year ended December 31, 1938, 20 percent of the number of registered quota films acquired by a distributor for his business must be British quota films. A distributor may be relieved of the necessity of complying with this quota, when such action will not hinder any exhibitor in complying with his quota. Since there have been adequate supplies of British quota films available in New Zealand, distributors have had little difficulty in obtaining exemptions.

Both the exhibitors' and distributors' quotas provided in the act expire on the last dates given in the preceding paragraph. Future quota provisions have not yet been announced and, insofar as is known, the proposed percentages and provisions have not been determined. It is probable, however, that New Zealand will pattern its quota provisions after those adopted in England this year. If such proves to be the case and higher quotas are provided for British film, the American share of this market will be reduced accordingly.

Distributors must be licensed to do business and exhibitors must have licenses for the premises on which they show films. Itinerant exhibitors showing in a circuit of several towns may have as many as ten separate premises included in one license.

Censorship—All films, before being shown to the public, must be registered and approved by the Censor. During the fiscal year ended March 31, 1938, the Censor examined 2,166 films, of which 1,920 were passed for universal exhibition; 203 were passed and recommended as being more suitable for adults; 5 were passed with the caution that they were not suitable for children; 32 were passed subject to excisions; and 6 were rejected.

Competition—Films from Great Britain offer the only serious competition which American pictures have to meet. Approximately 80 percent of the quota (feature) films shown in New Zealand are American. If the new quota regulations specify that the proportion of British feature films shown shall be higher than 20 percent, as appears to be likely, the American share of this market must necessarily drop.

Of the number of shorts and other nonquota films shown approximately 70 percent are American.

Production—During 1938, there was one film produced by private interests in New Zealand. It was shown in only one theater in the country and immediately forgotten.

The only serious production of films in the country is undertaken by the Tourist and Publicity Department of the New Zealand Government. That Department has been engaged principally in the production of scenic and industrial shorts for publicity purposes. The photography and technique of these films, on the whole, has been satisfactory.

During early September, the Tourist and Publicity Department announced that it was beginning the production of a historical film of 5,000 to 6,000 feet depicting a century of development of New Zealand for use in connection with the Centennial Exhibition to be held in Wellington during 1940.

Taxes—The taxes levied on the motion picture industry in New Zealand are considered by distributors to be high.

There is no customs duty levied on imported film. A tax, however, based on the net receipts from film rentals is levied on and payable by the distributors. Net rentals are obtained from the gross receipts of distributors by deducting (1) 12½ percent representing the arbitrary amount upon which income tax is payable, and (2) the overhead and distribution costs. The amount of film hire tax levied is 25 percent of net rentals received for non-British films and 10 percent of net rentals received for American films.

Twelve and one-half percent of gross film rentals received by a distributor is subject to New Zealand income tax at graduated rates varying from 5 to 37½ percent depending upon the amount of taxable income.

Annual license fees are payable by exhibitors, distributors, and persons authorized to store film. Exhibitor's license fees range from 10s. (approximately $2.00) per annum for places where films are shown, on an average, not more often than once a week, to £4 (approximately $16.00) for certain theaters in the four main cities. Distributors licenses cost £2 (approximately $8.00) when twelve or fewer quota films are required during the year and otherwise £5 (approximately $20.00). License fees for storage places are 5s. (approximately $1.00) for less than 100,000 feet of film and otherwise £1 (approximately $4.00) per year.

There are also fees payable for the registration and examination by the censor of each film. The former is a nominal one of 10s. (approximately $2.00) for films over 3,000 feet long and 1s. (approximately $0.20) for shorts. The examination fee is based on the length of the film. The first 1,000 feet cost 5s. (approximately $1.00) and each subsequent 500 feet or part thereof cost 2s.6d. (approximately $0.50). Trailers of less than 300 feet are charged a flat rate of 1s. (approximately $0.20).

Theaters—During the year ended September 30, 1937, there were issued 427 exhibitors' licenses for theaters and 42 circuit licenses.

The 427 motion picture theaters have a total seating capacity of approximately 280,000. The halls used for motion pictures in the circuit towns have a seating capacity in the neighborhood of 97,000. All New Zealand theaters are wired for sound.

NICARAGUA

Legislation—Basic laws concerning the distribution of available foreign exchange have changed twice during the past year. The present situation is that, if permission to purchase a dollar draft with cordobas is not granted by the Commission of Control, interested parties may legally purchase dollar currency in the curb market and use this dollar currency in purchasing dollar drafts from the National Bank of Nicaragua, Inc. Remittance therefore is always possible under present law; but the depreciation of the cordoba, which is now officially quoted at .5 to the dollar (in the street market about 5.70 to the dollar) has made it impossible for theater owners, who have apparently not changed their entrance charges, to transmit funds to American producers. The latter have therefore ceased sending pictures to Nicaragua.

Censorship—In 1937 censorship covered about 184 pictures. No films were rejected.

Competition—Mexican enterprises contracted to send 44 films to Nicaragua in 1937, but actually seem to have sent only 12; they are reported not to be sending any at present. One source attributes this to the impossibility of the exhibitors doing any business with these films. On the other hand, it has been observed that the Mexican films are well attended and are frequently shown many times over. Mexican films represent a serious item of competition with American ones in Nicaragua because Spanish dialogue is a considerable asset in a place where the low degree of literacy does not permit the public to follow inserted subtitles with any degree of ease.

During 1937 it is estimated that 85 percent of the pictures shown were American, and about 3 percent German. During 1938, and especially in recent months, the appearance of British films has been conspicuous, and German and French ones have become more common.

Theaters—There are 24 motion picture theaters in Nicaragua, with a total seating capacity of 21,750. All 24 theaters are wired for sound.

NIGERIA

Censorship—Between October 24, 1937, and September 30, 1938, eighty-five films were submitted and censored. Of this number, two were rejected.

Competition—Statistics are not kept as to the countries of origin of films. They are chiefly American and British. Recently several Arabic films produced in Egypt have been shown to native audiences. From October 24, 1937, to September 30, 1938, eighty-five films were imported. No films are produced locally.

Taxes—There is no special taxation upon distributors and theaters showing motion pictures. Cinematograph equipment and films are admitted free of duty under item 22 of the Second Schedule of the Resolution and Order No. 1 of 1937 under the Customs Tariff Ordinance, 1924.

Theaters—There are at present nine motion picture theaters in Nigeria with a total seating capacity of approximately 2,000. Three are wired for sound.

NORWAY

Censorship—There was an increase in the number of films censored during the first nine months of 1938, as compared with the same period of 1937, 605 films having been reviewed during January-September of this year as compared with 542 in the corresponding nine months of 1937. Five films, all of which were American, were rejected during the first nine months of 1938. In the same period of 1937, eight pictures were refused, of which 5 were American, 2 German and 1 French.

The Norwegian Bureau of Censors, Statens Filmkontroll, recently celebrated its 25th Anniversary, having been in existence since the Motion Picture Law of July 25, 1913, went into effect.

Competition—Although only about four Norwegian pictures are produced and released each year, they are more or less serious competitors. Each Norwegian picture is issued in six copies, resulting in a total of twenty-four houses being in a position to show it at one time. Norwegian pictures are always shown during the height of the season, causing American and foreign pictures to be held back until a house is available.

During the first nine months of 1938, there were released in Oslo 194 pictures in comparison with 177 in the same period of 1937. American pictures comprised 66 percent of the total in January-September, 1938, and 62.7 percent in the corresponding period of 1937. Of the 66 European pictures released during the first nine months of this year, 19 were French, 17 were Swedish and 16 were German. The remaining were divided as follows: 7 English; 2 Austrian; 2 Finnish; 2 Italian; and 1 Czechoslovakian. It may be stated that French films are becoming increasingly popular.

Production—Four pictures were produced in 1938.

Taxes—The so-called luxury tax on foreign films is 10 percent of the gross receipts, while Norwegian films (produced in Norway with Norwegian capital) are taxed 5 percent. The additional 10 percent tax generally charged by the municipalities is of course abolished when the theaters are municipal.

Distributors and importers are subject to the usual Government and municipal income tax and tax on capital. The Government tax is negligible. The Municipal tax is based on the net earnings of the company, irrespective of the capital. It may be stated, however, that American films exchanges are not taxed entirely in accordance with the balance sheets submitted, since in accordance with Paragraph 6 of the Tax Laws, the Municipalities and the Government may tax a company an amount deemed appropriate by them. For American film exchanges they calculate the net profit to equal 10 percent of the total film rental received, and on such a 10 percent profit Government and Municipal taxes are based.

Theaters—The total number of motion picture theaters in Norway was 247 in 1937, of which 72 were open every day, 38 had showings three to five days, 112 had performances one or two days, and 25 had irregular showings, or had programs less than once a week. The total capacity was estimated to be approximately 95,000, of which 55,000 were in municipal theaters and about 40,000 in privately owned houses.

Sound—All of the 247 motion picture theaters are wired for sound in Norway.

PANAMA

Competition—In the absence of domestic production of motion picture films the total requirements are imported and about eighty percent comes from the United States. The remaining twenty percent is supplied by Mexico, Argentina, Great Britain, and France, in the order named.

Taxes—Distributors are not subject to a tax as such; those established in the Republic are subject to the same taxation as any other business.

Theaters—There are 51 motion picture theaters in the Republic of Panama and the Canal Zone in operation, with a total seating capacity of approximately 13,700. Two new theaters, are under construction but will not be completed until the early part of 1939. All are wired for sound.

The usual daily program is made up of 10 reels consisting of one feature.

PALESTINE

Censorship.—Censorship is strict. The Central Censorship Board, appointed by the High Commissioner, consists of nine members, including the District Commissioner Jerusalem District, as chairman; representatives of the Inspector General of Police and Prisons, of the Director of Education and of the Chamber of Commerce; the Assistant District Commissioner, Jerusalem District; an assistant secretary from the Chief Secretary's office, and the Government Welfare Inspector.

Fees for censorship are: For short films (1 to 2 parts) — £P. 1.000; for full length films — £P. 4.000.

Competition—American (more than 65 percent), French, English, German, Egyptian, and Domestic.

Production—There are three Jewish companies producing chiefly news and advertising films. Production facilities and financial resources of these companies are limited.

Taxes—Customs duties on motion pictures imported into Palestine are as follows: Film, Blank, 75 mils per kilogram; Film Silent, 250 mils per kilogram; Film, Synchronized with sound on special records, 1.000 mils per kilogram; Film, Synchronized with sound on film, 1.200 mils per kilogram.

Theaters—The number of motion picture theaters in Palestine is forty-two, with total seating capacity estimated at 28,000. Trans-Jordan has only one theater, in Amman, with seating capacity of about 1000. All of the motion picture theaters in Palestine and Trans-Jordan are wired for sound.

PARAGUAY

Censorship—No films were censored during 1938. Censorship in Paraguay is by municipal decree in Asuncion, where all films must be examined, and is not strict.

Competition—At least 90 percent of the films shown in Paraguay are American. France supplies the majority of the rest of the films shown, with British, German and Argentine films, in the order given, supplying the remainder.

Production — No films were produced during 1938, as there are no facilities for motion picture production.

Taxes—Under Paraguayan tariff, positive motion picture films and developed negatives enter the country free of duty, except for a nominal charge of 400 Paraguayan pesos ($1.25) for each package of films which is paid at Encarnacion, the port of entry, since films are usually brought in by train.

Theaters—There are 15 theaters in all Paraguay, eight of which are wired for sound.

PERU

Censorship—During the period from January 1 to October 22, 1938, the censorship board reviewed 895 films. This number includes features, shorts and news reels, with a total length of 1,177,464 meters, paying censorship duties amounting to

S/46,949.32. Educational pictures, which are not subject to censorship duties amounted to 54 during the January-October period. The following shows the breakdown of the films reviewed: American features, 285; American shorts and news reels, 393; All others, 217; Total, 895.

Competition—Motion picture competition during the first nine and one-half months of 1938 was approximately 49 percent American in playing time, 41 percent Spanish dialogue, 5 percent French, 2 percent German, 2 percent Italian and 1 percent British. The decline in the percentage of playing time of American productions during 1938 from an estimated 70 percent during 1937 can be attributed to the augmented number of Spanish dialogue pictures that were available during the year under review. The Spanish dialogue films consisted of Mexican, Argentine and Peruvian productions. The nine domestically filmed pictures, although not meeting the quality standard of imported films, especially American, helped to consume playing time along with other Spanish language pictures which might have been obtained by American films. French productions gained in popularity during the year, registering several financial successes for the local distributors of these films. The decrease in playing time of American productions during 1938 was counter-balanced, financially speaking, by the fact that American quality production continued to hold their strong position in the release and second-run houses. Due to the system of simultaneous releases of Spanish talking pictures in second-run houses which averaged at times about 20 theaters a week with two releases, American distributors have been experiencing difficulty in obtaining playing time in these theaters which up to the present time have been their chief source of support.

Copyright Relations—There are no laws in Peru specifically protecting copyrights and foreign motion picture producers from piracy. In case of infringement, however, the articles of the Inter-American Copyright Convention, Buenos Aires, August 11, 1910, ratified on July 13, 1914, of which Peru is one of the signatory nations, could be evoked.

Production—There were nine films produced domestically during the first nine months of 1938.

Although some improvement has been made during 1938 in local production facilities, the technique employed is not in any way comparable with that of American productions. The majority of the recent domestically made films has been fairly well received by the native public, nevertheless, the local industry may be said to be still going through an experimental stage of development.

There is an objection to American feature films or other foreign films being dubbed in the native Spanish language. However, animated cartoons are acceptable when dubbed in Spanish. The standard presentation of foreign films is in the original language with superimposed titles in Spanish.

Taxes—Taxation is considered high by exhibitors in Lima. The following are the taxes imposed upon distributors and on imports:

Censorship Tax: Four centavos per meter on all sound films and 2 centavos per meter on silent films; Import Duties: Cinematograph films, printed and sound, 12 soles per legal kilogram.

American branch distributing offices established in Peru are obliged to pay the following government taxes which are imposed subsequent to their initial establishment in the country: 1. Annual Patente or annual license tax charged on a fixed and classified basis of assessment (Never exceeds S/1000); 2. Seven percent of net profits; 3. Tax of seven percent on net profits remitted by Peruvian branches or agencies or domestic subsidiaries.

Theaters—There are approximately 205 theaters in Peru, with a total seating capacity estimated at 108,600. All are wired for sound.

PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

Censorship—The Board of Censors during 1938 reviewed 1,799 films of which 1,732 were American and 67 Philippine.

Competition—Of the films reviewed in 1937, 90 percent were American; 3 percent Chinese and 2 percent Filipino. However, these comparisons are based on a number basis and do not adequately indicate the extent of the competition. Actually, the domestic films were a very important competitor of American films during the year.

Production—Trade estimates indicate that between 50 to 60 domestic films were produced in 1938. Local production facilities have improved very materially and producers now have a very good equipment.

Taxes—There is an excise tax of 3 centavos per linear meter on all films, imported and domestic. Foreign films pay a duty of 35 percent ad valorem, but this does not apply to American films.

Theaters—There were 258 theaters in the Philippine Islands at the end of June, 1938. Competent trade opinion is to the effect that practically all of the 258 theaters now have sound equipment of some sort.

POLAND

Legislation—There was little or no change in existing restrictions during 1938. These include the general import and foreign exchange controls, which went into effect during the last spring of 1936 and which include small charges for filing of applications for import permits; an exhibitor's quota requiring cinema owners to reserve 10 percent of their screen playing time for domestic features, if available; and a revised entertainment tax, eliminating reduced taxes for foreign films qualifying as of "artistic" or "educational" value, both of which became effective as of August 24, 1936.

With the ordinance of the Council of Ministers of May 5, 1936, relative to the introduction of the general commodity import permit control, the importation of films can be effected only on the basis of an import permit issued by the Ministry of Commerce. Autonomous quotas were assigned to individual countries based on the average meterage of films passed for public exhibition during the years 1933 to 1935. The total annual quota for the 1936-1937 period and for the 1937-1938 period amounted to 6,000 kilos, i.e., 300 full length films which correspond to the demand of the market, especially if the 50 films of the Polish-German agreement are added. The importation of films from Germany is covered by a separate agreement, detailed later. The above quota was distributed among the individual countries as follows:

United States, 190 films or 63.3 percent; France, 25 films or 8.3 percent; Austria, 20 films or 6.7 percent; Great Britain, 13 films or 4.3 percent.

Possibly small changes in this division will be made on account of the uniting of Austria with Germany and the growing demand for French films.

The well-known "Film Fund" tax, first projected in 1936, which was to tax all imported and locally produced films 1 zloty or approximately $0.19 per meter to create a fund for the promotion of the production of domestic films, came up again during the first part of 1938, but it was squelched, temporarily at least, through the intervention of the American Embassy and the American Commercial Attache. It is the belief of importers and distributors of American films that the purpose of this fund is not to raise additional revenues but rather to impose such heavy expenses as to eliminate American pictures from the Polish market or make the cost to the exhibitor so great that American films would be unable to offer any competition to local productions. At any rate, it is estimated by the trade that 80 percent of the 300,000 zlotys which this tax would produce would be contributed by American films.

With reference to the requirement that theater owners reserve 10 percent of their screen playing time for domestic production, the distributors association states that due to the excessive length of Polish films this obligation corresponds actually to about 20 percent of the available playing time of the theaters. In this respect, it might be added that some of the locally produced films, especially propaganda films, are far from entertaining and frequently audiences show their displeasure by booing, clapping, etc., before the showing is finished.

Censorship—Early in 1936, the Polish censorship materially sharpened its regulations, whereby it was announced producers should neither produce nor distributors import film subjects including class struggle, riots of a revolutionary tendency, misery as a source of agitation, Russian background, or gangster and certain mystery sequences. These regulations remained in force during 1937 and 1938, but were not considered very burdensome. Slight charges continued to be levied for censorship costs.

Competition—During the first half of 1938, imports of films amounted to 298 with a total of 394,882 meters, of which 134 with 135,614 meters were positives, from which one copy was made, 36 with 17,907 meters were positives, from which more than one copy was made and 128 with 244,361 meters were negatives. 134 films with 311,391 meters were feature films or were over. 1,500 meters in length and were passed by the censor, 109 films with 35,967 meters were under 1,500 meters and were also passed by the censor, making a total passed by the censor of 243 films with 347,358 meters. 14 films with 26,051 meters were rejected, 10 with 24,784 meters were over 1,500 meters and 4 with 1,267 meters were under. A total of 257 films with 373,409 meters were censored which would indicate that 41 films with 21,473 meters were imported, but not censored during the period. 15 parts, totalling only 449 meters were removed before films were passed. Of the 243 films passed, 204 with 267,826 meters were classified as suitable for exhibition before children and 39 with 79,532 meters were classified as unsuitable for children. Total copies made in Poland were 1,597 with 1,829,522 meters. 17 copies with 16,674 meters were imported from the United States and 9 copies with 1,170 meters from England.

Imports from the United States were 187 films with 248,189 meters of which 156 with 229,187 meters were presented to the censor with 90 with 202,030 meters over 1,500 meters in length and 47 with 14,151 meters under 1,500 meters in length, making a total of 147 with 216, 181 meters being passed and 9 with 13,006 meters being rejected, 5 of the latter with 11,739 meters being features and 4 with 1,267 meters being under 1,500 meters in length. Ten parts of American films with only 306 meters were removed before being passed and 125 films with 178,447 meters were declared fit for children to see and 22 with 37,734 meters were not.

The importation of German films is covered by an agreement signed on December 22, 1937, which is effective for 14 months. This agreement replaces one which came into effect on February 20, 1937, and was denounced by Poland on October 1, 1937. It grants Germany an annual basic quota of 27 full length films, of which 15 will not be compensated for by Polish films and of which twelve will be compensated for by the purchase of three Polish films. Furthermore, for the purchase of every additional Polish film, Germany will be entitled to import four additional films. This agreement fixed the purchase price of Polish films at a minimum of 6,000 Reichmarks and a maximum of 10,000. The importation of short German films has been fixed at three times the exportation of Polish short films into Germany. Moreover, in respect to the liquidation of the former agreement, Germany was granted the right to import 7 films in exchange for the purchase of two Polish films or for the consideration of 5,000 Reichmarks each. Polish films may be shown in Germany in the Polish language, and vice-versa, but within the limits of existing regulations. This agreement is more favorable to Poland than the former one which granted 50 films to Germany without a definite obligation to purchase Polish films, while the present ratio is 9 Polish films to 50 German ones.

Production—In 1937, there were 130 films produced locally, but three of them were reported rejected by the censors. The 127 films passed had a total length of 96,000 meters, 25 of them being feature films with a total length of 64,000 meters. Of the feature films, 10 were comedies, 11 were dramas, two were melodramas and one was a musical review.

The annual production schedule ranges from 120 to 130 films with 25 to 30 features. During the first half of 1938, only 8 local feature films were exhibited and during the first nine months only 12. The picture show season, however, starts with the coming of winter.

There were at the beginning of 1938, 17 active producing companies, six of which produce permanently. Eleven are limited liability companies with a capital of from 10 to 12 thousand zlotys each. Eleven producing companies possess their own film sale and rental bureaus.

The Polish government is a producer and operates a rental bureau for both 35 mm. and 16 mm. films, through its official news agency, Polska Agencja Telegraficzna (Polish Telegraph Agency), better known as PAT. They produce weekly news reels, incorporating local items with cuttings from all the other well-known news reel producers of the world. Foreign news reels cannot be exhibited except in this manner. The finished product is not very satisfactory from the American viewpoint, due to the fact that only scenes and items suitable for propaganda purposes and those foreign scenes adaptable to the government idea of Polish culture are included.

Taxes—Taxation is considered high, especially in the city of Warsaw. There was a change in taxation during 1938 relative to shorts. Distributors have to pay a censorship tax of 0.05 zlotys per meter and duties as well as the regular business taxes consisting of a 3 percent turnover tax, an income tax according to a schedule, a premise tax of 12 percent of the rent and a municipal trade-license tax. Theaters pay a municipal tax ranging from 15 percent to 37.5 percent of the admission price on imported films and 3 to 5 percent on locally produced films.

Theaters—There were in Poland at the beginning of 1938, a total of 769 motion picture theaters, with a total seating capacity of 272,800 seats, 743 of these theaters were wired for sound, leaving 26 silent theaters. The number of theaters is slowly increasing, but is still considered too small for the country. In addition, there were also 40 traveling theaters.

PORTUGAL

Legislation—Imports of motion picture films into Portugal are not subject to any quota or other restrictions. Decree No. 22,966 of August 14, 1933, provided that 600 meters of Portuguese films were to be shown for each 9,000 meters of imported films, during that year, and that the proportion of Portuguese films to be shown with foreign films each year would be fixed annually hereafter. Because of the continued small Portuguese production, however, this provision of the decree has never been put into effect.

About three years ago, three Portuguese firms engaged in titling foreign films with Portuguese texts petitioned the Portuguese government requesting an increase in the import duty on films titled abroad. This request was rejected by the Portuguese government. In 1937 the three firms again petitioned the government and enlisted the cooperation of the Portuguese Industrial Association. It is understood that a draft of a decree increasing the duty on imported titled films has been drawn up and is before the Portuguese Government for signature. There is no doubt that this increase in duty, if approved, will handicap the sale of American films, distributed locally by producers' branches, and that these branches in being obliged to title their films locally, will incur an additional expense of 5,000 escudos for each film titled. It is estimated that at present about 75 percent of the American films imported are titled in the United States. The increase will affect only American films of producers who have local branches, as all other foreign films and American films produced by American companies with local distributors rather than branches are titled in Portugal.

Censorship—During the first quarter of 1938, 279 films, of total length of 298,579 meters, were censored by the Inspeccao de Espectaculos, as compared with 301, totalling 307,982 meters, in the corresponding period of 1937.

In the first eight months of 1938, 4,579 kilograms of developed motion picture film valued at 1,106,353 escudos were imported, as compared with 3,733 kilograms valued at 1,139,810 escudos in the corresponding period of 1937.

Competition—The principal competition afforded American films in the Portuguese market comes from French, German, and British firms in the order named. American films dominate the local market. While on the basis of censored films, American films account for only about 50 percent of the total, it is estimated by local distributors that on the basis of exhibitions, they make up approximately 75 percent of the total.

Production—Three feature films and approximately 100 short films, mainly of 100 meters each, were produced during the first nine months of 1938. Two additional feature films are now projected, work already having been started on one of them. It is not believed that either of these will be released before 1939.

There is only one studio in Portugal equipped for the production of sound films, and this is used in turn by the several local producers on a rental basis.

Taxes—Distributors are taxed 12 percent plus 4 percent of the estimated profits of the company according to an estimate made by a committee appointed by the Government for the purpose of levying these taxes.

Motion picture films imported are subject to an import duty of 5.50 gold escudos (for customs purposes, 1 escudo is equal to 24$45 paper escudos), plus a surcharge of 20 percent when brought to Portugal in vessels of countries with which Portugal has navigation treaties, or 28 percent if no navigation treaty is in force with the country under whose flag the vessel is registered.

Theaters—It is estimated that there are approximately 210 motion picture theaters in Portugal, of which 185 are wired for sound. The total seating capacity is estimated at 120,000.

RUMANIA

Legislation—The most difficult problem faced by local film importers during the last few years has been the transfer of foreign exchange due parent distributing companies. As the National Bank of Rumania has refused to grant exchange to cover royalty payments, except in very small proportions, local importers, distributors and branch houses have been compelled to use unorthodox methods of transfer which were not only risky but also costly.

On July 28, 1938 (Ministerial Decision No. 1161), the compensation trading lists were revised and the number of articles which may be imported in compensation (B List) against selected exports (A List), was increased. Motion picture films and advertising materials were added to the list (customs articles Nos. 806 for films and 794 for advertising materials). Contrary to the general rule on compensation trading, imports of motion pictures may be made only if prior import licenses have been granted. Inasmuch as a good part of the films shown here are copied locally, the respective negatives being imported, copied and then re-exported, this does not present great difficulties. Exchange for payment of films, or for royalty payments, can be purchased from the exporters of only a small part of List A goods, namely: lard, canned meats of all kinds, dressed poultry, Rumanian rugs, alfalfa, clover and other forage seeds, mustard and poppy seeds, hemp, flax and sunflower seeds, tomato extracts and juice, canned fruits and vegetables, liquors, plum brandy, champagne, national knit goods and embroideries. Besides such exports, film importers may pay their outstanding debts from a part of the exchange arising from exports of cereals to Great Britain and Belgium. Compensation dollar exchange costs about 240-250 lei per dollar (as compared with an official rate of 140 lei per dollar) while exchange arising from cereal exports is selling for about 290 lei per dollar, or more than twice the official rate. This year, local film companies have transferred fairly large amounts to the United States, and although the rates of exchange are high, local distributors are pleased to be able to clear up old outstanding accounts which have caused them much annoyance in their relations with their parent companies.

In accordance with the commercial treaty between Germany and Rumania, German films benefit from a reduction in import duties. German films pay a duty of only 8,500 lei per 100 kilograms instead of the regular duty of 15,000 lei per 100 kilograms levied against American and other films. This is the only known discrimination against American films in the laws and treaties of Rumania.

According to statistics submitted by the Direction of Foreign Trade, Ministry of National Economy, during the first nine months of 1938, only 303 kilograms of films were authorized for importation from the United States and all this on the compensation basis. This is another indication that negatives are imported for which no import authorizations are necessary, these negatives being returned as soon as copies are printed here. It must be mentioned that during the same period of 1937 and 1936, similar authorized imports amounted to 4,750 and 4,474 kilograms, respectively.

Figures are not yet available on actual imports of motion picture films from the United States for any other period later than the first three months of 1938 during which they amounted to 500 kilograms out of a total of 4,951 kilograms.

The company for making prints of motion picture films was established in Rumania in 1937 by an American citizen. The results have proved to be very acceptable and local importers and distributors are quite satisfied with the copies printed here, although due to the material used, their durability is reported to be lower than copies printed in the United States. The important fact is that making prints here obviates the necessity of importing several copies of each picture and small import quotas will cover a large number of films.

Censorship—According to reliable sources, in the absence of any official figures, approximately 350 films (full length pictures) were submitted to the censorship during 1938. Of the total number of films submitted for review, about fifteen were refused exhibition licenses.

Competition — The strongest competition for American films continued during 1938, to be offered by the French, with films produced in Germany in third place. Seventy percent of total films shown are American—according to competent and reliable sources. This figure is for full length features, while news reels and shorts of American production have an even larger proportion. American films are gaining popularity in spite of the language difficulty. An exception to this preference is found in some cities of Transylvania where the population of German race prefer German pictures which they can better understand. Rumanian films are not popular, although one picture, of doubtful artistic value, is produced every two or three years.

Taxes—Importers and distributors pay income taxes on the basis of their annual balance sheets and profit and loss statements. It is reported that many items which the companies consider to be legitimate expenses are not so considered by the fiscal authorities and often the net profit shown in the books is increased by up to 100 percent for taxation purposes.

Rates of income tax assessment against corporations vary between 21 and 36 percent. If payment is made in a lump sum a year in advance, a discount of 7 percent is allowed. If the payment in advance is for only three months, the discount is only three percent.

A tax of 2.4 percent of declared value is collected on all royalty contracts. This includes one percent for the Aviation Fund.

A tax of 1.2 percent is collected on contracts with exhibitors. Distributors and exhibitors often share this tax. Individual income taxes of personnel are progressive and are usually from 4 to 8 percent. Often the companies pay these taxes. A municipal tax of 12 percent of the rent paid is also assessed. This includes a 2 percent sanitary tax. In addition, there are a number of minor taxes which total perhaps another 5 percent of net income.

During 1938, a number of distributors have had difficulties with the fiscal authorities who have charged them with not having paid the income taxes required on the profits made by their parent companies through operations in Rumania.

Theaters—According to statistics compiled by the Union of Rumanian Film Distributors, there are, at the present time, 372 theaters throughout Rumania. According to information from the same source, the total seating capacity of theaters is approximately 200,000. Over 95 percent of the theaters are wired for sound.

SIAM

Censorship—It is estimated that about 400 films were censored in 1937. Information for 1938 is not as yet available.

Competition—There are no large competitors of American films. Of all the films shown in Siam, not less than 95 percent are American.

Production—About six domestic sound films and four silent films were produced in 1938. Production facilities are adequate for the production of such a small number of films.

Taxes—Taxation is quite high. The import duty on 35-millimeter motion picture film is Baht 1.00 (about U.S. $0.45) per 100 linear feet of length, or Baht 4.51 (about U.S. $2.03) per kilogram by weight. The censorship fee is Baht 1.50 (about U.S. $0.68) per 100 meters of length. There are no special taxes on film distributors or theaters. They are subject to the usual taxes levied on business undertakings.

Theaters—There are about 80 theaters in the country having a total seating capacity of about 70,000. About 60 are wired for sound.

SOUTH AFRICA

Censorship—The latest information available on the activities of the Union's Board of Censors is for the year ended December 31, 1937. Of 1,520 films censored during 1937, 1,415 were approved without excision, 73 were approved after certain excisions, and 32 films were rejected.

The Entertainments (Censorship) Act, No. 28 of 1931, provides for the establishment of the Union Board of Censors and gives that body the power to approve or reject a film unconditionally or to approve a film for exhibition to a specified class of persons or after any specified portions have been excised.

Competition — The only real competition to American films is from the United Kingdom. The population of the larger cities throughout the Union is predominantly British, and as a result there is a sympathetic feeling for British films, but this feeling is not so strong that it may be said to amount to a preference. As a matter of fact, the consensus of local opinion is that American films as a whole are far superior to the British product.

Approximately 74 percent of the films shown in the Union of South Africa are American and 25 percent British.

Production — Local production consists of the output of one company, African Film Productions, Ltd., Johannesburg. It has a well equipped studio, produces newsreels regularly, and for over a year has been working on an historical film for use in connection with the Voortrekker Centenary.

Taxes — High taxation is prevalent in South Africa. There are no other special taxes levied against distributors and exhibitors apart from those applicable to all business bouses.

Theaters—There is no official or authoritative information available on the number of theaters in the Union of South Africa. Reliable estimates indicate that there are approximately 300, although this figure is perhaps a bit conservative. It includes all theaters, "tearoom-bioscopes," town halls, etc., used for exhibition purposes.

Sound—Practically all of the 300 theaters in the Union of South Africa are wired for sound.

SPAIN

Generally speaking the motion picture business has held up remarkably well and most of the moving picture houses in the Spanish Government controlled territory give performances to capacity crowds, even though the pictures shown are very old and it is sometimes necessary to remain four and five hours in the picture house to see a two hour show because of the interruptions due to lack of electricity. It is understood that there are no new films coming in except a few Russian films and that the majority of the films now being shown are from the 1936-37 season, which were received prior to the outbreak of the revolution. Of these films it is estimated that there are still about one hundred films to be released. The American films are still the most popular, although Russian films portraying social revolutions and like subjects are gaining in popularity.

Madrid—Shortly after the revolution started, a committee formed by the government took over and administered all the motion picture houses in Madrid and, according to the reports from the local agents of the various American film companies represented in Spain, the committee is working very well and all of its bills are paid punctually. As stated above the houses are usually filled to capacity at each performance and about 80 percent of the total number of houses which were in operation before the war are now operating. Most of the houses have three performances a day.

Barcelona and Valencia—In Barcelona and Valencia the motion picture houses have been collectivized by the syndicates and it is estimated that about 66 percent are controlled by the "Union General de Trabajadores" (U.G.T.) — General Union of Workers—and the balance by the "Confederacion Nacional del Trabajo (C.N.T.)—National Confederation of Labor. In Valencia the performances are only allowed in the afternoon and early evening and in Barcelona, due to the lack of power, the shows are intermittent but are given in the afternoon and evening as the circumstances permit.

In Valencia the bills are fairly well paid, according to the local agents, but in Barcelona the collections are poor, not because of poor receipts, but because of faulty administration.

SWEDEN

Censorship — During 1937 the Swedish Film Censoring Bureau examined 6,639 films (including copies) with a total footage of 4,622,243 meters. Of these 2,210, with a length of 2,047,006 meters, were American; 3,572, with a length of 1,648,134 meters, were Swedish, and 857, with a length of 927,103 meters, were from other countries. Of the total number, 3,530 films, with a length of 851,379 meters, were news reels and so-called nature or travel films, comics and other "shorts" (animated cartoons, etc.)

During the first six months of 1938 (latest available figures) the total number of films (including copies) censored was 2,889, with a footage of 2,160,254 meters. Of these 935, with a length of 953,841 meters, were American; 1,512, with a length of 802,465 meters, were Swedish; and 442, with a length of 403,948 meters, were from other countries. Of the total number 1,360 films, with a footage of 412,417 meters, were news reels and other shorts.

Competition—Swedish companies continue to be the strongest competitors which American films encounter in this country. In 1938 the output of the Swedish industry is expected to rise to 30 features, most of which will be in the better class of pictures. It is generally expected that Swedish films as the quality improves will become an even more potent rival to American hegemony in the field than they are at present. Given a picture of about equal quality it is quite obvious that the Swedish population, most of which do not know English, will give preference to the Swedish film.

Notwithstanding the preference shown to Swedish films at present American pictures still dominate the market. It is estimated that at least 60 percent of the films are of American production.

Production—During 1938 output by Swedish companies reached a total of 30 feature pictures. In 1937 the total production was 23 features.

In addition 41 news films were produced and released by Aktb. Svensk Filmindustri. These news reels are usually about 300 meters long and are released every Monday except during the months of June and July, when most of the picture houses are closed for the summer. Various shorts were also produced.

Taxes—Ten percent of the remittances (license fees, royalties, etc.), made by branch company offices of foreign producers of films to their home offices is taxable under the Swedish income and property taxation system. Other distributors, and domestic producers, in turn, as Swedish companies, are taxed in the ordinary way on the basis of the Swedish taxation system.

The Swedish import duty on developed films is 1,580 crowns per 100 kilograms actual net weight, including the weight of certain packings, and an undeveloped film 80 crowns per 100 kilograms actual net weight, including the weight of certain packings.

Theaters—On January 1, 1938 (latest available figures), there were 1,907 motion picture theaters in Sweden. All are wired for sound.

SWITZERLAND

Legislation—The Federal Decree of September 26, 1938, which went into effect on October 12, 1938, makes imports of exposed motion picture films subject to a permit to be issued by the Federal Department of the Interior, which has also been empowered to fix import contingents. Up to now, however, no quotas have been fixed. It is understood that the primary purpose of this measure is to establish a dependably functioning import control of films, which was not possible heretofore. Only films with a continuous story of at least 1,100 meters in length, if of normal width, or of at least 460 meters in length if 16 mm. wide, are subject to a permit requirement.

Import permits are not transferable and are valid for a period of three months. In exceptional cases the period of validity may be prolonged. Permits are to be issued only to persons or firms domiciled in Switzerland. The charge for such permits is fixed at 4 francs per kilogram net weight. In certain exceptional cases this charge may range from 1 to 5 francs per permit. Net weight is defined as the weight of the film and roll, the first packing paper, and the appropriate metal or cardboard container.

There are no laws requiring that a percentage of domestic films be shown on each theater program. However, a measure of this nature is contemplated for news reels which would make it compulsory for foreign producers to shorten their reels by 100 meters to make room for a corresponding length of domestic film. According to the sponsors of this plan, one-half of the extra cost is to be borne by the exhibitors, the other half by the film rental agencies, including also distributors who do not handle news reels.

Competition—The largest competitors of American films are the German and French producers. In German-Switzerland, 45 percent of the films exhibited are of American origin, 45 percent German, 9 percent French, and 1 percent others. Of the films exhibited in French-Switzerland, 50 percent come from France, 40 percent from the United States, and 10 percent from Germany and other countries.

Production—In 1938, only one domestic feature film was released in this country. Another is scheduled.

Taxes—Taxation in Switzerland is relatively high. Motion picture theaters are taxed on the same basis as other businesses. In some Cantons taxes are levied on income only, in others on capital only, while in certain Cantons taxes are levied on both income and capital. Motion picture theaters are subject also to an amusement tax of 10 percent., in some Cantons 15 percent.

Distributors are subject to the same taxes as theaters. In addition, a charge of 4 francs per kilogram will hereafter be made for import permits for films to be exhibited in public theaters.

Theaters—There are 354 regular cinemas in Switzerland with a total seating capacity of close to 135,000. Practically all are wired for sound.

SYRIA

Legislation—The one-time (1937) local policy of rejecting foreign language talkies lacking Arabic or French subtitles has been abandoned, and French subtitles alone are now required. This requirement does not apply to animated cartoons.

Censorship—The average number of motion picture films imported and censored annually amounted to about 700, of which 250 are feature films. Censorship is not very strict.

Competition—American films in this country meet with very little competition. According to local film importers, they enjoy a 75 percent share of the market. American films dubbed in the French language, and especially those with French actors, are preferred.

Theaters—There are 40 theaters in Syria which have a total seating capacity of 22,000. All of the theaters are wired for sound.

TAIWAN

Legislation—The most important legislation affecting the importation of foreign films is the continued virtual prohibition of imports of foreign films effective since October, 1937. It is not likely that this import embargo will be lifted in the near future. Foreign films are still being distributed in Taiwan from stocks on hand in Japan Proper or from reproductions made there.

Competition—Japanese films lead in the number shown, but of imported films, American shows are in greatest demand, being about 20 percent of the total shown. At present, following Japanese and American films, come German, French, Italian, and British in order of popularity.

Production—During 1938, two feature films were produced in Taiwan by Dai Ichi Kogyo Koshi, Taihei-cho, Taihoku.

Theaters—There are 41 movie theaters in all Taiwan with a total seating capacity of 32,800. All are wired for sound.

TRINIDAD

Legislation—Films made in Great Britain are given a theoretical advantage by a quota law requiring 20 percent of all feature films shown in 1939 to be British, but no attempt is made to enforce the law, and in practice not over eight percent are British. Fifty percent of the aggregate footage of news reels must be and are British; such British films are admitted free of duty. The customs tariff for British films is 30 cents per 100 linear feet against 60 cents for films from other sources.

Competition—British, and to a very small extent East Indian, films are the only competitors of American films in Trinidad, which comprise at least 92 percent of the feature pictures shown.

Theaters—There were as of January 1, 1939, 27 moving picture houses in Trinidad, with a total seating capacity of about 19,000. All 27 theaters are wired for sound.

TURKEY

Legislation—The only new legislation appearing during the year affecting the motion picture market was a law reducing the tax on admission to all places of amusement, and a reduction in the Turkish import duty on films. Just before its summer recess, the Grand National Assembly passed a law reducing the tax on admissions to places of amusement from 33-1/3 percent to 10 percent. As a result of this tax reduction, the price of motion picture theater tickets has been reduced by approximately 28 percent.

By a decree of September 21st, 1938, the import duties on exposed and unexposed films was reduced by 75 percent. Previously exposed films paid an import duty of 15 Turkish Pounds per kilogram and unexposed films, two Turkish Pounds per kilogram. Under the new legislation the duty on exposed films is 3.75 Turkish Pounds and on unexposed films 50 piasters per kilogram.

Censorship—It is believed that probably slightly over 200 films were reviewed during the year. Five films were turned down by the Censorship Board.

Competition—The following is believed to be a fair estimate of the competitive position of films shown during 1938: United States, 124; France, 45; Germany, 15; Austria, 4; England, 1; Russia, 1; Italy, 2; Egypt, 1; and Turkey, 2.

Production—There are three concerns interested in production of motion picture films. The Studio Marmara, a new concern, has just started operations. So far its production has been concerned almost entirely with dubbing, local news reels, and two shorts.

Theaters—It is estimated that there are approximately 120 cinema theaters in Turkey. All are wired for sound.

UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS U. S. S. R.

Competition—Since almost all films shown to the public in the Soviet Union are of domestic production, and since the limited number of foreign films shown are apparently chosen because of their social, political, or economic content, competition does not play a large roll in their selection. Because of their novelty and technique, the very few American and other foreign films shown have generally been very well received.

Production — During 1937, twenty-four sound films were produced in the Soviet Union, as compared with sixty-two as contemplated in the plan. The 1938 plan provides for the production of fifty-one sound films.

Theaters—It is reported that in 1938 the total number of motion picture establishments in the Soviet Union reached 30,000 of which a large number are portable installations. The total number of theaters wired for sound in 1938, including portable installations, is approximately 8,000.

UNITED KINGDOM

Legislation—Prior to 1938, motion picture legislation in the United Kingdom for a 10-year period was based upon an Act which expired March 31, 1938. At this time a new Films Bill was adopted to govern the industry for a further 10-year period from April 1, 1938. This complicated legislation was subject of extensive and detailed consideration and discussion for months before its final acceptance. (Text of the act will be found in another part of this book.)

Censorship—The operation of British censorship is well known in the motion picture trade and in fact the British Board of Film Censors actually is not a statutory or governmental organization but a trade body established many years ago. Final acceptance or rejection of a film for exhibition officially rests with the Local Licensing Authorities throughout the country, numbering some seven hundred, but almost universal acceptance is given to the decisions and control exercised by the Board and generally the situation is considered satisfactory. In connection with the power of Local Authorities it should be noted that when a film is rejected by the Board of Film Censors an application for special review can be made to Local Authorities and a few notable instances have occurred where this procedure has resulted in local exhibition of the rejected film.

Detailed discussion of the specific standards followed in censoring film appears to be superfluous but it might be mentioned that three grades of certificates are issued. "U" means passed for universal exhibition. "A" is recommended more especially for adult audiences and under nearly all Local Licensing Authorities children must be accompanied by adults when attending. The "H" category stands for "Horrific" and usually attendance of children is entirely prohibited. Recent experience has been that well over four-fifths of the film subjects passed by the Board receive the "U" certificate while the "H" category has been confined to one or two per year. It should be noted, however, that this proportionate division applies to the total number of subjects and not to feature films alone which get a smaller proportion of the "U" certificates.

Current information for 1938 is confined to the monthly statements issued by the Board which list those films passed and indicate the class of certificate granted. During the first eleven months these lists indicate that 1,969 subjects have been passed of which 1,692 were given "U" certificates, 276 certified as "A," and one placed in the "H" category. On this partial basis an estimate for the entire year would indicate some slight decline in total number compared with the previous 12 months. The number of complete rejections during this period is not indicated.

Competition—In the motion picture film market of the United Kingdom competition is practically limited to that between British-made and American films. Other foreign pictures account for an entirely insignificant proportion of the total shown and are practically confined to a few theaters in the largest centers which specialize in this type of entertainment.

The latest official data issued by the Board of Trade cover the year for exhibitors ended September 30, 1937 and the comparative figures for this period and the previous year are as follows to show the proportion of British-made films:

It will be noted from these official figures that during the latter of these two annual periods the percentage of all British-made pictures shown (long and short) increased by one-half percent but that the percentage of "feature" films actually declined slightly. For practical purposes it can be considered that the remaining percentages covering foreign films represent almost all American films as the proportion of other foreign pictures, principally German and French, has been previously indicated as insignificant, in total number of "feature" films accounting for less than 0.5 percent.

One result of the artificial stimulation caused by the legal quota requirements has been the increase in British-made films by American producers and a change in the type of these is evident under the provisions of the new Act.

A distinct problem for the motion picture industry during the year has been the decline in the total number of pictures available. On the basis of trade information, including early December, it appears that the number of "feature" or long films (both British-made and American) to be registered during the year has dropped between 15 and 20 percent while the number of short films is off by one-third or more. Actual releases made or scheduled for 1938 number 463 foreign "feature" films—almost all American—and 162 British-made pictures.

One result of the current shortage of films has been a series of so-called revivals or re-issues of older pictures throughout the year and in many instances these have given surprisingly satisfactory results, although recognized as a temporary expedient to solve the immediate situation. It can be said in general that without qualification American films are well received by the British public and give continually recurring evidence of their popularity.

Copyright Relations—Under British law and practice the interest of the author and producer are fully protected. The ordinary legal reference is the Copyright Act of 1911 as amended. Great Britain entered into copyright relations with the United States on July 1, 1891; extended April 9, 1910; further extended January 1, 1915. Great Britain is a member of the International Copyright Union at Berne.

Production—Final actual production figures for 1938 are not available as this is written, but from trade sources it is learned that registrations under the Films Act to include the first week in December have included 150 British features and 285 short films.

Trade film releases during 1938 numbered 162 British features and 463 foreign, practically all of the latter being American. Films scheduled for release during the first quarter of 1939 number 83 foreign features and 19 British.

The physical production facilities of the British motion picture industry are adequate for present requirements and may be considered as well financed, although various difficulties in this connection have resulted through the ill-success of some producing ventures. The present attitude in financial circles makes it much more difficult to obtain important funds for producing companies than was true sometimes in the past. One phase of the situation by which it is hoped to strengthen the financial position of some British producers is through arrangements to increase distribution of British-made films in the United States.

Obviously, dubbing is no problem for distribution of American films in the British market, but one official proposal in this connection is interesting. This concerns the possibility of an arrangement to handle foreign films, admitted duty free under bond, for dubbing and re-export as a stimulus to British employment in the industry.

On the technical side of British production the increasing use of and interest in color is noteworthy. It is freely predicted in some sources that the next twelve months will see a further increasing and widespread use of color film, particularly in the field of short pictures but also for features. Another phase, which always warrants consideration, concerns the possibilities in connection with television, although this appears to remain for future development.

Taxes—There is a national Entertainment Tax which is specific in amount for each price category of tickets. Local taxation is governed by the individual local rating laws which provide normal tax treatment for motion picture theaters. The import duty for films is reasonable and in the general high field of British taxation the treatment of motion pictures can be considered as moderate, although the Entertainment Tax yields some six or seven million pounds sterling to the Exchequer annually.

While not considered in the direct category of taxation there is a special related feature worthy of note under The Sunday Entertainments Act, 1932, which gave local authorities permission to open and regulate cinematograph theaters on Sunday. The local authorities alone have the power to give such permission and it is estimated that about 1,000 out of the approximate 5,000 theaters in England are now permitted Sunday opening. It is provided under this Act that the local authority shall demand from the theater a proportion of the profits for that day, part of which sums collected shall be used for local charitable purposes and another proportion paid into the "Cinematograph Fund" under the direction and control of the Privy Council for the purpose of encouraging the use and development of the cinematograph as a means of entertainment and instruction. Something like 9 or 10 thousand pounds sterling is now received into this central fund annually and the principal use for it has been in supporting the British Film Institute, which is active in the promotion of the use of motion pictures for educational purposes. The amount paid into the national "Cinematograph Fund" is only equal to about 5 percent of the total collected by the various Local Authorities, the balance collected under the Sunday Entertainments Act, 1932, being devoted to local charitable purposes.

Theaters—Practically all motion picture theaters in the United Kingdom are now equipped with sound apparatus. The number varies from time to time, due to openings and closings, as a result of new construction, reconstruction, etc. The total number of theaters is well in excess of 5,000 and one of the best trade sources puts the figure at approximately 5,300, at the end of 1938. The number of theaters built during 1938 has been 185 and an estimate for construction of new theaters during 1939 is for 130 new units. There are a number of relatively small so-called marginal theaters which come and go from time to time but are not considered in the above analysis and the importance of these is relatively insignificant. The estimated total seating capacity of these theaters is approximately 5,000,000, while an estimate for the seating capacity of those not including Ireland would be between 4.5 and 4.6 millions.

An estimate of the average admission price in motion picture theaters, based upon an analysis of a very large number of tickets is placed at 10.2 pence and the estimated total number of weekly admissions is placed at 23 million. On this basis total annual gross receipts would be more than fifty million sterling and a published estimate places the total at forty-six millions. Official information is not available on the above but the data mentioned are believed to be quite sufficiently accurate to furnish a background for all necessary trade purposes. It is believed that the number of theaters now in operation will remain relatively static in the early future and that new construction will largely consist in replacement for, or reconstruction of, relatively old theaters now in operation. This statement does not preclude some small net increase from year to year, but it cannot be anticipated that the total number will change materially in the near future. However, any cessation of growth in the number of theaters should not be construed as a recession for the motion picture industry but rather, an indication that something near the saturation point has been reached to supply the needs of the country under existing circumstances.

URUGUAY

Legislation—Control of foreign exchange is in force in Uruguay; allotments of such exchange are made every month by a special commission set up for that purpose. Special monthly allotments since January, 1938, have been sufficient to permit all imports of motion picture films from the United States, although some difficulty was encountered in August in securing the necessary import permits. There is no restriction on the export of profits, but the foreign exchange would have to be purchased at the "free" rate which averages one-third higher than the "controlled" rate.

Competition—Of the feature motion pictures exhibited in Uruguay, 75 percent are American. The remaining 25 percent is made up of pictures from the following countries in order of importance: France, Argentina, Great Britain, and Germany.

Production—Two feature films were produced in Uruguay during 1938.

Taxes—The only taxation applied specifically to motion pictures is a 6 percent municipal tax on admissions. The import duty is 52 percent on a fixed valuation of 5 pesos per kilogram, 25 percent of which duty must be paid in gold; this raises the percentage paid in paper currency to about 80 percent. At the current rate of exchange the total duty thus amounts approximately to U. S. $5.00 per 1,000 feet.

Theaters—There are 78 motion picture theaters in Montevideo, with 45,00 seats. It is difficult to make an estimate for the rest of the country, but about 80 theaters exist with a total seating capacity of some 20,000; in addition, Sunday showings on an irregular basis are made in small towns for a paid admission. All the 78 theaters in Montevideo are wired for sound, and it is believed that very few outside of Montevideo are without sound equipment.

VENEZUELA

Competition — Competition is strongest from Spanish-language films which have been responsible for the drop in the last three years from approximately ninety percent to around forty-five percent American films released in the country.

Production—A newly-formed local producing company, "Cinematografia Caracas," made and released one film during 1938.

Taxes—The Venezuelan Customs Tariff Law of 1936 established a duty of Bs. 2.60 (approximately 82 cents U.S.) per gross kilogram (including weight of packing and containers) on printed cinematographic film. Unprinted film must pay Bs. 2.00 (approximately 63 cents U. S.) and projectors and motion picture accessories Bs. 5.00 (approximately $1.57 U.S.) per gross kilogram. (Present official exchange rate is Bs. 3.19 per dollar.)

Theaters—There are reported to be at present some 147 theaters operating on a regular schedule.

Sound—All 147 theaters in Venezuela are either wired for sound, or, in the Interior, possess portable sound equipment.

YUGOSLAVIA

Legislation—Under the regulations prescribed by the Minister of Commerce and Industry of Yugoslavia, the management and control of production, import, and trade in motion pictures in Yugoslavia have been placed in the hands of a State Film Central, whose duties include the sponsoring of domestic production and the aiding of educational efforts and propaganda for pictures of cultural value.

Exchange restrictions have been enforced in Yugoslavia for some years, but normally little, if any, difficulty is experienced by importers in obtaining foreign exchange upon arrival of the goods in the country. Certain items, when imported from countries which do not trade with Yugoslavia under a clearing arrangement (this includes the United States), are subject to import control and would-be importers are required to obtain special import permits from the Yugoslav National Bank. Since October 10, 1938, films have been on the list of articles subject to the control, but so far importers of American films have experienced no difficulty in obtaining permits, nor is it anticipated that they will do so in future.

Registration fees are collected by the Central as follows: (a) For pictures of foreign origin for amusement, as well as for advertising all films, an amount corresponding to one-half of the censor fees; (b) For all cultural pictures and domestic pictures, one-fourth of the censor fee. In effect, registration fees amount to approximately $8.00 for each American feature brought on the Yugoslav market.

Theaters are obliged to show at every performance one or more films of a cultural nature. They must show domestic pictures equaling in length at least 5 percent of the total length of programs shown quarterly. For theaters giving daily shows and changing programs less than six times monthly, this percentage is increased to 10. To ascertain whether these obligations have been fully complied with, the Central issues forms which must be returned for each performance. For these forms 1 dinar is charged.

For the purpose of control over the importation of and the traffic in films, film enterprises are required to submit for registration and confirmation the original agreements and the invoices covering films purchased abroad. The registration of such agreements will be made by the State Film Central on special forms issued for that purpose. Film enterprises must submit the above forms containing a brief summary of the agreements, together with the original agreements. Each form must bear the seal and responsible signature of the enterprise. The State Film Central keeps these forms in its files for checking purposes.

The State Film Central collects for these forms 25 dinars each for films up to 60 meters in length, and 50 dinars each for films exceeding that length.

Censorship—During the year 1937, 841 films were submitted for registration and censorship in Yugoslavia; 780 of these films were foreign and 61 domestic.

Competition—Approximately 56 percent of the films shown are American. The remainder is divided among German, French, Austrian, British, Czechoslovak and Hungarian films in the order given. Local production is of no importance.

Production—During 1937, 61 motion pictures were produced in Yugoslavia, all of them with sound accompaniment. These were short films, mostly cultural, educational and advertising. Production of feature films has thus far been unsuccessful.

Taxes—A censor tax is assessed on films imported or produced in the country, as follows: (1) On cultural films, 1.50 dinars per meter; (2) on other films, 3 dinars per meter. Films produced in the country pay one-half of the above taxes until the expiration of the term of 10 years, following which, presumably, they will be taxed as are imported films.

For the examination of film, either foreign or domestic, there is a fee of 0.45 dinar per meter, and for other expenses, 0.10 dinar per meter, aggregating 0.55 dinar per meter.

Since May 16, 1938, a special tax amounting to 0.50 dinars per meter has been collected on all amusement and advertising films when they are presented for registration.

The import duty on motion picture films imported into Yugoslavia is: Tariff No. 418 lb.—Films for cinemas, whether exposed or not—maximum rate—325 gold dinars per 100 kilograms; minimum rate, 250 gold dinars per 100 kilograms.

The above rates, although assessed in gold dinars, are collected in paper dinars at the rate of 13 paper dinars to 1 gold dinar. American films, if accompanied by certificates of origin, are entitled to the minimum rate.

Theaters—There are 383 theaters in Yugoslavia, with a total seating capacity of 113,971. Of these 330 are wired for sound.

The Projection Room in ERPI's new Hollywood laboratory, where sound problems are studied daily and solved under actual working conditions.

. . . to assure ever-finer entertainment in your theatre

Since the introduction of sound in motion pictures, ERPI and Bell Telephone Laboratories — which developed the first practical apparatus—have pioneered in sound recording and reproduction research.

These developments have been made available to the industry in Western Electric Sound Systems —used by leading producers and thousands of theatres throughout the world.

In introducing sound pictures, ERPI accepted a definite responsibility to the industry. Now, ERPI reaffirms its acceptance of that responsibility.

Conscious that the future progress and prosperity of the industry depend upon continued improvement of sound pictures through research, ERPI—backed by Bell Telephone Laboratories—will continue to devote its efforts to meeting the problems of today and anticipating and solving those of tomorrow.
